GEORGE DWYER ASSERTS THAT HE WAS UNDER THE DOMINATION AND INFLUENCE OF MRS. DWYER

Was Unable To Make Her Divide Food Aright Among Children.

HAD HER OWN WAY.

Mrs. Dwyer Says She Had Her Way Only in House.

The case against George Dwyer, charged with child neglect, before His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke in the County Buildings, drew near the final stage to-day when the evidence was concluded before the adjournment for dinner. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., prosecuted and J. F. Strickland and B. E. Park acted for Dwyer.

The high spots of the evidence were those in which Dwyer, who elected to give evidence on his own behalf, declared he was under the influence and domination of his wife who he says, carried out things according to her own wishes and disobeyed his orders to distribute the food in fair proportions among the children.

The first witness called this morning was Mrs. Mary Dwyer, wife of the accused.

Mrs. Dwyer.

Mrs. Dwyer who gave evidence in a low voice said, that she worked in the bush to help to earn bread for the children. She stated that when the boys did not cut enough wood, her husband beat them. When the visitors came to the house last winter, her husband gave her money to buy more food, because, he said, he did not want the visitors to know what they had been eating in the house. She usually got a loaf a day. Her husband did not often give her money. He gave her money at Christmas. She spent the money she got, on the house. She got bread, sugar and tea, and some oatmeal. When the food was insufficient she divided it properly among the children, doing the best she could with it. She had been hungry herself. The children had been hungry. She did not know how much money her husband earned last winter.

Questioned by Mr. Strickland, she said her husband raised no objections to her going to Norwood. She agreed that her husband was a hard working industrious man. The hens laid in the last part of the winter. She sold the eggs to her father. When the eggs were not sold, she sometimes put them into a custard. The children all got share of the custard.

Jean V. Edwards.

Jean V. Edwards said, she was book-keeper to H. G. Buchard & Sons, who, she said, made purchases during the three months of pine bolts for making lathwood, from accused. Dwyer was paid by cheque. The amount paid was $207.36. She identified the cheques drawn by the firm in favour of Dwyer. They were given to Dwyer, cashed and returned to her.

R. Barrie.

R. Barrie said, during December, January and February, Dwyer purchased about 10 bushels a week at 50c a week from him and a little over half a ton of hay. The total, he estimated at from $60 to $65. A. Edwards, hotel-keper, said he saw Dwyer in his hotel in Norwood. Dwyer came from time to time to the hotel. He had meals there occasionally, he saw Mrs Dwyer in the hotel with her husband. He could remember them having food together once.

George Dwyer.

George Dwyer, called to the stand, said he was taking out pulpwood during the winter. He made something in the neighbourhod of $300. He paid his debts with it: $100 to the bank, $50 for other accounts and $46.40 to Massey-Harris. The accounts were all due. He also paid for the feed for his horses. He was using the team every day except Sunday. He himself was working every day. He handed the money left over to his wife. She bought bread, butter, tea and sugar, syrup and oatmeal. The same diet was supplied to everyone in the house. When in Norwood, he got his meals at Mr. Edward's. He was there on three occasions. He had his meals there. Mrs. Dwyer was with him on all three occasions and had a meal with him each time. He never had a meal there without Mrs. Dwyer.

Was in Army

He was in the army and was discharged February 5, 1919. He was in the army 3 years and 17 days and was 27 months in France. He held the rank of Sergeant. He related the different places he had worked in since coming home. He had a hard time in providing for his family. He could not get on without horses. He could not get enough work from his neighbors to enable him to feed his family, so he needed the horses to work for himself. He left most of the business of buying household things to his wife. He bought rubbers for himself and some of the children.

John took ill on February 11. On February 12, Mrs. Dwyer went for Dr. Sutton. Witness was in Norwood. Mrs. Dwyer told him she had seen Dr Sutton. On February 17, he hitched up his horse and went to see the doctor. Dr. Sutton gave him some medicine for the boy. On the 19th he told Dr. Sutton that he thought the boy was getting better. The ear was running and the boy seemed to be spryer. Dr. Sutton did not think there had been anything more than a bealing ear.

When he was arrested there was not much food in the house. It had been a bad winter. There was bread in the house, and oatmeal, potatoes and cabbages. The cow was milking up till he left. During the winter it gave at one time a quart or a quart and a half or two quarts. The hens were laying in the latter part of January and in February. The eggs were not used in the house.

He had one which was frozen. The country was all right. You could make a living and a good living if

Dead For Two Minutes Youth Restored To Life

YONKERS, N.Y., June 12 (United Press). — Newenic Vitallo was dead two minutes; then his heart was made to beat again, according to Dr. Emanuel Kotzos. Vitallo, a young actor, was brought to St. John's Hospital here and pronounced "dead" with a bullet wound in his abdomen.

Dr. Kotzos injected adrenalin. Vitallo soon began to show signs of life, an operation was performed to remove the bullet, and he is expected to live.

Hears S.O.S. Call On Radio Saves Life Of Woman

FARGO, N.D., June 12.—Harry Drew, of Fargo, an amateur radio enthusiast, has just been awarded a bronze medal by a magazine for saving the life of a woman living at a mining camp 160 miles north-east of Winnipeg, Man. While tinkering with his radio at 2 a.m. in November, 1923, Drew heard an S O S call from the mining camp which had been snowed in for the winter. The message said that Mrs. E. G. Symes, wife of the camp manager, was seriously ill and medical service was imperative. Drew relayed the message to Winnipeg and a physician was sent to the camp.

BUYING SLOW ON THE MARKET

Rain This Morning Helps Customers at at Home.

BROILERS ON SALE.

The steady drizzle of the morning lent a damp atmosphere to the farmers' market, and buying was decidedly languid. Only the green plants in boxes thrived under the rain, which also washed up some of the old potatoes on view to such an extent that they had the appearance of fresh new ones. These potatoes were selling at 65 cents a peck. Asparagus sold at two bunches for a quarter, other vegetables at regular prices.

Upstairs in the basket section aristocratic broilers, tiny young birds weighing about two and one-half pounds each, were selling at 65 cents a pound. Even at this price, they went "like hot cakes," as one lady expressed it. Ordinary, plebeian hens were quoted at 25 to 28 cents a pound. Egg were 30 to 33 cents a dozen, and butter 35 to 38 cents a pound.

'NOTHING TO SELL': R.R. HALL.

"Your articles on the power situation would be much more effective," said one of our most prominent citizens, "if you had not a personal interest in selling your own property." It is needless to say that it pained and amazed me, when I learned from him, that many of our citizens thought that my sole object in writing articles advocating the developing of our water powers to the north, was due to selfish motives.

Is it not strange that many people think that every effort that is made for the benefit of the public must be inspired by personal interest? I am proud of the fact that I am one of those strange people who feel honored to be of public service and especially so, when not rewarded.

Such was the case when I spent months and months of my valuable time in inducing the Dominion Government to take over thirty-two dams at the outlet of our northern lakes for conservation purposes, and to rebuild these dams. The few hundred thousand dollars involved in this expenditure has had the effect of increasing the Trent power supply over 50 per cent. There was "no rake off" in this for me.

Such was also the case when I induced the Dominion Government to build the armouries which proved so useful when the great crisis came; and to build the Buckhorn bridge, which did not cost this city or county one single dollar, and to build Gannon Narrows bridge, which is a godsend to the Lakehurst district of Harvey; and to build wharves on our lakes and rivers, and thus eliminate risks and dangers and increase the comfort of those who use vessel and boats. There was "no rake off" in any of these public works for me, although they took months of time to secure and carry out.

Such was also the case when I induced the Dominion Government to see the justice of compensating farmers for drowned lands claims—too long denied; to dredge the river between the Quaker Oats Company and the C.P.R. bridge, and thus improve our water front, and to see, when the tariff revision took place, that the interest of every single manufacturer in this city was protected. The tariff is a local question, and I have no hesitation in saying that the most ingrained protectionist, who is sane, could not have accomplished better results. There was "no rake off" in this for me.

Such was also the case when strong pressure was brought to bear upon the Laurier Government to complete the Trent Canal between Campbellford and Trenton,—at least to make such a start that completion would be inevitable. It is not in the spirit of boasting, but from the sense of deep conviction, that I say, had I been honored with a seat in Parliament for another term, the Trent Canal would have been completed to Georgian Bay, and we would now have the pleasure of seeing barges of grain passing from Georgian Bay to Peterborough, and the finished product being barged from here to Montreal. Such was the intention of the late lamented Robert Stuart, who spoke the loudest through accomplished works of hand and head and heart.

I can assure my fellow citizens, that I have no property to sell to the Government, and no personal gain to make if the city develops our water powers to the North, save and except, what I may make by inducing new industries to locate in Peterborough, and in this field there is an equal chance for us all. Just the same, it pains and amazes to always find detraction, but, as against that something done always counts, and a course for the future, as fixed and constant as the Northern Star, also counts. Here is an inspiration and a guide for our public men of Peterborough:

"Onward; throw all terrors off,
Face the scorn, and scorn the scoff;
It's in the race, and not the prize,
Glory's true distinction lies;
Triumph herds with meanest things
Common robbers, vilest slings;
But the generous, but the good,
Stand in modesty alone,
Still serenely struggling on,
Planting peacefully the seeds
Of better hopes and brighter deeds.

AUDITOR TELLS OF DONATIONS TO CAMPAIGNS

Claims Hiram Walker Told Him He Contributed to Both Parties.

CUSTOMS PROBE.

Accounts Stand Under Head of "Protecting Trademarks."

OTTAWA, June 12 (Canadian Press). — Major Nash, committee auditor, informed the customs investigation committee yesterday afternoon that it was from Hiram Walker that he has learned of distillery contributions to campaign funds.

"In a visit to Hiram Walker," said Major Nash, "I asked him if he had made contributions to campaign funds. He said "Yes, to both parties." I think he added that it was not a matter which concerned the customs inquiry. I don't know whether he was referring to these particular amounts or not."

Major Nash at the time was referring to certain amounts standing in the books of distillery companies.

Major Nash said that three Canadian distilleries carried accounts in their books totalling $274,137 a portion at least of which amount may have covered contributions to campaign funds. These three firm, according to Major Nash, were Hiram Walker and Sons, Walkerville; Gooderham and Worts, Toronto, and the St. Hyacinthe Distilling Company. Major Nash reported no such account standing on the books of J. E. Seagram and Sons.

The separate amounts standing on the books of these firms, as reported by Major Nash, were as follows: Hiram Walker and Sons, 1924-25, tems aggregating $62,900 under the heading of "protecting trade marks," the same company, under the heading "profit and loss," $79,137; Gooderham and Worts, 1924-25, $69,100 under the heading "sales promotion"; St. Hyacinthe Distilling Company, $63,000 under the heading "reserved for contingencies"; J. E. Seagram and Sons, nothing.

Major Nash told the committee that one person had informed him that a certain distillery contributed to campaign funds. D. M. Kennedy, Progressive member for Peace River, immediately asked the name. Major Nash replied that he would rather not give the name unless the committee insisted.

Mr. Kennedy retorted that the information was of very little value without the name.

"It was simply a conversation I had with one person," said Major Nash.

"Was he in a position to know?" asked Mr. Kennedy.

Mr. Nash replied that he thought this man was.

Harold Daly appearing for certain distilleries, protested once more that this matter was quite outside the scope of the committee.

Mr. Kennedy retorted that this point had been raised before and that he did not think it was relevant. Hon. H. H. Stevens, another member of the committee, expressed the opinion that the information should be given. Mr. Nash then told the committee where he had obtained his information.

Mr. Doucet raised a laugh by asking if Mr. Walker had said whether he had contributed to three parties. To this, Major Nash did not reply.

Peterborough Young People Injured in Motor Accident Near Cobourg.

OTHERS SHAKEN.

Two Peterborough young people, Miss Bertha Hill, of 531 King Street, and William Cormack of 361 Park Street, sustained severe injuries, while four others were badly scratched and bruised when a car driven by Weston Kelly, also of Peterborough, hit a post in the ditch beside the highway near Cobourg. Miss Hill had one leg broken above the knee, while Cormack had two ribs broken.

The party was proceeding to Cobourg when the driver lost control of the car and ran into the ditch, where it hit a post The injured were removed to Cobourg Hospital. The car was brought to Peterborough on its own power, although quite badly damaged.

BRITISH POWER OF PURCHASING IS DIMINISHED

Coal Strike Must Be Settled Quickly To Stop Decline.

NATIONAL TRAGEDY.

All Citizens Must Make Effort to Repair Industrial Losses.

CHIPPENHAM, Eng., June 12.—(Canadian Press.)—A settlement of the British coal strike must be reached before long in order to stop the decline of the nation's purchasing power, Premier Baldwin to-day said in an address before 15,000 Conservatives here.

The Premier said that one of the tragedies of the present time was that Great Britain's purchasing power was being diminished badly because of the industrial crisis through which the nation has passed. The first duty of all citizens, he declared, was to get together to repair industrial losses as soon as a coal settlement was reached.

Samuel J. Bain, district supervisor for Ontario for the Loyal Order of Moose, has been in the city for several days interviewing members of the Order with a view to reviving the local lodge.

Last night a number of the members gathered together and decided to put on a campaign for new members and to put the lodge on its feet again. This campaign will be started immediately.

ROBBERS KILL TWO.

Third May Die Following Attempt To Steal Payroll.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Josephine Defrori, 20, and Samuel Winterbottom, 50, were killed and Elizabeth Schummacher probably fatally wounded here to-day when four armed bandits made an unsuccessful attempt to make off with the week's payroll of the Sunglo Company, wholesale importers.

"LILAC TEA."

Mark Street Mission Circle Holds Enjoyable Social Event.

A very enjoyable "Lilac Tea" was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. E. Wand, 326 Burnham Street, under the auspices of the Mission Circle of Mark Street Church. Decorations of the tea table and rooms were carried out with a profusion of lovely mauve and white lilacs. The guests were received by Mrs. Wand and Mrs. W. H. Morton. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. T. Richards, assisted by Mrs. H. Cooper, Mrs. V. Boorman, Miss Olive Stenton, and Miss Pearl Finnie. During the afternoon and evening, an enjoyable musical programme was given, with vocal solos by Mrs. Hugh Hunter, Miss Olive Howland, Mrs. W. Smith and Mr. Victor Boorman, and readings by Mrs. Jno. Speer and Miss Jean Hamilton.

Sensation Caused When Prince Visits Policeman

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 12. (Canadian Press). — Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus, of Sweden, paid a call that was not on his social calendar yesterday when he drove to the home of motor-cycle Policeman George H. Plate at Jamaica, Long Island who was knocked down and slightly injured by the automobile of the Crown Princess Louise.

The Royal Limousine drove up to Policeman's home, stared at by all the neighbours, and Plate was surprised on opening the door to find His Royal Highness with outstretched hand. "This is my wife," said policeman Plate. "Madeline, meet the Crown Prince of Sweden."

Two Polish Noblemen Fight Duel With Sabres

CRACOW, June 12.—(United Press.)—Count Skrzynski, former Premier of Poland, and General Count Szeytycki, are to meet to-day in a sabre duel.

The former Premier and the General were to have met in a duel last Thursday, Count Skrzynski holding that he had been insulted by commands of the General regarding the recent revolutionary coup in Poland. Through a technicality of the code of honor, however, the duel was not fought as planned. Dueling is illegal in Poland.

MORE CHARGES AGAINST HAM

Toronto Bond Salesman Now Faces Three Forgery Charges.

LARGE DEFICIT.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12 (Canadian Press)—Two additional charges of forgery and uttering forged documents were laid against Percy D. Ham, a Toronto bond salesman, who was under arrest, charged with attempted suicide. Charges similar to the two laid to-day were made yesterday by the Attorney-General's Department.

To-day's charges allege that Ham forged a note for $50,000 to be signed by John Gleason, of Ottawa, and William Beattie, of London, Ontario. Police say that their investigations have revealed an apparent deficit of $328,000 in Ham's operations.

Two New Drugs Found Cure Sleeping Sickness

NEW YORK, June 12 (United Press).—Two recently discovered drugs may take the sleep out of sleeping sickness, according to an announcement by the American Chemical Society.

The drugs, etharsanol and proparsanol, both containing arsenic, showed great promise in combating the nearly always fatal disease in experiments conducted by Professor A. S. Loevenhart at the University of Wisconsin.

TORONTO FIRM COMES BEFORE CUSTOMS PROBE

Neither of Three Partners Supoenaed Were on Hand.

SUSPICIOUS ENTRIES.

Other Partner Could Not Say Where Missing Books Were.

OTTAWA, Ont. June 12. —(Canadian Press). —Affairs of the Royal Cloak Co., Toronto, came up in the Customs Probe yesterday. Neither of three partners named Goldberg supoenaed were on hand but a fourth appeared to explain that his father and two brothers were all away from home. He could not say where some missing books of the company were. He was the sales manager. After some questioning, Mr. Calder complained that witness would not answer.

Chairman Paul Mercier admonished the witness who replied that he was not trying to evade the questions. He really did not know. Finally he said that Morris Goldberg was probably the senior partner and directed the firms affairs. He did not know in what town in Ontario his brother was at present. He was told to have Morris Goldberg on hand when the committee meets on Tuesday. He promised to try and do this.

C. B. Alexander, special investigator for the Customs Department, told of investigating transactions of this company. Some suspicious customs entries had been found.

Three Fanciers Quarrel: Famous Film Dog Is Shot

The animal died Wednesday from a bullet wound in the throat, received earlier in the week when an argument between three dog fanciers over police dogs developed into a shooting affray.

Charles B. Dreyer, of Hollywood, the dog's owner, said that a civil suit for damages would be filed.

PETERBORO' BOY REPRESENTS CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AT CLEVELAND CANADA MEETING

Talks Himself Into Cell Seeking To Free Client

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—So bitter raged an argument between Recorder Harry Biley, of Collingwood, N. J., and Raymond Ferris, attorney, in an effort of the latter to secure the release of Benjamin Clements, who had been arrested following an automobile accident that the lawyer was ordered arrested by the recorder.

Clements, who lives in Camden, was arrested after the machine he was driving was in collision with that of L. J. Dery, of Oaklyn. Mrs. Dery was slightly injured. The recorder fined Clements $150. When he could not pay he was jailed.

The first attorney to seek his release was M. J. Fakis, a friend, He failed. Then Firris tried and argued himself into jail. Finally a third attorney, Philip Kenkos, obtained money to pay Clements' fine, and secured his freedom. Firris was finally released.

FIFTY KILLED DURING RIOTS

Calcutta Police Report 500 Arrests, 150 Fires and 200 Robberies.

TWO POLICEMEN DIE.

LONDON, June 12. United Press. —Calcutta despatches confirm an official report by the police commissioners, said to have hitherto been suppressed by the censors, giving the casualties among the rioters as 48 killed and 58 seriously wounded. A number of other dead bodies may possibly have been thrown into the Ganges, the despatches state.

The police casualties are given as two dead and 91 injured. Five hundred arrests were made it is said.

The despatches state that at least 150 fires occurred during the riots and that 200 shops were rifled.

YACHT REFLOATED.

Rumor That It Was Lipton's Shamrock, Caused Excitement.

LONDON, June 12 (United Press).—The yacht Morado, owned by Sir Howard Franks, was refloated to-day after having gone ashore on Brake Sands, between Deal and Ramsgate. High seas were running and motor boats and a lifeboat crew stood by to aid.

An incorrect report that the grounded vessel was Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock created excitement for a time.

DOCTORS MAKE PEACE.

In Dispute Over Priority in Field of Use of Liver Extracts.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12—(Canadian Press). —Peace pact between Dr. W. J. McDonald, St. Catharines, Ontario, and the Faculty of the University of Western Ontario in the matter of who was first in the field of experiment with use of liver extracts for treating certain diseases is announced to-day in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

Dr. McDonald states that he did not make certain claims and Paul G. McKibben Dean, of the Faculty of medicine, and A. Bruce Macallus, Profgessor Biochemistry in the University of Western Ontario, London, absolve him of whatever implications they may have previously held against him.

HAM REMANDED.

Will Come Up On June 17 on Eight Charges of Forgery.

TORONTO, Ont., June 12. Canadian Press. — Percy D. Ham appeared in the police court to-day before Magistrate Edmund Jones, on eight charges of forgery and uttering forged documents, and was remanded until June 17th. Bail was set at $100,000. W. K. Murphy, K. C., declared that the amount was prohibitive. Ham is still in custody as the relatives and friends attempt to raise the required amount.

400 Kilties, Fully Armed, March Through Streets of City.

HUNDREDS STAY OVER.

Major Leon Frazer Accepts Invitation To Toronto-Scottish To Attend Formal Military Ball.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 12. — (Canadian Press).—Cleveland yesterday was host to an armed force from Canada and an army of business men and other residents of the Dominion who came here to celebrate Cleveland-Canada Day, especially set aside by Cleveland's City Council for Canada.

Through special permission granted by the War Department at Washington, the famous Toronto Scottish Regiment of nearly 400 men, fully armed and equipped, marched through Cleveland's downtown section.

More than 4,000 residents of Canada were guests of Cleveland. The official deelgation, which came from Toronto, was headed by the Ontario Provincial Minister of Highways, Hon. George S. Henry, representing Premier G. Howard Ferguson, who was unable to attend. The official delegation made a total of about 100 dignitaries.

The delegation was met at the pier by an official reception committee, including City Manager W. R. Hopkins, Mayor John D. Marshall and Miss Marie Provost, motion picture actress, a Canadian.

The official reception, however, was overshadowed by the first and informal reception tendered by the Cleveland committee, which boarded a tug and went out in Lake Erie to meet the steamer bringing the delegation and regiment. Thousands of Clevelanders and Canadians, all wearing Canadian decorations, were on the pier to greet the visitors.

The official delegates and the "Kilties" were breakfasted and the delegates were guests of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce at luncheon, when welcoming speeches were delivered and responded to.

Rain prevented the Cleveland-Washington American League ball game at which the Scottish Regiment was to give an exhibition drill, featuring the ceremony of trooping the colors.

The day's programme closed with a mass meeting in the Public Hall last night.

While the celebration was to be a one-day affair, hundreds of the Canadians, including the regiment, will stay over to-day.

The official representatives of the Dominion was composed of Hon. George S. Henry; Mayor Thomas Foster, of Toronto; Carl Heil, secretary to Premier Ferguson; Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines; Hon. John Strickler Martin, Minister of Agriculture; Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary; Hon. William Herbert Price, Provincial Treasurer; Hon William Folger Nickle, Attorney-General; Hon. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Labor; Mayor J. J. Treleaven, of Hamilton; George Wilson, president Toronto Board of Trade, and other Ontario business men, bankers and financiers.

Following breakfast, the delegation was taken on a tour of Cleveland's factories, department stores, municinal and county buildings and other institutions.

Cleveland banks joined in extending their hospitality to the visitors. All Cleveland banking institutions announced that for the balance of the week Canadian money will be accepted without charging the prevailing rate of exchange.

Major Leon Frazer, of Peterboro, Canada, representing the Canadian Government, has accepted an invitation of Cleveland's crack military organization, the Cleveland Grays, to the Scottish-Toronto soldiers to attend a formal military ball preceded by a dinner in Grays Armory to-night.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO FIT YOUR SHOES

Most people, in buying their shoes, make the mistake of thinking they must stick to one size, which they regard as their size. As a matter of fact, each half-size is only one-sixteenth of an inch longer than the next smaller shoe. And lasts of different manufacturers differ from each other in the shaping. A size that fist you in one style may be too short or too long for you in another.

Another mistake that people commonly make, says Charles H. Brown, designer of footwear, in Popular Science Monthly for July is to think that by wearing a badly fitting shoe long enough they can force it to shape itself to their feet. More likely than not, the foot will be forced to shape itself to the shoe.

One good rule for testing your shoes is this: Always have the feel that ball of your foot is resting snugly into the ball of the shoe, and not a trifle fore or aft of it.

If you wear a size 8 shoe, your foot is about 11 inches long; if size 10, it is about 11½ inches. But it you wear size 12½, foot length and shoe size finally approach each other—you are probably the proud possessor of a 12½-inch foot.

If you are in doubt about the size of your shoe you can learn to read the code sizes stamped in them. There is usually a style number which you need not bother with. But the size number is usually coded.

The code most commonly used is called a 32-system. First appears a number representaing the sum of 32 and the size number of the shoe. Then appears a dash, indicating a half size. If a full size the dash is omitted. Then comes an arbitrary number, always 1. Then any digit from 1 to 5, representing the width from A to E. Thus, if your shoes has these number, 39-14, you are wearing size 7½ D.

Another code puts the numbered euivalent of the width first, the actual size next, with a 5 for a half size. With this code your 7½ D becomes 475.

Still another code starts with a 2 for a half size, next has the actual size, and finally the number for the width. This gives you 2 7 4 for 7½ D.

KING'S WHARF PERSONALS

KING'S WHARF, June 11.—Mr. Austin Herlihey of Rochester, N.Y. spent the week end the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Herlihey.

Miss Dot Flood of Toronto is at present the guest of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Guiry.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wieland, Mrs. Sarah Wieland, Mrs Frank Davis and daughter, Miss Helen, of Lansing, Mich., are spending a few days the guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Perdue. They motored from Lansing and report a very enjoyable trip as the country is beautiful at present and the roads were excellent as far as Lindsay but from there out they were very bad. Mrs. Sarah Welland is over 80 years of age and makes the trip from Lansing every year.

Miss Helen O'Neill of Toronto is at present spending a few days the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johni O'Neill.

AIR VENT FOR GASOLINE CAN

The valve stem from an old inner tube makes an ideal vent for an oil or gasoline can. Break off the valve in a vise, and then punch a hole in the can to provide a snug fit for the stem. Insert the stem, using a nut if you wish and solder securely in place. If a gasoline can, be sure there are no fumes in the can before soldering.—Popular Science Monthly.

BOARD OF EDUCATION. TENDERS WANTED

Sealed tenders marked "Tender for painting" will be received until 12 o'clock noon on Monday the 21st of June, for the painting and kalsoming to be done at the various schools during the summer vacation.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO FIT YOUR SHOES

Most people, in buying their shoes, make the mistake of thinking they must stick to one size, which they regard as their size. As a matter of fact, each half-size is only one-sixteenth of an inch longer than the next smaller shoe. And lasts of different manufacturers differ from each other in the shaping. A size that fist you in one style may be too short or too long for you in another.

Another mistake that people commonly make, says Charles H. Brown, designer of footwear, in Popular Science Monthly for July is to think that by wearing a badly fitting shoe long enough they can force it to shape itself to their feet. More likely than not, the foot will be forced to shape itself to the shoe.

One good rule for testing your shoes is this: Always have the feel that ball of your foot is resting snugly into the ball of the shoe, and not a trifle fore or aft of it.

If you wear a size 8 shoe, your foot is about 11 inches long; if size 10, it is about 11½ inches. But if you wear size 12½, foot length and shoe size finally approach each other—you are probably the proud possessor of a 12½-inch foot.

If you are in doubt about the size of your shoe you can learn to read the code sizes stamped in them. There is usually a style number which you need not bother with. But the size number is usually coded.

The code most commonly used is called a 32-system. First appears a number representaing the sum of 32 and the size number of the shoe. Then appears a dash, indicating a half size. If a full size the dash is omitted. Then comes an arbitrary number, always 1. Then any digit from 1 to 5, representing the width from A to E. Thus, if your shoes has these number, 39-14, you are wearing size 7½D.

Another code puts the numbered euivalent of the width first, the actual size next, with a 5 for a half size. With this code your 7½ D becomes 475.
Still another code starts with a 2 for a half size, next has the actual size, and finally the number for the width. This gives you 2 7 4 for 7½ D.

KING'S WHARF PERSONALS

KING'S WHARF, June 11.—Mr. Austin Herlihey of Rochester, N.Y. spent the week end the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Herlihey.

Miss Dot Flood of Toronto is at present the guest of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Guiry.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wieland, Mrs. Sarah Wieland, Mrs Frank Davis and daughter, Miss Helen, of Lansing, Mich., are spending a few days the guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Perdue. They motored from Lansing and report a very enjoyable trip as the country is beautiful at present and the roads were excellent as far as Lindsay but from there out they were very bad. Mrs. Sarah Welland is over 80 years of age and makes the trip from Lansing every year.

Mrs. Dalton of Peterboro and Miss Catharine Leahy of Douro are at present the guests of their sister, Mrs. William Fitzpatrick.

Miss Helen O'Neill of Toronto is at present spending a few days the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johni O'Neill.

AIR VENT FOR GASOLINE CAN

The valve stem from an old inner tube makes an ideal vent for an oil or gasoline can. Break off the valve in a vise, and then punch a hole in the can to provide a snug fit for the stem. Insert the stem, using a nut if you wish and solder securely in place. If a gasoline can, be sure there are no fumes in the can before soldering.—Popular Science Monthly.

BOARD OF EDUCATION. TENDERS WANTED

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

SITTING away back here, sometimes feeling far removed from the rest of the world, it is always interesting to get the news from other places and see what men are thinking and saying regarding some of the questions around which there is so much controversy in the Church to-day. Probably there has never been a time of such wide-spread controversy as the day in which we find ourselves. It is not on one continent but on every continent that we have it. And it is as bitter on the Foreign Field among the missionaries as it often as at home among the ministers. Just when or where it is all going to end is somewhat difficult, if not impossible, for any human being to determine.

OXFORD AND THE CREEDS.

Four Oxford University undergraduates, seeking ordination, have written to the Manchester Guardian, appealing for a definite change of the official attitude of the Church in regard to doctrinal formulae. They make this appeal because there is a widespread opinion that the Church is committed tional orthodox formulae" and there is to a literal acceptance of all the tradi- also an idea among many of the laity that no one without such acceptance can honestly take orders in the Church. They claim that until the change takes place there can be no cure either for the drift of many thinking men and women from the Church, or for the shortage of ordinands which the authorities of the Church deplore. These young men hold that the recitation of the Creeds as the traditional expressions of Christianity does not involve literal assent to all their details, and that no specific assent should, for instance, be demanded from clergy or laity to the Virgin Birth or to a physical interpretation of the Resurrection.

.IT SEEMS RIGHT, BUT—IS IT?

There are many people who think it dishonest for any who hold these views to be active lay members of the Church or to enter the ministry. And that is one reason why the four undergraduates regard it as vital, not only that the Prayer-book services should be reformed, but that authority should make it clear that it is possible honestly and openly to be members of the Church and to serve in the ministry on this basis. Few people, they think, realize the extent to which this general position has been already publicly maintained by clergy and laity and hence they appeal to like-minded churchmen to take every opportunity at this time of affirming their conviction. The letter concludes: "It is because we ourselves are young men who seek ordination, and who believe that the life and teaching of Christ constitute the vital gospel most needed for our age, that we feel impelled to call upon the Church to face this issue, in the hope that it may be made easier for the many who share our ideals to give their lives to the service of Christ in the ministry of the Church."

In commenting on this letter, the Church Times declares that it would be a thousand times better for the Church to suffer a still more grievous loss in man power than that it should accept as priests those who reject fundamental Christian doctrines, and quotes a letter written in 1871 by James Martineau in which he refers to "the essential immorality of the liberal clerical position."

WHAT IS THE GOSPEL?

In writing to the Corinthian Church, the Apostle Paul, in that matchless fifteenth chapter of his first letter, sets forth, in language so plain that the simple can easily understand its meaning, what the Gospel really is.

"Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand;

"By which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain.

"For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures;

"And that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the scriptures."

In these words we have the very marrow of the Gospel. Or, to put it in another way, we have the solid basis on which our faith rests. Within and behind the facts here stated we have all the verities of the Gospel. There is the ruin of the race, spiritually, in the original transgression of its federal head By one man sin entered this world, and death by sin: so death passed upon all men for all have sinned." It is on account of this spiritual condition that the new birth becomes an necessity. Men are not only under the sentence of death, but they are at the same time dead in trespasses and sins." A new nature is necessary because the old nature is dead.

Included in this statement of fact is the love of God, undeserved and unreserved: the cross of Christ as the ground upon which God can be just and the justifier of all who believe on His Son: and the redemption of the soul here and now of all who accept Him as Saviour, and of the body from the corruption of death in the hour of His second advent.

It is not the life of Christ that saves a sinner from the penal consequences of a broken law, but His death upon the cross. No other gospel is vital. And that is the only gospel of any real value to this supposedly superior age!

AN ADULTERATED MESSAGE.

In his letter to the Galatians, the apostle says, in language which is not in the least ambiguous I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel. Which is not another: but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed."

Were these words properly understood and pondered to-day by those who are in the ministry, and by all who are contemplating entering the ministry, there would be less trouble and turmoil within the Christian Church, and she would be moving forward with rapid strides in the work of evangelizing the world. Instead of preaching the pure milk of the Word many are delivering an adulterated substitute.

A GREAT DAILY DELIVERS ITS SOUL.

When there is so much controversy regarding Fundamentalism versus Modernism, it is refreshing to find a newspaper like the Chicago Evening Post in an editorial say

"With every passing year it becomes more clearly evident that a walled-in gospel cannot save the world. The church must get back to the original methods. If a fishing boat or the crumbling stone circle of a well was good enough rostrum for the Master, a step-ladder or a soap-box should be good enough for any of His followers.

"It is obvious that the great masses of people will never be reached with the wonderful story of God's interest in their lives if the task of reaching them be made mainly a work within the walls of the churches, and if the telling of the story be regarded as peculiarly the business of the paid preacher.

"The need of the world is an adventuring religion, which will leave the shelter of its temples of beauty, its cushioned seats and atmosphere of calm, and take to the highways, declaring to all who pass by, the great truth that God cares about them."

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES.

If, instead of spending as much time and strength upon the various isms,' the Church would give more thought and time to Evangelism, peace would be found within her borders, and abundant, abiding success would crown her service at home and abroad.

The people of this period are in danger of not only forsaking God, but of forgetting Him in the midst of a ceaseless whirl of pleasure, or in pursuit of the almighty dollar and if the country is to be saved from moral and spiritual destruction it will only be as the churches recognize that there is no adequate remedy apart from the gospel of Jesus Christ.

If, every pulpit in the land, on just one Sunday, would preach the glad tidings of saving grace with the abandonment and persuasive power of the early church, we would wake up to find that the gospel still has its old-time power to transform human lives.

—Allan Fairbairn.

IN AN AGE OF Doubt

ALWAYS in an age of doubt on the part of the pulpit, such as we are confronted with at present—or in an attempt to seem clever or advanced as thinkers so that a big interrogation mark is set up against every fundamental doctrine—the Church fails to fulfill her real mission in the earth. Evangelism is placed by Christ at the very forefront of the Church's program; and if she fails to make this her chief business, in the light of the New Testament, she has no real excuse for her existence. Her call is primarily to evangelize: everything else is but incidental and secondary; and when she fails as an evangelistic force she ought either to fall on her face in humiliation before God, or confess spiritual bankruptcy and go out of business as a Christian Church. When she has had a passion to get men back into vital contact with God, doubt could find no dwelling-place, either in head or in heart.

DEFEATING TRIALS: JOSEPH'S FIDELITY

Text: Genesis 39:1-6, 19-23

And Joseph was brought down to Egypt: and Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither.

And the Lord was with Joseph and he was a prosperous man: and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian.

And his master saw that the Lord was with him, and that the Lord made all that he did to prosper in his hand.

And Joseph found grace in his sight, and he served him and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand.

And it came to pass, from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the Lord blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake: and the blessing of the Lord was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field.

And he left all that he had in Joseph's hand: and he knew not ought he had, save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph was a goodly person, and well-favored.

And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife which she spake unto him, saying, After this manner did thy servant to me, that his wrath was kindled.

And Joseph's master took him, and put him into the prison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound and he was there in the prison.

But the Lord was with Joseph, and showed him mercy, and gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

And the keeper of the prison committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners that were in the prison: and whatsoever they did there, he was the doer of it.

The keeper of the prison looked not to any thing that was under his hand: because the Lord was with him, and that which he did, the Lord made it to prosper.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 13. Triumphing Over Trials; Joseph's Fidelity. Genesis 39 1-6, 19-23. (By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.)

Many years ago I heard an able public reader recite without comment the whole story of Joseph as recorded in the Authorized King James Version. My recollection is that it occupied about ten chapters of Genesis, and it was one of the most moving experiences that I ever had.

I had read the story many times, mostly a chapter at a time, and I never realized until then just how wonderful a story it was from every point of view.

The ancient writer who wrote it has availed himself of every literary device to make the high lights of his story and the emphasis of its deepest teachings conspicuous. It is a story of effective contrasts and logical development.

I recommend to every one who would gain the full benefit of the story the need of sitting down and reading the entire story at one sitting. Only in this way can the full value of any particular incident in the life of Joseph be realized in relation to the whole.

The Favored Son.

Seen in this complete form, the story of Joseph is a remarkable tale of strength, courage and constancy. Joseph appears at first, it is true, as a dreamer, the favored child of his father, a sort of family pet who offends his brothers by a too-ready acceptance of this favoritism and by an attitude of superiority.

Probably much of this was the thoughtless attitude of a young boy.

The real strength of Joseph and the stability of his character come out under adversity. If he had been merely a petted child or a milksop, the experiences that came upon him would very quickly have broken him down. But we have the picture of a young man of courage who, in the midst of the darkest environment, trusted in God.

The trials that came upon Joseph need not here be summarized. There came to him through the conquest of these trials the place of preferment and power, and then in the midst of his seeming success came one of the most violent and characteristic temptations that could shake a man's integrity. Here again, however, Joseph showed himself the master, and though his conquest of temptation led him to outward disgrace and prison, he had the joy of an unsullied conscience and that satisfaction which no outward circumstances of evil can destroy.

Conqueror of Adversity.

It is a long story how he arose out of this condition of distress to a place of power in the kingdom, second only to that of Pharaoh, and greater even than that of Pharaoh in the exercise of benevolence and life-saving service toward a famine-stricken world.

What we ought to guard against in the interpretation of this story of Joseph is the thinking of him as merely a successful man. He did attain to conspicuous power and success. Perhaps it might be said that Joseph had great ambition, but beneath his success and this ambition there was real strength of character.

Not every man can be assured of Joseph's power and success, but every man, if he will seek it, could find Joseph's secret of mastery and character It is found in submission to the will of God—a submission that is expressed in courage, faith and consecration.

Churches and Churchmen

By I. Seewell.

TWENTY-ONE years ago, the Right Reverend Dr. Francis C. Kelley, now Bishop of Oklahoma, started a Church Extension Society on a capital of $1 given by a newsboy. It was the first home mission agency of the Catholic Church in America on the lines followed, probably the first in the world. In the two decades the income of the society rose from the $1 to $878,000 in 1925.

The society's work falls into three parts. One is the furnishing of money to help poor congregations erect churches. Projects were helped in 1925 to the number of 251, and almost three thousand have been assisted in the twenty-one years.

A second form is the training of young men to serve as missionaries. A seminary is maintained at Atchison, Ks., and at a seminary located on the island of Mamorca, off the Spanish coast, forty Spanish young men are in training to serve as missionary priests among Mexicans who have come into the United States, chiefly in the Southwest.

A third form is the maintenance of three chapel cars, which are churches on wheels. They contain also quarters for two priests, and the railroads haul them without charge. Each one can accommodate about one hundred persons at worship. At present an endowment fund of $5,000,000 is being raised by the society.

From Winnipeg to Montreal.

Rev. George Laughton, pastor of Central Congregational Church, Winnipeg, who is said to preach to a Sunday evening congregation of 1500 people has been called to St. James' Church, Montreal, a down-town church called the Cathedral of Methodism," with a seating capacity of 2500. There are times when the place makes the man, and other times when the man makes the place. Perhaps time will reveal which is which in this case. The down-town church presents a serious problem no matter where it is found.

The Baptists and Evolution.

At the Southern Baptist Convention just held at Memphis, Tenn., the following was adopted

"This convention accepts Genesis as teaching that man was a special creation of God and rejects every theory, evolution or other, which teaches that man originated in, or came by way of, a lower animal ancestry."

Chicago and Christian Workers.

An invitation to pastors, evangelists, Sunday-school teachers and other Christian workers to spend their vacation in Chicago and take advantage of the regular lectures, classes and practical work opportunities of the summer term, has been extended by the Moody Bible Institute. Opportunity is offered to secure a better knowledge of the English Bible, to learn something of blackboard drawing or Sunday-school administration, also how to tell a Bible story or do personal work, and to visit rescue missions, jails, hospitals, ghettos, and factories with institute groups. Instruction without cost is given in conducting choir, chorus or congregational singing, while only a moderate charge is made for private lessons in voice, and piano and organ playing. Visitors may attend lecture on Bible-doctrine, church history, pastoral theology, world-wide missions, Christian philosophy, personal evangelism, and many other subjects, including Hebrew and Greek, all at no cost other than the expense of room and board, which is most reasonable. The lectures and classes are so arranged that visitors have an opportunity of touring the city and visiting the beautiful parks, the Forest Preserve, Municipal Pier, Art Institute, Field Museum, Chicago Historical Society, the great libraries, and other places of interest. Occasionally an excursion on Lake Michigan is arranged.

CHIPS AND SHAVINGS

From The Workshop Of JOHN PLANE

The other day, feeling that it might be good for me to take a turn amid green fields and leafy hedges, I whistled for "The Under Pup," and in his company went off for a long walk into the country. At first he was all dog, and left me pretty much to my own thoughts. He would scamper ahead, to disappear behind a hedge: then he would fall behind, sniffing and investigating at some rabbit hole, as if he were a detective on the hunt for some criminal. This continued till we got out quite a bit from the city. Then he came up to me with a look in his eyes as if he wanted to say, "Forgive me, sir! I really thought you wanted to be alone with your own thoughts: and so was trying to amuse myself while you were thinking." From this point he kept so close to my side that I knew he wanted to say something. So, looking down at him, I said, "See here, old fellow, what have you got on your mind? Don't you think you had better share it with me?" That was all he needed to set his tongue wagging.

He said, "I have heard my mother speak of two boys, born of the same parents, raised on the same farm, educated in the same school, equally taught the science of farming and stock-raising. About twenty years ago, each fell heir to one hundred and sixty acres of pretty good farming land. The road separated the two farms. The one was just as good as the other: and the father stocked both farms with an equal number of high-grade animals, and with all necessary implements for first-class farming. To-day, Abe has one of the most highly developed farms in the county. Indeed, the soil is even richer now than it was when he got the farm. Everything about the place is all that could be desired. He is known to be both prosperous and contented. Rube's farm has been running down from the first year he got it. The soil is thin, the stock is not of the highest grade, and is poorly sheltered and poorly fed. Those who ought to know say that he has a mortgage on the land. He is both a kicker and a knocker. He blames the times, the country, capitalism and crooked politics for his condition. Now, sir, where is the trouble? What is to blame for the different condition of the two men, their farms, their stock, their bank account? Would Socialism have helped Rube? Or was it something inherent in him that kept him down? Where is the "nigger in the wood pile?"

I said to "The Under Pup," "Your mother must have been a very shrewd old dog, and I must say that her shrewdness has not been wasted upon you. If ever there was a perfect pup, you're it; you are all wool and twenty-four inches wide. If your mother were still alive, there is nothing I should love better than to turn you both loose in a convention of Socialists. I'll bet you would teach them some things they badly need knowing."

As we turned about to go back to the workshop I could not help thinking over what the pup had just told me about Abe and Rube, and I found a number of almost similar cases coming back to mind.

There was the case of two boys of about the same age who went to work in the same store as salesmen. In a few years Ted was advanced to the head of a department, then later, was made buyer, and still later, became junior partner. To-day, he is head of the firm. Sam is still only a clerk. Why this difference? Who, or what is to blame?

Two boys went to work on a railroad more than twenty years ago as section hands. One of them is to-day general superintendent of the system. The other is back in the town where he was born, janitor of the public school building, cussing economic conditions and voting the Socialist ticket. What is the secret of the difference in the condition of the two men? Where was the screw loose?

The pup looked up at me with a knowing look and said, "I began to think that my talk the other day had been wasted upon you. I really thought that you had concluded that I was barking up the wrong tree. But now I begin to feel that you agree that it is possible to have an old head on young shoulders, even if the shoulders belong to a pup."

Here is one worth putting in your pipe and smoking, he said: "Two lads started in to learn the carpenter trade. To-day one of them is a large prosperous contractor. The other one is still working at so much per day. Why this difference in the outcome? Where was the rub? In economic conditions, or in the mettle of the two men?"

As I returned to my bench I could not help thinking long and hard over what "The Under Pup" had been saying. And if ever I meet Bill Sykes Le Claire I'll thank him to the very best of my poor ability for introducing me to so splendid a dog.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

A LEGEND is told in the Black Forest, that one Christmas eve, as Hermann, a poor charcoal-burner, was returning homewards, he found a little child in the forest, exposed, half-clad, to the snow and the bitter wind. He clasped it in pity to his bosom, and took it home with him. His wife and children welcomed the poor little stranger, feasted him at their Christmas eve supper, and caressed and amused him. They were very happy together, and before retiring to rest the little stranger kissed them all, and prayed for all in the house who had been so kind to him. In the morning, his appearance suddenly changed into that of the holy Christ-child, and as he vanished from their sight the good couple fell upon their knees in humble reverence and joy. That morning, as Herman passed by the place where he had found the fair child, he saw a cluster of lovely white and golden flowers, with dark-green leaves, looking as though the snow itself had blossomed. He plucked some, and carried them reverently home to his wife and children, who treasured the fair blossoms and tended them carefully in remembrance of that wonderful Christmas eve, calling them Chrysanthemums; and every year, as the time came round, they put aside a portion of their feast, and gave it to some poor child, according to the words of Christ, "Inasmuch as ye have done it to one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it to Me."

A QUESTION OF SPEED

The Provincial Department of Highways is investigating the question of the speed at which some of the motor bus lines in commission in the province are being operated.

The running time of some of these buses makes it appear certain when the necessary stops are taken into consideration that the legal speed limit of 25 miles an hour is being violated.

If that is so the situation calls for action.

If it is not considered advisable to authorize a greater speed than twenty-five miles an hour for ordinary automobiles it would be folly to allow the ponderous palace car type of motor bus to disregard the limit.

There is of course an agitation on the part of many motorists to raise the speed limit and motor bus companies anxious to cut further in on the business of the railway would welcome the opportunity to speed up their service.

The point is, however, that the limit has not been changed, and so long as it exists as it is at present all vehicles must conform unto it.

There should be no special privilege for motor bus lines.

GETTING TOGETHER

The conference which is to be held in Belleville on June 22 to link together the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of this section of the province into an association representative of Eastern Ontario is of much importance.

Western Ontario Boards and Chambers are similarly allied and have been able to do splendid work on behalf of the part of Ontario covered by them.

There are many problems in which the municipalities of Eastern Ontario are mutually interested that could be tackled with a much greater prospect of success by a co-operative effort than were each Board of Trade to attempt their solution on its own account.

Co-operation on the part of these community organizations in this portion of Ontario should be generally welcomed as a very important step in the interest of Eastern Ontario and it is to be hoped that the efforts being made to launch this Association will be greeted with complete success.

A united front on questions affecting the whole of Eastern Ontario would be of the greatest assistance in promoting the welfare of the district generally and for this reason the Examiner trusts that the representatives at the conference will approach their responsibilities in a spirit of give-and-take that will leave no doubt as to the success of the scheme.

THE PUBLIC DUTY

The question that the public, startled at the evidence heard in the Dwyer cases, should ask is: "How is a repetition of this kind of thing to be avoided?"

It is a shock to the public conscience to know that such conditions have existed in this district: it is an even more disturbing sensation to realize that such conditions may exist in other homes in the country side. Perhaps even in the city.

What is to be done about it?

What is our duty as individual citizens?

What as a community can be done to save other children from such suffering?

These are the questions that suggest themselves and demand an answer.

Have we been responsive to the call from afar for assistance and failed to realize that right here at home our help was needed?

Have we indeed as His Honour expressed it been forgetting the beam in our own eye while we were extracting the mote from the eye of the other person?

"Charity," said Judge Huycke, "begins at home and it seems about time that some of us were beginning to think of that."

Isn't it time that all of us were beginning to think along that line?

THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Canada's new Governor-General Viscount Wellingdon of Ratton, brings to the duties of his responsible position a long parliamentary and diplomatic experience that should stand him in good stead.

Viscount Wellingdon was for ten years a member of the British House of Commons representing first the borough of Hastings and afterward the Bodmin division of Cornwall.

A period of service in the House of Lords followed and then he was appointed to the by no means easy position of Governor of the Bombay Presidency.

So acceptably was this post filled that he was induced to remain in India with jurisdiction over the Madras Presidency and by his successful administration of this position enhanced his reputation for tact and judgment.

Further proof of his fitness for the office of Governor-General is the fact that at present Lord Wellingdon is engaged upon an important diplomatic mission to China for which he was specially chosen by the British government.

In following Lord Byng the new Governor-General will have need of these advantages.

Few incumbents of Rideau Hall have succeeded in winning the regard and esteem of the people of this country as has the hero of Vimy whose speeches have always had the right ring and who has lost no opportunities to preach the doctrine of Canadian unity in all parts of the country.

PEOPLE WILL FAVOR EXPENDITURE

An expenditure within reasonable bounds to help the Canadian coal industry either in Alberta or Nova Scotia will be strongly favored by the people of Ontario. Various proposals have been made at the conference of provincial premiers in session at Ottawa and one of the outstanding suggestions is the establishment of coke plants in Ontario, to be fed with Nova Scotia coal and the domestic coke distributed from various centres in Ontario.

The householder had a good experience with coke last year. It was an experience driven by necessity but it may result in a great boon. There were many people who, after knowing how to use coke in their furnaces, declared that they would never again use any other form of fuel. It was found to be most satisfactory, once the art of banking the furnace for the night was acquired. And it was not very difficult to learn. As a quick responsive fuel to drive off the early morning chill, coke is superior to anthracite. It is bulkier but cleaner and the resultant ash shows just about 100 per cent of heat unit consumption.

Coke should be laid down in the market three or four dollars less than anthracite. This is an essential to the development of the domestic business in Ontario and it is hoped some plan can be worked out by Premier Ferguson to launch a number of coking plants. It will forever relieve consumers of the danger of fuel famine by reason of Pennsylvania strikes. In any event, it is time Canada looked forward to the day when anthracite will no longer be available.

Just why this country has never before seriously tackled the question of keeping fuel-money working at home is difficult to explain. Recurring strikes and advancing price have brought the issue to a head. There is some hope that a conference of provincial premiers at work non-politically will, as regards the fuel question, be able to do more in a few days than the whole House of Parliament at Ottawa has been able to accomplish in years. It would be a master stroke on Premier Ferguson's part if he could bring down an effective coal policy and put it through for this province. It would also be of great benefit to Nova Scotia and Alberta, too, if, in the latter case, the handicap of distance can be overcome.—St. Catharines Standard.

FORD'S ADVICE.

Multitudes of words have been uttered already in Congress on "farm relief" and other spilled unspoken into the appendix of the Congressional Record through the costly "leave to print." More myriads of words are due soon in the Senate, now that the lost cause of migratory birds no longer blocks the way. Palpably the farmer is politically loved even much more than the fowls of the air.

Yet how fruitless are so many of these words! They are usually vain lamentations over past or present conditions, for which worse than vain "remedies" are proposed. Analyzed, these are often nothing but slanders as well as delusions. They really insult independence while putting a premium on shiftlessness—to be met by the taxpayers in general.

Many folks who talk loudest about "unearned increments" are swiftest to urge that what is not earned shall somehow be levied or ammased and conferred on the chosen of their own warm-hearted favoritism. Sometimes the terms are those of doles or non-contributory pensions. For the farmer there is much political tenderness of the sort. Farmers vote.

First there were ogres for St. Georges to fight in his behalf. There were the Federal Reserve Board in 1921 and later, the railroads, the tariff, the packers, the millers, the Pit, Wall street, etc. There were affirmative things to do also. Three years or so was devoted to rearing a new credit-supplying structure. To a degree the debt-harassed were to be let incur more debt. Next the Treasury was to be hitched to price-fixing schemes.

Meanwhile certain aspects were minimized. Such as the cold facts that some farmers should never be engaged in farming, at least under one-crop conditions; that others were not only lacking in science or capital, but delinquent in such simple matters as seed selection; others again lame in plain keeping of books, not knowing whether wheat cost them one or several dollars. Many seemed not to realize they were competing not merely with near neighbors but with rivals in far lands. Now there is much new commotion about foreign outlets for surpluses.

Yet even all these things are largely superficial. And old law holds,—"Earth gets its price for what earth gives us." Is there not a deeper woe, or flaw that causes it, in agriculture? Is it not sorely lagging because hobbled by old ways, in terms of time or the calendar, yet wanting new rewards while failing to contribute new results?

Henry Ford thus diagnoses the "farm problem" with ruthless but kindly clarity. "The old kind of farm is dead," he says in the Boston Globe. "The world has passed on, and the farm has stood still. It is now a little business in a world of big business. Still more, it is "a part-time job in a world that asks for a living on the basis of a full-time job." The year's real farm work requires with machinery but 10 to 15 days,—at most a month. The farmer can't collect for his non-productive time. "The world does not pay for sweat. It pays for results."

That pertinent thought is not—any more than is the fact—wholly new. Witness the following from C. W. Baron's "War Finance" (1919): "Dr. Mueholn of the Krupp Works, the one man who came out of Germany with the declaration that the salvation of Germany lay in her defeat, * * * in a conversation I had with him in Switzerland pointed out the solution—smaller factories smaller units of industry, and so located that factory and farm life may be combined, the farmer getting better wages by factory employment and the factory employee getting health and better living conditions by the opportunity to raise a part of his own food."

Farm and factory, as when recently the Haugen bill was beaten in the House on almost wholly sectional lines, have been falsely marshalled into hostile camps. There is no real feud; they are or should be complements. None wants to be unsympathetic toward the farmer—to make or keep him "the man with the hoe" of Millet's picture or Markham's poem. Farming is or should be an industry. It is an ancient vocation; it should become a modern profession. That will not happen in a day. But the evolutionary line is clear.—Barron's.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENTS

Engineers report that a railway line connecting Peace River with the coast is not practicable. Unfortunately that may not stop westerners from asking for it nevertheless.

Of course membership in the Senate is in itself an old age pension which may explain the attitude of the upper chamber.

The provincial premiers may hold a yearly conference to discuss issues of mutual interest. Nothing but good could come out of such annual gatherings.

The boys of Peterboro have no need to worry about a summer vacation. The Y.M.C.A.-Rotary Camp supplies the answer to the problem.

GARDEN PARTY IS SUCCESSFUL

Nicely Decorated Booths on Church Grounds Well Patronized.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12.—St. John's United church held its annual garden party on the church grounds on Thursday evening. The grounds were brilliantly lighted and the various booths with many flags and streamers were real attractions.

The flower booth, in charge of Mrs. Smith and Miss Wood, was banked with lilacs and many bouquets of flowers were sold. The fish-pond was an attraction for both young and old and provided many laughs for partakers and onlookers. Mesdames Phillips, Abernethy and Sherwin were in charge of the pond.

The hot-dog and soft drink counters were well filled during the evening and the tea table, under the convenor, Mrs. Nelson Stone, was well supplied with many good things to eat.

Misses Keir, Johnston and Ledden had the candy counter and the home-cooking, with the aid of Mr. Diamond as auctioneer, was readily cleared. The ice-cream counter also came in for its share of business during the evening.

Many handy and useful articles were in the booth for fancy sewing. The booth opened at three o'clock in the afternoon and many things were sold before night-time.

The ladies of the church are deserving of credit for the excellent success of the lawn social.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PLACE TO PREACH

The other day a successful man said to me that he was going to retire from business and devote his remaining days to an effort to raise the standard of business ethics and I said to the man: Why not remain in business and set a good example.

Telling others how to do a thing is not so effective as showing others how to do it. The place to preach is in practice.

DWYER'S TWO CHILDREN RETURN TO WITNESS STAND TO TESTIFY OF HARDSHIPS IN DUMMER HOME

George Showed Counsel How He Sawed Wood in Bush.

EVIDENCE REPEATED.

Little Girl Tells of Scanty Means—Purchases in Norwood.

The hearing was continued in the County Buildings yesterday afternoon before His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke and jury, of the case against George Dwyer, who is charged with having failed to provide necessaries for his children. Mrs. Dwyer was acquitted on a similar charge yesterday afternoon. Among the witnesses who took the stand were Dwyers two children, George, aged 11, and Nellie, aged 13, who both testified in the trial of Mrs. Dwyer. Crown Prosecutor J. K. MacKay and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., acted on behalf of the Crown; J. F. Strickland, and B. E. Park appeared for the defence.

Provincial Constable N. F. Maker related that after the discovery of the children's condition he came to Peterboro, and made arrangements with the Children's Aid Society to have them put in hospital in Peterborough. He then took the case up with the Crown Attorney. He went to Havelock and saw Dwyer who said his money had been spent in buying three horses, and that the family had always plenty to eat.

"I saw three children dying on their feet, George, Nellie and John," said witness. He asked why the boys did not go to school, and was told the roads were blocked. On March 2nd John Dwyer died, and on March 3rd Mary Dwyer was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

On asking Dwyer about the blacksnake whip, he told witness that he had never used it hard enough to hurt the children. The three horses in the stable looked strong and well fed. He was offered a meal, but did not stay to take it, as he thought they had not enough for themselves.

When he arrested Dwyer on Feb. 26th, there was nothing left to feed the family.

John Edgar said that on his first trip to the Dwyer household, in company with Constable Maker, they made enquiries about the boy's feet. The parents said that they were all right. On the moccasins being taken off, the boy's toe was found to be frozen.

Cross-examined by Mr. Strickland—

Soon as you came back from Dummer you reported this case?

I did not report it.

You saw that it was given publicity?

I did not report it.

You saw cheek bones of young G. Dwyer were protruding?

Yes, sir.

You say he looked like a little old man?

Yes, sir.

Is not that the way The Examiner described him at that time?

I do not know.

I did not report it.

Everything about this place struck you as about as bad it could possibly be.

I would not say that.

Did it not strike you that these people were trying to do their best with what they had?

He did not.

Nellie Dwyer was called.

Where are you living now? she was asked.

In the Shelter.

Do you remember living in Dummer?

Yes.

What time did you get up then?

About 5 a.m.

When did you have breakfast?

About 5.30.

What did you have?

Oatmeal porridge.

What else did you have?

Bread.

At this stage Nellie was overcome by her ordeal and was allowed to sit down for a short time to rest.

Do you remember if you had anything else but bread? she was asked, on recovering.

No.

Did you have all the porridge you could eat?

No.

Did you have all the bread you could eat?

No.

Did your father and mother have the same food as you had?

Sometimes.

UNITED CHURCH CONSOLIDATING IN PREPARATION FOR ADVANCE

Thirty Thousand Dollars Lost in Year Through Congregations Holding Money.

SUCCESSFUL REPORTS.

Should Have 100 More Churches To Cope With Work in West.

MONTREAL, Que., June 12 (Canadian Press).—The United Church of Canada will spend the coming year consolidating the union of its component parts so as to be prepared for a great advance in a year or two, it was indicated yesterday by recommendations adopted by the general council. The sum of $3,250,000 will be asked for, somewhat less than last year, the treasurer, Dr. Robert Laird, said. There would be no substantial advance in work except where it resulted from coordination of forces; in fact, it would be difficult to maintain the work of the preceding twelve months and would not approach by some fifty or one hundred thousand dollars the accomplishment of the three constituent churches in 1921-22.

Dr. Laird urged that the church could not depend upon large donors but would achieve its goal only through cumulative, powerful advance day by day, week by week. "We must have a recurrence of those strong impressions of June 10, 1925, that have roused the presbyteries to such heights of achievement in the past year and in the coming year we want such consolidation as will, when the call comes, enable the church to go forward on a great advance."

It was revealed this afternoon that thirty to thirty-five thousand dollars was lost to the church funds in the year for interest charges because some congregations had not the habit of forwarding their contributions regularly at short intervals. One commissioner expressed indignation that the contributions of perhaps some thirty churches was lost in interest because of the "foolery" of those who liked to hear the money jangle instead of sending it forward.

Sir Joseph Flavelle moved the recommendations of the committee of direction of maintenance and extension fund, which Dr. Laird seconded.

It was not the large amount of money which the churches had raised which impressed Sir Joseph, but the spirit with which it was raised in whatever section of the country or in whichever former congregation. The treasury of the church must be placed, he said, in a position where it would have sufficient funds to meet all obligations facing it. Contributions had not increased parallel to the betterment in living conditions which had come about in recent years, he declared.

"I venture to think we have not begun to discover the resources of the church and we must preserve in this council the spirit which has characterized our congregations during the year.

"It ought not to be necessary by force of compulsion to induce our people to exercise the privilege of giving in God's work."

Sir Joseph spoke of the contributions of the people, remarking that many poor in their smaller but more sacrificial contributions, gave more than the "rest of us," and proceeded to speak of the great work waiting for the church.

"I am informed that in 1,123 districts of Saskatchewan there is no preaching of the word of God. If we should do our duty, I am told, we should have 100 more churches with one hundred preachers to cope with the work in the western provinces.

"We need to get the message of God that has meant so much in our homes, in our business lives, aye, in our politics, and it is in our hands to do it."

J. H. Gundy reported for the maintenance fund. The sum of $3,465,000, plus eighty thousand dollars from the Women's Missionary Society, had been received from the church for regular work, which, with an additional $299,000 for emergency and church union expenses, made a total of $3,844,000. Thirsty-six thousand dollars more than this had been spent which was made up out of an interest account of $231,000, leaving a balance of $193,000.

Hard work would accompany the gaining of next year's budget for men

LLOYD GEORGE DENIES CHARGES

Explains That Amount He Contributed Was All That He Could Spare.

DESIRE FOR UNITY.

LONDON, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Philip Snowden, Labor member of parliament and former Chancellor of the Exchequer has written a letter to David Lloyd George, former premier, denying reports that Lloyd George met at the Snowden home on May 7, some of Mr. Snowden's colleagues, to discuss a political alliance.

The letter was read last night by Mr. Lloyd George at a crowded meeting of the Liberal and Radical Candidates' Association, held at the National Liberal Club. This is an important body representing Liberal interests outside actual membership in the House of Commons. The meeting passed a resolution conveying to the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, leader of the Liberal Party, the strong desire of the association for restoration of complete unity in the party under Lord Oxford's leadership.

There has been friction recently between Lord Oxford, as leader of the Liberal party, and Mr. Lloyd George, as chairman of the parliamentary Liberal Party. Lord Oxford strongly denounced the former premier for holding himself aloof from the councils of the party while the general strike was in progress. The position of Mr. Lloyd George, however, was upheld by a majority of the members of the parliamentary Liberal party.

Mr. Snowden's letter gave emphatic denial that either on May 7 or on any other date did a meeting take place at his home between Mr. Lloyd George and Labor leaders, adding: "The question of a political alliance or of joining the Labor Party has never within my knowledge been considered or discussed with you (Lloyd George)."

Reading the letter, Mr. Lloyd George also denied the statement by Harcourt Johnstone, former member of parliament, contained in a communication to the Wiltshire "Times" that Lloyd George on May 7 consulted three of the principal leaders of the Labor Party (unnamed), and informed them that, although he was compelled at the moment to adopt a neutral attitude, he was eager and willing to attack the government.

Mr. Lloyd George was also called upon to answer the charges of Viscount Gladstone conveyed in a letter to Sir Godfrey Collins, chief Liberal Whip, that he (Lloyd George) was responsible for the Liberal debacle in the 1924 elections, when only 40 Liberal candidates were returned.

Viscount Gladstone contended that through Lloyd George's refusal to provide campaign funds from his separate chest in 1924, the party was able to place only a small number of candidates in the field, whereas in the 1923 elections, when funds were provided 157 Liberals were elected.

Mr. Lloyd George explained that the amount he contributed in 1924 was all that could be spared from his fund at that time, and they had cut the coat according to the cloth.

ESTIMATES FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Strong Plea on Behalf of Centralized Buildings.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12. —(Canadian Press). —Estimates for the department of Public Works were the occasion yesterday in the House of Commons of a strong plea on behalf of Centralized Buildings for the public service in Ottawa.

Hon. R. B. Bennett (Conservative-West Calgary) estimated that $100,000 annually was being lost by reason of the scattered buildings in which the public service was housed. Ministers had to keep "magnificent automobiles" in order to get from one branch of their department to another. Mr. Bennett urged that a new departmental building be erected on the Banks of the Ottawa River West of the Supreme Court at an approximate cost of $8,000,000, 4 3-4 per cent. interest on this investment would mean less than $400,000 annually and as matters were at the present time the Government was paying nearly $700,000 each year in the City of Ottawa.

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works said "I believe we will have to face that problem very shortly." He added that the Government had given its consideration to a similar project.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, agreed with Mr. Bennett. His own department was housed in twelve different buildings in Ottawa. The difficulty the Government met with was that public sentiment was not right.

Stewart McClenaghan (Conservative-Ottawa) pointed out that the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission had been along these very lines.

DEFINITE PROOF OF SOVIET HELP TOWARDS STRIKE

British Government Sends Strong Note To Russian Government.

PROTEST ACTION.

Strong Feelings Aroused Varying According To Political Views.

LONDON, June 12 (Canadian Press).—A strong note protesting against the sending of money by the Russian Soviet Government to assist the workers during the recent general strike in Great Britain was despatched to Moscow by the British Government on Thursday. It was transmitted to Sir Robert Hodgson, British representative at Moscow, for presentation to the Soviet Government. No official text of the document is yet available, and only its general tenure is known.

The communication, according to unofficial versions, sets forth that the British authorities have definite proof that part of the money offered from Moscow to the Trades Union Congress was donated by the Soviet Government itself. This money, the note adds, was sent in violation of the Anglo-Russian Trade Agreement, and the belief is held that it was intended to foster a movement to bring about a change of Government in Great Britain.

The decision to send the protest must have been taken somewhat suddenly, for only Thursday afternoon, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary, answered questions in the House of Commons, said the Government had not yet arrived at any decision regarding what action to take with respect either to the money sent from Russia for the general strike or for assistance for the striking miners. In fact, it was while the Home Secretary was answering these questions that the Foreign Office first notified the Government it had proof the money for the general strike was sent by the Soviet Government itself.

Possibly, the Government was only awaiting the arrival of Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, who returned from the League Council at Geneva Thursday night, and whose business it would be to transmit such protest.

As usual in all matters concerning Russia, strong feelings have been aroused, varying according to the political views of those concerned. The Government admits that it never consulted the Russian representatives in London on the subject of contributions, and, the Russian Embassy here denies that its government sent money to support the general strike.

It is recalled by the Labor Party that the Trades Union Council returned the Russian cheque sent during the general strike. But the Labor contention is that there is nothing to prevent the Russian miners or trades unions from subscribing for the assistance of the British miners in a genuine trade dispute, as is being done by other foreign labor bodies. It is pointed out that large sums have already been received by the miners from Germany, Belgium, Holland and other European countries, and that money is on the way from the United States.

The British note takes the position that the money from Moscow undoubtedly has been sent, and could not have been transmitted from Russia without the consent and connivance of the Soviet Government, and that such encouragement constitutes an unfriendly action and a breach of the Russian undertaking to refrain from propaganda.

Legal experts of the Government are still investigating the position as regards money sent from Russia for aiding the British miners. On the decision of these experts will depend whether a further note is to be sent.

AIRPLANES SERVE ALPINE HUTS

A new use for the airplane has been found in the Swiss Alps. There provisions are carried to the alpine huts in the Tyrol by dropping the cargo by means of parachutes, where no suitable plateau or glacier can be located for landing. The cost is about one third of the old method of provisioning these out-of-the way places.

THREE LIVES LOST IN SEVERE STORM

Linemen Drowned By River's Overflow—Lightning Kills Woman.

CHICAGO, Ills., June 12 (Canadian Press). — Three persons were killed in a storm which swept northern Illinois late to-day and twenty others were hurt here when lightning struck a street car at Cicero, a suburb, during a heavy rain.

A few miles west of Rockfield two linemen were drowned during a cloudburst, which caused the Pecatonica River to overflow its banks and flood the surrounding area. A woman was reported killed by lightning at Freeport. In this city thousands of calls were made for police and firemen's aid from homes where basements were flooded.

82% started to buy higher priced cars

—then decided on the Overland Six because of what they found

Seats are wider, doors broader and windows larger than any car in this price-class.

A check-up among Overland Six owners show that 82% actually started out to purchase higher priced cars . . . then changed their minds and bought an Overland Six when they compared the values offered.

It revealed the fact that 62.5% chose this Six because of its amazing power.

15% said that comfort was its greatest feature.

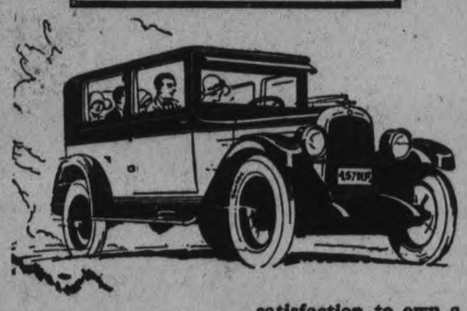
This tells the story of why the Overland Six made the record-breaking sale of over $100,000,000 in its first sixteen months.

Frankly, we took the 12 best cars in America and Europe and copied their salient features.

The Overland Six has more inside space. More cubic feet than the average car of its price, due to its extra long wheel-base.

The result is ample comfort for 5 full-size passengers . . . with plenty of room to step in or out . . . room to stretch your legs with the utmost ease.

As you look up at the heavy, cumbersome, bulky cars you pass on the road, you will realize what it means in performance, in comfort, in downright satisfaction to own a modern car such as this Overland Six.



What You Get in this World-Famous Six

The Overland Six will give you 55 to 60 miles an hour whenever you want it.

It will pick up in high gear from 5 to 40 miles an hour in 21 seconds.

It will sweep with ease over steep grades, which few cars have ever climbed in high gear.

It is a new-type car . . . designed for average road speeds of from 45 to 50 miles an hour. It has the most modern full pressure-feed oiling system. A positive water pump circulation.

Its low center of gravity gives a feeling of security at high speed never enjoyed in any car of this type before.

The rear springs are 52 inches long . . . and underslung. They are made of Chrome Vanadium Steel . . . a costly metal, but the best for absorbing the jolts and jars of the road.

In style and body lines the Overland Six resembles the creations of famous European coachmakers. The famous Hispano Suiza, the Belgian Minerva, the Italian Fiat and other costly foreign cars frankly influenced its design. Its distinctive two-color combination adds a charming smartness to its long, graceful lines.

Contrasting with this beautiful appearance, and its remarkably low price, is the sturdy, rugged way it is built. In this car we use the same steels, the same standards of material and workmanship we employ in building the famous Willys-Knight. The luxurious velour upholstery is but one indication of the quality which prevails throughout.

Ride in an Overland Six Coach, Sedan or Coupe . . test it in comparison with others. Be prepared for a surpise when you learn its low price

REPORT NEXT WEEK.

OTTAWA, June 12 (Canadian Press).—The Parliamentary committee investigating the administration of the Department of Customs and Excise concluded its public sittings yesterday evening. The committee will meet again on Tuesday morning, but the sitting will be private for the purpose of considering the report to be made to the House.

The expectation is that the report, or reports, if more than one, should be necessary owing to divergence of opinion among the members of the committee, will be presented to the House by Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

MARMORA PRIEST SAYS FIRST MASS

Friends of Rev. Father Terrion Present Him With Purse of Money.

MARMORA, June 12.—On Sunday last at the Sacred Heart church here, Rev. Father Terrion celebrated his first solemn Mass with Rev. Father Le Sage as deacon, Rev. Father Feeney as sub-deacon, Rev. Father O'Reilly as master of ceremonies and with his mother and other members of the family occupying the front seats. Marmora's privilege to have a priest from among their own was keenly felt by the congregation as Rev. Father Terrion ascended the steps to offer his first solemn sacrifice. In his sermon, Rev. Father Le Sage eulogised the dignity of the holy priesthood, next congratulating the young priest for giving up everything to follow Him. Continuing, he congratulated and thanked the mother for co-operating so faithfully in helping her son to realize his sole ambition in life and finally congratulated the parish in being so singularly blessed in having a priest chosen by God from among them.

During the offetory, by request, Miss Eva Shannon sang "Ave Maria" At the end of Mass, Mr. E. D. O'Connor read an address to the young priest expressing the pride of the congregation that one of their own sons should be elevated to such sublime dignity. Mr. Bernard Hughes then made the presentation of a well filled purse. Rev. Father Terrion made fitting reply. The large congregation then approached the railing to receive the new priest's benediction. After each individual had received the blessing, Rev. Father, Terrion and his immediate friends gathered at his home to partake of a banquet prepared by Mr. Arthur Hart who also carefully arranged and decorated the table in the centre of which was set a beautiful three storey ordination cake. Among the guests was the Rev. Father Hanley of Tweed, a former parish priest of Marmora.

OBITUARY.

MRS. THOMAS CRAIGHEAD

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12.—The death occurred on Monday, June 7, of Mrs. Thomas Craighead in her 73rd year. Mrs. Craighead was a member of St. John's United church and lived in Camubellford and the vicinity all her life. She had been in poor health for some time.

She is survived by one son Thomas, of town; and two daughters, Mrs. T. Weatherill and Mrs. A. Petherick of Seymour.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, June 9. The service was conducted by Rev. W. Elliot and interment made in Burnbrae cemetery.

MR. JOHN O'SHEA.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12.—Mrs. Clarence Long received word on Wednesday of the death of her father, Mr. John O"Shea of Toronto. Mr. O'Shea died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. F. Collins, Wardell street, Toronto, on June 9, at the age of 85 years.

Mr. O'Shea moved to Toronto about two years ago from Campbellford where he had resided for several years. He was a devout member of St. Mary's church.

He leaves his widow, who was Ann Mahoney, three daughters, Mrs. Clarence Long of town, Mrs. L. F. Collins and Mrs. J. Cerrone of Toronto; and two sons, Fred and Joe of Toronto.

Funeral service was held at St. Anne's church on Friday morning and interment made in Norwood.

Popularity Of Pontiac Is Shown By Large Production

Oshawa, Ont., June 7, 1926.

Home Office
Letter No. 22.
To Pontiac Dealers:

There can be no stronger indication of the confidence of the motoring public in the Pontiac Six or the rapidly growing popularity of this latest General Motors car than the story of the production expansion in the Pontiac factory at Pontiac, Michigan, to try to meet the demand.

Pontiac Six sales for the first five consecutive months have broken all previous records for a new make of car. The sale of more than 10,000 Pontiac Sixes the first three months established a new record which has been maintained by production and sales of more than 25,000 Pontiac Sixes during the first five months.

During the first month that the Pontiac Six was introduced, January of this year, the average daily production was approximately 60 cars. During February, 145 cars a day were produced, and this was increased to 230 cars a day during March. During April, a daily schedule of more than 300 Pontiacs was maintained, and throughout May 340 of these cars were produced daily. At the present time, production is running over 450 a day.

The increase in production has been necessary to meet the increasing call from dealers for more cars to fill their orders on hand. At no time this year has the Company been able to supply dealers with sufficient cars to meet their requirements.

Records such as the above are possibly only because of the stamina and outstanding value built into this 6-cylinder car.

Yours truly,
G. E. Ansley,
Sales Manager—Pontiac Division.

had given in the past year as they had never given before. "If the church is going to function as it should the burden must be spread over more people." The sum of $3,400,000 would be asked for next year.

John W. Ross, vice-chairman, seconded the report, expressing the belief that there was a true feeling of union from all sections. The report was adopted.

Home mission reports were adopted this afternoon, Dr. C.E. Manning presenting that from the former Methodists. He especially spoke of the work among fishermen and lumbermen on the British Columbia coast where a greater work was being done than that by Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell on the Labrador coast. There were five hospitals, missionaries, and two auxiliary hospitals during the fishing season. He wondered the church had not been thrilled by the story of what had been done there during the past seventy-five years.

Rev. J. H. Edminson presented the report for the Presbyterian section. He reported that practically all ministers thrown out of places by union had been given new charges. "I have never know nof any time in the Presbyterian church when there were so few men unemployed. Only eighteen were without a place and these would soon be looked after as there were more than this number of vacancies." In a year or two the United Church would call and call loudly for ministers.

Dr. D. L. Ritchie reported a successful year for the Congregational section.

Dr. Alfred Gandier addressed the church on the subject of the position of Protestant bodies in Europe, and their deplorable condition following the war. He declared that while the Roman Catholic church had sent money from more favored territory into the war-stricken areas and increased their followers, Protestant churches of America had given little aid. The sum of $250,000 was being asked from this continent, and he asked for a special contribution from the United church. The council decided to grant this.

Hopeful Protestant signs in Europe was the possibility of the establishment of a Protestant national church in the Ukraine. Conditions were favorable also in Czecho-Slovakia.

Miss Eleanor McDougall, principal of the Women's Christian College, Madras, India, addressed the council yesterday afternoon, and told of the encouraging work which was being done among the women of Southern India where three per cent of the population were Christians.

No.
What did Jackie do?
He went to bed.
Did you talk to him?
He couldn't hear.
Did you notice anything peculiar about John?
His feet were sore.
Did you see anything wrong with George's feet?
They were frozen.
She remembered Mr. Maker asking if George's feet were sore. She did not remember what her father said.
What did George do?
She did not know.
What did Mr. Maker do?
He said to take off George's boots.
Did you see George's foot?
No.
Did you see it at any time?
Yes. It was frozen.
Do you remember the barn?
Yes.
How many horses were in it?
Two.
How many cows?
One.
Did you ever feed the horses, or water them?
Yes.
What kind of horses were they?
Black horses.
Big or small?
They were not very big.
When did your father go to the woods?
In the morning.
Did he remain all day?
He came home for dinner.
Did the little lads come home for linner?
No.
How did they get their dinner?
They took it in a basket.
What was in it?
I never saw.
Who made up the dinner for the basket?
My stepmother.
Were you hungry when you went to bed?
Sometimes.
Were you ever hungry during the day?
Yes.
How often were you hungry?
Several times.
After breakfast, Nellie, what did you do?
Washed dishes.
What did John and George get for breakfast?
Same as I got.
What did John and George do after breakfast?
Brought in wood and water.
What did they do after that?
Went to the woods?
Did they come in at noon?
No.
Were you ever in the woods?
No.
When did the boys return from the woods?
About 6 o'clock.
Your father and mother had some hens too.
Yes.
How many?
About 19.
Did you collect the eggs?
Yes.
How many did you get?
Four or five a day.
What was done with them?
They were sold.
Who sold them?
My stepmother.
To whom?
Her father.
Who got them when they were not sold?
My stepmother and the children.
Were you hungry during the day?
Sometimes.
Did you get all the bread you could eat during the day?
No.
Did you get all the bread and porridge you wanted at night?
Sometimes.
Asked by Mr. Strickland:
Did you get up before daylight?
She replied: Yes, sometimes.
Did the boys get home before dark?
Yes.
You used to go to school at Dummer?
Yes, last fall.
Was the school far?
About two miles.
Did Jackie and George go?
Yes.
What kind of a lunch had you at school?
Bread and butter and cake.
Was that the same as the others had?
Yes.
Your father worked pretty hard last winter?
Yes.
He went to Norwood sometimes?
Only when he had a load ready.
Did you ever see your father with any money?
Yes.
What did he do with it?
He gave it to my stepmother.
What was it for?
He gave it to her to buy clothes and for the house.
Did she buy them?
Yes.
Did he give her money more than once?
Three or four times.
And then, what happened?
She went to Norwood.
Did she drive to Norwood herself?
Did she take you?
Yes.
What did she get?
Sugar and bread and tea.

Little George Dwyer was then called to the witness stand and described the tasks allotted to him and his dead brother.

What did you do after breakfast? he was asked.
Got the wood and water.
What did you do after that?
Went to the woods.
What did you do in the woods?
Sawed wood.
What did you saw it with Saw.
What kind of saw?
Cross-cut.
Sawing trees down?

At counsel's suggestion George came down from the witness stand and gave a demonstration of the methods of sawing down trees.

The correct time was 8 minutes after 5. "Not so bad," was counsel's comment.

Are you hungry now?
No.
Wouldn't you eat something if you had the chance?

George seemed uncertain how to answer this.

Do you remember the day Mr. Edgar came to take you away?
Yes.
Did you have anything to eat that day?
Yes, at dinner time.
What did you have?
Bread.
Any potatoes?
A little bit.
Gravy?
Yes.
Any eggs?
No.
Did you have anything to eat until came off the train?
A chocolate bar in the train.
When did you get something to eat, after that.

The boy thought it would be between 8 and 9 o'clock.

Your father and mother used to see that you got something before that time?
Yes.
That was a long time to wait?

George seemed to agree.

You are a little woodman and you know more about trees than I do!
It was soft wood you were cutting—wasn't it?
Yes.
It was more fun cutting wood than hanging about the house?
Yes.
You and Jackie had lots of fun in the woods until Jackie got sick?

After some hesitation, George said Yes.

George, your father had just the same kind of food as you had, only he had more?
Yes
You did not think you were such a badly used little fellow until people began to tell you how badly off you had been?
How many hens had your father?
About twenty.
How many eggs did you get from them?
Four or five.
What was done with the eggs?
They were sold.
You had a cow?
Yes.
How much milk did she give?
About a quart.

Mr. MacKay asked—

You had a sore foot last winter?
Yes.
What made it sore?
It was frozen.
Where did you get it frozen?
In the woods.
Do you know that gentleman in uniform?
Yes.
What is his name?
Mr. Maker.
Do you remember when he came to your house? Do you remember if he asked if there was anything wrong with your foot?
Yes.
What did your mother say?
No.
What did Mr. Maker do?
He told me to take off my boot.
Who took it off?
My mother.
Was your father there?
He did not know.

Matt. Little, on the witness stand, said Dwyer was his son-in-law. He did not think acoused was an affectionate father to the boys, and did not think Dwyer showed them much consideration. After the boys were failing he still made them go out to work. He did not see them in the woods. He was not there to see what they were doing. He had suggested that Dwyer should take the boys to the woods in the summer to lead the horses. It was common enough to have boys that age in the bush. It was not customary to have them sawing wood in the winter time.

LARGE DOCKET FOR NON-JURY SITTINGS

Session For United Counties Opens in Cobourg on Monday Next.

COBOURG, June 12.—The Cobourg non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario, will open here on Monday, June 14, before the Honorable, the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas. There is a large docket.

Peters vs Spellman is an action brought by William John Peters against Annie Loretta Spellman, executrix of the estate of the late Arthur Bruce Spellman, late of the village of Hastings, hotelkeeper. Plaintiff is suing for $2755.20 for work done at the Clarendon Hotel, Hastings, and interest at 5 per cent.

The second action, Anderson vs Geo. S. Walbridge, et al, as brought by Shelly Anderson, proprietor and owner of a summer resort, Massassauga Park, in Ameliasburg, for $25,000 damages, for alleged blocking of a roadway leading to the Park. The defendant is a farmer at Ameliasburg.

Yates vs Township of Hope. This action brought by Albina Yates, and Ashley Yates, infant, suing by his next friend, for $10,000 damages, for the death of Roland Yates, is the sequel of a sad drowning accident that took place in the Generaska river, a year or so ago. The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the Corporation, and the washing away of a bridge, whereby deceased's conveyance was precipitated into the river and he was drowned.

In Warner vs Drumm, Elgi and Verna Warner are suing Michael Drumm, of Haldimand township, for $5000 damages.

Winfield vs Raddock. May Isabelle Winfield, sole executor, and devisee of the estate of William Gordon Winfield, deceased, asks for a declaration that the defendant George Raddock, has no beneficial claim on certain lands in the township of Clarke.

HOUSE EXPECTS TO CLOSE SOON

Whether Next Week Will Wind Up Session Depends on Probe Report.

MAY BE DISCUSSED.

OTTAWA, June 12 (Canadian Press).—The Commons is adjourning over the week-end with every hope that one more week's effort will bring the 1926 sitting to a close. The wind-up of the Customs Committee yesterday gave impetus to such aspirations. It all depends on the report of the Customs Committee. A contentiously worded document or a trio of reports from the Liberals, the Conservatives and the Progressive on the committee might send the House off into another week's discussion, but the business on the Commons' order paper will not hold the House beyond next week, it is believed.

CHARM DOCTORS STILL USED

In the outlying sections of Florida there are still remnants of voodooism. Sickness is treated with a series of incantations and strange practices such as hanging beads, dirty rags and snake rattles about the patient's body. In these communities where the voodoo doctor still works, almost every other wan owns an automobile.

MR. F. M. DELA FOSSE.

It is always interesting to deal with anything or anybody connected with a public library. A library is a miscellaneous collection of books brought together by the efforts of a private owner or a public board. In Peterborough there are, naturally enough, few private libraries, and as the tendency everywhere is more and more to rely upon great public libraries it is to be expected that the Public Library of Peterborough will become more and more a centre of information for the great mass of our people.

To the local board of trustees, composed at present of Messrs. W. G. Morrow (chairman), A. Mowat, John Corkery, H. R. H. Kenner, James Hamilton, Wm. Stevens, L. W. B. Magie, V. J. McElderry, and the mayor, belongs the task and the responsibility of expending a large sum of money for books and periodicals and for the general management of the whole property. To Mr. Dela Fosse, as librarian, who is also a member of the board, belongs the duty of providing the point of contact with the public. His bookkeeping duties and correspondence are but a small part of his usefulness, although, no doubt, laborious enough. It is, however, his ability to tell inquirers what they want to know and where to find it that constitutes a librarian's chief usefulness.

The library itself is rapidly becoming a veritable gold mine of information. Take one case alone, that of reports concerning the natural features of the Dominion of Canada. Expeditions, composed of technicians of the highest rank, are continually being despatched by the government to all quarters of the dominion and years are spent in finding out just what the physical resources of this country are, both on land and water. Reports are made at great expense, accompanied by graphic maps of great value and copies of all these are sent to public libraries. In no other way can our people come face to face with Canada and know their own country exactly as it is. Then, our citizens can keep in touch with everything in science up-to-date. Current opinions on current topics that excite our interest and curiosity are always on the table. Novels for the juveniles, the aged and the infirm are also in great quantity. Mr. Dela Fosse is to answer inquiries concerning all these sources of knowledge and advise where the reader may direct his anxious energies, he will have much to do.

Born in India, the son of Captain Dela Fosse, a military officer in the employ of the old East India Company, and educated in England at Wellington public school under Dr. Benson, the future Archbishop of Canterbury, he came to Canada to "learn farming." After a few years of healthy and arduous toil, he elected to change the plough for the pen and harked to Toronto where he for several years acted as secretary to Dr. Body, the then provost of Trinity College, and also as deputy registrar of the surrogate office under the late Gordon Brown, brother of the Hon. George Brown. In the course of time he settled in Lakefield and finally came to Peterborough. For three years he was on the staff of The Examiner and when the library was opened in 1911 was appointed chief librarian.

One of the difficulties of a librarian is quite an unexpected one, the keeping intact of the books themselves. It will hardly be believed that, despite the most careful watch kept by the staff of the library, people will sometimes tear and cut out parts of books and periodicals. Not only does this vandalism destroy the value of these books and periodicals as sources of information and interest, it destroys books of great value such as the Encyclopædia Britannica and, moreover, casts an unhealthy spell over the whole library. When caught, here as elsewhere, it is found almost always that the criminals are subnormal. Apparently they are quite normal and seem only to give evidence of extreme selfishness and meanspiritedness, but it is now generally maintained by criminologists that these qualities themselves are those of the subnental, just as an ungenerous spirit in all things, wants everything its own way and hates all sunshine and sense of freedom for others. The basis of crime is selfishness and the basis of defacing and stealing books, &c., is not different. Where people are not responsible, even to themselves, they are lunatics, not criminals.

A librarian has a fine chance to see human nature at its best and worst. As a rule, the public shows the benefit of its fondness for reading and the liberal arts by manifesting a high degree of culture, which is only another name for politeness. There are very few who go to a public library where loafing is not allowed, who are not anxious to afford every opportunity to others of having a look at the picture-magazines. The Illustrated London News, in recent years, has devoted itself to archæology and has given views of excavations and despoilments in Egypt which could not be seen elsewhere. It has also paid attention to the strife over Evolution and has given the photographs of simian relatives which ought to satisfy the most unidealistic. Whilst American magazines and newspapers indicate the growing interest in that country, such papers as The Daily Telegraph keep us in touch with the Old Country and it may be said here without offence that it would not hurt to have The Scotsman, The Manchester Guardian and The Times added to the list because old country newspapers are really far and away ahead in almost every respect of American and Canadian journals. The custodian of a library, like the parson of a church, or even the landlord of a large hotel, makes all the difference with many people whether they like to go there or not and it can be truly said of the librarian of the Peterborough Public Library, as well as of his staff, that the seeker after truth, is always received graciously and capably.

If our people only appreciated at its true value this great centre of knowledge it would receive a vastly greater patronage. Books of travel now recount journeys to every corner of the earth and they are much more interesting even to the unstudious reader than yarns about what is good for us to eat and drink appearing in such contradictory profusion in the press from day to day. Reality in the form of science has become as plain as an open book and it is just as much more interesting than "bosh" as wholesome food is than coloured cakes to the people who work and carry the world on their shoulders.

To all inquirers at the door of this new and intensely practical and interesting form of knowledge, Mr. Dela Fosse is ever ready to give his services. When "The Library" is once really discovered by most of the people it will be to them like the opening up of an earthly paradise. Why, when we have reached the years of understanding, we should cease to read and inwardly digest, it is difficult to say because the solace of the tired and wearied soul and even of the humblest toiler in the drab fields of labour is to be found, from grave to gay, on the shelves and tables of the people's own library.

DISTRICT INSTITUTE NEWLY ORGANIZED

Norwood Scene of First Annual Meeting in East Peterborough.

WARSAW, June 12.—The first annual district meeting of East Peterboro Woman's Institutes was held at Norwood in the Agricultural rooms on Wednesday afternoon, thirty-two ladies were present, including the three delegates from Havelock, five each from Norwood and Warsaw.

The various reports were read. The district as such is new, and the expenses were not very heavy. Those who came had very little expense. Each Branch had done work. Norwood had paid hospital expenses for one needing treatment, and had made money from moving pictures and from autograph quilts. Havelock had conducted a girls' garment-making club, carried on by Mrs. J. A. Sexsmith. The girls met at Mrs. Sexsmith's home every Saturday from October until March, missing only one Saturday in October, and one at Christmas. Some of their work was exhibited and it was beautifully done.

Miss Haycroft, division representative, took the chair during the election and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. David Miller; first vice-president, Mrs. R. F. Dunlop; second vice president, Mrs. Roger, Norwood; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Cooper; auditors, Mesdames Thomas H. Crowe and L. E. McCracken. The district directors are: Warsaw, Mrs. L. E. McCracken; Norwood, Mrs. Harry Tinney; Havelock, Mrs. J. E. MacMillan, Norwood.

It was decided to pay the district secretary ten dollars as a salary. Miss Haycroft gave a most inspiring address. She explained what the Institute Confederation is—the objects are the same as those of the smallest branch—but if is a union of all, and while on one branch would have much influence at parliament, the sixty thousand can make their influence felt, and have many times effected benefits by their representation.

Nothing is greater than the home, and Institue exists to protect the home. Women do see some problems sooned than men. They have done much in the way of bettering moral condition in jails and penitentaries. They are doing much along social service lines, and in getting better laws for women and children. She explained how the fifteen cents per members helps on the work in the Province and in the Dominion. Some wonder what benefit they get from paying the fifteen cents per member helps on doing good.

She advised seeing Mrs. Aikens exhibit and demonstration work at the Exhibition. Prizes are to be given for plans for remodelling a house. The institutes aid the Winter Fair.

Through our Agricultural represen tative we can arrange for child health clinics, antitoxins may be obtained free.

Miss Haycroft by giving four "keys to success"—1. An iron key—hard work; 2. A nickle key—social life; 3. A silver key—love and sympathy; 4. A golden key—prayer. Anyone who tries these keys will find that they unlock the doors leading over the greatest obstacles.

Miss Chapman.

Miss Chapman spoke on, and outlined the many projects in Institute work. Few institutes could take up all the work, but all might take up one. There is agriculture, with its side-lines for money making by the women. One of the principal is poultry keeping. Weight of influence should be thrown towards agriculture. At the entrance to one farm is "Grow onions and spend the Winter in Florida." That is not fostering a love of home and country. "Grow onions and improve the home." Make the home beautiful, love it, and stay with it. There is educational work. Fact is needed in all things. The speaker gave some amusing illustrations of lack of tact.

Literature on all manner of health problems may be had for the asking. The last thing the homemaker usually learns is how to take care of herself.

Demonstration classes may be held. An institute branch may have two such classes in a year. She urged the need of nursing and first aid classes. The girls' garment-making clubs are doing a great work. Many girls really do not know how to sew. She hoped more girls would take part in the judging competitions held at the larger fairs.

The ease with which a dance could be arranged was noted, but if other things, debates, dramatics, music, historical research, and kindred subjects were made interesting, and they could easily be, they will attract just as well.

Votes of thanks were tendered Miss Chapman and Miss Haycroft for their able and inspiring addresses.

Mrs. Rev. Piere welcomed the Havelock and Warsaw members. Norwood ladies served a delicious and substantial lunch, for which they were tendered a vote of thanks.

Mrs. Prysley spoke a few minutes on Prohibition work.

The six o'clock whistle blew, and all were anxious to get home, but it was very hard to separate.

The Institute members who went to Norwood on Wednesday, called upon Mrs. William Selkirk with a little gift, and the following address:

Dear Mrs. Selkirk:

Your sudden departure from Warsaw came as quite a shock to most of the members of the Institute. While we had an idea you might leave some time, the actual going was very unexpected, and you are sadly missed.

Since you have been able to attend our meetings, no one was ever more able and willing to help on the work. As librarian and director you were faihtful to a degree. You were really interested, consequently what you undertook to do, could be depended upon to be well and promptly done.

You never sought the easiest, nor the most prominent job. If there were some obscure necessity, you were always ready, as a matter of course, to do it.

The pleasant way in which you did the necessary and right thing has endeared you to us all.

With all your home ties it was often a wonder how you managed. It speaks volumes for your home management.

We hope your new home will prove the benefit you and your husband expect, and trust that you may all be very happy in it.

We wish you a warm welcome to the Norwood Institue for we know that, while we have lost a faithful member another branch in our own district is gaining one.

No matter where any of us are, there is always the great bond of womanhood to bind us together in love of home and country, the two greatest institutions on earth, for the Creator Himself has put each one of us, no matter of what creed or nationality in some kind of an home, and into some country. It is through these two that all other institutions, organized or unorganized, must work.

As a slight remembrance will you please accept this little gift from our Institute women, and we hope that, as you may use them almost daily, you will sometimes give a thought to Warsaw Institute and know you will be an ever-welcome visitor.

Signed on behalf of the Warsaw Woman's Institute: S. M. C. Mills, president; Mrs. John Sargent, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Selkirk was completely taken by surprise, but thanked the Institute warmly and showed the gifts which had been given by the Ladies' Aid and the choir, both of which she had been a member.

You Wonder Why You Cannot Sleep

IF you could only sleep at night there would be some chance of getting back the nervous energy which is expended during the day.

But you cannot sleep. In the mornings you arise feeling tired and played out. By evening you are all in. Your nervous system is entirely exhausted.

"Is there no way to get out of this condition?" you ask. There is. By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly you can feed the nerves back to health and vigor.

Perhaps you have never realized the cause of your sleeplessness. But this is the outstanding symptom of exhausted nerves. You may also have nervous headaches, indigestion and spells of despondency. You may be unduly sensitive to light and sound. You may be irritable and inclined to worry when there is no real cause. But inability to rest and sleep is one of the surest signs that you need the help of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to get back to health.

Nervous disorders do not get better of their own accord. You must supply the elements of Nature which are required to build up the depleted cells and these elements are most happily combined in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 60 cts. a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. Beautifying a Corner Lot

By Henry J. Moore.

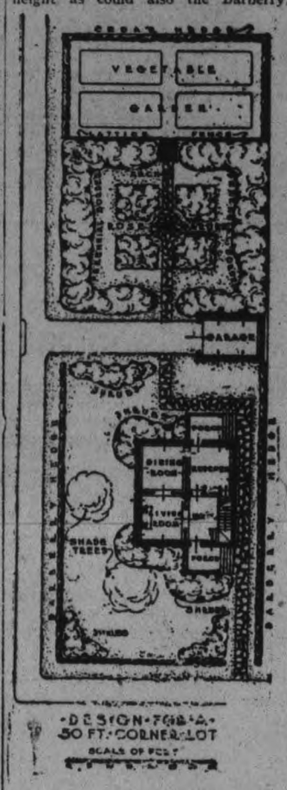
There are many wonderful home sites at the corners of residential streets in most of our towns and cities which, if properly beautified could be used as examples in the treatment of such properties everywhere and as so many different treatments are possible the educational value of beautifying these areas is at once apparent.

Were the builders of the house to give a thought to the beautification of the surroundings, the buildings would be so located on the lots as to retain as large an area as possible intact for the making of the lawn instead of so placing the structure as to divide the area into two or more parts. This is a thought however which obviously leads back to the fact that in building and beautifying anywhere it is a question of proper planning. It will certainly pay the owner to see that his plans for home and grounds are properly prepared, if he would have a dignified and harmonouis layout.

It is assumed that the average corner house will be in alignment with the houses on the street and not set back any further from the street, also that its front will be parallel to the street. In this case it will be to advantage to build the house as close to the lot line as possible of the neighboring house but sufficiently far away to allow of the construction of the service walk. The house should not be built near the side street. In this way it will be possible as shown on the plan to construct quite a large sized lawn along the side of the house, which lawn may extend from the street at the front to the flower or vegetable garden, if one, or to the full extent of the property at the rear of the lot.

If a garage is desired on the corner lot it might be well to design this in conjunction with the residence, but facing the side street, or to place it behind the residence, facing as mentioned and to construct the driveway across the lawn the shorter distance instead of the greater distance from the front street which would be necessary if the garage faced the front. So arranged neither drive or garage would be visible from the front street and the appearance of the lawn would be of one expansive and unbroken. A glance at the plan will convey better than words the writer's intention.

If a little seculsion were desired, a low hedge of Berberis Thunbergii, the Japanese Barberry, the English, or the Amur River Privet or perhaps the Arborvitae (white cedar) could be planted on the line between street and lot along both streets. The Privets and the Cedar could by an annually clipping be kept to any satisfactory height as could also the Barberry, but the latter more properly by pruning or thinning out the growths.



As shown on the plan shrubs may be massed near the corners of the lot and along the foundation of the house. This foundation to base planting is usually proper under any condition where the area is large enough to permit of same.

Around the rose garden and between it and the vegetable garden is located on the plan a perennial border and leading through this feature into the garden is a walk which is a continuation of that which leads from the front street past the house, serving same. Overhanging the walk is shown an archway intended to be covered with Climbing Roses at the point it enters the vegetable garden.

On a corner lot there is usually room for a shade tree or two, observe the location of these on the plan. Especially if such a tree can be made to serve the purpose of shading or screening the window of the living room from intense light will it be valuable. Apart from the consideration of utility, however, a shade tree, if well chosen and located, will add a touch of artistry to the surroundings.

The walk which is such a necessary adjunct to all homes should be constructed and be located at the point where it will serve the greatest convenience, and should preferably be at or near the side of the lot so that the lawn will remain intact. To lay the walk in the middle will break the lawn into two small undignified portions. A flagstone walk will be distinctive because somewhat unusual. A cement one, however, is the one more largely constructed.

In conclusion the writer would draw attention to the error of planting shrubs here and there without apparent purpose, throughout the lawn areas. It is never possible where such is done to obtain pleasing results. The logical reason for the use of these specimen shrubs is that they accent the groupings at the sides of the lawns. Sometimes they are used purely because in themselves they are beautiful. If beautiful things are planted as individuals they should be so located as to entice the beholder to look to something at least attractive beyond. To plant a beautiful specimen shrub in proximity to something of extreme unsightliness is folly. Better in such a case to effect a mass planting of something even if not so attractive to completely blot out the scene. Wherever used, however, bear in mind that the purpose of the specimen shrub is to "accent" always, then employ them to accent that which is harmonious and beautiful.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

AUDREY MORTON, not quite 20, has just suffered a nervous collapse. She is in love with her guardian, HARRY MORTON, attractive, middle-aged, wealthy and unmarried. He has repeatedly told her he could not marry her. His home is in Peterborough, but he maintains an expensive apartment in Toronto.

NONA, a Toronto dancer, who has just made a tremendous hit in a new production, also loves Morton. She is a friend of Audrey's.

As this chapter opens, the physician has just told Morton that Audrey, who is unconscious, will not die, but he does not know if she ever will become well again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER L.

Audrey slept on through the remainder of the afternoon and through the night.

Once or twice, after midnight, her eyelids fluttered, and Morton sprang to her side. The nurse had tried to drive him from the room, but he had refused to go.

"Audrey, dearest," he pleaded, "speak to me!" Each time, though, the long, dark lashes closed again.

Sitting in the corner of the room, his arms limp, his hands hanging loosely across his knees, he thought, and remembered, and grieved.

He still sat there, when dawn came.

"You must go to bed, sir," the nurse told him. "You're not doing her any good—you're doing yourself a good deal of harm."

At seven o'clock, the day nurse, coming on duty, prepared some broth, and dropped it into Audrey's half-parted lips with a spoon. The girl swallowed, naturally, but without opening her eyes. Morton was bending over, waiting anxiously for a sign of returning consciousness.

As she resumed her regular breathing, he turned away. Sorrowfully, he went out the door, into his own room.

He undressed, and bathed, and donning his pajamas, threw himself upon his own bed, but he could not sleep. Suddenly he arose, and sliding his feet into a pair of slippers, and throwing his robe about him, he went down stairs.

The butler brought him his breakfast, but he took only a cup of coffee. He pushed the food away from him.

The servant looked with anxiety at his white, drawn face. "Can't you sleep, sir?" he asked.

"No," Morton said, "I think I shan't sleep—until Miss Morton wakes up."

He turned and plodded up the stairs. In Audrey's room once more, he bent over the bed.

"She's sleeping easily," the nurse said. "You go to bed, sir."

He kissed Audrey's cheek. His throat was dry, and swollen with grief.

"To think that I did this to you, Audrey!" he said, touching his cheek against her forehead. "And I love you so, and wanted you to be happy!"

The words seemed to pierce the veil that lay over the girl's consciousness. She stirred.

Morton raised himself on his hands, and stood, searching with his eyes for signs of returning consciousness.

Her eyes did not open, but she was trying to speak. He bent, and listened.

There was a long silence, while Morton strained to hear if she spoke again.

Then she said "All of us—lonely."

She breathed a deep sigh, and her bosom rose and fell in its slow, regular respiration.

Morton had dressed himself, and was pacing the drawing-room, with long, nervous strides, when the specialist came that morning.

The doctor paused at the foot of the stair, and looked at him. "You've not been asleep," he said. "Have you been to bed?"

"I laid down for a few minutes," Morton said. "Doctor, what will happen? How long will she sleep?"

The physician shook his head. "Sometimes they sleep that way for two weeks, or three."

"And when she wakes up?" Morton was peering anxiously into the doctor's eyes.

The medical man shook his head. "I don't know, man—I don't know. It depends on how much reserve strength she has. There's one thing certain. She'll have to be taken out of Toronto, and back to a quiet home away from this sort of life. She has not been born and bred to it. She can't grow again in this soil."

He looked at Morton's drawn lips, and bloodshot eyes. "You're a powerful man, Mr. Morton," he continued. "But in two more days of this, you will be in bed, in the same condition as my patient."

He went upstairs, leaving Morton leaning against the newel post, his forehead resting on the hard, carved wood.

How long the doctor was upstairs, Morton did not know, but he heard the physician's descending footsteps.

"Is she better?"

"Just the same," the specialist said. "Now!"

He took Morton by the arm, and led him into the drawing-room. Pushing him into a chair, he drew up his own chair before him.

"If you are going to be any good to that girl, when she comes out of her coma, you'll have to do what I tell you. Go up stairs, draw a warm bath, get into it, and stay there three-quarters of an hour. By the time you get out, my nurse up there will hand you a glass full of liquid. I'll have the prescription filled as I go out. Drink that, lie down, and don't get out of bed until evening, whether you sleep or not."

As he arose to go, he turned again, in warning. "And go to bed tonight, early. You must sleep, and if you haven't slept by ten o'clock tonight, the nurse is to call me on the telephone."

He went out and shut the door.

Morton stared at the blank paneling before him. Then, heavily, he went up stairs. Stopping to look into Audrey's room a moment, he received the nurse's shake of her head, and turned to his own room.

After he was out of the bath, the nurse gave him the potion—a salty drink. He took it, obediently, and lay down.

He did not sleep. His eyes, wide open, stared at the ceiling. Once, his throat, contracting suddenly, choked him with a sob. He turned upon his face, and lay quiet, except for an occasional twitching of his limbs. His eyes, still open, gazed blindly at the wall of his room.

When the butler rapped at the door, to tell him that dinner was served, he arose. Dashing cold water upon his face and wrists, he drew on his dressing robe, and went down stairs. He had not shaved since the morning before, and his beard showed blue-black against the pallor of his skin. He was sitting, gazing vacantly at the food that the butler had set before him, when the telephone rang.

"A lady wishes to speak to you, sir," the servant said.

Morton arose from the table, and went to the instrument in the hall.

"Hello, Harry," said a cheerful voice. It was Nona. "Why didn't you and Audrey come in and see me last night? I was waiting for you."

He found it hard to master his vocal cords. "I—couldn't—come," he told her, dropping the words into the receiver as if they were heavy weights.

"What's wrong, Harry? Are you sick? Tell me, dear! Is something terrible the matter?"

He nodded, as if she could see the gesture over the wire. "Audrey—she's very ill."

There was a gasp of sympathy. "What is it, Harry? Can I do anything?"

He waited a moment, before he answered. "None of us can do anything, Nona. She's—she's unconscious."

"Oh-h-h!" There was infinite sympathy and concern in her tone. "Oh Harry, I'm so sorry! And you, dear! I can tell by your voice that you are utterly exhausted. Can't I send you something? Can't I come and help nurse her?"

Again he shook his head. "She has nurses, and a specialist. They don't know whether she ever will be well again."

The receiver dropped from his hand, and he arose and went away. The butler replaced the rubber earpiece on its hook.

Morton was unable to eat, and trailing his robe after him, went up to Audrey's room. His eyes were dry and hot, and he found difficulty in focusing them upon her face. The nurse glanced at him, and going to a little stand in the corner, took two round white discs from a glass tube. She dropped them into a glass of water, where they fizzed vigorously. Morton was standing beside Audrey, looking at the fair, white face, and the tumbled yellow hair.

"Drink this," commanded the nurse.

"The doctor says, that in five minutes after you take that, you must go back to bed again, and stay there until morning."

He did not reply, but lifting Audrey's hand, caressed her forearm. Her hand and wrist were limp in his grasp. Carefully he placed her arm beneath the cover, and going to his chair, sat down, bowing his head upon his arm. The nurse let him remain there a few minutes, and then, taking him by the arm, led him to his own room.

"Go to bed, now," she said firmly. Leaving, she shut the door.

He dropped the robe from his shoulders, and without removing his slippers, threw himself upon the bed, face downward.

Once or twice he turned, but his legs no longer twitched.

It was broad daylight when there came a tap upon his door, and he stirred.

He sat up, and looked vacantly about him for a moment.

Then he sprang to his feet, and ran to the door. Throwing it open, he found the man servant waiting outside.

"The nurse told me to tell you that Miss Audrey is calling for you," the butler said.

Morton thrust him to one side, and ran down the hall. He burst into Audrey's room, and threw himself on the floor beside her bed. "What is it, Audrey dear! Tell me!"

She did not stir. His eyelids were swollen now, so that he had difficulty in raising them to the nurse's face. "Did she call?"

The girl nodded. "She asked for you twice," she said. "The doctor said I was to let you know."

He put his arm under Audrey's head, and lifted it. It rolled inertly. Softly he restored it to its pillow.

He rose to his feet, and turned Someone was standing behind him. He pressed his hands upon his temples, to help him focus his gaze.

Then he saw, it was Nona. She reached out her hand, and laid it on his forearm. "Dear Harry," she said.

At this moment there came a sound from the bed. He whirled, as Audrey's hand lifted itself, and fell back upon the cover.

Audrey's lips were moving. "Daddy—daddy—I want to tell you—"

GRAND LECTURER ONLY 15.

Miss Pauline Cole of Eaton County, Michigan, is probably the youngest regular Grange lecturer in the country. She has proved highly efficient in her work among the subordinate granges. She is only fifteen years old and handles the responsibilities of her position well enough for her to be retained and trained for further work.

BURNBRAE LADY HAS BAD ACCIDENT

Falls Down Stairs and Fractures Several Ribs.

BURNBRAE, June 12.—Mrs. D. Thompson, who resides with her son, Mr. John Thompson, Menie, suffered a severe and painful accident on Monday morning, when she fell on the stairs at her home fracturing a number of ribs.

Rheumatism Prevalent.

Mr. Stanley Little, a promising young cheesemaker of this district, who was engaged at New Model factory, Seymour West, for the season, has had to relinquish his duties for some time due to a severe attack of rheumatism. his malady seems to be prevalent throughout the district this spring, as several cases are reported.

Deer in Pasture.

Mr. R. J. Cleugh, 8th Concession, received a mild surprise on Tuesday morning while going to the pasture for his cows, to see a young deer trotting towards him. The animal seemed fairly tame and did not leave for the nearby woods until Mr. Cleugh raised his voice to call his cattle. It is seldom indeed, that a deer is seen in these parts and it caused about as much excitement as the famous bear which visited the community last fall.

Out of Game.

Two valuable members of Burnbrae baseball team may be out of the game for some time. Frank Little has again turned the weak ankle which bothered him last season, while Don Craighead has a very sore hand with most of the fingers still bandaged.

Poultry Culling.

Local poultry enthusiasts have received word that Walter Smith, district representative and Prof. Francis, of the O.A.C., will conduct a poultry culling campaign along the same plan as last year, beginning about June 25. A meeting to arrange details will be held in Campbellford on the evening of June 14.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, June 11. — A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Will A. Wight, on Wednesday night, at the home of Mrs. A. Wight.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Walterhouse, of Toronto, are at "Riverview" for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald of Toronto, are at the Shaw cottage.

The public school closed Tuesday afternoon in respect for the late Mr. Michael Vanvolkenberg, whose funeral was held that day. Interment took place at Centre church cemetery.

ZION CONFERENCE ELECTS OFFICERS

District Convention of Ontario Religious Education Was Great Success.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 10.—Monday, June 7th will be a day long remembered by Sabbath School workers at Zion Church, as well as in the other schools of the town and township. The annual convention of the Ontario Religious Education Council was held in the local church, beingning at 2.15 p.m., with an evening session at 7.45 p.m

After devotional exercises and the president's address by the superintendent of the Zion school, Mrs. Wm. Forde, the reports of the various departments were given by the conveners of each. The Roll Call of the schools and a discussion chart by G. A. Kingston was the next item of business. The main feature of the afternoon session was the round table conference on Sabbath School and Religious Education work conducted by Rev. Chas. De Mille, representative of the O.R.E.C. The discussion was chiefly with the aim of organizing along the ten point standard with special emphasis on teacher training.

The nominating committee, consisting of the ministers and superintendents of the schools met at the close of the afternoon session and the following officers were recommended for 1926-27.

President—J. W. Brown, Bethel Church, Seymour West.
Vice-President—G. A. Kingston.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. N. H. Thompson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Rev. C. Daniel.
Heads of Departments.—
Childrens'—Miss K. Gould.
Girls'—Miss L. Weston.
Boys'—Hilton Beatty.
Young People's—Rev. C. Daniel.
Adults'—Rev. D. A. McKenzie.
Home Department—Mrs. G. A. Kingston.
Teacher Training—Mrs. R. W. Scott.
Missionary—Mrs. D. Stillman.
Temperance—Rev. James Grier.

Supper was then served by the Zion ladies at the Orange Hall. Some forty-five visiting delegates partook of the good things provided.

The evening sess on began at 7.45, with a rousing song service, led by the Rev. Daniel. The devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. F. Gardner of Springbrook were based on Luke 18. The speaker showed that the work of the Sabbath School should be often taken to God in prayer.

After the report of the nominating committee, Rev. Chas. De Mille took charge of the installation of the officers. As only a few officers were present at this session, Mr. De Mille delivered his admonition to the people instead asking them to faithfully support these elected officers in the work which they would be doing during the coming years.

After music by Zion Junior Choir, Rev. De Mille gave the address of the evening. His talk centred mainly around the subject of religious education. He preferred this term to that of Sabbath School as the work has now branched out to include so many things. In the course of his address which was flavoured with witty and very fitting illustrations, he left a number of thoughts with those assembled which he hoped would do good in the year to come. "We must do better in our work. Unless we do better we do worse. Don't be afraid to change plans of school training if there are better ones," he said. "To successfully run a school each one must know what they are expected to do."

"We must know God in the field of religious education and we must show Him."

The leaders shoul l know their field and strive for an increased attendance. Instead of trying to cov.r the whole field at once and probably fail, try for a ten per cent. incre se during the next year.

Denominational m has kept people apart to a great extent n religious educational work during late years.

The leaders must know the people they work with, try to get their viewpoint and then come at them from that angle. Classes should be arranged so that those of similar ages will be together making teaching a more simple matter.

An attempt should be made to increase leadership with plans for some definite form of teacher training, and perhaps a certain form of parent training. Parents often fail to get their children's viewpoint.

There should be more serious consideration of the choosing of life work. Also a more definite programme of evangelism to win the scholars to Christ. Seek to increase church attendance by adding special features for children.

So many people in this land do not know their Bibles. More instruction to secure increased Bible knowledge should be given. In conclusion Mr. De Mille thought that there should be more democratic participation on the part of the leaders, boys and girls and older ones in the school, all working together in the best interests of the Kingdom of Christ.

A second selection by the choir, hymn 118 and prayer and benediction by Rev. E. D. Ford brought to a close one of the most successful conventions ever held in the Seymour and Campbellford district, one in which every person present could not help but catch a glimpse of the great work yet to be done for the Kingdom through the medium of religious education.

WEAK AND NERVOUS.

A Condition Always Due To Thin Watery Blood.

Thin blood and weak nerves generally are found together. Red blooded people seldom complain of nervousness. The reason is that the blood feeds the nerves and keeps them toned up to do the work nature intended. When the blood is thin and weak it fails in this important function and nervous troubles follow. The following case will interest those who need a tonic for the blood and nerves. Mrs. D. Veno, Union Square, N.S., says:—"With a feeling of gratitude I write to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me. I had become badly run down, and reached the stage when I could not do my housework. I was not only weak, but my nerves seemed completely shattered. The least noise would startle me and I was subject to nervous headaches. Worse still, I could not sleep at night. Perhaps I would get an hour or two sleep, and then lie awake for the rest of the night. I had reached a stage when I actually feared I would lose my mind. Up to the time I decided to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, nothing I had taken seemed to do me any good. I got a few boxes of these and soon there was no doubt they were the medicine to help me. As I continued the use o fthe pills I gradually grew stronger, ate better and could sleep at night, and now I am as well and strong as a woman could wish to be. I hope some other weak, nervous person will be benefitted by my experience."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold b yall medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MUSICAL COMEDY.

Present Amusing Play at Petherick's Corners. Stanwood Community Club

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 12.—The Stanwood Community Club staged their musical comedy, "A Riot of Fun," at the Orange Hall, Petherick's Corners on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the local Orange Lodge.

While Miss Audrey Rowe, as the man-hunting widow, and Robert Lisle, as the chore-boy deserve special mention for their comic acting, the whole cas performed in a splendid manner keeping the audience in gales of laughter from start to finish.

This is the first attempt that the Stanwood Club has made along this line and this year's success will spu spur them on to greater things next year so that they will be heard from again in the comedy or dramatic field.

Although most of the people from this vicinity saw the play in Stanwood, a good crowd attended on Tuesday evening and the proceeds were over $27.

BLOSSOM SUNDAY AT MADOC CHURCH

Church Beautifully Decorated For Occasion—Display of Tulips.

MADOC, June 12.—Blossom Sunday was observed at St. Peter's church last Sunday when the fine old edifice was beautitfully decorated with flowers and plants. At the morning service the Sunday school attended in a body and the senior scholars formed the choir Their anthem was "In Our Dear Lord's Garden." Rev. Mr. Marshall's subject was: "Only a Tiny Blossom." In the evening the address was on "Only a Tiny Baby," based on the text, "A little child shall lead them." At this service the regular choristers took their places and a duet was rendered by Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Petit.

A very fine display of tulips was on view in one of the windows of Cross and Company's store last Saturday. Many varieties of color and size were to be seen in these blossoms which drew a crowd of admirers all day. Those exhibiting the flowers were Gavin Wallbridge, Miss Brea Bell, Mrs. G. West, Mrs. W. Whytock, Mrs. Jenkins and Miss J. Mackintosh, all members of the Horticultural Society.

The Young People's Society of the United Church closed with the yearly banquet, the white side being victorious this year. A toast to 'The King' was proposed by Mrs. Marcellus; "to "The Church" by Miss Adams, responded to by Rev. Mr. Foster; to "The League and Its Officers," by Miss Hough, and Mrs. Marcellus; to "The Guests" by Donald Whytock and Hazel Ross. Misses Muriel Rousehorn and Grace Phillips sang a duet; Miss Edith Harris gave a humorous reading; the Misses Ludbrook played a piano duet, and Miss Noyes gave a recitation. The pleasant evening was brought to a close with the Mizpah benediction.

The work of rebuilding the sidewalks on Durham street is progressing. These walks needed repairing and when finished will greatly improve the appearance of the main street.

Thursday has been chosen for the half holiday by the merchants this year and is being observed during the months of July and August.

W.M.S. MEETING AT MILLBROOK

United Church Ladies Decide To Hold District Picnic.

OUTSIDE SPEAKER.

MILLBROOK, June 12. — The June meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the Parsonage, about 50 being in attendance.

During the discussion of business items it was decided to hold a district picnic at Wallace's Point, Otonabee River, and have a speaker from some outside point give a report of the branch meeting to which local auxiliaries no longer send delegates. Invitations will be sent to all the surrounding congregation, whether auxiliaries are organized in these churches or not, and it is hoped the gathering will be profitable and entertaining.

Mrs. Rae read a paper, "They Say So," from the Women's Prohibition Union Committee of Ontario, refuting the commonly made statement that drinking has increased under the O.T.A.

Mrs. Rea and Mrs. Howard were appointed delegates from the W.M.A. to the county temperance convention to be held at Orono on Friday, June 11, at 2 p.m. Misses Hetherington and Luxon are the delegates from the Young People's Society.

Mrs. A. J. Brown, convenor of the "Watch Tower," called for reports from two of the "Heralds," Mrs. G. Smith giving items of interest from British Guiana, where unfortunately the grant for mission work has been considerably reduced; and Miss Nellie Finnimore responding to the request for news from Korea and Formosa, giving some interesting information as to the expansion of the hospital activities at Ham Hung, where Miss V. Cardwell is a missionary nurse, as well as other encouraging items.

Mrs. J. Hatherly, convenor of Group A, then took charge, and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds read a devotional leaflet on "The Duty of Prayer," the text being taken from Mark 14. 37-41.

Mrs. J. McKnight took up "The Meaning of Stewardship," Mrs. V. C. Lambert, "The Stewardship of Ability"; Miss Estelle Hetherington, "The Stewardship of Money"; Mrs. Smith, "The Stewardship of Time and Talents," leaving the throught that "the tithe affects the income only, stewardship the whole of life, and one may tithe faithfully and yet come far below being a faithful steward."

A solo, "The Story Must Be Told" by Mrs. H. W. Johnston, was much enjoyed, and the meeting closed with all repeating the W.M.S. watchword: "Not by might, not by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts. This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

The new study book for 1926-27 has just been announced: it is "Moslem Women," and is written by Dr. and Mrs. Zwemer, for the first time a consideration of Moslem conditions being chosen for study.

LEAGUE TRYING TO PREVENT TWO RESIGNATIONS

Fear Loss of Spain and Brazil May Be Price of Germany's Entry.

BRAZIL'S STATEMENT.

Confining Permanent Seats To Powers Opposed To League's Purpose.

GENEVA, June 12 (Canadian Press).—While active diplomatic negotiations will be begun immediately in an effort to prevent Brazil and Spain resigning from the League of Nations, League officials are beginning to realize with some regret that the loss of both countries may be the price that will have to be paid for the admission of Germany to the League which is expected to take place at the September assembly.

The Brazilian document announcing that country's resignation from the League Council declares that to confine the permanent seats of the Council to the big powers is a frontal attack on the pacific aims of the League which was created to make justice prevail in international relations, not through subservance to the stronger powers whose arrogance it was indeed designed to curb.

EXPLORERS LEAVE FOR UNITED STATES

Captain Wilkins May Go Back North in August.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, June 12. —(Canadian Press). —Captain George Hubert Wilkins and four other members of Detroit Arctic Expedition which vainly sought land by flying over Arctic ocean north of Alaska left here to-day on the Alaska Railroad for the States. Wilkins, leader of the Expedition, said he might return in August with new parts for the planes, including new engines. It was suggested that Wilkins might attempt next to find land between Alaska and the North Pole in the region not surveyed when the dirigible Norge flew from Spitzbergen Norway, to Point Barrow.

REPORTS TO CITY COUNCIL

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

The Property Committee reported as follows:

Your committee received tenders for fifty tons of bituminous coal for the city buildings from the following: H. B. Taylor & Son, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, the W. Scott Company, Cooney & Jopling, Hodgson Brothers, McCarthy & Johnston, Peterborough Fuel & Transfer Company and Robert Hicks Company.

We recommend that the tender of H. B. Taylor & Son for 50 tons of Youghiogheny ¾-inch lump bituminous coal at $7.75 per ton, to be delivered at the city building, and market weigh tickets to be furnished, be accepted, provided that the coal is acceptable to the chairman of this committee and the caretaker, and that if it is not acceptable to them the purchase of coal be left to them with power to act.

We received from J. J. Turner & Sons a price of $6.75 for a sewn bunting Union Jack, 9 feet x 4 feet and of $7.90 for a Dominion Ensign. We recommend that the Dominion Ensign be purchased.

We recommend that sanitary conveniences be installed in the house of W. J. Kearns, No. 496 Elm Street, the cost to be paid in five annual instalments with six per cent interest on deferred payments, as recommended by the local Board of Health.

We recommend that the chairman of this committee have the heating boiler in the city building inspected and repaired as may be necessary.

RAILWAYS AND PARKS.

The Railways and Parks Committee reported as follows:

We recommend that the chairman of this committee be authorized to have the path in King Edward Park, from the southwest corner of the park to the bandstand, filled with cinders, and other work done in the park as far as the appropriation for that purpose will cover the expense.

We recommend that the matter of the location of a dressing room at the Inverlea bathing beach and asking for tenders for its construction be left with the chairman.

We recommend that the chairman of this committee be authorized to advertise for tenders for the memorial gate according to the plan submitted, and that the location of the gate be at the Monaghan Road entrance to Jackson Park.

We recommend that the matter of repairing and painting the bandstand in Victoria Park be left with the chairman of this committee.

We recommend that the construction of a cement curbing at the entrance to the bandstand in Victoria Park be left with the chairman of this committee.

We recommend that the request of the Peterborough Baseball and Athletic Association to be given the use of the James Stevenson Park for three exhibition games free be left with the chairman of this committee.

Your committee received the following tenders for the construction of a dressing room at the Inverlea Bathing Beach: Thos. Boyle, $360; F. Barrett, $333; H. T. Hickey, $348; F. Dummitt, $326; Russell Henry, $340.

We recommend that the tender of F. Dummitt be accepted.

We received the following applications for the position of caretaker at the bathing beaches—Inverlea Bathing Beach: A. J. Harran, with boat, $30 a week; A. J. Morrison, with boat, as soon as possible, $25 a week; F. Laronde, with boat, $25 a week, at either bathing beach; Ward Macdonald, with boat, if necessary, $20 a week; Geo. Ayotte, without boat, $20 a week; Geo. W. Ross, $15 a week.

We recommend that the supervision of the Inverlea bathing beach be given to Ward Macdonald, he to provide a boat, and that F. Laronde be given the supervision of the Lake Street bathing beach, provided he will accept $20 a week and furnish a boat.

We recommend that the chairman of this committee be authorized to have the new dressing room at Inverlea insured and have a summerwater service laid to the dressing rooms at Inverlea and to ascertain the difference in the cost of a concrete floor and a wooden floor in the new dressing room and have a concrete floor laid in it if he deems it advisable.

That the chairman of this committee communicate with the owners of a new steamer to be put on a route across Lake Ontario and also with the Port Hope authorities and other interested parties with a view to having this steamer make Port Hope a port of call and the first port of call.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The Board of Works reported as follows:

We received from the city engineer a report giving the prices he had received from five firms on the pumping equipment for the Simcoe Street sewage pumping plant, which is attached to this report. The city engineer recommended the purchase of the Babcock-Wilcox and Goldie-McCullough Company's equipment, and we recommend that the chairman of this board and the city engineer be authorized to purchase this equipment as recommended by the city engineer.

We recommend that the petition that Auburn Street be oiled be referred to the chairman and the city engineer with power to act.

We recommend that a letter from the city solicitor enclosing one from J. J. Turner & Sons, saying that they did not need to sign the bond in regard to advertising boards as they had no illuminated boards, be received.

We recommend that notice be given of the intention of the council to construct cement sidewalks on the west side of the Monaghan Road from Homewood Avenue to Gilmour Street and on the south side of Homewood Avenue from the Monaghan Road to Albertus Avenue as local improvements under Section 9 of the Local Improvement Act.

With reference to a complaint regarding the condition of the street at 592 Sherbrooke Street, we recommend that a reply be sent that the council is proceeding with the work of extending the main drain as fast as possible and that the matter referred to will be attended to as soon a sit can be done.

We recommend that a letter from J. H. Meharry for a sidewalk on the north side of Victoria Avenue be referred to the chairman and the city engineer for a report.

We recommend that the chairman and the city engineer be requested to look into the condition of the sidewalks on the east and west sides of Park Street at the Canadian General Electric Company's works and have the necessary repairs made.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The Committee of the Whole Council reported as follows:

Your committee, at a meeting on May 27, 1926, had a conference with Messrs. F. A. Gaby, chief engineer, R. T. Jeffrey, W. R. Robertson and T. U. Fairbairn, of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, in regard to the street railway, operation of busses and the gas plant. The Hydro-Electric Commission officials said that they would send in writing information which was given verbally and your committee recommends that this committee go into the whole matter further and report to the council and that the council then decide whether to submit the purchase of the utilities to the electors.

CURBING COMMITTEE.

The special committee in regard to the construction of curbing on streets reported and recommended as follows:

That the city pay for the cost of the construction of curbing at street intersections, opposite exempt properties and allowances for flankages, and that the balance of the cost be paid by the abutting properties.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee reported as follows:

Your committee accepted the tender of the Cressman Company for two officers' uniforms and extra trousers, cloth No. 7330, for $103.74, and for 19 firemen's suits and extra trousers, cloth No. 848A, for $815.10.

Your committee accepted the tender of Grafton & Company for 17 overcoats for the firemen, cloth No. 995, at $28.75 each, and for two overcoats for officers, cloth No. 6621, at $34.00 each.

Your committee accepted the tender of the Cressman Company for 64 blue shirts, Tooke brand, for the firemen as per sample, for $124.80, and for 20 officers' shirts, as per sample, for $48.75.

We recommend that the matter of ordering a light east of the bridge over the canal near the lake be left with the chairman of this committee with power to act.

Your committee gave instructions that the property owners on McFarlane Avenue be informed that the council is considering the placing of a hydrant on that street at the top of the first hill, and having a watermain laid for that purpose, and that if they have any objection to this being done they should let it be known before this meeting of the council.

We recommend that the purchase of caps for the members of the Fire Department be left with the chairman and the chief of the department.

Your committee asked for tender for sixty-five tons of three-quarter lump steam coal for the fire hall and the tender of J. E. A. Fitzgerald at $7.30 a ton has been accepted.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committee reported and recommended as follows:

That a letter from the Toronto Globe in regard to advertising in a summer resort and tourist number be received.

That an account which had been sent to the executors of the estate of the late Louis Wilson be withdrawn and the matter left with the mayor and the city solicitor to make the best settlement they can on behalf of the city.

That the chairman of this committee, the mayor and Alderman Ackerman be a committee with authority to procure advertising tags to furnish to shippers and cards to be given to tourists.

That the following accounts be paid: Adamson & Dobbin, $19.93; Bell Telephone Company, $50.94; George A. Brenton, $637; A. Brown & Company, $2.31; E. J. Cadd, $30.60; Canadian National Telegraph, 33c; Canadian Tent & Awning Company, $5.40; Canadian Pacific Railway Company, $51.00; John Date, $9.70; Duffus Motor Sales, $20.76; Durant & Star Service, $1.40; Fitzgerald & Company, $10.50; D. EXPLOSION IN BARRIE CHURCH

St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church Slightly Damaged During Night.

JOISTS SHATTERED.

BARRIE, June 12 (Canadian Press).—An attempt to blow up St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church was made here on Thursday night. Fortunately it did not result in very heavy damage. Shortly before midnight a number of people in the vicinity heard a heavy explosion, but the cause of it was not discovered until yesterday. The explosive was set apparently against the brick wall of the furnace room. A half dozen bricks were blown away and a number of joists shattered. A hole about four feet square in the centre aisle was blown clean out, while the flooring around the opening for a number of feet was torn.

WOMAN SUCCUMBS TO HER INJURIES

Dies as Result of Burns Received In Her Home at Hull.

OTTAWA, June 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Yves Fortin, 62, who jumped from an upstairs window of her home in hull, when it took fire at midnight, June 2, died this morning from the burns and other injuries she received.

PIANO RECITAL.

Young Pupils of Miss Olga Fowler Give Good Programme.

There was a good attendance in the Hall of the Conservatory of Music, last evening, for a recital by the piano pupils of Miss Olga Fowler. The pupils, the majority of whom are juniors, most of them playing from memory, gave a creditable account of themselves and of the excellent training of their teacher. Their pleasant tone was one of the outstanding attributes of their music. They were assisted by vocal numbers rendered by Miss Jean Padget, a pupil of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park. The programme was as follows:

"Sonatina in F," played by Tuna Hart; "Skipping," by Margaret Stinson; "Tulip," by Karl Monk of Bethany; "Petite Valse," by Ellen Kincaide of Bethany; "Goblin's Frolic," by Isabel Sisson of Bethany; "Sonatina," by Ruth Smith; 'Scale Waltz,' by Pearl Swanson of Bethany; "Sonatina," by Beatrice Darroch of Bethany; "Minuet in G," by Leslie Welsh "Village Danse," by Jack Gimblett; "Moderato," by Clayton Card of Bethany; "A Curious Story," by Muriel Patterson of Bethany; "Merry Peasant" by Patricia Poulter of Bethany; "Morning Prayer," by Margaret Emmerson; "In the Park" March, by Barbara Dawson; "Doll's Dream," by Leone Dawe of Bethany "Hide and Seek," by Wilma Beer of Bethany; "Valse" and "Prelude," by Helen Crearer of Bethany; "Sonatina," by Leone Magee; "Two-Part Invention," by Pauline Darroch of Bethany; "La Parisienne," by Muriel Scott; "Minuette from Sonata opus 49," by May Smith of Bethany; "Gypsy Rondo, by Robert Sisson of Bethany; "Valse Caprice," by Jean Scott; "Elfin Dance," by Thelma Mealing; "Les Myrtles," by Dorothy Gavine; "Tarantelle" and "Valse" by Winnie Dawe of Bethany; 'Valse' Brillante," by Helen Patton of Bethany; and "Caprice," by Evelyn Bigelow of Bethany.

PNEUMONIA SERUM MAY BE PERFECTED

Philadelphia Doctor Has Worked Six Years in Perfecting It.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12. —(Canadian Press.)— Hope for the early perfection of a serum to effectively combat pneumonia is held out by the delegates attending the convention of the American Therapeutic Society. Six years' laboratory work has convinced Dr. F. M. Huntoon, of this city, that the serum is already highly effective and he predicted that it soon would be perfected to such an extent that the mortality from pneumonia would be reduced to not more than five per cent.

TORONTO BUSINESS MAN COMES HERE

Randall W. Jupp Has Entered Santiary Ice Supply as Partner.

Peterborough citizens will welcome as a resident here Randall W. Jupp, formerly of the A. E. Jupp Construction Company, Toronto, who has associated himself with Reg. H. Turner in the Sanitary Ice Supply, under a partnership arrangement made a short while ago.

Mr. Jupp was prominent in athletics in Toronto, but owing to a recent injury to his knee is out of sports at present.

The excellent service Sanitary Ice Supply has been giving will be supplemented by the addition of Mr. Jupp to the organization, assuring the public of continuity and permanency of service.

With the installation of a clarifier clear ice will be delivered in about two weeks. Mr. Turner says it will not be any purer than that supplied now but it will be as clear as some users wished.

DANCE WELL ATTENDED.

Football Players of Pontypool Were Hosts—Pontypool News.

PONTYPOOL, June 12.—The Dance under the auspices of the Football Club was well attended, Edgerton's four-piece orchestra furnishing the music for the occasion. On the following night the Football Team met Kirby in the Memorial Park for their first league game. The score was a tie 0-0. Liskard and Lotus, the other two teams in this league, met on Saturday night, Lotus being the winners, 1-0. By all appearances there is going to be a lively time in this league for this season.

Quite a number from here attended the funeral of the late Wilbur Henry, held in Orono on Thursday last. He had been in poor health for a long time and passed away in a Toronto Hospital. Mr. Henry was well-known here, being an agent. He also farmed here for a few years. He was a member of L.O.L. 82, and Sir Sam Hughes R.B.P.M. No. 1063, of which he was a charter member. Both lodges were present at the funeral, the service being in charge of R. B. Preceptory: Mr. J. J. Richardson, Past Preceptor of R.B.P. No. 1063 and Mr. H. M. Richardson, W. Master of L.O.L. No. 1063, and Mr. H. M. Richardson, W. Master of L.O.L. No. 82, were bearers, representing the two lodges. Before moving to Toronto, the late Mr. Henry was a resident of Peterborough for a few years. Mr. Henry leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

A large number of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Taylor formed a surprise party on Thursday night last and gathered at their home on the tenth anniversary of their wedding day. Mr. W. H. Hooper acted as chairman for the occasion and called on Miss Florence Harris, who read an address which went to show the esteem the community had for Mr. and Mrs. Taylor. They were then presented with two large chairs and table. Mr. Taylor thanked them very much for their kindness and hoped they would all enjoy themselves during the evening. Short speeches were then made by Messrs. Peter Walker, Chas. Harris and P. M. Richardson. A recitation, The Shooting of Dan McGrew," was given by Mr. Jack Payne. Mr. Taylor is a member of the Pontypool Ball Team and also a Violin player in the local orchestra, and is known to be a lover of good, clean sport. A dainty lunch was served by the ladies, after which the light fantastic was engaged in until the wee small hours of the morning.

The anniversary services of the United Church were held here on Sunday at 2.30 and 7.00 p.m., Rev. Totten, of Cavan, being the pastor for the occasion. Music was furnished by the Bethany Choir in its usual capable manner. On Monday evening the play, Willowdale," was given by the Cavan Young People in the Orange Hall. All the actors did justice to their parts and the play was enjoyed by all present. Songs and instrumentals were given by the visiting company between acts. In the evening a soft ball game between the local girls and Blackstock ladies was played, the visitors being victorious by the score of 14-4. The local team was a little off color, but the game was not as one sided as the score would indicate. The features of the game were a home run by E. Scott and a nice catch of a hot drive by L. Killett. The line-up was —Pontypool Mae Trick, p.: Ella Scott, c.: Marjorie Voysey, 1b.: Lily Barwell, 2b.: Ruby Gray, 3b.: Lizzie Killett, s.s.: Esther Trick, r.f.: Bertha Cairns, c.f., and Ella Wright, l.f.: M. Trading Market Firm On Quiet Stock Exchange

TORONTO, June 12. — (Canadian Press.)—Trading was comparatively quiet at the week end session of the Toronto Exchange with market generally firm and trading featureless. Four industrials, Brazilian Tractor, British Columbia Fishing, F. N. Burt common and Bell Telephone were the most active stocks, while there was also considerable activity in International Nickel. Brazilian showed fractional decline from yesterday's close of 98 with a high of 97 3-4 and a low of 97 3-8. Fishing shares showed a net gain of 1-8, closing at high of 68 18. F. N. Burt common showed unusual activity, opening 1-8 higher at 56 1-8, but easing off to a low of 55. Among the unlisted stocks Teck Hughes was the most active, gaining two points, Noranda was off eight points.

Wheat Prices Recede As Harvesting Proceeds

CHICAGO, Ills., June 12.—(Canadian Press). — Prices receded today after showing strength at the start, with harvest expected to be in full swing throughout Southern Kansas on Monday, wheat holders in position to realize profits were quick in seizing an opportunity to sell out here when prices bulged. Starting unchanged to half cent higher, wheat soon underwent material setback all round. Corn and Oats weakened also. Corn opening unchanged to 3-8 cents off and undergoing moderate general decline. Provisions were lower. Chicago wheat at present is 25 to 30 cents under Liverpool, apparently promising stable basis now for export business.

New Record For Year Made By General Motors

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 12. — (Canadian Press.)—Upward movement of stock prices proceeded with renewed vigor in today's market session. Favored by constructive news from the railroad and manufacturing field, recognized leaders in these groups headed an advance which gained sufficient momentum to force hurried short covering in a number of issues.

Heavy buying of General Motors, which carried that stock to a new top price for the year at 138, was based on indications that automobile buying had continued at high rate into June. At the same time United States' steel spurted up two points to 136 within 2 1-2 points of the 1926 high record.

Woolworth rallied more than 3 points and gains of 1 to 2 3-4 were recorded by Montgomery Ward and the American Woollen issues. Constructive operations were carried forward in many of the leading rail stocks, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, Southern Railway and Atlantic Coast Line reaching the best levels on the current movement.

Hollinger Makes Advance Active Week End Closing

TORONTO, Ont., June 12. Canadian Press. — An upward tendency was noticed in the trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, strength being shown in several issues. It was a fairly active week end closing with sales totalling 131,648. Hollinger Consolidated was strongest stock with a net advance for the day of 35c per share. After opening up 20 points at 19.70, it reached high of 19.85, which figure it maintained to end of the session. Lake Shore showed a net advance for day of 20c, stock closing at high mark of 11.50. Gold Hill exhibited considerable activity and after opening at previous close of 50 eased off half point to 49 1-2. Beaver was up 2 1-2 to 75, while Vipond also showed net advance of 2 points. Teck Hughes was up one point to 361.

OVER 92 PER CENT. OF 'HOOCH' POISON

A chemical warfare is ravaging the bodies of millions of Americans, threatening the general health of the nation. Millions of Americans are daily poisoning themselves by drinking the deadly chemical concoctions developed as substitutes for the conventional alcoholic beverages taken away by prohibition, writes Donald Wilhelm in Popular Science Monthly for July.

Government officials estimate that 600,000 gallons of industrial alcohol denatured with many poisonous substances are renatured annually by bootleggers—three and one-half billions of dollars' worth of "hooch" at five dollars a quart!

As much again probably is being made "from the ground up"—that is by distillation. About forty million dollars worth, the Department of Commerce estimates, is being smuggled across our 17,500 miles of border line. All of this latter, except an occasional bottle, is made synthetically in Canada or on Rum Row ships, or, if genuine, is diluted — "cut"—before it is put on the market.

The result is that goverment chemists in twenty-two division laboratories in as many parts of the country engaged continuously with nothing except the analysis of seized liquor iod of time. Among other poisons of hooch from ninety-two of 100 not only are not up to the old-time standard of whiskey, but are actually rank poison.

In other words, wherever you drink in the United States these days your chances of obtaining "real stuff" are never better than eight in a hundred!

Our public hospitals, private sanitariums and doctors every day are treating men and women prostrated or blinded by wood alcohol, or suffering from the cumulative effect of small quantities used over a period o ftime. Among other poisons found in modern "hooch" there is amyl alcohol—seven kinds—any of them five times more poisonous than ethyl or grain alcohol. But the most popular nowadays is commonly known as fusel oil.

Fusel oil is formed in fermentation Unless you know more about chemistry than chemists and more about quantity production of liquors than distillers, the only way you can rid new liquor of fusel oil is to age it, as long as twenty years, in charred barrels. And our modern hooch isn't aged. It isn't made in distilleries under government supervision. It isn't except in rare instances made under the direction of chemists. It is made mostly by ignorant, irresponsible people from ensilage fermented for cattle; from solidified fuel alcohol; from derivatives of soap connived in a city factory. It is made in swamps and mountain fastnesses where stagnant water is used in the mash and where the mash is exposed to bacteria.

Lye has been used to hasten fermentation, pomanganate of potash, a deadly poison, has ben used to "age" the product. Creosote is used to give it a "bead." It is made in dingy cellars, tenements attics, garages, homes, in laundry and bath tubs, in stills devised from auto parts, and other old metal. And the results are known from hospitals and sanitariums, from doctors, from insurance company reports, and from other authoritatives sources.

Of German invention is a rubber collar that, worn deflated, protects a bathers' neck and shoulders from sunburn, and inflated serves as a buoy to support a person's head in water.

GEORGE DWYER ASSERTS THAT

you had the horses, but it was no use in working with your hands in the country.

Boy Always Delicate

John had always been a very slim child. He had never filled out. His mother had raised him on the bottle. John had fever and bronchitis and was troubled with his stomach. John did not seem to have any colds during the winter.

Mr. Little advised him to go to Dr. Holdcroft on the boy's behalf. Witness replied that he did not like to go for Dr Holdcroft, as he still owed the doctor $25. He told Little he had been to Dr. Sutton.

Had Three Horses

He had three horses. They were good horses worth about $100 each. He would not pay $100 for one of them; it was aged. He got about $300 for wood during the three months. He liked to see the horses in good condition They had to be in good condition to do the work. He did not work the three horses every day. He worked two a day. Sometimes the food was down and was scarce He sometimes had scarcely enough hay and oats. After the bills were paid, he gave what was left over to his wife for the home.

He recognized the boys were losing flesh. He looked after the home as well as the horses. One of the horses was pretty near as thin as the children. It was not quite so thin.

When he was in Norwood, the lads were in the woods, getting ready the next load. They had bread cake, and butter They had not always butter. He bought the rubbers for her three little children and a pair for himself. He did not know the boy's feet were frozen. Mrs. Dwyer did not tell him. Neither of the lads told him. He could not explain the reason. They had good rubbers. They were the proper size, but their mother would not allow them to wear the rubbers.

No Influence in Home.

He had practically no influence in the home. She dominated him. She had her own way. He knew she was giving her own children better food than the others. He had said it had to stop. He could not see to it, that this thing was stopped. He could nt help himself. He did not see Dr. Holdcroft in the house. He knew Dr. Holdcroft was there. He did not direct that the doctor should come. He saw the boy before he went to see Dr. Sutton on February 19. The boy was not unconscious. He recognized the boy was losing ground. Witness here interposed that he was talking of February 17. On the night of February 19, on returning from seeing Dr. Sutton, he asked how the boy was, and Mrs. Dwyer said he seemed better. "If Dr. Holdcroft came out the nineteenth," said witness, "I've got the dates mixed up." He thought the boy seemed to be about the same. He asked his wife what Dr. Holdcroft said. He swore on his oath that his wife told him the doctor said the boy was doing nicely.

Boy Losing Ground.

He himself thought the boy was losing ground. He did not remember if his wife told him Dr. Holdcroft had suggested the boy should be placed in an institution. Witness said he himself had worked in the woods at 11 years of age. George was more rugged than John. He never asked the boys or Nellie to water the horse. The boys were not working at the time they took the mumps. They had been attending school before that. He had worked himself in the woods, on food like that of the lads. He recognized the conditions were likely to lead to fatal results. "Being afraid of your wife you allowed this to go on? You took no other steps to stop it." I couldn't!

Miss I. Gardner.

Miss I. Gardner said she taught school last fall in Belmont. The Dwyer children went there. The children were dressed as well as the other children. She thought the children had as good a lunch as the other children. She had not given much consideration to the possibilities of the people making a living from the land. Some of it was good, but other parts were rugged. George did not come back after he had the mumps. John came back one morning. He was ever so much thinner. One could tell that Nellie had been sick, but there was not such a marked change in her condition as there was in John.

Dr. A. W. McPherson.

Dr. A. W. McPherson said he had been practising since 1908. He had taken special courses in children's diseases at the Sick Children's Hospital at Toronto. He had heard all the medical testimony with the exception of the first part of Dr. Holdcroft's evidence. He saw the boy only once—just after he was brought to the hospital. He said starvation was a term conveying different meanings to different people.

He had a great deal of respect for Dr Erb's qualifications He put great faith in Dr Erb's report He had heard read out the part which stated that inasmuch as streptoccic meningitis was an acute disease, the boy's wastage could not be attributed to that or any other disease In answer to Mr MacKay: He agreed with the first part of the statement, but would not say whether Dr Erb was absolutely right or wrong in the second Witness was proceeding to amplify this statement, but was stopped by counsel.

Dr. McPherson said that the statement of Dr. Erb that the wastage was no attributable to meningitis or any other disease, was the opinion of the pathologist, not the children's specialist. He regarded a boy of 13 years as a child. A man was a grown up child. There was a great gulf between those states and infancy. He had heard the opinion of Dr. Holdcroft that he believed the boy may have had meningitis for a week before being attended. Dr. McPherson believed that some considerable degree of emaciation could take place under that condition as the powers of assimilation would be nil.

He thought that John's greater degree of emaciation could be due to lack of food, disturbed digestion, faulty assimilation, or some chronic disease not recognized in the postmortem. He did not think a boy would do so well on a food of a great degree of sameness, than on one of greater variety. The loss of weight could be due to absence of food and to the fact that the excretions of the body were greater than the intake There were not many disease that could not be recognized. Diabetes or syphilis might not be recognized in a post mortem. In answer to Mr. Strickland, witness said these diseases would waste the body.

Mrs. Dwyer Recalled

Mary Dwyer recalled to the witness box by Mr. MacKay, said her husband was not afraid of her. She did what he told her to. She did not get her own way all the time. In some things—the housework—she got her own way. She got the meals ready. Sometimes Nellie got them ready. Her husband was often in for dinner. In rainy and stormy days he was in the house. She distributed the food aright among the children.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS INFORMED OF CUT

Told That Budget Proposals On Car Duties Have Passed.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12 (Canadian Press). — A memorandum has been sent to all Customs officers, informing them that the budget proposals reducing the Customs duties on American automobiles have been adopted by Parliament. The bill covering these proposals which reduced the Customs duties on American cars valued at over $1,200 from 35 to 27½ per cent. and those valued at under $1,200 from 35 to 20 per cent., has passed both Commons and Senate. The reduced tariffs have, however, been in effect from the time Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, introduced the budget on April 15, but subject to refunds had the proposals not been accepted by Parliament.

HOW TO MAKE A CAMP MATTRESS

A mattress for use on a small camp cot may be made from squares of excelsior packing, such as are found in egg cases, and cotton batting, inclosed in a khaki drill cover. The mattress is light and comfortable and makes a small roll for packing.

Cut the cotton batting to the length and width desired and lay squares of excelsior on top; then place another layer of cotton on top of the excelsior. Using a large needle and twine, tie all together, just as oldtime quilts were fastened, spacing the knots about eight inches apart. Then make the cover and repeat the tying process, so that the mattress will hold its shape under rough usage. — Popular Science Monthly.

Patterns of Progress

An American home—its bathtub, breakfast foods, furnace—set down in the heart of Europe would be unmistakably an American home. An American man—the cut of his coat, the tie of his tie, the comb of his hair—walking the streets of Europe is in all his obvious tastes an American.

Advertisements stamp American homes and owners of homes with a kind of national pattern. They create desire for the same kind of things; make particular people know and want the most advanced of things. Homes—what to put in homes. People—how to dress, nourish, entertain the people. Offices—how to equip and operate offices. They set America right about radios and talcums—tell businessmen, housewives, government officials how to brush their teeth!

We cut the pattern of our personal lives and surroundings from advertisements. We keep modern only with their intimate help. We go forward with them, as we would stand still without them. We form our tastes and discriminate values by using their truths. Advertisements offer us patterns of progress that mean quick steps to the fore.

Keep pace with progress by reading the advertisements every day

MORE ON SUMMER READING

Today I promised a list of "meatier" summer books than those given yesterday—the books you "ought to read," the books that will improve your mind, give your club conversational food—well—

Try "Why We Behave Like Human Beings," by Dorsey; "New Decalog of Science," by Wiggin; "Our Times," by Mark Sullivan; "The Mauve Decade," by Thomas Beer; "Microbe Hunters," by Paul de Kruif; "The Voyage of the Arcturus," by Beebe; "Some Washington Ladies," by Meade Minnegerode; Carl Sandburg's "The Prairie Years;" "Memories," by Dame Melba; "Book on Marriage," by Count Kreyserling.

THE SCARF'S THE THING.

It all depends on how the scarf is tied this year. The same old scarf of yesteryear which flew airily 'neath the coat, may become a modish thing of beauty if tied into a stock effect, a four-in-hand, or a soft and jaunty bow at the side. Even the old Deauville scarf manner of weafing it swaggerishly a la bandana is seen on sport frocks.

WAGES AND PAPAS.

Papa should be given a higher wage than the man without children, according to Professor Paul H. Douglas. He believes that married men with children are underpaid today and that bachelors and married men without children are being overpaid. This would mean a wage slash for most workers, as only 22 per cent. of them are workers with children. Make your own comment.

I would opine that this would work for the glorification of parenthood only and the ignoring of human functions which contribute fully as much or more to the movement of the race. Count up our bachelor public servants who, penalized for lack of children by low incomes, would have been deprived the opportunity of education and leisure permitting them to perfect their art or business and thus contribute to the world. A kid or so is nice. But so is a great book or painting or law.

HAIR BLEACH.

Many a brunette has startled her friends who said goodnight to her, by saying goodmorning to them as a gorgeous red-gold blonde. The answer is "peroxide bleach." One can always be spotted. Take it two ways. But a combination of equal quantity of peroxide and ammonia can bleach out superfluous hair, making it almost unnoticeable.

HER BOY.

"My boy is handy with tools, and his father and I think that if we let him learn right he might do good things along designing lines. Do you know of any book told in child's language that would interest him in furniture making?"

I do! "Carpentry for Beginners," by Adams; "Makers of Many Things," by Tappan; "When Mother Lets Us Carpenter," by Adams.

LIGHT MENUS.

For a table party menu, any of these combinations work as well as the w. k. ham and eggs or pork and beans; Tomato rarebit, saltines, pickles, coffee; baked beans, Boston brown bread, olives, cheese, crackers, coffee; shrimp salad, saltines, salted nuts, coffee; creamed chicken in patty shells, potato chips, sweet pickles, coffee.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

THE WHITE FILLING.

You do not care for gold in your front teeth perhaps, so you tell your dentist when he finds that cavity, that you wan a white filling inserted in your tooth.

Then what does he give you?

The filling that he probably inserts in this case is a silicate, which is a fused combination in which silicon and alumina are the chief components.

And what is silicon?

Next to oxygen, it is the most abundant element contained in the solid crust of the earth, forming twenty-eight per cent of its bulk. Granite, clay, sandstone, and many other mineral formations contain silicon.

Now, ask you, is this silicate filling going to last or will it dissolve out readily? And you fear, too, that it might change in shade, becoming darker and unsightly?

Unfortunately, before the manufacturers had attained to the present-day standards of perfection in this product, the silicates did not 'stand up,' tending to discolor, and to dissolve out before they had rendered a fair service.

But where properly manipulated in its insertion, the silicate today is not greatly affected by the mouth fluids,and can rightly be classed among the more permanent fillings.

Obviously, the chief advantage of this type of filling is its inconspicuousness in the mouth, and its possibilities in this regard are limitless since the silicates are being made in such an array of shades that practically any tooth can be closely matched.

Then, too, its ease of insertion has helped to increase its growing popularity with both patient and dentist. However, this is not to say that care in manipulation is not required, for its cavity preparation demands the same thoroughness in operative technique as does the more laboriously inserted gold foil filling.

There is this disadvantage, however, with the silicate that where placed too near pulp tissue (as in large or deep cavities) there exists the danger of pulp death, due to injury from the acid content of the filling mixture. The more reason then—that all cavities should be filled while still small.

Two-Piece Frocks Are the Greatest Common Divisor of Fashion

For that colt-like age that begins at eight and seems to be all legs and lost teeth and susceptibility to germs and slang, clothes are especially important. The right styles and the right colors help tremendously. The two-piece frock illustrated is very becoming to most growing-up girls, for the straight blouse and easy width of the box-plaited skirt help to conceal the thinning-out process. Plain cotton broadcloth or shantung with a check in the collar, pockets and straight skirt make a smart frock. For a nicer dress one can use printed crêpe de Chine or silk crêpe. Flannel with long sleeves is smart for traveling.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

A GENEROUS OFFER.

It is a wonder that sometimes we all don't get tired and think we would be willing to pay the price, Angie," I said. I was thinking of what Mamie had told me in the morning when I said it, however. And I resolved that never again would I find any criticism for the girl who did pay. And never again would I say to myself that under any circumstances which might come to me at any time I myself might not be willing to pay.

However, what I said to Angie was entirely a different matter. I knew she needed bucking up.

My dear girl, I'm not so sure that the boss was going to offer me luxury and leisure. You see he is a little afraid of me—" I stopped short. I was about to blurt out the whole story about Miss Cleaver. It was no wonder that Mr. Robinson had asked me so many times not to tell.

Whether he was going to make that offer or not," I continued, whether or not, as you say, I have to make a choice, I think I am going to choose Joan instead of her father. I never have met a girl I liked so well at first sight. Wasn't it sweet of her to be so nice to me right off the reel. Yes, I'm going to choose Joan."

You can do that," said Angie Horton with a sigh. You have no one depending on you. If it wasn't for mother and my family I would throw up this job tomorrow and try for a better one. I would like to dance professionally. But as it is I am so frightened when I see a new girl coming into this department, it turns me sick. When you came in here, Judy, you cannot imagine how I hated you. I know I have not been doing quite as well lately. My sales have dropped off considerably, but I have been so worried that I haven't slept nights. One cannot work all day if one has no sleep."

Won't you let me help you, Angie:" I asked and my eyes were full of tears, for I realized that beside the troubles of Mamie and Angie and Miss Cleaver I had had no troubles as yet.

I haven't much money, dear, but if twenty-five dollars would help you out I would let you have it until something better turns up for you."

Angie Horton's face brightened and then it became overclouded again. The tears that had been pushed back against her eyeballs overflowed her lashes and went streaming down her check.

Nothing better will ever happen to me, Judy. If I took your money I could never pay it back."

Never mind, dear, if you do not, I'll bring it to you in the morning. And don't you worry any more. We'll have to stick together, you and I." (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

HOME-MAKING HELPS

A CHOICE OF LAMP SHADES.

Lamp shades grow more and more attractive in make and materials.

The "bridge" lamps have floor standards and the shades must harmonize with the style of the standard. Nearly all are shaped like bells or flowers upside down.

A table lamp of yellow glass, with white etched decorations on the hollow base, had the base lighted by a string bulb, which gave a warm yellow light. The shade was of soft yellow tissue, with dainty white snow scenes painted on the panels. The edge was finished with a crystal fringe of white and yellow strands mixed.

An odd-looking shade on a floor lamp is made like a tall Japanese box kite. The four panels are Japanese gauze, painted with familiar phases of the kite flying season in the Orient, the boxing stripes being made of black or red lacquer.

The straight Japanese umbrella shade is rather new and is used over a lantern type of lamp. The shade has a bamboo frame, with painted paper ribs, and there is a great deal of gold used in the painted design. The shade is decidedly larger than that used on other lamps, but is effective and oddly decorative.

Old-fashioned lamp shades of painted porcelain panels set in a brass or bronze frame are back in fashion. Modern shapes make them very attractive. Old-time glass lamps, electrified, are very desirable possessions, with glass shades having crystal drops or with the new plated glazed chintz shades.

One of the prettiest standard bamboo lamps has a bamboo shade, with panels of Chinese gauze, with painted dragons in black and gold. This is very effective when lighted.

A tray for standing baby carriages in, when they are brought into the house dripping with rain, has been patented by a woman in England.

Mrs. Bettie Blanks, of Meridian, who was appointed a court bailiff for the recent session of the county grand jury, has the distinction of being the first Mississippi woman to serve in that capacity.

9 to 0 AND NO DUCKS

Do ducks know arithmetic ?

Maybe they do and maybe they don't, but they certainly know short or quick division, because the movie camera saw them do it.

Listen!

A summer or so ago, when the ducks were just beginning to poke their bills around the corner of the lake, followed by their dozen or more ducklings, I went with a whole flock of cameras and fast boats and guides, hoping to obtain some movie reels of the wild ducks in their native haunts.

We were on a small lake up north, quietly moving along on the water in search of ducks. The engines had big mufflers so that no noise would scare the game, and we figured that, once we would spot the old ducks and their young, the mother at least would remain and try to save the little ones, and we would therefore have a chance to shoot them all up with a camera, but hurt nobody, not even the ducks' feelings, for they soon learn to trust a harmless movie machine, although the noise of the fluttering shutter takes them by surprise.

Well, there we were, all ready, when suddenly one of the guides pointed out a mother and eight little ducks in the middle of the lake. We started to chase them, knowing that the mother would use her wits and try and save them. I have never seen a mother duck desert her helpless little ones. They can race over the water in half flying, half running sort of way, that saves them many a time. Their speed lifts them up, so that not much of them is in the water. So, although they cannot fly, their mother shows them how to make speed anyway. And away the flock went, the mother in the lead. They made a streak of foam on the water.

As we followed them, they circled and headed for the rocky little islands along the rugged shore. They led us in a straight line for the shore, but suddenly separated into two parts.

We had to choose which half to follow, but the four ducklings again devided, and we followed two, then the two divided and we thought sure we would catch up to the one we decided to follow, but it suddenly slipped between two tiny islands, and the answer was nine to nothing by short division.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JUNE 13 AND 14.

Sunday's horoscope holds testimonies of the most auspicious circumstances in all lines of human endeavor. Important change is indicated, with an opening for large projects and new ventures all of which should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is should face a most important year, with new ventures and radical change promising most advantageous circumstances. It should be a time for pushing to the goal of the ambitions with confidence. A child born on this day is under many fortunate stars, forecasting an important and successful life.

Monday's astrological chart presages good fortune in dealing with corporations, new projects or secret societies and in matters of intrigue or diplomacy, but other affairs may meet with setbacks or difficulties. Those in the employment of others are under a doubtful sway.

Those whose birthday it is should succeed in new ventures, in diplomacy, with secret orders, but other things may meet opposition. A child born on this day may be endowed with some singular gifts and should succeed in secret societies, close corporations, in diplomacy or in high art.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Summer is here. Vacation time has arrived. Everybody is making plans for the greatest possible degree of pleasure before Labor Day ushers in a new year of hard work.

A vacation may be a good thing or a bad one. It all depends on how it is used. To a great extent its value depends on how it is begun.

Perhaps you were born on a farm, as I was. You wandered away to the city, but the smell of the clover gets into your nostrils. It makes you homesick for the old home. You rush back and find all hands at the haying or the harvest.

Forgetting that a year or two or five in the city has been a period long enough to weaken your muscles and heart, you go into the fields. Too proud to admit you are soft and unprepared for the work which used to be so easy, you tire your weakened muscles and perhaps seriously strain your heart. You keep at it for fear you will be laughed at by your country relatives.

This experience will do you such harm that it may be months before you are returned to normal condition. I beg of you to avoid this bad beginning of the Summer vacation.

Perhaps you enjoy an occasional game of tennis. The vacation period may tempt you to give over the first day to this attractive sport. In the broiling sun, regardless of fatigue and other handicaps, you keep at it for hours.

The next day your skin is swollen and inflamed. Your muscles are painful. You have a violent headache and a sensitive heart. It will take a week or more of your precious vacation to recover from the effects of the first few hours.

Other vacationists will fill their stomachs with ice cream, cold drinks, rich food and other things, desirable in moderate quantities, but harmful to those who overindulge. In consequence, if you do this, illness may be thrust upon you and several days of the vacation will be spent in bed.

Perhaps you will camp out or take an automobile tour. If you do either make sure you drink no contaminated milk or water. Wayside springs may be dangerous. Uninspected milk supplies may be unhealthful.

If you are in doubt about the food never eat it unless it has been cooked thoroughly. Cooking will destroy the germs of disease.

If you prize my advice you will give heed to the things you do and what you eat and drink. It is wise to exercise this care every day, but certainly it is a mark of real wisdom to bear these things in mind when you plan and take a vacation. If you will do this your playtime will be well spent.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT the newspaper interesting women readers is that of greatest value to the buyer of advertising space. Women control 70 per cent of the purse-strings of the nation. Watch an alert, intelligent woman read her newspaper and draw your own conclusions. She goes through the department store advertising with the same enthusiasm that a baseball addict attacks the sports pages. She lists the things she wants and the places to get them. She plans her shopping trip systematically—to buy most advantageously and to conserve her energy. To her the merchant's message is news.

And after all, all good advertising is news. That does not mean, as some of the press agents seem to think, that all good news is advertising. But advertising does have a definite news value. Anyone who has tried to build up circulation knows that. The whole thing works around in a circle. If the publisher has circulation, he can get advertising; if he has advertising, he can get circulation. Of course he must maintain a balance between news, features and advertising. He cannot afford to have his clientele complain that he is running a magazine instead of a newspaper. He must have an alert news room force to be successful.

He must also sell ideas to the buyers of space. This must be done diplomatically, or the merchant will develop resentment at what appears to him an effort to tell him how to run his business. But if that merchant is wasting the space he buys, the publisher should be honest enough to tell him. For, after all, the merchant will not be a good space customer when he finds that his advertising is not pulling as he expected, and he will place the blame upon the newspaper as a medium, not upon himself as an advertisement writer.

Despite the rapidly increasing numbers of women in business and professional life and in industry, most of them are still chiefly interested in matters concerning the care of children or of a house. Therefore, I believe it wise to seek to make a good part of the paper a "trade journal" for housekeepers. For our reason, just watch a man reading a trade journal pertaining to his particular activity in life. He will read the advertising first.

I believe that by building up a greater appeal to the Nation's housekeepers, a newspaper can increase its efficiency as an advertising medium. The drift of thought among men who have spent their lives in studying advertising is toward greater use of newspaper space. These experts know that all intelligent advertising pays, but have found that the newspapers, with their quick and effective contacts with great numbers of buyers, pay best.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

MRS. TREE TOAD SETTLES A DISPUTE.

The morning was lovely and bright. Mrs. Busy Bee spread her pretty wings and flew away in search of sweet honey. She spied Mrs. Wasp, a newcomer in the meadows, and stopped to chat.

"I suppose you like our meadows?" she inquired. "I never saw so many honey-wells in all my life as we have here."

"Is that so?" drawled Mrs. Wasp, cleaning her legs with her little tongue. "I hadn't noticed. I've been so busy since I've been here. I've finished my house and am laying my eggs now."

"Good," buzzed Mrs. Busy Bee. "I'm mighty glad to hear that. May I ask which tree holds your new home?"

"Tree!" exclaimed Mrs. Wasp. "Why, I never build in a tree. My house is in the ground, under—"

"In the ground! How horrible!" cried Mrs. Busy Bee. "I never heard of a wasp building in a burrow! Of course, it may be all right for some folks, but it must be degrading to always have to live down in the dark ground. You see, we bees love the sunlight. We always choose a light, airy, high spot for our hives."

"So I've heard," replied Mrs. Wasp. "Well, I like the ground much better. It seems much easier to hide the spiders there."

"Hide the spiders!" Mrs. Busy Bee exclaimed. "What in the world do you want to hide spiders for?"

"For my young to feed on," replied

"What a Silly Quarrel!"

Mrs. Wasp. "Do you mean to tell me you bee mothers don't put a spider in with your eggs for the young bees to eat when they hatch out?"

"Gracious, no," replied Mrs. Busy Bee. "My, that's terrible!"

"Not nearly so terrible as letting them starve until they come out into the daylight," retorted Mrs. Wasp. "For every egg, I dig a burrow in the ground five inches deep into which I put a great big hairy spider. What do you leave for your young to eat?"

"Why, the sweetest of pollen made rom the juices of the sweetest flowers, of course," replied Mrs. Busy Bee.

"There, there, you two," croaked a hoarse voice, and old Mother Tree Toad hopped up beside the two friends. "What a silly thing to be quarreling over! What would you say if I told you I went to the pond to drop my eggs every time I want to lay? You'd think I was trying to drown my youngsters, I know. But you'll find as you grow older that everything in this meadow is run just as it should be. It would be a funny world if we all rushed to the pond to lay our eggs, or all hung our nests up among the trees, or all hid them in the ground, now wouldn't it? I don't provide any food for my family. Mr. Bee fixes up a mess of sweet stuff! Mrs. Wasp likes spiders the best. So that's the way things are balanced. Let's all be friends and not question the ways of others. It's a lovely day and a wonderful world!"

"Say!," agreed the two quarreling little mothers. They shook hands and went flying over the meadow together. No one ever hear them discussing house building or egg laying again. They were both glad they didn't have to put their eggs in the pond.

ROSENEATH NEWS

ROSENEATH, June 11.— The Mission Band on Saturday afternoon was fairly well attended. Miss Bertha Clarke took charge of the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Rev. Lovelace. New officers were elected for the year as follows:

President—Evelyn Turner.
Vice-President—Olive Pacey.
Secretary—Bessie Turner.
Treasure—Mary Mouncey.

It was arranged to have a picnic for the next meeting which will be held on Saturday afternoon, July 3, at the residence of Mr. Harry Mouncey.

The Woman's Missionary Society was held in the United church on Tuesday afternoon, with a fairly good attendance considering the rainy weather. The president, Mrs. Wylding conducted the meeting which opened by giving the watch word in unison and singing of the hymn "Go labor on", with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe at the organ, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The W.M.S. devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. George Ingham. Very interesting papers were given by Mrs. F. Talling, Fenella, Mrs. George Mouncey and Mrs. Lily Turner on Canadian nation builders and their missionary work throughout Western Canada. Mrs. Lovelace read "The victory of the Sabbath-keeping Indians." A solo by Mrs. D. Brisbin accompanied by Mrs. Lily Turner, was given. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. M. Davey. In the business transactions it was decided that each appointment would hold a silver tea sometime during the summer months. After the closing hymn and the Mizpath benediction a most refreshing cup of tea was served, with sandwiches, cakes, tarts and pie. The meeting was duly enjoyed by those present.

Mr. Charlie Brown has greatly improved his store property by having the buildings re-shingled.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Nichol and family spent Sunday in Campbellford.

"Proper Food and Exercise," by ARTHUR A. McGOVERN
Former physical director, Cornell Medical College

Daily exercise is best for women

STRENUOUS GAMES OFTEN PRODUCE BAD RESULTS

I RECEIVE a number of inquiries from women readers asking if such and such an exercise is all right for them. This is also true of many men patrons at my gymnasium. They inquire if I think it is all right for their daughters to play hockey, tennis and other strenuous athletic games.

I know a number of girls and young women who indulge in all sorts of intense exercise with benefit. On the other hand, girls who have not been accustomed to exercise of any kind and suddenly plunge into vigorous athletic games are likely to do themselves a great deal of harm.

I am not denying that the girl of today is much better fitted to undertake strenuous exercise than was her mother at the same age, but the fact remains that the feminine physique is more susceptible to injury than is the masculine physique, and that even today women have no such strength as men have.

I admit there are exceptional women who may follow physical activities engaged in mostly by men, but they are few and far between. I think one reason why girls do not develop physically like their brothers can be partially attributed to the result of the niggardly allowance of exercise when they are young. While small boys are climbing trees, playing ball and busying themselves in all sorts of active pastimes, girls of the same age play at quiet games only. The adult man consequently is considerably ahead of the adult woman in muscular development.

An example of the dangers encountered when engaging in rigid competitive exercise is one of my patrons. She is a young New York society woman who for the past ten years has kept in the front rank at tennis. Twice she captured championships. During these ten years the amount of tennis she played was limited only by her capacity of grit and endurance. Today as a result of overplaying, she has a weakened heart, fallen arches and several abdominal conditions.

A word of caution: women who indulge in strenuous physical exercise should provide themselves with proper abdominal supports. Further than that, I believe that girls ought not to engage competitively in such games, as the element of excitement very easily leads to injurious exertion.

The amount and kind of exercise a woman should take should be carefully balanced. It is much wiser to do fifteen minutes of exercise and do it daily than to try to accomplish a great deal of exercise occasionally.

Furthermore, the woman who keeps her body fit by daily exercise will be better fitted to engage in competitive outdoor exercises if she cares to take the risk.

I have just compiled a chart of twelve exercises which are too lengthy to be put in a short article. However, I will be glad to send one of these charts free to any of my readers who will send me a self-addressed stamped envelope.

A Good Reducing Diet

MORNING MEAL: Grapefruit or one peach without sugar, or a sour apple. Fine wheat bread. One soft boiled egg. Coffee substitute.

NOON TIME: A cup of tea (no cream, sugar or milk). A very thin small sandwich of white bread and meat may be taken, but no crackers.

EVENING MEAL: Clear soup. Roasted or broiled beef. Plain rice pudding or junket. Drink at least six glasses of water between meals.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Number Twelve.—
THE MONEY AND THE BASKET TREE.

"We forgot to ask those queer creatures if they had seen anything of Inco and Flops," said Nancy when she and Nick had gotten their breath.

"Oh, well!" said Nick. "I'm sure they were not there anyway. Inco never, never would make up with rubber bathtub toys or Christmas-tree ducks."

At this both the pink tickets stretched up out of the pockets and said, "They weren't there anyway. We told you not to go there."

"But the goats butted us over the wall and we couldn't help it," said Nancy. "Were you going to take us?"

But before either of the pink tickets had time to say a word, Nick grabbed Nancy's arm. "Look!" he cried. "Somebody has lost a lot of pennies."

"And nickels and dimes," declared Nancy dropping on her knees and starting to pick them up as fast as she could.

"And quarters!" shouted Nick. "And half dollars! And here's a whole dollar! This must be Captain Kidd's treasure."

"I can't hold any more," said Nancy. "My pockets are full and both my hands. I wish I had a basket."

She began to look around for something to hold her money, and what should she spy but a tree full of tencent baskets.

Without a word she walked over and picked two, then she came back and handed one to Nick.

"Hurrah!" shouted Nick. "Won't we be rich, Nancy! I'm going to buy the candy store, and the toy store and the movies. And maybe I'll buy an automobile apiece for everybody in the family. How should you like that?"

"If you're going to buy everything I won't have anything left to buy," said Nancy. "I'll get that blue parasol, though, and about ninety picture books and a cute little tennis racket like Anna Jane Snow's. And mebbe I'll buy a canoe and go fishing in the creek, and mebbe I'll buy an aeroplane—"

"You don't need to talk about me being greedy," said Nick crossly, picking up pieces of money and dropping them into his basket like blackberries, or apples, or plums. Indeed his basket was almost full, and the money wasn't half gone yet. "You know I've been wanting a tennis racket and a canoe for a long time. And an aeroplane too, when I'm big enough. And now you've gone and taken everything!"

"I have not," said Nancy. "You gobbled up the toy store and the candy store and the movies without even asking me. And automobiles too. You might have let me buy my own!"

"Children! Children!" said one of the pink tickets sternly, stretching up out of Nancy's pocket and looking at her accusingly with its round pink eyes. "Remember you are in Drowsy Land on the moon. Quarreling is not allowed here. Besides you came to look for your lost friends and not to gather money which only leads to selfishness and trouble. See! It isn't a real joy anyhow. It does not last."

It was true! The money, baskets and everything had disappeared.

THAT'S DIFFERENT.

They sat out in the moonlight, and their hearts were beating fast. No doubt, they both were wond'ring just how long 'twas gonna last. Now quiet ruled supremely, you could tell they were afraid, and each one shushed the other when the slightest sound was made.

The neighbors, in the house next door, were at a window pane, a lookin' and a lookin', but their looks were quite in vain. The fright of both the lovers you can surely understand when you knew one of the neighbors had a shotgun in his hand.

"I guess we'd better beat it," came a whisper, in a breath. The other didn't answer. He was almost scared to death. Another hour they waited. Every minute was intense. And then they made a sudden dash, and cleared the backyard fence.

Another romance blasted 'neath the moon that shines above. 'Twas just because the lovers sat and howled their bloomin' love. The whole world loves a lover is a true thought, now and then. But when they're only alley-cats—it's something else again.

Life resembles a cup of clear water which becomes muddy as we drink it. —Dufresney.

ENGLISH CRICKETERS SELECT STRONG TEAM FOR GAME TO-DAY

Australians Are Apprehensive as to Outcome of Game.

COUNTY EXCITED.

First of Five Games Which Decide Resting Places of "The Ashes."

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Herbert L. Collins, captain of the touring Australian cricketers, who will take the field today at Trent Bridge here in the first Test match of the five-game series, which will decide for another year the repository of "the ashes," mythical emblem of the world's cricket supremacy, "doesn't like the look of it all." This much he confessed yesterday at a luncheon given in honor of the Australians at York. The selection of the English team has worried the Australians, who, at the same time, have encountered a streak of misfortune in losing Hendry, Ponsford and Gregory ust at the critical point of their tour.

"I think England has picked a great side," declared Mr. Collins. "A side which will do credit to England, and to tell the truth I don't like the look of it all."

According to the Australian captain the side is "all head." The selection, he continued, had practically eliminated the "tail" from which England had suffered for several years.

"I'm sure we're going to have a tough fight," he said.

Considerable sympathy is felt here for the Australians, handicapped as they are with three of their outstanding men on the casualty list, and the hope is expressed that these sterling players will soon be able to resume the game. Hendry is not expected to be in shape until the beginning of July.

Meanwhile all England is agog with expectation and the eyes of the whole country are focussed on the cricket ground of Nottinghamshire, where the first Test match will be played. Followers of the game here feel that the apprehensions of the Australian captain are justified, for against their own "gallant eleven" the home country has placed a side that is strong in batting, and equally as strong at the bowling end. With Root, Maurice Tate, Roy Kilner and Fred Woolley undertaking to deliver the ball for England, the visitors are called upon to confront a quartet who are likely to present some difficulty. Root has already worried the Australians and was responsible for crashing their citadel at Bristol two weeks ago. It may be that Woodfull, Andrews, Collins and Macartney have solved the mysteries of Root's bowling, but it is certain that their watchword must be caution.

In alliance with this array of bowlers, England have batsmen of equally strong calibre. Much is expected from the Middlesex contingent, Hendren and Hearne, the former being particularly strong. A. P. F. Chapman in his two turns-out against the visitors this season has done well on each occasion. Fifty-one against them at the Oval and 89 at Bristol were comfortable margins, and should he be in as good form during the Test match, he ought to be a pillar of strength for the Old Country. A. W. Carr, England's captain, has shown up well in club cricket, while Jack Hobbs continues to be his own redoubtable self.

That the Australians are also formidable can not be gainsaid. Supreme in the realm of batsmanship stands W. M. Woodfull, who drives out centuries and near centuries at will, and in this respect he is closely followed by T. J. E. Andrews, less spectacular, perhaps, but equally as sound are Herbert Collins and Warren Bardsley, while Taylor, Ryder and Richardson are men who cannot be trifled with.

NORHAM WINS GAME.

NORHAM, June 12.—The most interesting and hotly contested ball game yet this season was played here on Tuesday evening between Norham and th Warkworth Continuation school. Evgry innings of the eight played was well put over and in only two did either team score more than one run. The players all seemed at their best and bound to win, but from the first it appeared evident the Norham boys would prove too much for the school which went down to its first defeat by a score of six to four. At the end of the eighth innings the game was called on account of darkness and the score stoo das follows:

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor,—

The outstandingest thing that has happened since my last letter is that the Petes has win themselves a ball game. Yes siree they has win themselves a ball game, and right in Belleville too which wasn't never the softest place for our lads to put over a victory. Young Mister Jeff Hardill was the bird that turned the trick and right here I want to tell you that the big kid give them Bellevillians plenty to think about. It might a been difficult for Mister Hardill to locate the plate but it was a darn sight harder for Mister Gerow's boys to locate the ball when he whanged it at them. All p.m. they was crowding the bases singing "Show me the way to go home" but they might as well gone up to the plate without their bats when a hit was needed cause mister Hardill just refused to let them get a real blow in the pinches. He was aided and abetted by no 1 other than mister Max Swanston which come out of his retirement to do the catching Wed. and Peterborough Central Ontario League team without Mister Swanston looks like Hamburg steak with the onions left out and even the Belleville players seemed glad to see him in his unie once more although he didn't give them no cause for rejoicing once the game got under way.

All in all the Petes looked like a real ball team out there Wed. and if they can repeat the same brand of stuff over the next 2 or 3 weeks they'll be up there worrying the heart outa Mister Joe Daley before long. They aint no reason I see why they can't. They got good pitching, the fielding is bound to tighten up and if they get past the stage when 2 hits in a row looks like a batting rally they aint going to provide no more soft games for any man's team.

Speaking of soft games them Ponies aint going to run into nothing more jammy than last Sat's fixture when the Petes wild throwed themselves outa a win. They way the home boys heaved that pill round was scandalous and I understand some of them birds what scan the ball games and manage the team from the Hunter St. bridge is going to petition the council to put up a wire screen along the south side of the 1-2 million dollar white elephant to protect the charity fans from wild tosses. They tell me some of them turned pale when Mister Wolfe heaved 1 in their direction last Saturday. Anyway the boys chucked themselves out of a victory that should a been earned by the good pitching of Messrs. Hardill and Lennox.

HERE IS A KNOTTY PROBLEM

My correspondence, Mac, which don't usually contain nothing but bills and a price list of Niagara wines, this week produced the following:

Mr. Wise Cracker,—Who is the faster, Johnny Ward or Herbie Wolfe?

Have they ever raced over a 100 yards?

Yours for wisdom,
Reader.

Now Mister Sporting Editor there is a question I aint going to try to answer. The 2 named is both nice young fellows what don't waste no time between 2 given points and I aint got no hesitation in telling Reader that if either was matched in a race against Mister Shiner Johnston I wouldn't mind betting six bits or so they'd beat him but further'n that I don't intend to go.

I'm sorry, Mac, I didn't get to see that Danforth-C.G.E. ladies' softball game the other night but even a wise cracker can't be in 2 places at once and I was spending a week in Belleville that afternoon. They all tell me the game was a wow and that the local girls give the Toronto James a tough argument. I see in the paper where some of them birds what come down with the Danforths sez at the banquet that softball is a girls' game and oughta to be left to them. Well this is supposed to be a free country and if the boys want to play too the girls oughtn't to kick. Aaint they wearing our clothes and cutting their hair like ours, if any? So why should they howl if some of the lads want to play a game the girls consider their own? Be reasonable, ladies.

Next week the Kingston Ponies is with us again for a game at the Stevenson Park Sat. They is likely to find the Petes a different aggregation this time because the Belleville victory has perked the boys up a lot and they is full of fight for the games ahead of them which include a repeat visit to Belleville Wed.

These has just begin to fight so the fans should string along with them and give them the support they need in battling up the ladder.

Sportfully yours,
A Wise Cracker.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO

GENE SARAZEN—PRACTICING FOR TOURNAMENTS.

There are various opinions as to the proper way of conditioning oneself for a tournament. Some say you shouldn't play much golf, or more than is necessary. Others believe that the more one plays, the better prepared one is for the conflict.

I believe that you cannot play too much golf: that it is a game which requires constant practice in order to retain the touch. However, there is such a thing as over-doing practice just preceding a tournament.

A champion fighter always watches his opponent in the ring if he can before he meets the challenger. Football coaches scout one another's teams all with the idea of getting an idea of the character of the opponent. A golfer's opponent in medal play is the course.

If it were possible, one should visit the course where the championship is to be played at least a month in advance and put in a lot of practice. But the week preceding the tournament one should take things easy.

SECRETS of STARS on INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

BY ROGER PECKINPAUGH.

Most Valuable Player 1925—American League.

Unless nature has endowed a ball player with a strong throwing arm, it is a mistake for him to select shortstop as the position he desires to master.

No place on the ball field calls for a player to throw from more unusual positions than that of shortstop.

Going from right to left in pursuit of elusive ground balls, he is often forced to throw while on the run and off balance as well.

Just as important as a strong arm is accuracy. One is a gift, the other can be perfected through practice.

Too many shortstops with good arms make the very serious mistake of wasting them by not using their heads in timing the runner to be thrown out.

It is foolish to use as much speed on a slow-running pitcher as on one of the fastest men in the business. Incidentally, to hurry throws, as is necessary on the very fast men, handicaps accuracy, if the ball is heaved across the diamond always in the same manner, regardless of the speed of the batsman.

Proper timing of the runner is essential to the success of any player who seeks to get very far as a shortstop. The moment a batter steps into the box, reach a definite conclusion as to his speed and then handle the ball accordingly.

Knowledge of the speed of the runner is a great help in enabling the shortstop to make the proper play. This is particularly true relative to the chances of getting two men in a possible double play.

Never waste a throw when you are reasonably certain you haven't a chance to get your man. A hurried throw invariably makes for inaccuracy.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnston and daughter Elizabeth, of Michigan visited their aunt, Mrs. Matthew Dickey, Inkerman street on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gajewski of Niagara Falls, N.Y., spent a few days with their aunt, Mrs. L. A. Denike and their uncle, Mr. John Gay.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association now has a membership of 148 clubs.

Masters of hunting packs in England have to pay an annual tax of about two dollars on each hound.

Diamond Disputes Decided

By BILLY EVANS

On a fly ball that is caught, base-runner originally on first, who had ran almost to third, believing the ball would drop safe, failed to touch second on his way back. How can he be retired?

When forced to return to a base to escape being doubled up, as on the caught fly ball, the runner must touch the intervening base or bases in the reverse order.

Failure to do so makes said runner liable to be put out if the team in the field notices the slip.

Said runner can be retired by holding the ball on the base he failed to touch or by touching him with the ball.

BILLY EVANS SAYS.

Hard to Fool.

Age and service don't appear to dim the batting eyes of the big league stars. And, with the exception of the sluggers of the Ruth type, most of the veterans are mighty hard to strike out.

In the American League Joe Sewell was the toughest batter to whiff last season, striking out only four times, and Eddie Collins, despite 20 campaigns in the big show, was second, striking out only eight times.

Collins has a great eye, isn't bothered by any style of pitching, can click a ball on the outside hard to left field, falls away on pitches inside and pull them down the right field foul line a mile a minute.

Collins has a pet superstition which he religiously follows relative to striking out. When he steps to the plate he always has a wad of gum on the button of his cap. The moment he gets two strikes on him he puts it in his mouth and starts chewing it. If he reaches first it immediately is replaced on the button of the cap.

Interesting Facts.

A glance at last year's strikeout column reveals the rather interesting fact that Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, two of the game's greatest batsmen, fell victims to the wiles of the American League pitchers only 12 times. Sam Rice, Washington star, fanned on only 10 occasions.

Johnny McInnis of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who shared first base with George Grantham, always a difficult player to strike out, was fanned only once in the 155 times he came to bat in the National League last season.

Yet, on his very first trip to the plate in the world series, facing Walter Johnson at his best, "Stuffy" looked over three fast ones with hardly time to get his bat off his shoulder.

He struck out twice in the series in 14 trips to the plate, while he was a strikeout victim only once during the season. Peculiar.

Aside from the record of having been struck out only once during the 1925 season, "Stuffy" McInnis boasts another unusual performance. During an entire season of play at first base for Cleveland, he made only one error and that an undeserved one.

Rubber-Bat Rice.

While Sam Rice has a keen pair of eyes, he doesn't get anywhere near the bases on balls one would expect.

This might be explained by saying that once Sam gets the pitcher in the hole he begins picking on every cripple, cuts at every ball that looks good enough to hit.

Rice, with his great speed and the fact that he seems to be in motion as he hits the ball, is a most dangerous batsman. He gets what often appear to be fluke hits, due to these assets.

In American League circles opposing players refer to Rice's bat as being made of rubber. When he steps to the plate one often hears the remark: "Well let us get old 'Rubber-bat'."

Due to the fact that he is hard to fool, hits lots of balls after they seem almost past him, Rice gets many "Texas Leaguers" on balls just out of reach.

Easy to Whiff.

The free-swingers, the slugger-type batsmen, are the easiest to set down on strikes. With them they either do or don't and, when they fail to hit safely, they often are struck out.

Take the three famous sluggers of the New York Yankees—Ruth, Meusel and Gehrig. The Babe whiffed 68 times last season, Meusel 55 and Gehrig 49.

Other free-swingers like McManus of St. Louis, Goslin of Washington, Cuyler of Pittsburgh, Hartnett of Chicago and Kelly of New York all were struck out 50 or more times during the season.

A change of pace on the part of the pitcher, which few sluggers can adapt their style to, in part explains the many strikeouts by players who get distance to their drives.

Modern Pavements Make Feet Tired

The miles and miles of hard surface roadways and side-walks are very wonderful, but, being hard, non-resilient, and excellent conductors of heat and cold, they torture our poor feet unmercifully.

It has been found that if tired, sore feet are bathed in warm water containing a few drops of Absorbine Jr. they will be delightfully cooled and refreshed.

But this is not the only use for Absorbine Jr. It is a liniment, antiseptic, and germicide in one—the handiest, most useful article in the family medicine cabinet.

Not only does it kill germs and prevent infection in open cuts and sores, hastening the healing—not only does it limber up to new freshness, tired, stiff muscles, but as a mouth wash, throat spray or gargle it protects you against wandering disease germs and leaves behind a pleasant, clean taste and odor. $1.25 a bottle at your druggist's.

DARKNESS STOPS LEAGUE FIXTURE

Game Between Trent River and English Line Starts Late.

GOES FOUR INNINGS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12.—The Seymour League baseball fixture between English Line and Trent River was halted Friday night at four innings because of darkness. The start of play was delayed by the Mill-Clerks softball game. The score at the end of the fourth was 6 to 3 for the Trent boys, who got an early lead, but the Line were coming fast, only seemed to lack the necessary punch with men on bases.

Ken. Godden was the heavy slugger, getting a triple and double in two trips while brother Earl got a triple. Atkinson's triple in the first was the main factor in the Trent win driving in two runs After a rather poor start Ibey got control and fanned six of the seven men to face him in the third and fourth innings, walking the other, while he struck out nine altogether in four innings.

Hooper and Quinn, the important Havelock battery, worked well and were given fairly good support. Hooper pulled an unassisted double play in the first with the bases full, effectually killing the Line's chances in that frame.

C. McArthur's running catch of DeCarrol's long fly in the third was the fielding feature. Hooper fanned seven in the four frames and had good control, only hitting one batter and walking none.

As the game did not go the regulation five innings, a replay will be necessary at a date to be set by the executive.

Lineup

Waugh and Foxall were passengers in a car that turned turtle after colliding with another car on the Macleod trail two miles from the city.

NEW STEEL FOR SMALL HOUSES

A light structural steel which can be used in the building of small houses in much the same manner in which heavy beams are used in skyscrapers has been perfected recently by a Pittsburgh manufacturer, says Popular Science Monthly. The new steel, while light in weight, is said to have greater proportional strength than any other steel so far produced. It can be used for floors and roofs as well as for beams.

SCIENTIFIC POINT SCORING FOR GOLF NOT SATISFACTORY

Britisher Disregards Rules of Game, But Wins Out.

TARGET GOLF.

Veterans of Game Play An Old Fashioned Foursome.

MOORE PARK, England, June 12 —(Canadian Press). —Abe Mitchell shot at the pin yesterday and same off with the best score 172, in the innovation of target golf. The Britisher, quiet and steady disregarded the circles around the hols and aimed to get his ball into the cup. He played in his most masterful style to top a field of one-hundred of the world's best and to equal the course record of 69 strokes. After yesterday"s scores under the new system were totalled somebody found an error in Mitchell's count and the markers were wondering last night whether he should not have an extra point making it 173.

C. H. Corless of Dorsetshire was second in yesterday's play with a total of 161, while Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago who has been showing the best of the invaders, had 160. Archie Compson, British professional champion had 134.

The concensus among the contestants after the round was that scientific point scoring is not as good as the old-fashioned method of pounding the ball through the fairways and into the cup in the least number of strokes.

Briefly, in target golf, the players are awarded points for well-directed tee shots, for the accuracy of their approaches through the greens on which are marked three concentric circles and for putting to the bull's eye, which is the cup. Points which can be made range from 6 to 12, depending on the length of the hole and its intricacies.

The scoring is so involved that only the battalions of official markers knew exactly which was happening and and even the officials were not always cognizant of the finer points of the many calculations necessary in making the player's aggregate.

By the unique method of scoring a tee shot falling in the inner circles of a short hole, counted nine points, a shot droping in the middle circle, eight points, and in the outside circle seven. When putts were holed from outer circles a greater count was credited to the player than if the putt was made from nearer the hole. An extra award of four points was made for holing out off the green.

It was a bad day for Walter Hagen, U. S. Professional Champion. He arrived late. Then a heavy rainstorm broke. When he did start, he made a poor showing, scoring only 148.

This afternoon there was an oldfashioned foursome played by a quartette of elderly golfers, Harry Vardon and J. H. Taylor against Jim Baird and Alex Herd. As stylists and masters of every stroke these four are as fine as 20-years ago when they played in the famous Scotland versus England match, but there is a perceptible increase in their waistlines since these days, and a decrease in the length of their drives. Herd and Vardon donned "plus fours" but Braird and Taylor stuck to their long trousers.

The galleries deserted such golfing youngsters as Hagen and Mitchell to watch these veterans whose names are by-words in every golfing household of the world. The match finished all-square, with neither England's nor Scotland's honour sullied.

Sekio Tehara, the first of the Japanese Davis Cup team to arrive in America, is generally regarded as the premier tennis player of Japan. He has won the national championship of that country for two successive years.

WESTCLOX WIN IN CLOSE GAME

Come From Behind in Seventh To Beat Lock Works 6-5.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE.

A last inning rally gave the Westclox team a one run victory over the Lock Works in a Mercantile League game at the Oval last night.

At the end of the sixth inning the score was a tie—3 all. In the first of the seventh the losers stored two runs, but in their half the Clockmakers shoved across three before any men were retired, making the score 6—5. The teams were:

Westclox.—Foley, cf; Barrie, 2b; Lundy, 3b; Delahaye, c; Curry, rf; Masterson, 1b; Jones, ss; Maniece, lf; Woods, p.

SUZANNE SUPREME.

French Player Defeats Mary K. Browne in Straight Sets.

PARIS, June 12 (Canadian Press). —Suzanne Lenglen is still supreme. The great French player to-day defeated Miss Mary K. Browne, thrice United States title-holder, in the singles final of the international hard court tennis championship. The score was 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Browne was able to take only the second game of the first set. She made a gallant stand against her scintillating opponent and scored many beautiful placements by going to the net. Suzanne, however, was unbeatable. She used her famous tactics of running her opponent back and forth along the baseline, seeming to put the ball wherever she wanted it. Rain fell during the entire first set.

McTIGUE WINS.

Former Champion Defeats Buffalo Middleweight at Toronto.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

NORMA TALMADGE IN SURPRISE ROLE.

The Capitol Theatre's next attraction will give photoplay goers what is predicted as the biggest surprise of the year. Screendom's most famous dramatic actress has turned comedian and will open an engagement.

Norma Talmadge is the star, and her latest picture is "Kiki," an elaborate cinema version of a David Belasco stage success. Entirely different from any role she ever portrayed on the screen during her long career, "Kiki' is said to afford Miss Talmadge an ideal vehicle.

The Princess Yetive of Graustark has changed into a Paris street gamin—a ragged short skirted miss, who lives by her wits and bewitching ways. Her adventures carry her into theatrical life and into the homes of the rich. She winds up by —well, she finally realizes her ambition to be "a great lady."

AT THE REGENT

"RUSTLING FOR CUPID" ACTRESS LIKES LIONS BETTER THAN FLEAS.

Anita Stewart Familiar with Both — Found Fleas in Princess' "South Sea" Palace.

Anita Stewart, who has the feminine lead in Fox Films screen version of Peter B. Kynes story, "Rustling for Cupid," prefers lions to fleas. She is familiar with both.

She met her first lion while playing in "Daniel in the Lion's Den" and she found him a likable chap.

She made her most intimate acquaintance with fleas while in the South Seas enacting the role of Tamea in "Never the Twain Shall Meet," and she does not like them.

Miss Stewart met the fleas in the "palace' 'of Princess Tutotura. The Princess placed a 'wing' of her elaborate grass and palm structure at the disposal of the visiting actress. Miss Stewart appreciated the hospitality of Princess Tutotura, but after her first night in the 'Palace' she decided to seek lodgings elsewhere. Then she changed her mind.

Miss Stewart told her South Sea experiences while on location with Fox Films making "Rustling for Cupid" on the Mexican border. It is now showing at the Regent Theatre.

ST. ANDREW'S TROOP.

There was no meeting of the St. Andrew's Troop last night, because of rehearsal for the Sunday School anniversary which takes place tomorrow. Meeting will be held next Friday at 7.30.

Last Saturday the Troop had a treasure hunt, following written directions and maps and Scout signs to "Spear Head Gulch," where the treasure was hidden. The boys had lunch and played games.

FOURTH PETERBORO TROOP.

Friday evening the Fourth Peterboro Troop held their weekly meeting at the Westclox. The meeting opened with the flag and inspection. The Troop then gathered and started on a hike for Wallace Grove. On the way the patrols competed against each other in an observation game. At the Grove the Troop engaged in several games.

The Troop then went on the road for another half-mile, and here they held their Council fire. The boys sang several songs and then made a slight study of the cars. The Scouts then put out the fire after the King had been sung, and started for home. The Owls won this competition with a total of 187. The Crows second with 176, and the Foxes 171½.

Boy Scouts of Hackney, England, tossing one of their fellows in a blanket during an outing in Hadley Woods, Whitsun.

3rd TROOP.

The third troop held their meeting on Thursday night over among the "3 Sisters." Mr. Taylor being away on his holidays, Mr. Latimer, former assistant Scout-master of the 1st Brockville Troop, was in charge. Quite a good attendance turned out and some good games were played "There is a thief in the Camp" was one while a variation of flag raiding caused some great fun and excitement. The meeting broke up at 8.30.

Last Thursday, the meeting was held in the form of a hike to Wallis Grove. Unfortunately there were only a few who could go but those who did go had a real good time.

KNOW THE COMPOSITION OF THE UNION JACK.

The flag of England, while in use previously, was only generally accepted as such in 1274, in the reign of Edward I. Originally, according to tradition, emblazoned on the sur-coats or jacques of the soldiers, it was the custom to hoist one of these jackets on a lance or staff, in order that the nationality of those on board the ship might be recognized. Later a flag of white showing the red cross of St. George was made for this purpose, and called the "English Jack."

The Scottish flag, or Cross of St. Andrew, is quite as significant, and equally rich in tradition and history. The white saltire on a blue background, according to tradition, first having been seen when Achaius, King of the Scots, adopted it for the flag of Scotland. On the eve of going into battle, while he prayed to God and St. Andrew for victory, the cross of St. Andrew appeared in white clouds against the deep blue of the sky: hence the choice of colors.

In 1606, three years after the two kingdoms of England and Scotland were united under one head, the King's Flag or Union Flagge—also called "The Additional Jack"—was designed. It was used to be flown in addition to the respective flags of England and Scotland to indicate the common sovereignty. The diagonal cross of St. Andrew, on a blue field, was added to the English Jack, a white margin being left around the red cross to indicate the white field of the original St. George's flag.

The Irish flag—St. Patrick's cross—was originally thought to have been derived from the first letter of the Greek work for Christ. It has been used, according to tradition, as far back as 411 A. D., although not formally recognized as the national emblem till about 1690.

In the forty-first year of the reign of George III., the Parliament of Ireland was united with that of England and Scotland, and by Royal proclamation George III. caused to be designed, the Union Jack as we now have it, by the addition of the red saltire of St. Patrick to the Union Flagge of James I.

It is of particular importance to notice that when properly hoisted, the broad white cross of St. Andrew is uppermost in the quarters next the staff. In the order of their inclusion in the Union, it is historically inaccurate to have the Jack either constructed otherwise or flown upside down.

In 1892, to distinguish the Canadian from other British merchantmen, the British Commissioners of the Admiralty, issued a warrant permitting the arms of Canada (the four original provinces only), to be inserted in the fly of the red ensign—the new flag being known as the Canadian Union Ensign. This is also commonly called the Citizens' Flag of Canada. As was stated in "The Flag," by Charles P. Band and Emilie L. Stovel, "This flag symbolizes and expresses Canadian constitutional position, for the Union Jack in one quarter indicated our political origin and present affiliation, and declares inviolate fidelity to King and Empire, while the Canadian Arms in the fly gives recognition of independent national life.

Next week I will tell you more about how to fly the Jack, as I consider it just as important to know how to fly it, as to know its composition.

I hear that Troops 3 and 4 went capming over May 24. When I thought of the temperature, I shivered and felt sorry for them, but from all accounts, they had a good time and, what is more, showed us that they are not "fair weather Scouts."

WEEKLY GAME—"WOODEN INDIAN."

All sit in a circle side by side with knees well up and feet braced. The Wooden Indian stands stiffly in center with hands at sides. He falls with body absolutely stiff, and is caught and passed on by one of the players. This continues until some one missesd and the Indian is not passed on. The man who weakens must be the Indian next time.

KILLS HIS WIFE.

Slays Wife and Mother-in-law—Police On Lookout.

SPARTA, June 12 (Canadian Press).—Lucas Slockbower, 22, carpenter, yesterday shot and killed his wife, Edna, and seriously wounded his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Krast, 56, the couple's two children, Edna, 4, and Ruth, 3, told the police. The police are hunting for Slockbower in the wild hills of north-west Jersey.

SEE WHAT'S AHEAD FOR NEXT YEAR

Prediction That 1927 Will Be Year Without Summer Is Predicted.

CHICAGO—Next year, 1927, will be a return of 1816, "the year without a Summer," a growing season with marked crop failures throughout the whole Northern Hemisphere, and it will become necessary for the nations of the world to use their war powers to conserve food and protect their populations from starvation, according to a forecast made by Herbert Janvrin Browne, ocean meteorologist and long range weather forecaster, before 500 students attending the four-day session of the College of Scientific Price Forecasting.—New York Metal Market, June 11, 1926.

CHEMONG IS DESTINED TO BE PICNIC CENTRE OF PTERBORO'

Beautiful Environment Helped By Improvements Free To All Visitors.

MANY FEATURES.

Chemong is coming into its own. Its beauty and its accessibility make it inevitable that Chemong should be the picnic ground of Peterborough, but its development, until this year, has been slow. Cottages have been built in other years, but the purely picnic, or short holiday, worth of the park was not recognized until Messrs. Kimmel and Forler started this spring to clean up the grounds, and build facilities. By the end of the year there will not be a prettier spot in Canada.

As the first of their improvements, Messrs Kimmel and Forler practiced on the Rendezous Pavilion, which has been transformed under their artistic hands. Among the more utilitarian additions is a broad platform extending around the dance hall, a ticket office at the door that enables patrons of the dance to gain entrance without the crowding and waiting of yesteryear, and a sales counter opening outside which caters to people who do not wish to enter the crowed hall.

In the park which surrounds the pavilion there are smooth, well-painted seats that are still in keeping with the semi-wild nature of the surrounding woods. Brush has been trimmed away, tables built in the shade, and flower beds promise to add a touch of color early in summer. Not a piece of paper or fragment of lunch now mars the picnic ground, and it is the aim of the proprieors of the Rendezvous, with the assistance of the visiting public, to keep the grounds immaculate.

Ball Ground.

A field across the roadway from the Rendezvous has been rented by Messrs. Kimmel and Forler, and at great expense of time and money levelled for ball purposes. A hill that spoiled one side has been moved bodily into the hollow which marred the other side, and now there is a level, well-proportioned field for ball games available free of charge to any who make arrangements to use it. This field also offers excellent ground for races and sports of all kinds.

For the smaller children who enjoy trips to Chemong, the partners have provided swings, slides and sand piles under the trees, with convenient seats from which parents can keep watchful eyes on the tiny tots.

There is a pump bring water from a well 80 feet deep. Visitors are invited to use this water or to obtain boiling water for tea at the pavilion. Tables, seats, hot and cold water, swings and other facilities, are all free to the public for family or community or society picnics.

Beautify Grounds.

The old property between Rendezvous and the lake is being cleaned up and planted with flowers and shrubs. Mr. Kimmel remarked to The Examiner that there is no use in his decorating his own property if adjoining property is allowed to display rubbish and detract from the beauty.

Extensive improvements are being made also on the lake front, where there is a splendid boat house and dressing room. The beach is being cleared of debris and trees, leaving a sandy bottom for wading and swimming. A rope will be used to enclose a safe swimming pool for children, and buoys will mark off the safe limits for adults.

In the boat house are sixteen dressing cubicles, and bathing suits may be obtained here at reasonable rates. There are at present eight canoes, two skiffs and an out-board motor available for hire, and arrangements are being made to provide more canoes. A slide will be built here for children, down which they can coast into the water.

Decoration Scheme.

Messrs. Kimmel and Forler have mingled idealism lavishly with their mechanical skill in all they have undertaken. There were no ready-made decorations to satisy their ideals, and so they obtained colored paper and fashioned their own decorative material for the dance hall. It is now a perfect picture, any anyone who has attempted to decorate the smallest of Christmas trees will realize the immense amount of work represented in the trimming of the Rendezvous dance hall. Japanese lanterns are used for lighting, giving, among the festoons and colored streamers of the roof, a pleasing effect. The walls, of course, open all around in a series of shutters, letting a cooling breeze through the hall on the warmest of nights. Screens effectively protect the dancers from an invasion of mosquitoes. Ken Blood's orchestra supplies the dance music.

There is also a prettily decorated and commodious room for cards or lounging, with a smaller alcove suitable for family parties. Dressing rooms for ladies and gentlemen are fitted with several mirrors each, and chairs, and offer a big improvement over the cubicles formerly serving the purpose.

Big Opening Picnic.

Saturday next will see the first big picnic at Chemong. The Kiwanis Club, of which Art. Kimmel is a member, is taking two hundred or more children from the city to spend the afternoon in the park. They will shoot the chute, and swing, and wade, and swim, and play ball, and have a jolly time in what is destined to be the picnic ground of Peterborough.

Special arrangements have been made by several churches and associations to hold picnics at Chemong this year.

IN POLICE COURT.

William Murphy appeared before Magistrate Langley this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of failing to provide for his child, who is under sixteen years of age. He stated to the court that he had been out of work and had no money. Mr. O'Brien appeared for the child and he asked that the man be sentenced as he had been putting payments off, and it was not right that the city should support his child. The prisoner said that he had just gotten work and was to start on Monday, so the Magistrate adjourned the case for a week and told the prisoner to have a substantial payment ready then to give his child.

A resident of North Monghan appeared in court this morning and pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $10 and costs, which were $6.50.

A resident of Warsaw appeared before Magistrate Langley this morning and pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a dance hall there last night. When he was questioned where he got his liquor he stated that he saw a man hiding a bottle in a fence corner and that he left the hall about eleven o'clock and had a few drinks. On returning to the hall later he was arrested. The court fined him $15 and costs, as it was his second offence, the costs amounting to $11.82, and on default of payment one month's imprisonment.

A NEW FOLDER FOR THRILL-THIRSTY FISHERMEN.

For those red-blooded outdoor men whose thoughts now turn to the sport and excitement of fishing, Canadian National Railways have just issued a new folder telling with pictures and stories about the adventures that await the angler among the 30,000 islands of Georgian Bay.

Among the fishing grounds of Ontario, Georgian Bay is indeed one of the most-favored spots. Off the shoals around the Islands gamy fighting bass lurk by hundreds. Every day you can try out a new fishing ground —and find each one productive of real sport. Lake trout and fighting maskinonge are plentiful. Maskinonge sixty pounds and over have been caught in these waters, and they put up the kind of fight that will long be remembered.

You can get this folder, entitled "The 30,000 Islands of the Georgian Bay" together with full information at Canadian National Railways, City Ticket Office, corner King and Toronto streets. 'Phone Main 4207, or Adelaide 5179. The Public Library of Toronto (Reference Division, corner College and St. George streets) also maintains a complete supply of tourist literature published by Railway and Steamship lines; the Travel Bureau is open daily except Sunday between the hours of 10.00 a.m. and 8.00 p.m. 1d.

OBITUARY.

MICHAEL FITZGERALD.

The funeral of the late Michael Fitzgerald took place from the family residence on Thursday morning at nine o'clock to the Immaculate Conception Church, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery. Mr. Fitzgerald was a life long resident of Otonabee. About four years ago he retired and moved close to the city. He had always been in good health and his death was a sudden shock to the family. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing wife, one daughter and three sons, namely, Mary, at home and John and Joseph of Otonabee, and James of Toronto; also two brothers, Jeremiah and William of Otonabee.

The pall-bearers were William and Thomas Fitzgerald, John, Michael and Thomas Ryan, of Douro, and Michael Leahy of Douro.

HOW TO PREPARE WHITEWASH

In keeping the cellar, shed and barn shipshape, and also in protecting trees against worms and insect pests, whitewash is as valuable as it is inexpensive.

For exterior use, such as on fences and sheds, dissolve 15 pounds of common salt in about 7 1-2 gallons of water; add one 50-pound sack of hydrated lime, or the putty made by slaking 1-2 bushel of fresh quicklime in water; mix until a smooth paste is formed, and then thin with water as necessary.

For interior work, a paste made as before should have a solution of three pounds of glue in about two gallnns of water added to it. The mixture should be stirred thoroughly and then thinned to the desired consistency. One quart of crude carbolic acid may be added to either of the mixtures as a disinfectant.

The surfaces should be cleaned and evenly dampened immediately before the whitewash is applied to insure against chalkiness or flaking. —Popular Science Monthly.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads—dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and rub with hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe and sure method.

SCRANTON MAN HEADS KIWANIS

CONTEST WINNERS.

Memphis, Tennessee, was the choice of the delegates for next year's convention. Indianapolis, Indiana, was the only opposition for the 1927 convention honors.

Other international officers for 1926-27 are: William C. Alexander, of New York City, and Stanley Higman, of Ottawa, Ontario, vice-presidents; and Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta, Georgia, re-elected as treasurer.

Trustees elected for a two-year term are: George E. Snell, Billings, Montana; James P. Neal, Walla Walla, Washington; O. Samuel Cummings, Clearwater, Florida; Horace McDavid, Rockford, Illinois; Charles F. Adams, Calgary, Alberta, and J. Randall Caton, Alexandria, Virgina. Russell Heedleston, of East Liverpool, Ohio, was selected as a trustee for one-year term.

"The Montreal convention was the largest in attendance in the history of the organization," Fred C. W. Parker, International secretary of Kiwanis, reported to the delegates. The total registration showed delegates and visitors to exceed over 6,000.

Winners of the efficiency contest and the presentation of trophies was made by Horace W. McDavid, Decatur, Illinois, chairman of the Committee on Efficiency Contest. In the Gold Division, including clubs with a membership of 151 or more, the Kiwanis Club of Springfield, Massachusetts, was announced the winner, and in the Silver Division, including clubs with a membership of 76 to 150, the Kiwanis Club of Jersey City, New Jersey, won the first prize, and in the Blue Division, including clubs with a membership of 75 or less, the trophy was awarded to the Lewistown, Montana, Club.

The contest based on reports of club activity and efficiency during the past year and the following percentage of weight is given to each club report: public affairs, 50 per cent.; attendance, 15 per cent; programme and social activities, 25 per cent.; inter-club meetings, 10 per cent.; relations with district and international, 5 per cent.

Because of this convention in Montreal, Kiwanians will be interested in recalling that the Montreal Club has won the efficiency contest twice in previous years.

G.W.V.A. NOTES.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee was held last evening when Commander W. Corbottam rendered his report on the conventions held in London on June 3rd, 4th and 5th. Reference to this report will be made in a series of special notes to the Examiner during the coming week.

During the week several claims have been received for pension adjustments, one case being that of a tubercular nature. This has been a 50 per cent. disability since discharge in 1919, and notwithstanding the fact that the condition of the pensioner has become more acute, the B.P.C. have cut the pension in two. This case is now in the process of adjustment.

Another claim has been submitted for reinstatement of pension, where the pensioner had commuted his pension, but owing to his disability having become more acute application for treatment, etc., is being pressed.

A recent adjustment of pension made through this office is one that took considerably over four years to establish, the difficulty being faulty documentation. All kinds of evidence had to be dug up in this case, sworn testimony had to be secured from the former comrades of this claimant, testifying to his hospitalisation on different occasions whilst on Salisbury Plain and in France. The difficulty in securing this evidence can be appreciated much better when it is realized that these comrades were scattered all over Canada, and considerable trouble was encountered before their whereabout could be ascertained. Ultimately, after years of refusal, the Board of Pension Commissioners conceded entitlement; the pension was made retroactive, a sum of nearly $2000 was paid to the pensioner and his dependents, full disablement was also conceded, and a pension at the rate of $112 per month is being paid to the dependents of this comrade, who recently paid the supreme sacrifice, his passing into the unknown beyond having been made all easier through the knowledge that through the efforts of the G.W.V.A. his rights had been established, justice done, and his dependents provided for after his death.

There are cases to-day of many injustices of a similar nature as the one quoted above, cases of which the general public have no knowledge, and it is for that reason that a certain amount of publicity is being given to such cases, always withholding the names of the pensioners in question, so now that the question of Unity is reaching a stage of finality is is trusted that each man will rise to the occasion, sink any petty feelings he may have, get into the new organization, remodel it along the lines they may think best, carry on the work, the work of adjustment as established by the G.W.V.A. until there is not one case left unadjusted, and justice done to every man that served.

A regular meeting of the G.W.V.A. will be held on Monday, June 21st. Watch the papers for further particulars. Keep your eye open for Monday's notes. BOOST FOR UNITY.

G. G. Winterbottom, president, considered that in the interests of unity, it was better that he resign, and hand over to Comrade J. Abraham his office. This was accepted.

Dummer Couple Reunited After 3½ Months Separation

Dwyer Is Found Guilty By Jury Let Go On Suspended Sentence Report Every Two Weeks to Police

Judge Huycke Concurs in Verdict Convicting Dummer Man of Neglect To Provide Necessaries For His Children.

GOOD MILITARY AND CIVIL RECORD HELPS TO SECURE CLEMENCY

Kiss of Peace Between Husband and Wife Rings Down Curtain on Tragedy That Stirred the Dominion.

At 8.10 p.m. on Saturday, the second day of the trial, after being closeted together for four hours and five minutes, the jury returned a verdict of Guilty on the charge of child neglect brought against George Dwyer of Dummer whose wife, Mary Dwyer, was acquitted on Friday on a similar charge. His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke who expresed his concurrence with the jury's decision announced suspended sentence on Dwyer, accused's good previous civil and military record, the series of misfortunes that overtook him and the fact that he had already spent 3½ months in jail being factors that influenced His Honor in extending this act of clemency to the convicted man. Dwyer is called upon to report to the Chief of Police every two weeks if living in the vicinity of the city, and every month if at a distance from Peterborough.

Dwyer, who spent Saturday night with friends in the city, was warmly congratulated by neighbors and acquaintances as he was released from the dock. Downstairs, in the hallway of the County Buildings, he met his wife, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Little, had been an interested spectator of the trial. Fresh from the injunction of His Honor to reunite himself to his wife and family, Dwyer kissed his wife and chatted with congratulating friends, evidently in the best of spirits.

Crown Prosecutor J. K. McKay, assisted by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., acted for the prosecution. Dwyer was defended by J. F. Strickland and B. E. Park. The opposing counsel delivered weighty address in the endeavor to win adherence of the jury.

J. F. Strickland.

Mr. Strickland, in an able plea for acquittal, reviewed the evidence that had been laid before the jury, and dwelt at some length on the statements of the children in the witness-box. Nellie Dwyer, he said, a witness for the prosecution had stated there was a difference in the matter of distributing the food among the children.

The question of the boys having been in the woods did not affect the charge, but if it was brought up he reminded them that little George had said that until he was taken to Peterborough and a fuss created—counsel did not use the word "fuss" lightly, for this was a serious matter, but it was the only way to describe what took place—George rather enjoyed being in the woods and preferred to be there rather than to hang around the house.

With respect to the injury to George's foot, counsel asked the jury to remember the locality in which the boy was brought up. In the ordinary home it was natural to tell the father about such things and such a mishap would be regarded as a serious matter. But an active little fellow like George, living where he did, was not likely to tell his father what had happened.

Mrs. Dwyer was a woman of no education. She did her best and attended the injured foot. Counsel asked the jury to accept the statement that the husband did not know the boy's foot was in such a serious condition. Little George himself had said on the witness stand that his father did not know about the sore foot. As counsel saw it, the proper person to look after the injured toe was the mother. From time immemorial, it had been the task of woman to relieve pain and distress. He had no doubt Mrs. Dwyer had done all she could.

Medical Testimony Reviewed.

He spoke of the medical testimony adduced by the Crown. On February 24, George was taken to the Hospital in Peterborough and examined by Dr. Clarke between 8 and 9 in the evening. They would remember that counsel had a little difficulty in ascertaining the time of arrival. John was greatly emaciated; George was not so bad, but he was ravenously hungry. Of course, he would be ravenously hungry. Had not he told the jury that he had nothing to eat from dinner time at home until arrival at the Hospital, and after examination by Dr. Clark? A boy of George's age would be hungry three or four hours after his usual meal time.

If he had been given something to eat by the officer in Peterboro, George would not have been so hungry at night.

Sometimes we jumped at conclusions. This is what had happened when the children were brought to Peterboro. The facts of the case had just receive publicity during the trial.

He asked them to consider Mr. Edgar's evidence. Mr. Edgar had been overzealous. He was an officer of the Children's Aid Society. The Society had done an immense amount of good work, but it was possible for such a society to have an overzealous officer. When Mr. Edgar was there, he made no examination of the contents of the house. The impression he had gotten was there had been little food in the house. But Constable Maker said that he saw two kinds of meal. When he went back on March 9, he made a search and found potatoes, two bags of apples and some fruit. Then they had heard Dwyer say there were carrots and cabbages in the house. Mr. Maker had said the potatoes were frozen. Counsel asked the jury to remember the potatoes had lain in the house since Mr. Dwyer was arrested, and were certain to be frozen, in the month of March in a fireless house.

With respect to John Dwyer, even the evidence of the Crown showed that he had died of meningitis, a disease from which there was no recovery, and which as Dr. Erb had said was very rapid as had come within his experience.

He wanted them to consider Dr. Holdcroft's evidence. In examination, he said he had not diagnosed the disease as meningitis. He said that on February 19, he had suspected meningitis, and expressed the opinion that the diseases had been present for a week before February 19. The boy died on March 2. Thus a period of 16 days elapsed. He asked them to consider that point. He suggested that the emaciation was due to meningitis and a succession of previous diseases rather than to lack of nourishment. Counsel was not prepared to accept Dr. Erb's opinion that the emaciation was not due to disease. He reminded them that Dr. Erb was not now actively engaged in the practice of medicine.

Let them go back further. It was seen that John had been less rugged than George. He would thus be more susceptible to disease. Was it not possible that the child was so constituted that he could not take or assimilate certain foods; that his system had become nauseated by the sameness of diet to an extent that he no longer was nourished by it and grew thinner than George? That, he submitted, was a very reasonable explanation.

Dr. McPherson was the public school doctor. He had to examine about 3000 children from 5 to 12 years of age. He had specialized in children's diseases. Mr. Strickland then pointed out that Dr. McPherson dissented from the view that the emaciation was caused solely by the disease.

Difficult Task.

The jury had a difficult and unfortunate task to perform. They had a man before them charged with failing to provide ordinary necessaries. He had served his country three years, two of them in France. He had gone to Dummer in the endeavor to support his family. Evidence had been produced that he had earned $207; he acknowledged that he had received $300. They would seem that he paid $261 and that another

BUILD NEW UNIT TO MOTOR PLANT

MONITOR TYPE.

A contract will be let within a week or ten days for a new unit to be added to the Division Street plant of General Motors of Canada, Limited, at Oshawa. Interviewed by The Reformer, Mr. Gordon Lefebvre, general manager, stated the addition will have a frontage of 90 feet and will run back to a depth of 600 feet. It will be of brick, one storey in height, and will be of the "monitor" type.

The new addition will be used exclusively for the manufacture and assembling of Pontiac cars which will be manufactured in Canada as soon as the building is completed and equipped. The construction work will be speeded up as much as possible, and the plant when finished will be a model of efficiency and convenience.

Maher, and also received the Sacrament of Confirmation in the afternoon. In the evening, twelve adults were also confirmed by His Lordship.

Ex-Kaiser Seeks Order For His African Estates

LONDON, June 14 (Canadian Press).—A Johannesburg despatch to The Sunday Times states that a case will shortly come before the High Court at Windhoek, Cape Colony, in which the former German Emperor seeks an order for the restoration of Hohenzollern property in the Southwest African mandate's territory. The property was acquired in 1912, and the ex-Kaiser is seeking a declaration that the property is not affected by the Versailles Treaty.

City's Hunter Street Tobogg an Slide Has New Use Used By Youths As Raceway For Their Bicycles

The toboggan slide which the City Council erected at the eastern boundary of the Hunter Street Bridge, and which a person would naturally think would be lying idle until next winter, has taken upon itself a new life and is supplying thrills to a number of boys.

Last night a number of young cyclists were having the time of their lives riding their machines down the chutes. The danger of the act may well be imagined when a person realizes that they start at the top, which is twenty feet above the ground and speed down the sharp slope to the rough ground at the foot.

BRITISH NOTE NOT RECEIVED

Moscow Official Declares That British Press Campaign Is Feared.

PRELUDE OF ATTACK.

MOSCOW, June 14 (Canadian Press).—If a note protesting against the sending of money by the Russian Soviet Government to assist the workers in the recent general strike in Britain has been despatched to Moscow, it has not been received as yet. A high authority, in a statement, declared that recent semi-official assurances received here indicated that Great Britain's reasons for protesting were radically different from those suggested by the despatch of such a note. The same official admitted, however, that a recent campaign of the British Conservative press has created uneasiness in Moscow, being regarded as a possible prelude to a diplomatic attack.

SERIOUS FIGHT IN GENEVA HALL

Fascists Disturb Meeting of Socialists and Free-For-All Ensues.

20 ARRESTED.

GENEVA, June 14 (Canadian Press)—Serious disorders growing out of controversies between Italian Fascist and anti-Fascist refugees supported by workers' delegates and Swiss Socialists, culminated on Saturday at midnight in the most serious riots in Geneva since just after the war.

A battle in which revolvers, chairs, clubs and fists were used was waged in the Communal Hall despite the efforts of the police to suppress it. The Fascists disturbing a meeting of anti-Fascist Socialists, were badly beaten. Most of them were taken to police stations for protection.

Among the score arrested were three league officials and several labor office attaches.

VALUABLE RAIN IN MANY AREAS

All of Western Ontario Was in Need of Moisture For Crops.

SITUATION IMPROVED.

TORONTO, June 14 (Canadian Press).—The rain which fell during the night and today over the western and central portions of Ontario will be of inestimable value to the growing crops in these areas. Up to the present the growing season in the province has been marked by a lack of moisture particularly in connection with the hay crop, but if present conditions continue, this situation should be greatly improved. Up to noon today the rainfall had extended as far north as the Georgian Bay district and throughout all the counties in Western and southwestern Ontario and some distance East of Toronto, and according to officials of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau here, it was expected that before the end of the day rainfall would be quite general over the whole province.

BRAZIL RESIGNS FROM LEAGUE

Official Notice Has Been Given Secretary By Envoy.

EFFECTIVE IN 1928.

GENEVA, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Brazil has carried out her threat of complete withdrawal from the League of Nations.

Her envoy on Saturday handed to Secretary-General Sir Eric Drummond, in accordance with the provisions of Article one of the League Covenant, official notice of her withdrawal. As two years' notice of withdrawal is required, Brazil will finally part from Geneva on June 12, 1928.

GENEVA,—Notification of Brazil's withdrawal from the League of Nations which was officially received today, created consternation in League circles. League officials had been confident that the Rio Government would not take the final step until European Chancellories had an opportunity to try diplomatic negotiations. The Powers planned to placate Brazil and Spain by promising them support for regular re-election as non-permanent council members, thus giving them in effect, if not in name, permanent membership.

League officials still hope that the entrance of the new Brazilian president, Washington Luis, this fall, may bring a change in his government's League policy.

FEW UNEMPLOYED.

Local List Smallest of Year —Improvement Through Province.

The Government Employment Bureau reports that all over Ontario things are improving in the employment line. Manufacturers are taking on more men, and especially in the iron industry in Kingston and Hamilton men are in great demand, whereas a year ago the works were practically closed down. Brantford has also taken on a new lease of life in the implement industry.

Locally things are not improving as fast as in some of the other cities of Ontario, and for last week the bureau reports 23 placements, 32 new applicants and 79 on the list, the lowest number so far this year.

BOY DROWNED.

Unable To Swim, He Trusted Companions To Aid Him.

OTTAWA, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Induced by companions to dive into deep water, Francis Hornidge, aged 15 years, of Ridemount, Ontario, was drowned in the Rideau here yesterday. The lad could not swim, but his friends assured him they would rescue him as he came to the surface.

He failed to come to the surface.

COOK'S SPEECH AT PENSANCE TAKEN AS HINT THAT MINERS ARE GETTING READY FOR VOTE

Miners' Secretary Says He Expects To Sign Agreement Soon.

MEN MUST DECIDE.

Repeal of Seven Hour Day Law is Rumored in Papers.

LONDON, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Rumor was busy over the week-end, suggesting that things were moving towards an ending of the coal mine deadlock. Significance is attached in some quarters to a statement by A. J. Cook, secretary of Miner's Federation, in a speech at Pensance, to the effect that he would soon be called upon "To sign an agreement for the miners." He added, "But it must a signature on behalf of a million men. If the men want an eight-hour day or are prepared to work for lower wages, they must say so."

Some read into this a hint that preparations are being made for a secret ballot by the miners on the questions of hours and wages.

A number of newspapers give prominence to a report that the Government intends to repeal, at least temporarily, the Act which established the seven hour day for miners. It is not expected that the situation will develop materially before tomorrow, when the Commons will debate the situation.

They Call This Exile Krim Has 40 With Him

PARIS, June 14.— (Canadian Press.)—The "Petit Parisien" says Abd el Krim and his wives and children and doubtless his uncle and brother-in-law, 40 persons in all, will be deported to Madagascar, off the east coast of South Africa, if the Franco-Spanish conferees on the Moroccan situation approve.

The other Riffian prisoners, numbering about 250, will be distributed either in France or in French territory.

HORSE KILLED IN CRUEL WAY

Tongue Cut Out By Unknown Party—Animal Bleeds To Death.

SECOND ATTEMPT.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., June 14.—(Canadian Press).—Mulmur Township is again in a state of excitement. Ross Robson, who farms 100 acres on Lot 7, Fourth Line, Mulmur, discovered a valuable driving mare dead in a pasture. Examination disclosed death due to some person having cut off the animal's tongue close to the root. Dr. Thomas McMahon of Mansfield said the beast had bled to death in two hours. On the night of June 4 a horse in Dobson's stable narrowly escaped death when some unknown party slashed its neck, just missing the jugular vein. Provincial Constable Colin F. Barron is working on the case.

Rare Red Diamond Found In Kimberley District

LONDON, June 14.—(Canadian Press.)—The rare find of a red diamond of considerable value is reported from Kimberley, South Africa. It was found on Alluvial river diggings. This species of stone is very unusual and is likely to fetch anything from £120 to £150 a carat.

JURY DISMISSED IN M'BRIDE CASE

Fails To Agree in Brantford Mayor's Slander Suit.

APPEAL ANNOUNCED.

BRANTFORD, June 14 (Canadian Press). — The jury in the slander action of M. MacBride, M.F.P., against Mrs. Olive Elizabeth Holder and W. T. Holder failed to agree on Saturday evening after being out from 5.50 to 9.30 o'clock, and, reporting to that effect, was dismissed. Mr. MacBridge announced that he would appeal the case.

The action was for $500 and such other damages as the court might decide for statements alleged to have been made by the defendants at a meeting at the Market Square here in September last, prior to the election.

The trial lasted four days.

Canoe Tips, Throwing Him Into Water Near Cemetery.

NAME UNKNOWN.

Yesterday afternoon a young man was paddling about in a canoe around the Little Lake. The water was very rough and he was sitting far back in the stern. A gust of wind caught the canoe and owing to his position it upset and he was thrown into the water. Some men down near the cemetery effected a rescue and gave him some dry clothes, and he left without leaving his name, leaving the canoe to be returned by some one else.

YOUTH DROWNED IN SMALL CREEK

Ernest Parks, of Cooper, Pinned Beneath Car Near Malone, Last Night.

RAN OFF ROAD.

MADOC, June 13.—Ernest Parks, 20, of Cooper, was drowned last night between Eldorado and Malone when his car struck the side of a bridge, and overturned, pinning him in three feet of water. The body was discovered this morning by J. D. Nickle, the owner of the land through which the creek runs.

At the time of the accident, the young man, who was working at Cordova as a cheesemaker, was returning to his place of work from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parks of Cooper. This was his first season of employment as a cheesemaker. He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

Dr. Thompson, coroner at Eldorado, has decided that an inquest is unnecessary.

G.W.V.A. NOTES

At a meeting of the G.W.V.A. executive held in the rooms on Friday, June 11th, it was decided (in the interest of unity) to call a meeting on Monday evening, June 21st, of all members of the G.W.V.A. and all unattached veterans for the purpose of reading and explaining the constitution, Dominion and Provincial per capita tax and other points of interest in connection with the new Canadian Legion.

The Charter of the new branch will be issued in the very near future and arrangements will have to be made for the nomination and election of a board of officers and executive body to govern the new body.

Every returned man in the city who honestly has the interest of unity at heart is earnestly requested to attend this meeting.

The one way of getting unity is "get together", become a member men you want to hold the reins in in good standing, and elect the your local branch.

Contentment consisteth not in heaping up more fuel, but in taking away some ire.—Fuller.

CONVENTION OF BAPTISTS HELD

Cramahe Gathering Was 124th Annual Association Meeting.

MANY SPEAKERS.

The 124th annual convention of the Peterborough Baptist Association was held in Cramahe Baptist church on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 8, 9, and 10. The Moderator, Rev. W. S. Edgar, of the Gilmour Memorial Church, presided.

The Pastors' and Laymen's Conference was addressed by Chancellor Whidden of McMaster University, who spoke of the essential things in Evangelism. At the evening session Miss C. R. Whiteside, Principal of Moulton Ladies' College gave an interesting address on the work of the college. The Moderator's address followed:

Mr. Edgar spoke on the keyword of the convention: "Workers together with Christ." He said "The sphere of our Christian usefulness is the whole wide world. The world itself comprises many different spheres, into all of them we have to carry the leavening influences of Christ's teachings and principles. We are to be workers together with Christ in the educational sphere, in the commercial sphere, and in the social and domestic spheres. In fact we must seek to Christianize all the different spheres that go to make up he world.

We must not forget however that the Christian church was in a special sense our Master's vineyard This is the centre from which we are to work.

"In the Christian church we seek with the help of the Divine Spirit and the Divine Word to make men good, to set them right with heaven, and to create in humanity a new heart and a right spirit. The great business of the church is to reach the conscience, to strengthen the will and to bring men into a gracious union with Jesus Christ.

"The church is a vineyard within the vineyard, and it is our conviction that it will never be right with the vineyard of the world until we get things straightened out in the vineyard of the church.

"There is a great threefold encouragement to become co-workers with Christ.

"In all true Christian service there is a manifold influence. That is to say, there is a multiplicity, an infinity. We see something like this in vegetation. Seeds are sown in the ground and from them infinitely more new seeds spring up; out of one seed comes twenty or thirty new seeds. If you do a good act for Christ's sake or speak a kind word, or show a noble example, there is in your Christian service this manifold influence which will inspire other good deeds. Out of one thing comes many things.

"In all our Christian service there is a universal influence. That means that the influence of earnest Christian service encircles the globe. There are great laws in operation in the universe that will not allow a thing to be done only in one place, and those laws make your service to be pervasive and universal. Good deeds touch the ends of the earth and in mysterious ways. They are a blessing to the entire human race.

"In all true Christian service there is an eternal influence. If you have truly served your day and generation in the interests of the kingdom of Christ then your service is for eternity and all generations of men have been blessed by it.

"Help the man next to you and you have helped all men. Do good where you are and you have done it everywhere. Do it while it is called today and you have done it forever."

The Chancellor gave a series of devotional addresses on the text: "One thing have I desired of the Lord and that will I seek after, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in His temple." Rev. Dr. G. T. Webb spoke on Sunday school work, and conducted a conference.

Chancellor Whidden gave an inspiring address on Christian Education. W. C. Senior of Toronto spoke on Christian Stewardship.

E. A. Therrien, B.A., of Montreal, gave an insight into the workings of the Grand Ligne Missions. He also addressed a crowded church of the young people.

The inspirational speaker of the convention was Rev. W. J. Pady, B. A., B.Th, of Toronto, who delivered stirring and inspiring addresses.

The ladies of the convention under the presidency of Mrs. W. D. Scott, of Peterboro, and Directress Miss M. A. Nicholls, held a separate session.

Mrs. L. M. Coles of Colborne led in prayer. Mrs. J. B. McKague gave the address of welcome, and Mrs. Gordon Mair replied. Mrs. J. A. Young spoke of the Mission Band Work. Miss Stratton gave the Home Mission address, and Miss Hume of Port Hope the Foreign Mission.

Mr. W. B. Tickell of Port Hope was elected Moderator for the ensuing year. Rev. Dr. C. W. Rose of Murray street church, was appointed Vice Moderator. Rev. N. R. McLeod of Park street, was elected President of the Associational B.Y.P.U. Mr. C. A. Bradley was re-elected clerk. It was agreed to hold the next convention at Picton.

W.M.S. MEETING AT CENTREVILLE

Good Attendance in Spite of the Disagreeable Weather.

REV. RIDDLE SPOKE.

The June meeting of the Centreville Presbyterian W.M.S. was held on Wednesday, June 2nd at the home of the president, Mrs. H. Tate. Although disagreeable weather prevailed, yet this was one of the largest gatherings of the year.

One of the vice-presidents, Mrs. D. Dodds, took charge of this meeting. After the first hymn was sung, Rev. J. Riddle led in prayer. The secretary, Mrs. Isbister, then read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer, Mrs. Hall, gave the report for the month of May.

Rev. J. Riddle gave a very interesting address on China, which was much enjoyed by all present. Mrs. J. Hutchison and Mrs. E. Anderson favored the ladies with a vocal duet.

Owing to the absence of Mrs. E. Morrison a synopsis of the study book on the "Influence of His Life" as read by Dorothy Hall.

Mrs. Dodds kindly extended an invitation to the society to meet at her home in July.

After the meeting the Bailieboro and Centreville ladies served lunch and a very enjoyable hour was spent.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Tate in opening her home for the occasion.

Amongst those present were: Rev. J. Riddle, Mrs. D. Dodds, Mrs. Gainer, Miss E. Huggins, Mrs. Eagleson, Mrs. Levi Byers, Mrs. John White, Mrs. Harper, L. Harper, Miss M. Greer, Mrs. J. Moncrief, Mrs. R. Deyell, Miss E. Deyell, Miss E. Anderson, Mrs. J. Isbister, Mrs. R. Isbister, Mrs. J. Tate, Miss E. Tate, Mrs. O. B. Johnson, Mrs. McRoberts, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Bradshaw, Miss V. Members of the Holly Island club, near Wachapreague, Va., are rearing game birds with considerable success. Expert game keepers are in charge of the work on an island several miles out in the ocean. It is proposed to release these birds on the island, which is ten miles long, and eventually to build up a good hunting preserve.

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

he handed over the rest to his wife for the home. And occasionally he got a meal in Norwood. He had said in the witness box that he got three meals in Norwood with Mrs. Dwyer. Was there anything remarkable in that? Was the neglect, or squandering a waste of money? The unfortunate fact was that Dwyer himself, his wife and children and his horses were all on short rations, and all failed during the winter. It was not through lack of ability. All the evidence showed that he was an industrious man who worked hard to provide for his wife and children. They had to consider this point? Was there wilful neglect to supply any of these things or was there the power to supply them?

The jury system of which they were all so proud was one that had worked effectively. It was the duty of the jury to decide on the evidence alone. Dwyer, through pride or foolishness paid these debts and left himself unable to provide but little for the family. Yet it was not foolishness. He knew that if he lost the horses he lost the means of providing for his wife and 6 children. He asked the jury to consider all the facts and, having considered them, to set the prisoner free.

J. K. MacKay.

Mr. MacKay complimented the jury on their close attention to the evidence placed before them. Also their attention to the eloquent address of his learned friend was most commendable. The Crown, he said, did not wish this trial. It was the duty of the Crown to take cognizance of such cases. They could not escape duty. Counsel depicted the evils that would assail the realm if law was not properly enforced. It was the duty of the Crown to lay the facts before them. The rest was for the jury.

He asked the jury to recall the evidence of Dr. Clark who was called upon to attend the little boy when first brought to the hospital. It would be remembered that the boys were very thin and wasted. The jury would remember that George gained rapidly and that his ravenous tendencies soon passed away. It would be remembered how Dr. Clark found the boy's foot frozen, his toe rotten and putrid, requiring amputation.

Extreme Starvation.

With respect to John they would remember that he was unconscious, but Dr. Clark said he was greatly debilitated. Horribly emaciated! They would remember that Dr. Erb had said that he had seen human beings who had been without food for a month and were yet, less emaciated than was John Dwyer.

"In my opinion," Dr. Clark had said—and this was expert testimony—"the cause of emaciation was extreme starvation."

"In my opinion," said Dr. Clark, "the condition of the boy was such as to endanger seriously his life or injure permanently his health."

The jury must have noticed how straightforward was the testimony of Dr. Erb. He had told them that the little lad John who should have weighed 70 pounds weighed less than 30. Dr. Erb had said John's weight according to his frame should have been 70 pounds. He had pointed out that streptoccocic meningitis was a rapid disease, nearly always fatal. The extreme wastage, he had said, was not attributable to meningitis or any other diseases. Counsel read out the latter part of Dr. Erb's report. These witnessed were disinterested, and their testimony was that the emaciation was not due to disease. Then, there was no other conclusion, but that it was due to undernourishment.

February 17 and 19.

Let them cast a fleeting glance at the evidence of Dr. Sutton. He was consulted on February 17 by accused with regard to the boy. He gave some medicine for him. The accused returned on the nineteenth and reported that the lad was better. On the same day, Dr. Holdcroft made a personal examination. Accused had said the boy's ear was running. Yet Dr. Holdcroft made an examination, and a careful examination of the ear, and he found no trace of a discharge. On that day the boy was unconscious.

"I ask you," said Mr. MacKay, "in all fairness why these statements were made." They could not both be true. It was for the jury to determine which was true.

They would remember that Dr. Holdcroft had stated that he had never, even in the slums of New York or Chicago, seen such a degree of emaciation. He had said also that, in his opinion, the condition of the lad was such as to endanger seriously his life or permanently injure his health.

Let them look at the evidence of Messrs. Edgar and Maker. How the father lied about the foot. What was the object? People who falsified did not do so without a motive. There must have been some motive. What that motive was, it was for the jury to determine.

Food For Horses.

As to the food in the house, he would not refer to that, except to say that there was little, very little of it, while there were three horses in at least good working condition While the children were suffering from hunger; the horses were being fed.

Mary Dwyer's Evidence.

What of the evidence of Mary Dweyr? The boys were out in the woods at 5.30, with a little bread for dinner. And the evidence of George, little more than a baby. Frozen hands and frozen feet, working ten hours a day! And his little brother struggling day after day, until he fell under his load like the fainting Christ, only to die. Death came and closed his life. What did this mean? That was for the jury to determine.

He asked them to reflect on the evidence of George Dwyer himself. He said he gave the surplus money to his wife for the house. Counsel was afraid there was little surplus.

It was true accused had dinner only a few times at Norwood. "I ask you gentlemen, those times accused and Mary Dwyer were having dinner where were the lads? That is for you to determine."

The accused had admitted hat he saw the little lads, especially John, losing ground, and yet he did nothing to aid them.

Jurys' Responsibility.

The jury, could not, would not, and must not avoid responsibility. The law, of which they were so proud, forbade them to allow themselves to be swayed by sympathy or sentiment. If through either, they failed to return the verdict according to their oath and conscience they were helping to undermine the foundations upon which our laws were based.

Judge Sums Up.

His Honor said the jury had heard what the counsel had said, presenting, with marked ability, the case from their respective standpoints. The jury had heard the evidence and in vew if the fact that t had been recapitulated by both counsel he would refrain from burdering them with another repitition.

The evidence had been taken on oath. The oath imposed the most solemn obligation on mankind. The law provided that everything in a trial of this nature must be taken under oath. There was one exception in the trial. Little George Dwyer who gave evidence was not sworn, "the reason being," said His Honor, "that I came to the conclusion that while he knew the difference between right and wrong, and truth and untruth, he did not realize the added obligation imposed on him by an oath."

The law provided that in such a case, evidence could be taken without the oath being administered, but with this limitation: unless such evidence was corroborated by that of someone else, it must not be taken into consideration by the jury in coming to a verdict.

They were ti come to a conclusion on evidence alone. If, from the evidence, they came to a conclusion that the man was innocent, it would be their duty and he felt sure their pleasure to acquit the accused.

But whether pleasant or painful, they were not to be influenced by that. They were not there simply to cause either pleasure or pain. If on the evidence they found accused innocent, they must say so, and if guilty, they were not to hesitate to say so.

The jury were there to represent the country. They were the judges and they had to bring their knowledge of mankind and conditions generally, to bear on the matter before them.

Harowing Scenes.

The scenes described in the case were most harrowing. One little boy was dead, laid away to his eternal rest. Another little boy had undoubtedly suffered, but fortunately he seemed to have recovered and was now bright and strong, and was now being cared for by the Children's Aid Society. But a Children's Shelter was a poor substitute for home. Accused was charged with having failed, without lawful excuse, to provide necessaries. Was he poor? There was no question of that. Sometimes there was a question as to who was parent or guardian. There was no question that the father was the parent within the purview of this case.

Ancient Law.

This law had been made for their protection. It was an ancient law. They would remember that history related how in ancient days babies—possibly girl babies—were sometimes put out in the forest to die or become the prey of wild beasts. There was a moral obligation on parents to protect their children. This section was founded largely on the legal obigation. There was no question of the fact that accused was legally liable to provide necessaries for his children.

What were necessaries? That was a very wide question, which could be answered in many ways. Many things in life that were good were not necessaries, and what were regarded as necessaries in a high grade of society, might be luxuries in a poorer home. What were necessaries in the house of the jurymen might be luxuries in the home of the accused. Therefore, they should not regard necessaries in the humble home from the standpoint of what they gave to their own children.

Counsel had said that the failure to provide must be wilful. That was wrong. The jury, said His Honor, must take their law from him. If they thought he was wrong, they could go to another court. If wilful neglect was present, that was another and more serious crime. The charge was neglect without lawful excuse.

Lawful Excuse Defined.

What was a lawful excuse? He quoted some examples of lawful excuse. A child might be neglected while away from home. If the father was unable to provide the necessaries, that was a lawful excuse.

It had been shown that during the three months accused had earned $300 or more. About $40 of that sum, certainly less than $50, went to support the family. If that was sufficient, accused was justified. If it was not sufficient, accused was not justified. He took the greater amount to pay his accounts. All this was very creditable, but the law said first things first and first things to be considered were the lives and even the comfort of his wife and children.

Was death a result of the omission? Was life endangered or health likely to be permanently injured?

Unless one of these was present there was no case against accused. It had been true in the case of one of the boys who had died. But was it caused by the omission to provide necessaries?

The other question was, Was life endangered? That it was had been corroborated by evidence.

A good deal had been said about the boys being in the woods. No doubt that had been a shock to all. But that affected the case only indirectly. The charge only allowed consideration of this up to the point that the fact of the boys beng subjected to hard work and terrific strain made them require further necessaries. That was a proper subject for consideration.

Husband and Wife.

A suggested defence had been that the husband said if the boys did not get proper necessaries, it was not his fault, but his wife's. He said his wife dominated him.

He gave this some consideration. For this reason: Sometimes in law, if a wife committed a crime, she pleaded that she was under the domination of her husband. The husband was supposed to be the stronger member. His Honor thought the husband's plea was not very convincing. But it was for the jury to say. They were the judges.

The jury had been there a long time. He was not going to enlarge further on the evidence.

If on the evidence, they doubted the prisoner's guilt they were to acquit him. But this doubt must be a reasonable doubt, not one conjured up merely to ease the conscience. It had been said that the prisoner should get the benefit of the doubt. That was not the way he looked at it. Prisoner was not called upon to prove his innocence. Every man was entitled to be regarded as innocent until he had been proved guilty.

It might occur to the jury that the man may not fully have appreciated the fact of the boy's condition; and that when he went to Norwood and told the doctor the lad was better he may have really believed this was the case. He was perhaps ignorant and possibly careless. The jury were to attribute to Dwyer the reason of an ordinary man. If the reason of the ordinary man, not that of the extraordinary man, or the doctor could have led to a realization of the lad's condition, then this man could have observed it.

His Honor reminded the jury that as they were dealing with a criminal case, it was necessary that their verdict be unanimous. The responsibility was theirs, he concluded. The opposing counsel had done their duty. He had done his. The jury must perform theirs.

Finally he urged them not to hurry. At 4.05 the jury retired to consider the verdict.

When they returned a breathless silence fell over the occupants of the court room, which was maintained until the Judge dismissed the jury.

His Honor addressed Dwyer at some length on the folly and wickedness of the course of action he had taken. He was greatly troubled to know what to do with him. If he sent him to jail Dwyer would be confined in prison during the spring and summer when he could best work for his wife and family. He did not like the evidence of accused with respect to his wife; still less did he like that of the wife with regard to her husband. He strongly counselled Dwyer to reunite with his wife and endeavor to support her and the family. He felt that if he sent accused to jail for a short time, Dwyer would come out feeling that he had paid the debt he owed to society. He had learned that Dwyer had distinguished himself by particularly valiant conduct during the war. His Honor said that a man who served his country during those terrible years of war was a man entitled to his respect. He believed Dwyer loved his children. He watched him while little George was giving evidence, and he felt sure the father loved the little boy. His Honor thought it possible that Dwyer did not realize the serious state of affairs in his family. Dwyer had had a hard time himself as a boy, but he had to realize times had changed since then.

Although he might be criticized for so doing, said His Honor, he would allow Dwyer to go on suspended sentence. He hoped this would be a lesson to Dwyer. He wanted Dwyer to show himself in the future a good man as he had once shown himself in the past.

URGES TATTOOING OF PIGS

So that pigs may be readily identified after slaughter, and disputes as to ownership avoided in co-operative marketing, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is urging farmers to tattoo their pigs.

A new method of tattooing, says Popular Science Monthly, employs a metal holder in which phonograph needles are imbedded to form initials or numbers. The needles are dipped in black automobile enamel, and the mark is put on by striking the pigs across the back with them.

GRAND JURY REPORT

To His Honor Judge Huycke:

May it please your Honor; The Grand Jury of the County Court and General Sessions of the Peace for the County of Peterborough beg leave to present:

We wish to congratulate your Honor on your re-election to the honorable position of President of the Association of County Judges of Ontario.

We agree with your Honor in regretting the increase in crime in County and Country generally, although otherwise everything is in a prosperous condition.

We wish to congratulate your Honor, the County Crown Attorney, the Sheriff and all other officials who are responsible for preservation of law and order in the County on the efficient manner in which you are performing your duties.

In accordance with our duties we visited the following institutions, viz. St. Joseph's Hospital, House of Providence, County House of Refuge, Isolation Hospital, Protestant Home, Nicholls Hospital, St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter. We found all the institutions very well managed and a redit to the community. We would recommend that a cork linoleum be procured for the basement hall at the House of Refuge, and also a clock. We also recommend that the fire escapes at the Protestant Home be altered to comply with the Fire Chief's recommendations.

We also recommend that the fire escapes at the Isolation Hospital be inspected by the Fire Chief and made more accessible.

We wish to congratulate the Nicholls Hospital Board upon the building of the nurses' home and are sure that it will be much appreciated. We were also pleased to learn that plans are underway to build a special maternity addition to the hospital and wish to state that we consider the same to be necessary.

We would also recommend that the fountain in Victoria Park be repainted.

We would also recommend that the book shelves in the Judge's Chambers be repaired and that the plaster in the Court House be repaired where necessary.

We would also recommend that measures be taken to improve the acoustics of the Court Room so that the Jury and Counsel may hear the evidence more clearly.

We would also recommend that proper accommodation be provided in the Court House for the County officials, as the present accommodation is not satisfactory nor sufficient in some cases.

We would also recommend that the ashes from the boiler house at the Court House and the garbage from the Jail and Jail residences be put in the proper place for collection by the garbage collector instead of being spread on the premises as at present.

We wish to recommend that, at the Children's Shelter a window in children's playroom be changed into a door to facilitate entrance, and also that the kitchen be redecorated.

We wish to congratulate the official in charge on the condition in which we found the jail, but regret to report that we found an inmate suffering from a contagious disease. We feel that the jail surgeon and the jail officials have done everything they could do with their limited facilities. As we were unable to get in touch with the M.O.H. we called in Dr. MacPherson whose report is attached.

We are informed that some of the roads in the back Township of Peterborough County are not as good as they ought to be, and we are of the opinion that these should be improved.

We regret very much that the only cases coming before the jury are from the same districts from which a large number of serious criminal cases have come previously. We recommend that the Provincial Police give more attention and protection to these outlying districts. We are sorry to state that so far as we can learn that, in spite of recommendations by previous Grand Juries, the County Crown Attorney and various officials, nothing has so far been done to permanently relieve and improve conditions in these districts. We consider this to be a very serious state of affairs and it is time that immediate action be taken.

His Honor, in reply, thanked the jury for their kindly references to himself and the others. He complimented them on the thorough manner in which they had carried out their duties. He noted with interest what they had said about the Court Room. The acoustics were bad. He often could not hear what others said, and he was told that he himself could not always be heard. This was unfortunate, as otherwise the Court Room was all right. It was one of the lightest and brightest in the Province.

He noted with interest their recommendations with regard to the outlying districts It was a difficult matter to deal with, but it must be faced. He thought some consideration should be given to the reforestation of these parts Remove the people somewhere else and grow pine and deer rather than attempt to raise grain on unsuitable land. He undertook to see that their recommendations were placed in the proper quarters.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his precription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

AT BAILIEBORO.

BAILIEBORO, June 14. — The prices of local farm produce during the past two weeks has been gradually soaring in price. Last week sent the price of hogs up to $14.50 a hundredweight. Wheat at the local elevators is $1.30 a bushel, while the buyers are offering 85c a bushel for buckwheat.

Butter at the local stores is being bought in at 35c lb., and eggs at 27c doz. Lard is selling out at 24c lb. in 20-pound lots, and 25c lb. in 10-pound lots. Cheese sells at 32c lb. The bakers' cars are calling at the farm houses and selling their bread at 10c and 11c a loaf, and buns from 15c to 18c doz.

AT NORWOOD.

NORWOOD, June 14.—Prices in local stores on Saturday were:

Creamery butter 40c lb.; dairy butter 35c lb.; eggs 28c doz.; head lettuce 15c and 20c a head; cabbage 10c lb.; onions 5c bunch; asparagus from 10c to 15c bunch; cucumbers 10c, 12c and 15c apiece; pineapples 19c and 20c apiece and six for $1; chickens 25c lb.

AT OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, June 14.—Prices in general have changed but little for the Saturday trade. Dairy butter is very scarce and retails at 32c lb., while creamery is 35c lb. Eggs have advanced to 28c and 30c doz.; fresh cheese is 30c lb.

Fresh strawberries, small box 25c; pineapples 25c each; lettuce 5c a bunch; radish 5c a bunch; cabbage 8c a pound; tomatoes are 25c a pound, and potatoes have lowered to 50c a peck, or $2.50 a bag. The asparagus season was very short, and is almost over. Nice large bunch sells for 10c.

Fresh sausages were 18c lb. in the local butcher shop, which is a drop of 2c. Veal prices ranged from 18c to 30c lb., according to cut; other meat prices remain unchanged.

AT HAVELOCK.

HAVELOCK, June 14. — Market prices in Havelock on Saturday were as follows:

Retail, dairy and creamery butter remain the same at 35c each and 40c respectively.

The price of potatoes has dropped to 60c a peck and $2.75 to $3 a bag. New potatoes are selling at 80c a peck; eggs, firsts, 31c a dozen; seconds, 27c a dozen; cheese is lower, 30c a pound; Kraft cheese 45c a lb.; strawberries, 35c a quart box; 20c a pint box; pineapples, 2 for 35c; 20c and 25c each; asparagus 10c a bunch, cucumbers 15c each or 2 for 25c; cabbage, 10c a lb; lettuce 5c bunch.

Cured meats are higher. Breakfast bacon 45c a lb; peameal and pickle bacon, 50c a pound. cooked ham 65c lb; fresh pork 28c lb; veal 20c, 25c lb; lamb, 20c-30c lb; beef 15c-25c lb.

AT COLBORNE.

COLBORNE, June 14. — There is not much change in the price of eggs, butter and such commodities here. On account of the activity of cheese factories and creameries butter is a little firmer throughout the district, while the price of eggs is practically stationary, from 25c a dozen up. Early spring garden stuff is plentiful."

Some of the prices quoted for other things are fresh pork sausages, 20c a lb; can of red salmon 35c; 2 cans of tomatoes 25c; flour $4.50 per bag; tomatoes sell from 30c to 40c a lb; rhubarb, onions, radishes and leaf lettuce are 5c a bunch; head lettuce sells from 15c up. grape fruit are 2 for 25c and some selling at 10c.

Before Moving to the Country

Telephone subscribers who plan to take up summer quarters can enjoy the numberless advantages of telephone service by having a telephone installed in their country homes.

Let us know beforehand where and when you plan to go. We will arrange for service at the distant point; or if the resort is not reached by Bell Telephone lines, we will gladly give you information as to what company serves your district.

We would appreciate being advised early so that prompt installation can be arranged.

W. R. NORTHGRAVE,

Manager.

Strawberries are selling from 30c for a ruart basket up to 35c.

AT COBOURG.

COBOURG, June 14. — Potato prices are many and varied, $2.50, $2.75, $3.00 and $3.50 are asked on the market, and by those trucking them about the town. Old potatoes are being retailed in the stores at 55c. a peck. New potatoes are selling at four pounds for 25c. Eggs and butter are a little firmer, from 30c. to 32c. is being asked for 'extras' in eggs in the stores and about the same figure on the market. 'Firsts' sell for 28c. and seconds from 25c. to 26c. Dairy butter is selling from 35 to 38c. and creamery butter sells from 38 to 40c.

Carrots and beets are getting a little cheaper and quite a large bunch of these new vegetables can be purchased for 10c. now in the stores.. New cabbage sells generally at 6c. a pound. Radishes, onions and rhubarb are 5c. a bunch. Asparagus is selling at two bunches for 25c. and there appears to be small chance of its going below this figure. There are still some baskets of apples being offered in the stores and at the market at 35c. and 40c. a basket. Oranges are selling from 45c. to 60c. a dozen and bananas for 40c. a dozen. Strawberries are selling from 33c. to 35c. a box. Tomatoes are 35c. to 40c. a pound, while 50c. is asked for the Canadian grown hot-house variety.

PERCY TOWNSHIP S. S. CONVENTION

Meeting Held in Presbyterian Church, Warkworth, Last Week.

NORHAM, June 14—The Percy Township Sunday School convention was held in the Presbyterian church, Warkworth, on Wednesday afternoon and evening. The representation in the afternoon was not large although there were members from each of the five schools in the township, who gave reports of the work being done. Reports were also given by the several township department officers. It was quite evident to all present that a deep interest is being taken in this work by the officers in every church, and so far as time and ability make it possible nothing is going by default. Rev. John E. Griffith, of Blackstock, represented the Ontario Religious Educational Council for the Province and conducted an inspirational round table conference in the afternoon at which it was brought out that Sunday School work is of first importance and not a lean to the church. Mr. Griffith stated that it would better to have four boys come to Sunday school and remain for church than to have six attend Sunday school and none of them remain for the church service.

The evening meeting was well attended and was addressed by Rev. W. W. Jones of Warkworth, who spoke of the several links binding the Sunday school to the home, the church and the Master. Mr. Griffith also spoke at this session on the subject of child life looked at from the standpoint of preparation, protection and projection. Both speakers emphasized the thought that a Sunday school could only do its best work when supported by the parents and given due recognition as a part of the great church organization.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year and inducted by Rev. J. F. Everson, of Norham: President, Fred H. Huycke, Norham; first vice president, Gordan Thompson, Warkworth; second vice president, Mrs. Warren Atkinson, Dartford; secretary and treasurer, Arthur C. Twiddy, Warkworth; Children's department, Mrs. George B. Bowen, Warkworth; boys' work, U. E. Wartman, Warkworth; girls' work, Mrs. John F. Everson, Norham; Adult department, Peter S. Ewing, Warkworth; Home department, Mrs. Minnie Atkinson, Dartford; teacher training, Mrs. Lorne Evans, Norham; Missionary, Mrs. W. J. Harper; Temperance work, Robert Walker, Warkworth; Young people, Miss C. E. Gregory, Warkworth.

Protect your home with warmth and comfort

A GURNEY Warm Air Furnace will do the trick, by flooding the house with genial heat. If there's a "Gurney" in your basement next winter, you'll know what "the comfort of warmth" really means.

The coal-saving records of Gurney Furnaces are accounted for by their mechanical perfection and their specially-designed fire pot and grates. It's a common remark by owners that "Gurney Furnaces are easy on fuel".

We have a little booklet on Warm Air Heating that tells a story you will appreciate. Ask for it.

PUBLIC BENEFACTORS.

A wealthy Montrealer who died not long ago willed $230,000 as a fund to provide band music in the parks of Montreal and a similar amount for the establishment of recreation grounds for children.

It is difficult to estimate the value of these benefactions to the people of Montreal.

Safe playgrounds for children, the tonic and educative effect of good music for everybody—these indeed are royal gifts, and lucky is the community which numbers in its citizenship such warm-hearted and public-spirited men as the donor of these splendid funds.

Peterboro is in a position to testify to the value of benefactions of this nature.

Were everything that is owed to the generosity of the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls to be removed this city would be a much different place.

Nicholls Oval, Inverlea Park, Jackson Park, Nicholls Hospital and to a large extent a number of other local institutions are ours because this most public-spirited woman made them possible.

It is a reproach to the community's sense of gratitude that only at this late hour are steps being taken to show that the city for which she did so much is appreciative of the generosity of Mrs. Nicholls.

THE EXAMINER'S ATTITUDE.

For its treatment of the Dwyer case the Examiner has no apologies to make.

To the complaint that too much publicity has been given to this disagreeable affair, the obvious answer is that where the comfort and the happiness—and the very lives—of little children are endangered a newspaper that did not expose the conditions as it saw them and fight for an investigation of these conditions would be derelict in its duty to the public it serves.

A "Hush, hush!" attitude toward such a case could not be taken by any paper which regarded its responsibility to the public seriously.

The Examiner does not propose to assume such an attitude in any case where it believes that the facts should be brought before the jury of public opinion.

To that jury it is willing to leave its treatment of this most unpleasant episode.

The Examiner urged an investigation when the conditions in the Dwyer household became known, and the machinery of the law having been put into motion, we have endeavoured to furnish the people of this district with complete and accurate reports of the proceedings.

The whole history of the case has been put before the readers of the Examiner, and we are satisfied to leave the verdict as to the Examiner's handling of the matter to them.

RECKLESS DRIVERS.

A study of automobile accidents, while it furnishes little clue as to the cause of some traffic mishaps, suggests the need of more rigid regulations in regard to the driver whose record proves him to be reckless enough to be a public menace.

There are not a few people who believe that where a motorist has been involved in an accident caused beyond a doubt by sheer reckless driving on his part he should be kept away from the wheel of a car, if not permanently, at least sufficiently long enough to cure him of his carelessness habits.

As it is such a driver, if he is lucky enough to escape from an accident unhurt, turns up blithely the next day "stepping on the gas" with the same reckless abandon.

There are in every section of the country motorists with a racing complex that causes them to try to pass every vehicle on the road.

They keep on speeding past car after car until sooner or later when they are travelling 55 or 60 miles an hour something goes wrong and there is a bad accident.

Citizens who claim that the law should step in and say to such motorists, "Your conduct shows clearly that you are not fit to be trusted to drive a car on the public highway. Until it is shown that you have learned to consider the safety of others you are forbidden to touch a wheel," are not very far astray.

A lunatic running at large with a loaded revolver would be quickly placed where he could menace nobody; why allow fools to threaten public safety with a motor car?

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

"We regret very much that the only cases coming before the jury are from the same districts from which a large number of serious criminal cases have come previously.

"We recommend that the Provincial Police give more attention and protection to these outlying districts.

"We are sorry to state that so far as we can learn that in spite of recommendations by previous Grand Juries the County Crown Attorney and various officials, nothing has so far been done to permanently relieve and improve conditions in these districts.

"We consider this to be a very serious state of affairs, and it is time that immediate action be taken."

This is the concluding paragraph of the presentment of the Grand Jury at the General Sessions of the Peace.

Thus history repeats itself.

Ten years ago a local Grand Jury made a 30-page presentment urging "immediate action" to remedy similar conditions in the same part of the county.

In the decade that has elapsed nothing has been done, and again we are faced with the same problem, met with the same demand for improved conditions.

What is to be done?

What steps can be taken to bring about a change in these districts that will make it unnecessary for a Grand Jury ten years from now to report "a very serious state of affairs?"

The satisfactory answering of these questions would mean much to Peterboro County.

FARMING AS CAREER.

In an article from the pen of Mr. C. W. Warburton, Director of Extension Work, U. S. Department of Agriculture, which recently came to hand, attention is called to the dangers of directing the lives of young people according to the whims of their parents, says the Hamilton Spectator. And as no one can properly advise another regarding the desirability of a career without knowing the person to whom the advice is given, it would seem to rest pretty much with the kids' own inclinations what they make of themselves. Mr. Warburton is, of course, particularly interested in agriculture, as a profession. "In recent years," he says in his report, "farming has not compared well with most other businesses as a money-maker and great numbers of people have left American farms to engage in other pursuits. Last year the net decrease was 480,000 and the preceding few years had shown even greater losses. Many of these people, I am sure, really preferred the country, but were forced by economic pressure to leave it. Most of the farming people, however, stayed on the land and they are at least making a living." Which, he might have added, is more than can be said of all those who left the rolling acres for the avenues. Mr. Warburton was writing of conditions in the United States, but his findings are applicable to Canadian agriculture, which has undergone similar experiences. There is no doubt that conditions are improving and there always will be a place for a big farming population, though it steadily becomes a smaller part of the whole. Young men will continue to choose the plow and the cow and the needs of agriculture are so various that there is room for those of widely differing tastes. One may have a love for the soil itself and its improvement, another may feel an urge to improve plants, another would be unhappy without well-bred animals about. There doesn't seem to be any particular necessity for a back-to-the-land movement, but there will always be a place for the man who has a genuine desire for farming. He will make the place and fill it and, even though his profits be small, he will enjoy his job.

IN "LI-LOCK" TIME

The possession of a flower-garden is not without its penalties, as those fortunate, or perhaps unfortunate, enough to cultivate one are commencing to rediscover to their sorrow in this season of lilacs, widely corrupted to become "li-locks." There seems to be a growing disposition on the part of many people, adults as well as children, to regard any person owning flowers as legitimate prey. Through want of sufficient energy or lack of sufficient initiative, these people will not develop gardens of their own, although that is simplicity itself in a community such as this, where spaces are ample. But they consider that it is the duty, if not the privilege, of their neighbors to keep their tables and their vases furnished with flowers and to provide their children with garlands to strew about the streets. Ownership of a flower-garden in this community implies a constant struggle to retain possession of one's own belongings. Whether consent to their use is granted or withheld, matters not. In either case the flowers disappear as if by magic and wrecked bushes are left in the wake of the assault.

People grow flowers as much for the sake of beautifying their premises as for keeping the neighborhood stocked with them, and according as the bushes and beds are wantonly stripped of their blossoms, so does the appearance of the entire vicinity suffer. It is distinctly discouraging to any person anxious to improve the appearance of his surroundings by the planting of shrubs and flowers to witness the treatment to which they are subjected by the general public. No bed of tulips may be planted in any place that is accessible, no lilacs may grow except behind a barbed wire, no roses may bloom within sight of the passer-by, without being subject to pillage. If the flowers stolen were put to any useful purpose the feelings of flower-growers would not be so outraged. No body would withhold decorations from the sick-room, the dining table or the teacher's desk in any reasonable measure. But there are a great many lovers and growers of flowers who object, and quite properly, to being deprived of the products of their labors and who resent the demands which they are expected to meet, particularly when no better use is made of the flowers than to scatter them profligately about the sidewalks.

The remedy is a simple one. Any person, at a moderate expenditure of time, energy and money, can grow flowers enough to meet his own needs and then have some to spare for the hospitals. There is no lawn or backyard in Brockville so restricted in its dimensions that it lacks space for at least a few flowers. To grow them is one of the simplest and most satisfying things in the world. If every person in the community planted flowers and tended them, perhaps they would find themselves as unwilling to part with them, as reluctant to have their bushes denuded of blossoms and as resentful of the trampling that their beds receive as those who suffer from this summer-time annoyance, one which appears to be growing instead of declining.

But whether or not more flowers are grown and fewer raids are made upon existing gardens, we wish teachers and parents alike would acquaint children with the fact that l-i-l-a-c-s spells "lilacs" and not "lilocks," with the emphasis upon the second instead of the first syllable. Its constant repetition is the most grating part of the whole business. With the poet we are inclined to lament:

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'Can we have some
'li-locks?' "—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

According to the committee auditor, Hiram Walker & Sons contributed to the campaign funds of both political parties in the last general election. The doctrine of safety first is at last making some headway.

As a short name for motor tourists the word "motourist" is suggested. There are many who feel that "detourist" would be still more appropriate.

A speaker not long ago complained that the average Canadian home had become merely a place in which to eat and sleep. He forgot to add, "and to brew beer."

If Chemong Park is to be Peterboro's picnic centre, it becomes all the more necessary to tame the speeder and the reckless driver.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the indiffenet attitude of foreign buyers in responding to the higher prices asked, the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday was extremely dull. The trade in cash grain on spot was also somewhat limited, but the tone of the market was steady.

There were no new developments in thef four trade, business being rather quiet, but prices for spring and winter wheat grades were well maintained.

The millfeed market was moderately active and firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet but firm.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good steady demand. The receipts were 4,168 cases.

The condition of the butter market throughout the week was strong and prices closed with a net gain of 1 3-4c to 2c per pound, which was attributed to the demand that developed for export account. The receipts were 3,461 packages.

The feature of the cheese situation the past week was the continued strength that prevailed in the market and prices closed with a net gain of 1c to 1 3-4c per pound. This was due to the increased demand from English importers. The receipts were 14,942 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 12 (Canadian Press).— Fine weather for harvesting of wheat in the southwest led to general selling here today and to lower prices for all grain. Wheat values closed weak at 1 1-4 to 2 cents net decline; corn 1-2 to 1 cent down; oats 3-4 to 1 1-8 cent off, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a setback of 30 cents.

With cutting of wheat well begun in Kansas and expected to be in full swing Monday throughout the southern part of the State, previous buyers were quick today to grasp profits on an early upturn in price here. Then speculative selling enlarged, houses with eastern connections taking the lead, and with buying support for the market giving out.

A widespread impression appeared to prevail that producers fould try to rush wheat to market to take advantage of comparative strength of cash premiums for wheat arrived to be delivered at once. A decidedly increased movement of wheat to primary centres was, therefore, soon expected.

Some slowing down of cash demand here for wheat accompanied the downward swing of the market for future deliveries. The cash wheat trading basis in Chicago was quoted unchanged to 1 cent lower, the latter for hard winter grades. For the week, July delivery of wheat here finished 2 1-4 to 2 3-8 cents off, and higher. Contributing to the weakness of the futures market today were beneficial scattered rains northwest both north and south of the Canadian line. Considerable export business in wheat was understood to have been done today at Winnipeg. It was pointed out that whereas a year ago United States wheat prices ruled equal to or higher than Liverpool, Chicago July wheat at present is 25 cents to 30 cents under Liverpool, indicating a stable basis for exports. Corn and oats declined with wheat.

Commission house selling, partly on foreign account, weakened the provision market.

REPLIES TO CITIZEN

Peterborough, Ont.,
June 12, 1926.

To The Editor,
Examiner, Peterborough.

Dear Sir.—If your correspondent of June 11, re Cadet Training, who signs himself Citizen, is willing to allow The Examiner to give me his name, I will undertake, providing he is a responsible person, to furnish him with exact figures of the following, which will no doubt prove to be very astounding:

(a)—Numbers (names if necessary) of those in the C.E.F. who had Cadet training.

(b)—Numbers names if necessary) of those in the C.E.F. who had Permanent Force, Non-Permanent Militia, and Imperial Army training.

Your correspondent is evidently misinformed when he states that most of the existing text books were scrapped owing to the tactics of the late war being different from the tactis as taught in pre-war days. Even if it were true I think it only proves why every patriotic citizen should do some training and keep up-to-date and on a par with other countries.

As to Cadet training, no boy who takes it is held any more liable to service, than any other person who is of military age, every Cadet's future action as a volunteer is based on his own desire as a citizen who respects his flag, his country and himself. As a conscript his action is based on having to do as he is told, irrespective of whether he has Cadet training or not.

IT'S NO HANDICAP TO BE ONLY CHILD

Psychological Tests Upset Some Popular Notions About Success.

What are the factors that make a man a success or a failure? On this question, which perhaps interests more people than any other, science of late has been altering our opinions radically.

A long-prevalent idea has been that the only child in a family suffers a decided handicap as far as success is concerned. And so we have been accustomed to pity the pampered youngster who grows up without the companionship of brothers and sisters. Now, however, comes John C. Stuart, psychologist at Colgate University, to upset this notion. From laboratory tests, says the July Popular Science Monthly, he concludes that the only child goes out into the world with as good a chance of success as a child with many brothers and sisters.

This investigator, in his tests, examined 465 students from families of different sizes. Eighty-one of them were "only children," 124 were from families with two children, and five had nine brothers and sisters each.

Another popular belief which seems now to be contradicted by psychological test is that a person who may be painfully slow in one line of endeavor may be unusually quick in another. Recent intelligence tests conducted at Harvard University indicate that the speed with which you think or act is as much a part of your personality as your disposition.

Students were asked to solve puzzles, complete sentences, and do a wide variety of mental tasks as quickly as possible. The results revealed that the students who showed the greatest speed in one test also excelled in most of the others, and that the rating of each student was practically uniform throughout the tests. Thus, the experiments seemed to demonstrate that a person who is slow at one thing is also slow at everything, and vice versa.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WHY THE PESSIMIST IS HAPPY

I have always failed to find true happiness. By devoting myself to the service of making others happy, I have found, even in the midst of my own anxieties and troubles, many happy hours. We cannot find happine —happiness finds us.

True hapipness is not like a potato or like corn, a thing to be planted and cultivated. True happiness is the effect and not the cause. No person can be truly happy all alone. It takes two to be truly happy and I'll be blamed if one can be very happy while the other is known to be unhappy.

There is but one exception to this rule and the exception is that of the pessimist. The pessimist is always happy for he convinces himself that no one can be happy, then congratulates himself that he is not alone in his misery and of course this makes him happy.

FRANCO SPANISH CONFERENCE MEETS TO-DAY TO DISCUSS KRIM AND FUTURE OF RIFF TERRITORY

Quai d'Orsay Favors Riffian Gendarmerie Under Command of European Officers.

EMIR'S FORTUNE.

Said to Include Money Gifted For Religious and Charitable Purposes.

PARIS, June 14 (Canadian Press).—The Franco-Spanish conference on Morocco begins today at the Quai d'Orsay under the most favorable auspices. General Jordana, Spain's chief military representative, declares, an agreement will neither be long nor difficult to realize."

The first question to be threshed out will be the future status of the Riff territory, whether Spain intends to occupy it, or whether a sort of constabularly akin to that established in the Philippines with native troops, will be organized to patrol the region.

The French are not exactly anxious to detach any number of their native troops from this on to aid the Spanish in pacifying and keeping order in what is essentially the Spanish zone under the treaty, but would not look askance at recruiting purely Riffian gendarmerie trained by French and Spanish officers.

Perhaps the thorniest problem to be discussed is what will be done with Abd El Krim, the Riffian chieftain. Up to the present the French authorities have professed that he would be treated magnanimously as befitting a warrior who had battled and lost valiantly. But sections of the French press are joining the Spanish now in demanding that a strict inventory be made of Abd El Krim's private fortune, removed from the Riff under French protection. The demand also that allegations of atrocities committed against Spanish prisoners be thoroughly investigated before final disposition is made of the former Emir.

It is charged among other things that Krim appropriated sums intended for the poor and for religious and charitable works in his domain, and it is contended that he must return them forthwith and also be made to atone for sufferings inflicted on prisoners, particularly women and officers.

A correspondent of The Temps says that Krim's protector, France, cannot be cruel, but if it wishes to keep Krim's respect, must be just, and adds: "The more rapid our justice is, the more efficacious it will be."

Money To Be Raised In Third Battle To Save From Gallows.

IN A GLASS CAGE.

CHICAGO, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Catherine Scott, wife of Russell Scott, condemned murderer, whose sanity has become a matter for the courts to decide for the third time in the fight to send him to the gallows, will go on an extended fast to try to raise money for his defence, Scott's lawyer announced Saturday night.

Mrs. Scott announced she will enter a glass cage on the stage of a local theatre to-day and will stay there as long as she can without food. A physician and nurse will examine her frequently.

WEDDING BELLS.

JEFKINS—ZUEFELT

WARKWORTH, June 14 — A quiet wedding took place at ten a.m. Wednesday, June 9th, at the home of Mrs. James H. Angus in the presence of twenty-five guests when her niece, Fleeta Lee, youngest daughter of Henry Zuefelt and the late Mrs. Zuefelt became the bride of Mr. Richard Jefkins of Chesley. Rev. Wesley W. oJnes, B.A., officiated.

To the strains of the wedding music played by Mrs. W. W. Jones, the bride gowned in sand georgette with embroidery trimmings entered the living room with her father.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the dining room where a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of. The dining room decorations were carried out in pink and white. The happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes to spend a few days in Toronto before leaving for their home at Chesley.

The bride travelled in navy taffeta dress with sand trimmings, navy coat and hat to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls.

The many beautiful gifts show the high esteem in which the couple were held.

Previous to her marriage Miss Zuefelt was given a linen shower by the members of her Sunday school class at the home of their teacher, Mrs. A. M. Smale.

Miss Zuefelt also received a presentation from a number of her neighbors.

New Jersey Pharmacists On "Bootleg" Druggists

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 14. — A State-wide campaign to force passage of a bill by the Legislature designed to drive "bootlegging" druggists out of business by permitting only registered pharmacists to own and operate stores will be conducted by the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association, which closed its firty-sixth annual convention in the Hotel Chelsea Friday. The convention directed a committee to draft such a bill for presentation to the next legislative session. A similar bill, as well as others affecting the drug business, was defeated at the last session.

CANADIAN UNIT IS ENTERTAINED AT CLEVELAND

Officials Say Celebration is Great Success—May Be Repeated in Toronto.

VISITORS HONORED.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Toronto's crack Scottish regiment brought the first annual Cleveland-Canada celebration to an end Saturday with a drill exhibition at Dunnfield

The 250 men in the regiment, clad in kilts, entertained the crowd at the Philadelphia-Cleveland baseball contest with their perfectly executed manoeuvres, led by a 100 piece band.

The Cleveland-Canada celebration, conducted to cement more closely the 100 years of friendly relationship between the two countries, accomplished its task in fitting stye, boht Canadian and Cleveland officials agreed.

George Wilson, President of the Toronto Board of Trade, declared the occasion such a success that he hoped a similar celebration could be held in the Canadian city soon.

Officers of the Scottish regiment were entertained on Saturday at a luncheon. In the evening they were guests of the Cleveland Grays at a formal military ball at Gray's Armory Music for the dance was provided by the two bands of the visiting regiment A two-foot silver cup was presented to the visiting troops there and they danced until the steamer sailed for Buffalo at 10.30 p.m.

Col. L. E Connelly, of the 145th Infantry presented the Kilties with his regiment's flag, a silken stars and stripes with a gold fringe. The Highlanders will carry it on all their parades, Col. C. C. Harbottle said, when he accepted the colors for his regiment.

This is the first time an American standard has been given to or will be carried by troops of a foreign nation. Col. Connelly believes

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How To Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines extracted from the fivers of the common codfish to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

So nowadays, medical men who keep up with times are ordering a tablet containing the vitamines that give to frail folks vigor, strength and weight—a tablet that is known as McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablet — and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after any severe illness.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Extract Tablet. McDermid & Jury, and Bond's Drug Store have a big demand for them and millions are sold monthly all over North and South America. They are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. 60 Tablets—60 cents.

BRITISH PEOPLE RAISE CLAMOR AGAINST SOVIET

Renewal of Agitation For Breaking Off Diplomatic Relations.

STRIKE FUNDS.

Question Will Be Debated in Both Houses of Parliament.

LONDON, June 14 (British United Press).—In spite of the British Government's note to Moscow protesting against the forwarding of Soviet funds to aid the striking miners, which the Government claims was sent with the concurrence, if not directly, through the agency of the Russian Government, which it was thought would at least temporarily satisfy the anti-Russian clamor that has been raised in England, the demand for an immediate and definite break of all relations between the two countries and the expulsion of all the diplomatic consular trading agents here is gathering momentum day by day and hour by hour.

All the old antagonism against the Soviet Government which has lain practically dormant since the general election was fought over the famous Zinovieff letter, has again been stirred up By sending money to the striking miners and by forwarding the sums that were stopped in transit to aid the general strike, the hopes of the Soviet Government of establishing better relations with England, which appeared more favorable two months ago than ever before, have been dashed to the ground, and the agitation against the Soviet has been renewed with even greater vehemence than before.

Current Very Strong

The British Foreign Office which is most interested in preventing an actual break at this time between the two countries, is being swept off its feet by the growing agitation and is unable to stem the current of popular disapproval of Soviet actions. The whole question of the forwarding of Soviet funds to Britain is going to be thoroughly discussed and ventilated in both the Lords and Common this week A large number of Tory back benchers, who probably form the majority, are determined to debate the question and, if necessary, to strengthen the hands of the Government.

A touch of comedy has been given to the strike situation by a resolution passed at a mass meeting of the strikers of Denbighshire, authorizing the committee to borrow three thousand pounds from the owners against whom they are on strike. They pledge themselves to repay the money at the rate of a penny a shift for men and a half penny a shift for boys. It is not yet known if the owners will agree to the proposal and lend the money.

MACHINE FALLS CRUSHING MAN

PROPS GIVE WAY.

NORWOOD, June 14.— Thomas Starke, a well known resident of Asphodel, was instantly killed on Saturday, when a machine he had been repairing, fell on him and crushed him to death.

Mr. Starke came into the village on Saturday afternoon for some repair parts, and after returning home began to repair the machine. The machine, which was a manure spreader and loaded, had evidently been jacked up and in some way the props gave way, letting the heavy load fall on him. He was found later by his little daughter. Help soon arrived but life was extinct.

The deceased, who was in his 44th year, leaves to mourn his loss his wife and three small daughters, also his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Starke, of Norwood, two brothers, John and David, of Asphodel and four sisters, Mrs. Gainor, (Jennie) of Millbrook, Miss Agnes Starke, of Detroit, Mrs. Ellsworth Hogg, of Asphodel, and Mrs. Gainor of Mather's Corners.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon from his late residence on the 12th line of Asphodel. Interment will be made in Trent

Modest French Sailors Refuse To Be Examined

NEW YORK, June 14 (Associated Press).—The French Embassy has had before it for solution the problem of reconciling the modesty of the crew of the French liner Paris to the health regulations of the port of New York.

Maintaining that personal modesty guided them in refusing to strip for examination, most of the crew of 748, denied shore privilege, strolled about the liner's decks and gazed longingly shoreward, where familiar haunts beckoned them. But they still refused to go through an examination. "We are humiliated," a spokesman for the crew said.

ONE GIRL KILLED OTHER MEMBERS OF PARTY HURT

Motor Car With Ten Occupants Goes Into Ditch at High Speed.

FOUR MAY DIE.

Driver of Car Held on Manslaughter Charge—Near Oakville.

TORONTO, June 14. — Canadian Press. — When a motor car driven by William Patterson, capsized in a ditch while going at a fast rate past the home of Lady Baillie, about two miles west of Oakville, Ont., on the Toronto-Hamilton highway, early on Sunday morning, one young woman was killed, four of the occupants were badly injured and may not recover, and five others, one young girl and four men, sustained slight hurts. The victims are as follows:

Dead: Loretta Bosley, aged 19.

Seriously injured: Gussie Perry, aged 18, Gloria Gray, aged 20, Dulcie Bosley, aged 16 (a sister of the dead girl), and Norman McMillan, aged 22.

The body of the dead girl was removed to the morgue where an examination showed that practically every bone in her body had been broken. An inquest will be held at Oakville to-night.

After an investigation by Chief of Police Kerr, of Oakville, Patterson was taken into custody on a charge of manslaughter. He is held without bail.

Inquiries at the ospital gained the response that those seriously hurt had only a bare chance for life. McMillan it is said is in the worst condition.

The party, ten in all, were on their way to Hamilton when the mishap occurred. The outing had been arranged by Patterson who both owned and drove the car, a large machine. All went well with the party until they got past Oakville. There the car was espied by an Oakville constable, earing along at between 40 and 50 miles an hour—in fact, he said the car was travelling so fast that he was unable to catch the number, despite the fact that the highway was fairly well lighted.

The accident occured at a bend in the road when the car went to the ditch, turning a complete somersault. The cries of the party were heard by servants on the Baillie estate.

All Slightly Improved.

TORONTO, June 14. Canadian Press. — All survivors of the automobile accident on the lakeshore road west of Oakville, early yesterday, were reported to be slightly improved in condition to-day. Eight of them are in the hospital, four of them seriously injured. Norman MacMillan, aged 22, remains in a critical condition with a fractured skull, concussion and internal injuries.

CITIES UNITE FORCES AGAINST CHICAGO CANAL

Plan Will Be Opposed Before Senate Committee in Washington.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

Former Secretary For War Will Examine Witnesses in Committee.

CLEVELAND, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Cleveland is preparing a mass attack on the plan to withdraw sufficient water from the great lakes to make possible a ship waterway from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico by way of Chicago's drainage canal. The opponents charge that Chicago is camouflaging an attempt to steal water for sewage disposal by sponsoring a waterway.

The struggle will take place before the Senate Committee in Washington in a hearing on the Rivers and Harbors Bill.

The plan opposed by Ohioans is included in a provision of the Rivers and Harbors Bill, which has passed through. Congressman Theodore E. Barton is marshal of the forces opposing the plan.

For the last three days Burton has been in Cleveland pleading for support from home and preparing a campaign.

In response to an urgent appeal from the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, a large delegation of business men from Cleveland and other lake cities left on Saturday for Washington.

Telegrams were sent by the Chamber to the trade bodies of all lake cities. Replies had been received from organizations in Lorai, Erie, Duluth, Toledo and Detroit, saying they will be represented.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, also is expected to be in Washington to examine witnesses before the Senate Committee.

It has been predicted that homes will be heated by radio in a few years.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., June 14.—A jury gave Miss Alfreda Johnson of Far Rockaway and New York, a verdict for $234.38 in her $25,000 damage action against Dr. John C. Ericson of White Plains. The suit was brought because in a recent auto accident her nose was broken. Miss Johnson's attorneys told Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor, Jr., that the jury had made a gross mistake in awarding such an inadequate amount for the breaking of the nose of a pretty young woman.

Justice Taylor agreed and set the value of the nose at $1,750. He told Dr. Ericson that unless he agreed to pay this amount the jury's verdict would be set aside and a new trial ordered.

COLOR BLINDNESS HEREDITARY

Color blindness, recent studies seem to indicate, is hereditary and is the result of a defect in the central nervous system, says the July Popular Science Monthly. It occurs oftener among boys and men than among girls and women, but in boys it is frequently only color ignorance, rather than an inherent defect.

As a corrective, special attention now is being given in the public schools to developing color sense among all the pupils.

HOUSE JANITOR'S STRANGE DEATH

W. Mitchell Found Hanging By His Feet, With Skull Fractured.

BORN IN ENGLAND.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 14 (Canadian Press).—William H. Mitchell, aged 62, local apartment house janitor, was found hanging by his feet, with his skull fractured, on the stairs leading to his home in the basement of the apartmept house, Saturday night. Mitchell died in hospital on Sunday morning. An inquest will be held.

Authorities are puzzled over the circumstances under which he was found hanging. His legs were twisted around the upright of the stairs railing and his body huddled on the cement floor, with his head turned in such a manner which suggested that his neck was broken.

Mitchell was born in England, coming to Canada many years ago.

It is believed that he is survived by grown-up children in Toronto and elsewhere in Canada.

SCHEDULE OF ODD JOBS AIDS UPKEEP

Cost of House Repairs Can Be Cut By Following Monthly Program.

Upkeep is a little brother to Overhead. They're a devious pair whom most home owners prefer to ignore. Yet in various guises they intrude themselves upon us all the time and help to keep our pocketbooks lean.

Doubtless Overhead is responsible for interest, taxes, insurance. We can't help these items, usually. But it is certain we can minimize the leaks and losses that Upkeep inflicts through deterioration and depreciation.

It is a good thing to have a month by month schedule of repairs, so that the various odd jobs can be anticipated and done in the proper season. A midwinter blizzard is no time to patch a leaking roof, nor is the fly period suitable for repairing screens. There is also the point of service and economy in buying equipment, as a heating plant, in the off-season, and likewise in hiring certain work to be done.

The following schedule of odd jobs and repairs for the summer and fall, which may be modified to suit local conditions, is recommended by John R. McMahon, a national authority on home ownership, in the July Popular Science Monthly.

June. Do all outside painting. Repair cistern, if any. Unlimber lawn-mower. Do any cement work.

July. Make thorough repairs on the roof. Replace all missing or rotted shingles and stop leaks. Inspect gutters and leaders for patching, painting or replacement.

August. A good time for excavations of any kind. If foundations or cellar walls need tarring or cement plaster, do it now. All kinds of general building can be done without much need for weather protection.

September. If a new heating plant is needed install it now. Apply weather stripping. Renew floors. Fix up the coal bin and put in a supply of winter fuel.

October. Get the heating plant ready to fire up. Clean chimney from the roof down. Point up loose bricks with cement. Connect furnace smoke pipe—new if required.

November. Take down screens and screen doors. Rake up leaves around the house. Start furnace.

HOT BATH AND HOT DRINK ARE COOLING

How To Eat and What To Wear To Keep Comfortable in Summer Weather.

What is the best way to keep cool in hot weather?

"A hot shower bath followed by a hot drink, taken during the hottest part of the day," is the most surprising of a number of answers to this problem given in the July issue of Popular Science Monthly.

The hot bath cleanses and opens the pores of the skin; the warm drink induces perspiration, which also cools off the body. The chief business of the skin, physiologists say, is not to throw off poison, but to regulate the temperature of the body. The pores, opening and closing, are the doors through which the body heat must escape. Heat opens them; cold closes them. Plunge into a tub of very cold water and the pores close tight, shutting in the heat, with the result that after your bath you feel hotter than ever. Warm water has the opposite effect, opening the pores wide and letting the heat escape.

The hot drink helps in causing perspiration, which cools you through evaporation. Much depends on the humidity of the air about you. If you are suffering from dry heat, the more you perspire the better, for the dry air will take up the moisture from your skin. If the air is moist, already saturated with water, perspiration drops will remain on the skin surface.

Another suggestion for keeping cool is to reduce the amount of body heat that has to be let out by avoiding heat-producing foods. Eat oranges, grapefruit and the seasonable fruits, non-starchy vegetables and raw vegetable salads. Eat lightly of meats, breads and potatoes and very lightly of cakes, pies and candies.

Of all the kinds of fuel with which we stoke our bodies, vegetables and fruits produce the least heat. Meats keep our body stoves roaring. Sugar, giving us heat in winter, is no friend in summer. Sweet drinks are to be avoided. A single ice cream soda, dietitian point out, often contains as many calories as a whole meal of meat, vegetables and bread.

A third suggestion is to wear clothes that are light in color, loose in weave and worn loosely to permit free circulation of air.

Farm wages, which figure so prominently in production costs, were higher in 1925 than in any of the years since 1920.

Albinos are found among almost every species of bird and animal.

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

HARRY MORTON, wealthy, middle-aged, attractive to women, and unmarried, lives in Peterborough, but maintains an apartment in Toronto.

His adopted daughter, AUDREY, loves him. He refuses to marry her, though he displays every indication of affection. She runs away from home, is brought back: goes into a cabaret chorus: leaves it: and finally suffers a nervous collapse. The specialist says it is because she has lived too strained a life for a young and tender girl.

NONA, a Toronto dancer, also loves Morton.

JOHN PARRISH, who loves Audrey, has resigned as Morton's secretary, despairing of ever winning Audrey.

As this chapter opens, Audrey, after a long period of unconsciousness, tells her guardian she has something to tell him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LI.

Nona and Morton bent over the bed. Audrey's eyes were fully open, for the first time since she lost consciousness. They looked uncertainly about the room, and finally fell upon Morton. Something like a little smile showed at the corners of her mouth. Her eyelids closed as if in great fatigue, but presently reopened. She moved her hand, and Morton took it in both of his, pressing it to his breast.

Daddy," she said, weakly. You've been so good—so good." Her voice died away. She seemed to be gathering her strength. I didn't—want you—to be sorry. Daddy, am I going to die?"

Her eyes closed for a moment. When they reopened, she was in Morton's arms, with her head resting in the hollow of his elbow.

The doctor says you won't die, darling," he said, in her ear. You are going to get well! Don't worry about anything, dearest."

She moved her head, negatively. I was—only—worrying about you."

She sighed, and her head settled heavily upon Morton's arm. He lowered her to the pillow, and she went on with her slumber as if there had been no interruption of it.

He turned to Nona, his arms stiffly extended and his palms turned outward. Nona, this is killing me!"

She put her arm around his neck, unheeding the white-capped nurse who watched them, and pressed her handkerchief against his swollen eyes.

Come down stairs with me, Harry," she told him.

Leading him by the arm, she took him out of the door, and down to the drawing-room. Get his dressing-gown, will you?" she asked the butler. He probably left it in his room when he went to see Miss Morton."

The servant returned presently with the heavy silk garment, and Nona helped Morton to don it. When it was on, she folded it over his knees, and gently placed his head against the padded back of the chair.

The doctor said I did it—that it was all my fault," he told her, his eyes looking off into a dark corner of the room.

She smoothed his forehead. I don't know just what he meant, Harry," she said, but I know this—you never did anything unkind to her, nor to anybody!"

She went into the hall, and wetting her handkerchief in the lavatory, returned and bathed his face.

She was sitting beside him, watching him as he sat, his eyes closed, when the physician arrived.

The doctor glanced incuriously at Nona, and then intently at the man who sat there. Morton raised his head.

Just about all in, aren't you?" said the doctor. He looked at Morton's wrist, and took his pulse.

A mighty good motor—but your electric wiring is short-circuited."

He turned to Nona. Are you a very close friend of his?"

Morton answered for her. She is a very dear friend," he said, his voice breaking a little.

Is your time free today?" the doctor proceeded.

I haven't anything to do until tonight," she told him.

Then take him out for a long walk, now. Walk him until he is so tired that he cannot take another step. Then see that he gets into bed."

He inspected her with a quick professional glance. You are an excellent walker, I take it," he said.

I am a dancer," she said.

He looked again, this time at her face, with a glint of recognition in his eye. Why certainly—I should have recognized you in the first place," he said. He is nearly used up, so I'm sure you can outwalk him. Will you do what I suggest?"

She arose, and came to him earnestly. I'd do anything in the world to help him, in any way I could."

He nodded, and turned to the stairway. I'll see my other patient, and while I'm gone—" he raised his voice, to attract Morton's attention— I want you to dress yourself, and get started on that walk."

Ten minutes later, Morton, with Nona holding to his arm, walked out of the building into the street. She pressed against him, and turned him toward the street that led to the park. His feet scuffed the pavement, from time to time, as she urged him forward. He lifted his chest, however, and held himself rigid, as if to prevent himself from stumbling.

Would you rather I'd let go of your arm?" she asked him.

He made a short negative movement of his head. Afraid I'd stagger," he told her.

He was silent, as they went on, block after block. She said nothing, but with her hand on his arm, glanced anxiously from time to time up into his heavily lined face.

He was walking more easily as they reached the softer pathways of the park.

The air is very sweet this morning," he said, as they turned into a byway.

She administered a gentle pressure to his arm. It will do you good, out here," was all she said.

Once, after they had been walking for more than an hour, he stumbled awkwardly.

Shall we go home, now?" she asked him.

I couldn't sleep," he told her, grimly. Let's keep walking. The doctor was right—I can't sleep, until I'm exhausted."

They went on together, Morton lifting his feet higher than was his custom. She kept close watch of him, and balanced him as he lurched.

They exchanged few words.

The doctor said I was trying to plant Audrey in the wrong soil," he said, at the end of the second hour of walking.

She did not answer.

They had been on their way four hours, when his knees began to waver. He looked about helplessly.

"Can you find a taxicab?" he asked, his voice suddenly weak. He was trembling, and she helped him to a bench. Then she ran to the main boulevard, through the shrubbery. He sat, slumped upon the seat, until she returned.

"I'm so sorry," she said. "There isn't a taxi anywhere in sight. Listen—can you walk as far as my house?"

He nodded, and they set off, abandoning the paths and walking across the grass. His feet were leaden, and he moved with difficulty. She was supporting his elbow with both hands, and guiding him as one would guide a child who just was learning to walk.

It seemed hours to them both, before they reached her apartment. She assisted him into the elevator, and swung open her own door. With her arm around his waist, she led him to her couch, and he fell heavily upon it. She kneeled, as she lifted his feet, and laid him recumbent upon the silken cover. Undoing his tie, she loosened his collar, and took it off. From her bedroom she brought a blanket and threw it over him.

Then she bent and kissed his closed eyelids. "Go to sleep, now, Harry," she said, softly. Then she moved back and sat, watching him. He was already asleep, his breathing heavy, his arms crossed upon his chest.

From time to time the girl, rising, adjusted the windows to shut off the draft from the sleeping man, or rearranged the blanket that lay over him. Once the telephone rang. Leaping to it, she took the receiver off the hook, while she thrust her handkerchief beneath the bells. Then she restored the receiver, without answering the call.

The afternoon wore on, and it was toward evening when a loud knock on the door startled her again. She threw it open, and placed her finger to her lips. Abe Sunshine was standing outside, smiling jovially.

His face fell, as she pointed to Morton on the couch. "Sh-h-h!" she hissed.

Mr. Sunshine looked curiously at Morton, and then at Nona. "Drunk?" he whispered.

She drew him out in the hall, and pulling the door to, she told him rapidly what had heppened. He gave vent to lively expressions of sympathy.

"And now I don't know what to do," she wailed. "I've got to go to the theater tonight, and I can't leave him alone!"

"But I don't have to dance," said Abe, cheerfully. "I'll stay with him myself, until he wakes up. He'll be all right!"

The girl gave him a quick, appreciative hug, and he pinched her cheek in response.

"You must be in fine shape for dancing after all that walk," he said. "Look at those circles under your eyes!"

She went back in the room, and peered into the mirror. Abe stood watching in the doorway.

She took him into the hall again, out of hearing of the man upon the couch. "You know," she confessed, "I went over to Harry's apartment after the show was over, last night, and I haven't had a wink of sleep since yesterday morning!"

He gave a shrill whistle, which she stopped by clapping her hand over his mouth. "Don't wake him up!" she urged.

Mr. Sunshine's sympathy now had turned to her. "Mr. Morton there, he's all right, and his daughter, she's got somebody to look after her," he said. "But who's going to look after you?"

Mr. Sunshine proceeded to give her urgent instructions. "You go inside there, and take a cold bath, and then you go down stairs, and get yourself all the strong coffee you can drink. Then you eat as much as you want to, and between turns at the theater, you LIE DOWN!"

She tiptoed into the room, Mr. Sunshine carefully following, and as he sat beside the couch, she went into the bed-room and closed the door. There was a faint sound of running water, and Mr. Sunshine nodded in satisfaction.

She left him sitting there, and adjured him to silence again, with her finger to her lips.

Night fell, but Mr. Sunshine did not light the lamps. The room was illuminated only by a glimmer from the street lamps far below. Once or twice, restlessly, he got up and moved around to relax his tired muscles.

A little after nine o'clock, he had retired into Nona's bedroom for a cigaret. He was startled by a sound from the other room. Opening the door, he peered toward the couch.

Morton's arms were moving, and suddenly he sat up.

"Audrey! Audrey! Audrey!" his call was shrill and agonized. Mr. Sunshine ran toward him.

Morton had dropped his feet to the floor, and was staring into the darkness.

"Too late!" his voice raised higher. "Dead!"

She Was Troubled With Chronic Constipation

Once your bowels become constipated you are in for a lot of trouble, as constipation is one of the most prolific sources of disease that the human race is addicted to, therefore a free motion of the bowels every day should be the aim of everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Mrs. O. W. Lawrence, Cloverdale East, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with chronic constipation, and became so bad I was almost afraid to eat anything.

One day I saw your advertisement of

so I got three vials, and after taking them I have never been troubled since with constipation."

WEDDING BELLS.

THOMPSON—BARNARD.

BAILIEBORO, June 14.—A pretty wedding took place at 12.30 o'clock on Tuesday, June 8th, at the United church, Bailieboro, when Harriett Ethel, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Barnard, Bailieboro, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to William Elias Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thompson, Hazlett street, Peterborough.

The bride, who was attired in white satin with trimmings of silver lace, wearing a bridal veil with orange blossoms, and silver shoes to match, and carrying a bouquet of ophelia roses, entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by her sister, Miss Loretta Barnard, and was given away by her father, Rev. W. H. Foley performing the ceremony.

Miss Edna Thompson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a cocoa georgette dress with trimmings of ribbon and lace and hat to match and carried ophelia roses.

Mr. Fred Barnard, brother of the bride, was best man.

The church was handsomely decorated with a floral arch and profusions of apple blossoms, tulips, lilacs, ferns and flowering plants, forming a picture or rare beauty.

After the ceremony the immediate friends of the young couple motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served.

The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial cheque, to the bridesmaid a lovely bar pin, and to the pianist a beautiful ring, to the best man and ushers golf cuff links.

The wedding gifts were numerous and costly and the happy couple have the good wishes of the entire community.

The honeymoon will be spent in visiting Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Buffalo and other points, and upon their return will reside at 122 Hazlett street, Peterborough.

Among those from a distance who were present at the wedding were Rev. and Mrs. Foley, Fraserville, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thompson, Miss Edna Thompson, Mr. Albert Thompson, Miss C. Finley and Mr. Clarence Starr, all of Peterborough.

MAGIC EYE SECRET OF RADIO PICTURES

That it is possible today to send pictures by radio across the Atlantic or by wire across the continent, and that it may be possible before many years by television to see distant events as they happen, is due to the perfection of a little glass instrument no larger than your hand, yet one of the most wonderful devices ever conceived. It is the photo-eletric cell, an electrical "eye" so keen that it is almost as sensitive to light as the marvelous mechanism of the human eye, of which it is a copy.

The real secret which enables this little instrument to perform its marvels, says Popular Science Monthly for July, lies in its ability to translate variations of light into corresponding variations of electric current. This is the property which has made it possible not only to transmit pictures over long distances, but to perform intricate and astonishing new scientific calculations in terms of electricity.

Only the other day, for example, the photo-electric cell was employed by Professor Joel Stebbins, director of the Washburn Observatory of the University of Wisconsin, to measure and weigh stars so far distant that their light takes hundreds of years to reach us. The same little glass tube likewise enabled Bengt Stroemgren, the sixteen-year-old scientific wizard of Denmark, to register the movement of the stars automatically.

A typical photo-electric cell consists of a small glass tube with a bulb at one end, somewhat resembling the tubes in your radio set. On the inside surface of the bulb is a thin coating of potassium or similar material sensitive to light, and from this coating a sealed-in wire runs to the outside of the bulb. In the center of the bulb and separated from the sensitive element is a ring of non-sensitive metal—platinum or nickel—and from this another wire runs out through the stem of the tube. The two wires are connected through a battery which constantly applies electrical pressure to them and through an amplifier. At one point on the bulb is a little window through which light can be admitted.

Whenever light, passing through the window, strikes the sensitive film, the latter instantly shoots off electrons, establishing an electric circuit and permitting current to flow through the wires. When the light ceases, the current ceases. Thus the variations of light and shadow in a photograph, for example, are translated into variations of electric current.

INDIAN VILLAGE FOR NEW YORK

An Indian garden and village soon will be erected in the Bronx, New York, as part of the Museum of the American Indian, says Popular Science Monthly. The first wing to be built will contain a museum of Indian relics. When the whole building is completed, the open patio in the center will be occupied by a botanical garden of plants used by North American Indians as food and as medicine. Full-sized models of Indian dwellings also will be constructed to give a realistic idea of Indian home life.

Making Dishwashing Harmless to the Hands

NO longer need dishwashing be an unpleasant task!

A spoonful of Lux softens the dishwater, works wonders in cleansing and leaves the hands smooth and presentable.

Lux is a bland soap that is quite as effective as harsh and strong cleansing agents. A little goes a long way.

The popularity of Lux has encouraged imitation.

BETHANY TABERNACLE

Rev. D. N. Cameron, in his messages yesterday, in connection with the special meetings now being held in Bethany Tabernacle exalted Christ and the Gospel before attentive audiences in a most helpful way. In the morning service he took for the basis of his message the incident in John 21, of Jesus' questions to Peter "Lov'st thou Me?" In a searching discourse, the speaker emphasized the truth that the loving arms of Jesus were always extended to restore one of His own who had taken fellowship with Him.

In the evening service Mr. Cameron spoke from John 10, 1-18, on "The Good Shepherd." He said: "All that took place in the life of Jesus,—His life, death, and resurrection, was that He might find you and me, the world's lost sheep.

The speaker graphically pictured from incidents in the life of Eastern shepherds the faithfulness of the shepherds to their charges,—the innocent, thoughtless, silly sheep. David rescued the sheep of his flock from the jaws of the bear and lions, and the cruel jaws of sickness, accident, sorrow and death, have not closed upon us because Jesus, the Greater Shepherd, has slain the lion. Mr. Cameron devided his discourse under four heads: (1) The Great Shepherd, knows his sheep. He knows your address, your life, your business, your cares, your needs. He who knows also cares and his power, because He is a Great Shepher, has power to help.

(2)—He Cares: A person may do what they will, go where they choose, do what they may, they will never come to the hour this side of eternity, if they look up by faith to God that they will find the grace of God against them. For He cares.

(3)—He gave His life for His sheep, the speaker illustrating here by the daring of the Scottish shepherd, in rescuing a wandering sheep by swinging over a dangerous precipice by a rope. Jesus, the Great Shepherd, by the rope of Divine Grace, swung over the great precipice of men's awful sin to rescue them from death.

At the close of the service several responded and took definite stand to accept the Great Shepherd as their Saviour and Lord.

These meetings will continue all this week. Meetings begin at 8.00 p.m. A half-hour prayer preceeds these services. All are invited to join us in the prayer service at 7.30.

The subject tonight will be: "A Hard Question to Answer."

There will be a meeting Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

Mr. Allan said he did not know whether the average individual is acquainted with the marvel of the modern newspaper. People take it as a matter of course, he said, just because it comes to their hand day after day with unfailing regularity. A person pays three cents for it and if one was to judge it just by the paper that is in it that is all it would be worth, but "think of the vision that is behind the average newspaper," he said. "Think of getting the news from all parts of the world, then verifying it, and then after it is collected in skeleton form the time, strength and ability that is put into rewriting it. You needn't tell me," said Mr. Allan, "that the day of miracles is past. I never handle a modern newspaper but I realize I have a modern miracle within my hands."

Mr. Allan then went on to speak of the mechanical end of the paper with its almost human-like machinery and yet," he said, "there are few of us who ever give it any thought."

"There is a paper in this community that is far from being an ordinary newspaper," he said, "and I am saying this with no feeling of insincerity or blarney. I have come to like 'The Examiner'; I like it from its managing director down to the lad who sometimes walks across my lawn when he delivers it." He stated that he looked for it from night to night, and had come to regard it as a friend, and, speaking of it as a friend, he wanted to say that it was not perfect. "There is no such thing as perfection to be had excepting God Himself," said Mr. Allan.

The speaker stated that he had been interested in the editorials in "The Examiner," and mentioned one in particular that was written in connection with the speed of the 'buses running along the lakeshore to Toronto, and the advisability of making them keep within the legal speed of 25 miles an hour. "If I had been writing that editorial I would not have written it at all," declared Mr. Allen. There are times when a person can exceed the legal speed with safety, and there are other times when a much slower speed may be exceedingly dangerous. The speaker said that he was in the utmost sympathy with the law that would curb reckless driving, but he had no hesitation in saying "there isn't a person here who drives a car but breaks the existing law every time he gets on one of our public highways." "There is a dog law in Peterborough," he said, "that was passed in 1917 which demands that every dog on the street should be led on a leash, and yet you find that there is a dog catcher hired by the city to catch dogs that are running at large. I believe he gets a dollar for every dog he catches," said the speaker, "and the dogs he gets are the kind that anyone could catch. The ones he should get know enough to keep away. If I had my way," he said, "I would pay him a decent salary to stay at home on his verandah and leave the dogs alone, or, better still, pay him to stay out at night and get the cats."

The speaker said that he did not find fault with the news "The Examiner" served or the way it served it, but drew the congregation's attention to the front page of June 7, on which were featured tragedies of various kinds. "I don't blame 'The Examiner' for that nor do I criticize their headlines, but what I would like to ask you is, is that the kind of news that makes the strongest appeal to your natures? The fault is not with the paper but with the people.

"You can go into any news agent's in any city," he said, "and find on the shelves certain magazines labelled 'True.' I would sooner take a chance and wear a white duck suit and go through a city sewer and expect to come out clean than read that type of magazine and expect to keep my mind clean," he said. To-day there is culture, some believe it is superior to what existed before. "We have education, supposed to be of the finest; service clubs, all doing an able work; conveniences such as were never had before, and the fact about it all worth noting is this," he said. "There are more murders than in any previous time in the world's history. The reason is that all our vaunted advantages lie on us like a veneer. That's why a paper with conservative ideas like 'The Examiner' gives the public the glaring headlines. By some strange law," he said, "we take a morbid interest in reading these stories."

"In conclusion," said Mr. Allan, "I am making use of a friend in the shape of this newspaper to bring home to you an old message in a new way—'There is none righteous, no, not one'."

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED.

The Sunday school anniversary was fittingly observed by the children of St. Andrew's United Church yesterday morning. The entire service from beginning to end, was carried out by the scholars under the able direction of Mrs. J. A. McKone, to whom great credit is due for the excellent manner in which the various numbers on the varied programme were rendered. The entire programme was of such a nature that only constant practice could have brought it to the high level that it obtained. A Sunday school orchestra composed of twelve scholars, provided the music, while the Sunday school choir of about seventy five voices, rendered several numbers in splendid unison. One very effective scene was the singing of "Land of Hope and Glory" by Jean Padget, the entire congregation standing and singing with the soloist whilst on the platform three boy scouts in uniform unfurled the Canadian flag and then stood to the salute.

Little Winnifred Dobbin dressed in Chinese costume, sang "Jesus Loves Me" in the Chinese language, performing her act in a very creditable manner.

The programme was as follows:
Entire chorus: I was Glad.
Praise God from whom all blessings flow.
Anniversary hymn. Choir and orchestra.
Hymn 273: Entire congregation.
Responsive Bible reaing.
Children's day exercises:
Vincent McLean—Herald.
Dorothy Foster—Queen of Summer.
Ruth McNeely—Cradle Roll.
Jack Roper—Beginners.
Donald Hill—Primary.
Barbara Foster—Intermediates.
Chorus: Praise the Lord—Beginners.
Chorus: "I'll be One" — Primary, accompanied by Allison Gordon, piano, Jack McKone, John Weddell and Tom Cragg, violins.
Solo: Jesus Loves Me (Chinese)—Winnifred Dobin.
Recitation: The Good Chepherd, Helen Heffernan.
Duet: The Little Lost Sheep — Jean McKone and Isabelle Weddell.
Choir: Praise and worship.
Hymn 648: Entire congregation.
Solo: Land of Hope and Glory — Jean Padget.
Solo: My Canada—Barclay McKone.
Offering.
Chorus: My Jesus I Love Thee—Canadian Girls in Training.
Closing chorus—Christ's Banner of Love and God be with you till we meet again. Entire congregation.
National anthem.

CANADIAN AVIATOR WINS TROPHIES

Major Walter Sussan of Ottawa, a veteran of the Canadian flying forces in the World War, who has since seen service in Russia and with the French in Morocco, is shown at the left above. He is now at home in Ottawa after ten years of almost continued warfare in every quarter of the globe, in the course of which he won 18 military decorations. With him, Major Sussan has brought a trophy provided by the International League of Aviators, of which he is a vice-president, for the best individual performance by a Canadian airman. This trophy is shown at the centre; while on the right is the Lafayette Escadrille trophy provided by the league for the annual international aviation competitions. Princess Roussadana Mdivani of Paris, who designed the two trophies, is shown standing beside it.

HE'S OLDER THAN HIS ALMA MATER

But Dr. Ferguson, Queen's Oldest Living Graduate and Its Oldest Living Professor, Is Still Going Strong—Came to Queen's at Age of 18.

Queen's College was only entering upon its sixth year when George Dalrymple Ferguson, going on 18, hung his cap on a peg in the "front hall" of the then humble home of that infant institution and became a "Queen's Man."

Today, Professor the Rev. George Dalrymple Ferguson, B.A., M.A., L.L.D., is going on 97 and "going strong." He's still a "Queen's Man"—the oldest living graduate of the University, and its oldest living professor.

George Dalrymple Ferguson was born on Christmas Day in 1829, in Montreal, where his parents at that time resided. In due course they came to Kingston where the young son, having passed through the phase of his primary education, entered Queen's in 1847, graduating and receiving his B.A., in 1851. He then proceeded to Edinburgh where he obtained his M.A. and returned to Canada to be ordained in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in 1855. He continued in the ministry until, in 1870, he became professor of History, English Language and Literature at Queen's, and, in 1876, the first civilian member of the faculty of the new established Royal Military College, being able in those days to divide his time between both institutions. He taught History, English and French at R.M.C., for a number of years, and is now the only surviving member of the early staff of the military school.

Professor Ferguson became an accomplished linguist, speaking French, German, Italian and other languages fluenty. He travelled widely, and retained his active professorship at Queen's until 1908, retiring in that year as Emeritus Professor of Histoy, and in 1914 receiving the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from his Alma Mater.

Professor Ferguson has known Queen's since the day it was born, and he has seen it through its many vicissitudes, while the names of many of those honored as of the early history of the University, and of those revered in the memory of its later graduates, are the names

Weather permitting, Professor Ferguson is to be seen two or three times a day walking among the tall trees in the City Park at Kingston—trees, many of them mere saplings when he first knew them. And occasionally he ventures over to the Campus, and amid the weathered limestone buildings, each of which he has seen come into being, one by one, as Queen's has grown through its "eighty-five years of loyal service."

Professor Ferguson appears just a trifle pessimistic about the prospects for a two-and-a-half-million-dollar addition to Queen's Endowment Fund, all in one heap. He says "it's a lot of money." But he agrees that there are a lot of Queen's folks out to "do or die."

His precedent of "doing" provides an example which, if followed, may well preclude the alternative.

PRESENTATION TO REV. E. O. SEYMOUR

Congregation Expresses Regret at Departure of Pastor.

HAVELOCK, June 14.—A congregational banquet was held in the United church on Thursday evening to express to the Rev. E. O. Seymour, who leaves at the end of this month to take up his pastoral duties in Fenelon Falls, appreciation of his faithful services as pastor during the six years he has been in Havelock.

Tables, attractively decorated with lilacs and laden with a tempting array of good things to satisfy the "inner man," were laid in the Sunday school room. During the meal the Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Mr. R. Bonny, rendered a number of selections which were, as usual, appreciated.

Mr. Seymour and his esteemed mother will be very much missed in Havelock and many regrets are being voiced at the severing of the church relationship. Through his influence, during his pastorate here, he has been the means of two local young men entering the ministry, one of whom, the Rev. Ralph Spencer of Hall's Bridge, was present and spoke a few well-chosen words of appreciation of the help and inspiration he had received from Mr. Seymour. He said: "I cannot overestimate his help to me and hope he will win as many young men in his new field of labor as he did here."

To show their appreciation of the valuable services rendered, the congregation presented Mr. Seymour with a handsome gold watch and the following address, his mother with a silk shawl, and little Marian with a Bible, as a slight memento of the Havelock congregation:

Havelock, Ont., June 10, 1926.

Dear Mr. Seymour—We, the members of The United Church of Canada in Havelock, are gathered together this evening to express our appreciation of the earnest efforts you have put forth in the past six years to point out to us the way of life. Like the preacher immortalized by the poet Goldsmith, you have "allured to brighter worlds and led the way." In the pulpit, your able and fearless exposition of the truth has left a deep impression on us in the cause of righteousness. You have rejoiced with us in our times of gladness and those who mourned have been cheered and uplifted by your warm-hearted sympathy as you pointed out to them the one and only source for the healing of all earthly griefs.

We wish also to express our love and esteem for your dearly-beloved mother, who has been an inspiration to you and to us all. Her wide experience and devoted zeal have been an aid and encouragement to the ladies of the congregation in their various church activities, and we pray that God's richest blessing may rest upon you and her and little Marian, as you go forth to labor for the Master in another part of His vineyard.

We, therefore, ask you to accept these gifts to remind you in a slight way that you will always have a place in the hearts and memories of the people of Havelock.

Firman Haig,
Harrison Wing,
Edward Fennell,
Secretary of Official Board.

Mr. Seymour's reply was marked by emotion and genuine appreciation. He said, in part: "I express from the depth of my heart my appreciation of the kindness and thoughtfulness for this you have done. I have not come to realize yet that I am about to leave the community. I am not longing to go. This has been my home and has been from the day I came here. Six years has brought a good many problems and trials and never can I be forgetful of the kindness shown to me and to my home through the trials and passing away of her who was so dear to me. Never so long as I live can I forget the kindness of friends in Havelock."

Rev. Howard Seymour, of Shannonville, thanked the congregation on behalf of his mother for the kindness shown to her during the time she has been here.

Speeches by the chairman, Mr. D. R. Fletcher, Mr. Edward Fennell, secretary of the official board, and Mr. R. Bonny, leader of the choir, all expressed regret that Mr. Seymour was about to terminate his pastorate here and hope that God would bless him in the work he is about to undertake.

MODERN MEMBERS WANT AUTOMOBILES

Mennonite Assembly Faced With Dissension Over Young Members.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., June 14.—(Canadian Press.)— One thousand Mennonites, members of a religious sect, first established in Holland in 1864, began assembling in Kirchnerville to-day for the annual conference, faced with dissension over the modernist views of the younger generation. The delegates come from Canada and all parts of the United States.

Among other changes, the modernist group urges the reading of newspapers hitherto forbidden and that Mennonite adherents be allowed the use of automibles.

BOMB MAKERS KILLED.

LISBON, Portugal, June 14 (Canadian Press). — Two men were blown to pieces and one badly mutilated in an explosion which wrecked two floors of the Builders' Syndicate headquarters in Oporto today. The authorities declare the men were manufacturing bombs. The building also houses the Young Syndicatists' Association.

THE EVOLUTION OF DEMOCRACY IN THE EMPIRE

Thoughtful Address Delivered By Kiwanian Joe Wearing.

ROME'S DOWNFALL.

Speaker Draws a Parallel Between the Two Great Empires.

The evolution of democracy in the British Empire provided Kiwanian Joseph Wearing with a fruitful topic for discussion before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today and the speaker's thoughful and eloquent treatment of this interesting subject was thoroughly enjoyed by the many Rotarians present.

Rotary is preparing for its Boys' Camp and at the beginning of today's meeting, Rotarian Tom Dutton distributed questionnaires in regard to the number of boys for which Rotary's members are to be responsible.

The speaker for today was wittily introduced by Rotarian V. J. McElderry.

Mr. Wearing drew a parallel between the British Empire and the Roman Empire, briefly sketching the history of the latter and discussing the causes that led to its downfall.

It was a singular development, he said, that the Italy of today was once more under the domination of one man, a fact that indicated the Latin people had learned but little from their own history or were temperamentally unfit for self government. In Mussolini was seen once more Julius Caesar and one wondered when Brutus was going to appear again and who would be the modern Augustus.

The speaker then rapidly reviewed the growth of democracy in Britain. Mentioning the five great charters of British liberty, commencing with the Magna Charta. He showed how steadily, step by step, democracy had been evolved until today the greatest measure of liberty was enjoyed by the whole British Empire. Mr. Wearing stressed particularly the peculiar adaptability of the British people toward democratic government, and the success with which the British royal family had adopted themselves to the existent conditions with the result that no monarch in the world's history had ever been more firmly established on his throne than King George. The tide of democracy flowing from the British Empire and from that great neighbor of Canada which owed its birth to the British readiness to fight for liberty, would in God's time, Mr. Wearing was confident, spread over the whole world until among all the nations of the earth there would be found the same harmonious relationship as existed among the different parts of the British Empire.

On motion of Rotarian Dr. A. W. McPherson, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the speaker.

Advise Women

to discard old hygienic methods and retain freshness every day

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary-pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. 8 in 10 better class women employ it. Proves the folly of old ways.

KOTEX

No laundry—discard like tissue

A few cents invested in a small want ad. will find, sell, rent or secure most anything for you. Give it a trial. 'Phone 1600 and your ad will be called for.

FIVE ARE KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Coke Oven at Gary, Ind., Blows Up, Wrecking Building.

75 OTHERS HURT.

GARY, Ind., June 14 (Canadian Press).—Five men were killed, four of them instantly, by explosion believed to be due to gas, in the coke oven of the by-products plants of the Illinois Steel Company here, early today. Seventy-five others were injured ,a dozen of them seriously, when a two-storey brick building was wrecked.

The coke oven department, a two-storey brick structure was virtually wrecked. The bodies of the dead and injured were removed with difficulty.

PROSPECTORS SAY THEY WERN'T LOST

Had Plenty To Live on and Enjoyed Outing in Haliburton.

LINDSAY, June 14.—(Canadian Press.)—W. J. Wetherhead and E. D. Solomon, two prospectors who were lost in the woods north of Haliburton for over a fortnight, and who were found last week, accompanied by the former's son, passed through from Haliburton to their homes in Toronto this morning. They claim that they lost their bearings only twice in two and a half weeks they were absent from the camp; that they were never worried; that they had plenty to live on; and were enjoying their outing.

No explanation is offered as to why they failed to return to their companion, Winges, or notify anyone of their disappearance. They state that they were prospecting and out for recreation.

DELICACY.

Paris Prints A Guide To Chic

Since fashion decrees simplicity of line, she is especially careful of detail; and since the jabot is most enthusiastically approved of by the mode, this frock of polka-dotted voile uses one effectively, fashioning it of plain contrasting color to harmonize with the semi-mannish collar. The diagram, in lower right-hand corner, pictures the simple design of this little frock, which has each side of the front slashed and gathered over the bust, creating a yoke effect, while the back is quite straight and in one piece. The jabot is made from a straight strip of material six inches wide, having the outer edges bound or picoted, and is tacked to the underneath side of the flat plait which covers the front opening. The pattern provides long sleeves gathered into narrow wrist-bands. NO. 1098 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years requires 3¾ yards figured material; ⅝ yard plain contrasting for trimming. Price 20 cents.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

TOOTH SHADE.

A patient was getting his first set of "artificial" teeth, and remembering that his lost natural set had been yellow and somewhat stained, he admonished his dentist to be sure to give him nice white teeth.

Now, the dentist advised otherwise. But why? Because, should this man appear suddenly with teeth much lighter in shade than the ones lost, the fact would be noticeable to his friends at once, their very whiteness would betray them.

Whereas, employing a shade of tooth not so greatly differing from that of his lost natural ones, most probably the newness of his set would pass pretty much unobserved—which is wholly desirable.

Being observant you will have noticed complexions vary widely, and that the teeth correspond in hue and shade to the complexion in every case, and thus made inconspicuous, they suit each face. So it is that the dentist, in selecting the shade for a new set of teeth, must follow the laws of harmony.

Remember that in the child the tooth is white in hue, but that as age increases, the shade progressively darkens, hence, you cannot always expect to keep your teeth pearly white.

But should you be so unfortunate, at any time, as to require "artificial" teeth, you can safely leave the selection both of hue and of form to your dentist, who is in every sense a real artist as he faithfully attempts to harmonize them with your facial individuality.

WOMEN AND HOMES.

Are you a properly-treated wife? If so, your home equipment will include one carpet sweeper, one hair broom, one chemical floor mop, one polishing mop, one self-wringing mop, one wool mop for walls, one weighted brush for waxed floors, one long-handled scrub brush, dustless dusters, knife and fork cleaner, metal polishes, one power unit (to whip eggs, cream, mix batter, knead bread, grind meat), one sewing machine, one grill, one electric fan, one electric pad, one electric heater, one electric washing machine (or water power), one wringer, one clothes dryer, one electric iron, one washboard, one clothes sprinkler, shirt and stocking drying forms, one ironing machine, folding ironing-board table, folding sleeve-board, bread mixer, dish dryer, electric dish washer, cake mixer, steam pressure cooker. The list comes from a national Household Institute. We can imagine it furnishing grounds for some 'steen-thousand divorce cases!

THE IDEAL HOSTESS.

I have stumbled across these rules as ingredients in the recipe for an ideal hostess. Can you qualify?

Learn the mechanics of the home so well that they become unconscious operations.

Take advantage of every tid labor-saving device and have physical and mental strength for your guests.

Budget the family income and have funds for entertaining.

Study human nature; know your guests.

Be self-effacing, kind, considerate.

Ignore any mishaps or mistakes.

Be sympathetic, poised and natural.

WEDDING GIFTS.

If one is merely a formal acquaintance of a bride and groom and is merely invited to the church ceremony and not to the home reception or breakfast, a gift is not a social obligation.

FACES AND SUNBURN.

The summer girl is between the w.k. diabolic one and the deep blue sea when it comes to keeping her beauty

If you go without a hat, some beauty experts tell her, your hair will grow mellow with red-gold lights. If you go without a hat, say othe. beautifiers, your skin will grow red as a lobster, dry as Melba toast, and brown as a nut. I lean to the hatless faction, but I suggest the use of vanishing cream before swimming or hiking in the sun, cream cleanse at night, and a face bath in sour milk or cream.

YOUR HOME'S BEAUTY.

All good home color schemes, say the decorators, use complementary hues rather than analogous harmonies. Thus, green, blue, yellow, orange, red and purple are prime colors. If blue is a basic color in a home scheme, green and purple would be analogous colors, but orange is a complementary color and would be much better with the blue than the purple or green. Study cretonnes for their lesson in the use of colors.

FUNNY KIDLET STORIES.

"Aren't there any funny stories to read to the youngsters? It seems to me that every time I pick up a fair book, the story's all about the cruel stepmother who fed the lovely girl poison, and the king who put his son in a caldron of boiling oil—and all that stuff!" writes "A Mother" to me.

Then you don't know Pyle's "Pepper and Salt" book of stories, or Bryant's "Stories to Tell to Children," which includes the rollicking tale of "Epaminondas;" Thorne—Thomsen's "East O' the Sun and West O' the Moon," with its story—of "Husband Who Was to Mind the House," and Wiggin's "Tales of Laughter."

A New Princess Frock Tucks Itself at the Hip

A Summer version of the princess dress for soft materials places inverted tucks at the shoulder and the hip and manages to combine the straight effect with the princess flare. It is possible to shirr the fulness instead of tucking it, and in the fine printed cottons, such as batiste and voile, the shirring is adorably soft and pretty. This is a pleasant style to wear in town made in crêpe de Chine or printed radium, for a full dress is cooler and less crushable than a narrower style. The collar is of the string variety that can tie in a bow under the chin.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JUNE 15.

Excepting for those in employment this day must be read as dominated by treachery, intrigue and generally subtle and underhand methods. The situation may be a menacing one, calling for the utmost circumspection and weariness in order to circumvent agencies of disaster and confusion. Deceit, treachery and falsehood hold sway, according to the astral omens.

Those whose birthday it is, unless safely ensconced in the employment of others, may have a year of adverse conditions, due to duplicity, treachery and falsehood. They should be on guard against every avenue of fraud and trickery, shun new ventures and sign all papers cautiously. A child born on this day should be placed in the employment of others, since there it may escape the toll of fraud, treachery and despondency that may menace its independent activities.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

CARE OF THE SUMMER WARDROBE.

The well-dressed man or woman must take proper care of his or her clothing or look commonplace and frowsy. It is not easy to look well-groomed all the time: it requires labor and knowledge. It is easier for a man than a woman, for the laundry takes all care of his linen, the tailor of his clothes, and, if he has his ties pressed, keeps his hats well brushed, his shoes treed, polished, heels set up and his gloves fresh, he looks pretty well.

As for the woman, her tailored suits should be frequently pressed, watched for spots that should be removed at once, buttons tightened and a supply of fresh collars for the coat.

Her Summer silks should be frequently pressed and cleaned or washed carefully when necessary. Her silk coats must be cared for in the same way.

The net, chiffon or georgette dresses and coats are bound to look a bit raggy if worn often. To remedy this, shake out the dust and hang the things on a firm line stretched over the bathtub. Draw the tub full of very hot water and steam the gowns until they look limp and discouraged. Then run off the water and leave the things to dry. You will find when they are thoroughly dry that they have stiffened up, brightened in color and lustre and look like new.

HER OWN WAY

by a Girl of Today

FLOUTING DOCTOR FLINT.

The conversation between Angie and myself had been interrupted many times by customers. But always when one was not busy she took up the thread as though it had not been dropped. It was my turn now, and as Angie was waiting for the bundle clerk to do up her package, I said in a low voice:

"I really am going to dine with Miss Meredith tonight and some time, my dear Angie, I'll introduce you to her. She said I was a 'regular fellow' and I am sure that is just what she is."

"But how are you going to get out of your other engagement, Judy? I couldn't help hearing you tell J. D. that you had one."

I stopped short in putting a handkerchief box back on the shelf, for I had just remembered my engagement with Jerry. It was almost five and we were beginning to "put the stock to bed."

"I did have an engagement, Angie, but I am going to break it. I can dine with Jerry Hathaway any time and I may never have a chance to dine with Joan Meredith if I turn her down tonight."

The store nurse stopped at my counter.

"Doctor Flint wants to see you in his office after the store closes, Miss Dean," she said.

"What does he want me for?" I asked instantly enraged at the sharp command of the doctor who had been so upstage with me in the early afternoon and whom I thought had been so brutal to Miss Cleaver.

"I'm sure I don't know, Miss Dean. He said something, however, about a bottle that you had picked up in the women's rest room this afternoon."

"Oh, he did, did he? You can tell Doctor Flint that I'm going out to dinner and it will be impossible to see him tonight."

"But Doctor Flint asked me to bring you to his office."

"I don't see how you are going to do it, nurse," I answered flippantly, "unless you bind and gag me. I'm not going to his office tonight. If Dr. Flint wants to see me tomorrow, I'll go up to his office on store time. After five o'clock each night my obligation to anyone in authority in the Morton Department Store ceases. And it doesn't commence again until half past eight the next day."

The closing bell sounded, and the nurse sped away.

WILDWOOD MOVIES

What the audience sees on the moving picture screen, is often a very nicely told story, but perhaps not half of the actual run of film that was taken.

To obtain a finished picture of a thousand feet, several thousand feet of film are exposed. Sometimes the camera records things that do not belong in the picture at all. These extras, taken entirely by accident, may be destroyed or shown, depending upon what they are. Here is one of them.

A farmyard scene was being taken to show what a nice homelike place the city folks had purchased for their future happiness, as they had decided to take to country life, and the camera moved around to orchards in bloom, cows wallowing in the brook, horses kicking up their heels, and a hired man, young and good looking and destined for the sweetheart of the daughter of the new owners, gathering nice clean white eggs from the hennery.

Then came a mother hen with a brood of chicks. She strutted from behind the barn, clucked and proudly showed that all was well.

However, all was not well, for just about that time a cat came from under the fence across the way, and slowly sneaked into camera range, and began to mess up the whole scene. The camera stopped!

"By jove," exclaimed the director, "isn't that a bird in the mouth of that cat?"

"Yes," answered someone, "it's a live robin!"

Just at that moment the old Biddy began to ruffle up her feathers in anger, for she, too, had noticed the cat with the robin.

The director spotted the possibilities of trouble, and he just managed to yell, "Camera. Camera!" in time to catch the whole business for the screen.

With wings spread and anger up, Biddy went for Tabby with murder in her eyes. She pounced on the cat and landed her hard beak so near his eyes that he released the robin, which flew to safety as he also fled for the barn, with Biddy at his heels.

WHEN SMOKE LOOKS LIKE STEAM.

In temperatures of 40 degrees below zero or more a wood fire in the open appears to give off steam rather than smoke. This method of telling how cold it is is used by workmen in the far north countries when their mercury and spirit thermometers have become unreliable on account of the low temperature.

"So, Unafraid, He Faced the Setting Sun"

AT THE HEIGHT of his achievement -- when all his difficulties seemed conquered --when success had crowned his efforts and his activities were greatest, came the warning that he must face an operation and a possible physical breakdown.

Anxiety for his own and his family's future had naturally seized him, but here, as in numerous other instances during his life, his wide business experience had pointed out the need for guarding against such a disaster, and years ago, to protect his family and himself, he had created an adequate Life Insurance fund.

So, today, as the sun goes down, he is unafraid; he can afford to be well cared for and if his life should be forfeited, these Life Insurance funds will be drawn upon for the needs of his family.

Contrast his case with yours--and decide now to protect the future of yourself and your dependents with Life Insurance.

DURHAM COUNTY TEMPERANCE WORKERS GATHER AT ORONO

Motion Pledging Support Only To Dry Candidates Passes Unanimously.

MANY PRESENT.

Delegates From Every Part of County Are Present.

MILLBROOK, June 14.—The annual convention of the Durham County Temperance organization was held in the town hall, Orono, on Friday, June 11, at 2 p.m., delegates from practically every municipality in the riding being present.

The president, R. J. Roe, of Newtonville, took the chair, the opening prayer being offered by Rev. F. H. Howard, of Millbrook. Kenneth Courtice, of Courtice, secretary for the county, read the minutes.

The president, in his address, reviewed the temperance situation in Ontario as it exists to-day, and urged his personal conviction "that it is the duty of every prohibition voter to see that any member is retired into private life who votes to again saddle the province with the liquor traffic.

The fact that the women make up 54 per cent of the voting strength of the province, and that 50,000 young men and women, by the age route, are being added to the voters' list every year, led to the conclusion that a campaign of education is necessary that understanding and choice may be of the very best. "Put principle before political partisanship; surely our beautiful province is worth saving, and we want it to be said of us that we did what we could to be ready for the great event."

Rev. R. T. Richards, of Peterborough, who has been appointed official organizer for the central counties, his field including ten ridings, was the next speaker and gave a most comprehensive and inspiring address, emphasizing the need of vigilance because of the critical situation which the province is facing to-day.

Disclaiming any responsibility on the part of the prohibition workers for throwing the temperance question into the political arena, the speaker went on to say that the present new and difficult situation requires the same degree of courage, consecrated zeal, and loyalty to a cause, "as was possessed by our fathers of fifty years ago, if we are to accomplish the thing which we have in mind."

Figures were quoted from a number of constituencies, proving that more votes are polled on a temperance issue than for party candidates when elections are held. "You cannot divorce your citizenship from your politics. There are evidently enough unpolled votes in the average political election to control the situation if we can get the latent possibilities of the prohibition forces in this province organized and properly directed. That's our task—to harness that political, prohibition vote."

Forty-six members of the provincial legislature are from ridings that voted dry by 122,000 votes; thirty are from ridings voting wet by 121,000; can you see now why the premier cannot make up his mind?

"In Durham over 900 more came out to vote on the temperance plebiscite in 1924 than in the political contest of 1923; there are approximately 8,400 prohibition votes as against 3,000 wet in the country; why then should we not be in the van rather than the background; getting in front of a candidate and not behind him, and leading the way to the victory we desire? The challenge to the prohibitionists of this province is to lift the whole question from the realm of party politics to the high level of citizenship and social service."

The chairman announced that the assessment for Durham county from headquarters is about $1,260, and after considerable discussion regarding finances, some opposition having developed to a field day with speakers in the various churches, it was moved by Rev. A. B. Cook, of Newcastle, seconded by Rev. H. R. Foley, of Frazerville, that the executive be empowered to make allocation to the different municipalities, these to make sub-allocations, if necessary, to the different sections, and the money be thus raised without references to the churches. Carried.

During a recess of ten minutes delegates from the various municipalities gathered in companies and chose the vice-president to represent their constituency on the executive.

The nominating committee, Messrs. J. Percy, Bowmanville, H. Fulford, Port Hope, and W. Jakeman, Bethany, brought in the following slate for 1926-27:

President, R. J. Rowe, Newtonville; vice-president for East Durham, W. A. Walker; for West Durham, R. J. McKessick; secretary, Kenneth Courtice; treasurer, W. Jakeman; vice-presidents for municipalities: F. W. Galbraith, Port Hope; J. Percy, Bowmanville; A. O. Parker, Newcastle; T. R. Currelly, Hope; Rev. Mr. Poulter, Manvers; R. J. McKessick, Darlington; J. W. Marlowe, Cartwright; W. Fred Fallis, Cavan; G. E. Burnham, Millbrook; A. J. Knox, Clarke.

An objective has been set of 5,000 voters in Durham to sign a card pledging themselves not to vote for any but a prohibitionist for either the Provincial or Dominion house, and during the discussion on this question the chairman expressed his willingness to go to any part of the field which has not yet been covered in the county. Others speaking on the advisability of continuing this pledge-signing campaign were Rev. Mr. Bick, of Hampton; Mrs. G. V. Strong, Port Hope; Rev. Mr. Foley, Mr. Courtice.

The question of putting a straight prohibition candidate in the field without reference to either party also came up for discussion, Rev. Mr. Richards outlining the policy of the Ontario Prohibition Union on this point; an outstanding prohibition leader is not at present available; a large expenditure is involved; "better organize your pledge-signers, then bring all the pressure possible to bear on the executive and party conventions that they nominate a man after your requirements or forfeit your support.

"The challenge before us is that we must elect fifty-seven men in the next parliament who will support the O. T. A. or it is going to be put off the statute books, and local option contests will again be necessary to keep out liquor stores from our constituencies."

It was moved by Jewel, of Bowmanville, seconded by Percy, of the same town, that the convention pledge itself to support, in the next election, only such candidates as fulfill the requirements as outlined on the membership card issued by the Ontario Prohibition Union; the exact wording is: "The aim of this organization is the greatest present repression and speediest ultimate suppression of the traffic in intoxicating beverages. Method: The development of the temperance sentiment in the community; the enactment and enforcement of every possibe restriction on the liquor traffic the nomination enforcement of every possible restriction on the liquor traffic; the nomination and election in every riding where possible of candidates for municipal, legislative, or parliamentary positions, who are known to be prohibitionists personally, and who will claim for themselves complete freedom from any party domination on all questons affecting prohibition."

The motion carried unanimously by a standing vote.

That the card system be extended throughout the whole riding;

To present the aim and policy of our county organization to the officials of the political parties before they come into convention; and if the candidates chosen be not satisfactory to our executive it be empowered to proceed according to the policy of the Ontario Prohibition Union;

To complete organization throughout the whole county;

That the executive have power to add to its numbers if thought advisable.

This motion carried, thus making the executive the political action commitee of the county.

Convention adjourned to meet again at the call of the president.

FLY-TIME.

It's time that we're thinkin' 'bout summer-time flies and it's time that we're doin' a heap of things wise. Wherever they're buzzing, therein danger lies. Come on, let's get busy and open our eyes.

A swatter's as handy a thing as kin be, but for each one ya swat there's another goes free. Why use all the strength and the vigor you've got a battlin' the pests with the swish and the swat?

You'll find, after all, that the way to begin, is through keepin' them out 'stead of lettin' them in. When out in the air, they kin fly as they please for they're too far away to be spreadin' disease.

So, 'ware of the buzzin' that comes night and day. Remember, it's probably sickness at play. Consider the fly, and you'll know what it means to get up ambition, and put up your screens.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

During the last week in March, according to report of the United States Public Health Service, there was an extraordinary prevalence of measles. Thirty-three States reported nearly 17,000 cases of this disease. This means 17,000 new cases, so the total number of children sick from measles was enormous.

Pneumonia is one of the dangerous complications of this disease. It is not surprising to learn that the pneumonia death rate was very high at the same time. During the last week in March 2,654 persons died in ninety-four cities of the United States.

I may say in passing that a thousand cases of smallpox were reported as well as six deaths from this loathsome and unnecessary disease. It is a pity to think preventable disease should be permitted to rage in such fashion.

But I started out to say a few things about measles. The first suggestion is that the parents must not regard lightly an attack of measles. The child should have early and constant attention.

It isn't wise deliberately to expose a child to the contagion of measles. This is particularly true of the disease when it is raging in epidemic form. When it does so rage the germs seem to grow more powerful and more dangerous.

If every case of measles in the world could be thoroughly and completely quarantined for the next three weeks there never would be another case of measles anywhere on earth. The seed, the germs, of measles would all be dead. They cannot thrive outside the body.

It won't be long before the scientists discover the exact causative germ. Then it will be but a short time when a vaccine or serum will be prepared which will make it possible to guard against the disease.

I can think of no finer thing than the work being done by the laboratory men in attempting to find the cause of the ailments destructive of child happiness and life. They pore over their labors all day and often far into the night.

These men are not working for money or fees. They are striving to find out why little children cannot go about their affairs without danger of sickness and suffering. We should encourage them in every possible way and help to find the funds to maintain their laboratories. Every such man is very likely to die poor, because he has no time to think of money. His every thought is given to the appealing problem before him.

It is probable that measles and other of the diseases of childhood are carried by the secretions of the body, particularly the discharges from the nose and throat. Contact with these moist and fresh substances by the hands or eating utensils may mean that the germs are carried to the mouth or nose of a person not yet infected. If the conditions are favorable this child may come down with the disease.

To escape infection with measles there must be avoidance of such discharges. Rulers, pencils and other things which have been in the mouth of a measles patient and the air filled with the droplets of moisture from the sneezing or coughing of the victim are capable of transmitting the germs of measles to another child.

If you are in doubt as to the illness of your child, or if you decide he has measles, get your family doctor on the job. He will guard the child against unnecessary complications and promote speedy recovery from the disease.

EGGS AS IMPORTANT AIDS TO DIGESTION.

Eggs contain protein, fat, mineral matter, water and fat soluble and water soluble vitamines. The yolk contains both fat and protein and is rich in vitamines A and B. Also it is one of the first rich iron foods that can be fed to a baby and is especially helpful to a child with rickets. The digestibility of an egg frequently depends upon its freshness, though, in a general way, it is easy to digest. Careful cooking is always to be desired.

A soft-cooked egg digests most quickly; a hard-boiled egg is slower to digest. Eggs are nutritious, comparable with meat, milk, cheese and other animal foods. Eggs should be kept in a cool, dry place and should always be washed before using. If a number of eggs are to be used break them separately into a saucer before mixing to make sure they are all in perfect condition. Fresh eggs may be quickly beaten to frothiness, this cannot be accomplished with stale eggs. In food measurements an egg white is seventeen calories and the yolk sixty. An extra large egg or one having two yolks will measure still more—around one hundred calories.

Soft-Cooked Eggs.

Wash the eggs to be used and place in a saucepan in cold water to cover. Bring to boiling point, remove from the heat, open and serve in hot cups. Season with a little butter, salt and pepper.

Hard-Cooked Eggs.

Proceed the same as for the soft eggs, only allow them to remain in the water for forty-five minutes. Then open them, cut them up and serve, seasoned, in hot cups or set aside for other use.

Steamed Eggs.

Butter an egg plate and break in the needed number of eggs, sprinkle with a few grains of salt and set in a steamer. Have the water below boiling rapidly and cook the eggs until set firm. Remove from the steamer, dot with butter and serve at once.

Baked Eggs.

Prepare in a buttered plate as for steaming. Dot with butter and add a little pepper and salt. Place in the oven and cook until the eggs are set. Garnish with broiled strips of bacon and parsley.

Egg Nests.

Toast one side of a slice of crustless bread. Separate the egg and beat the white stiff, adding a few grains of salt. Heap on the untoasted side of the bread and slip the yolk into the center, put in a little lump of butter and set the dish in the oven for three to four minutes. This is a dainty and attractive dish.

These are the simplest ways of cooking eggs, yet they must be done well to be successful. Shirred eggs is another simple way of cooking them, about the same as baking them. Poaching is another simple and well-known way of cooking eggs.

WHEAT CROP BENEFITS MANY

The United States raises about 5,000,000,000 busheis of wheat annually but consumes and exports only one-fifth of it. The other four-fifths is turned into flesh and fat of domestic animals from which the food salvage is about 7 per cent. Hogs are the most economical food animals, returning about 20 per cent. of the food given them.

Get out of the Clutches of CARBON

WHY allow the cylinders of your motor to become coated with carbon?

Carbon deposits make your motor miss and knock; cause pre-ignition; and insidiously rob your car of its power, especially on hills.

At the same time carbon costs you money in increased upkeep cost—frequent cleaning of cylinders is necessary; repair bills for worn parts and rapid deterioration are inevitable results.

There is only one motor oil in the world that successfuly combats carbon. Marvelube—the new process Imperial motor oil!

Marvelube has been developed by Imperial Oil Limited after four years of intensive research and experiment in the search for an oil that would correctly lubricate the modern automobile motor. This wonderful new oil is made by the Marvelube Process from a selected grade of Peruvian Crude Oil, the world's finest lubricant base.

It successfully combats carbon, because the original low carbon content of the crude is reduced to the merest trace by the Marvelube Process. It also sets new standards in all the other qualities by which motor oils are judged.

Marvelube cannot be duplicated by any other oil company because Imperial Oil Limited controls Peruvian Crude and is sole owner of the Marvelube Process.

A trial filling of Marvelube will convince you that it lives up to every claim we make for it. This new oil is made in six grades, including Marvelube "F," specially designed for Ford Cars. It is now on sale at all Imperial Oil stations and by good dealers everywhere. The standard retail price of Marvelube from bulk is 35c. per quart.

DELUGE CAUSES SPEEDY FINISH OF TEST MATCH

Play in First Game of the Series Ends in 47 Minutes.

ENGLAND BATTING.

Hobbs and Sutcliffe Open Innings—32 For No Wickets.

NOTTINGHAM, England June 14—Canadian Press Cable. — Considerable disappointment was felt over the week end at the enforced adjournment of the first test match here yesterday after only 47 minutes of play. Over twenty thousand spectators had crowded the grounds at the Trent Bridge but even before the hour set for its commencement it was seen that the prospects for an uninterrupted encounter were extremely remote. It had rained all Friday night and again on Saturday morning and when the Australian and the English captains, H. L. Collins and A. W. Carr, respectively, went out to examine the wicket it was felt that a wise decision was made when they put off the sfart until noon.

At that hour the game began. Carr won the toss and sent his heavy artillery at once into action in the form of Jack Hobbs (Surrey) and Sutcliffe (Yorkshire.) The bowling was slow but tricky, nevertheless, following a cautious beginning this pair were able to knock out a few runs. Just before the lunch interval the sky again became overcast and when the players retired to the pavilion for their refreshments, the rain again poured down.

Torrents of water fell on the cricket ground, flooding it in places until it took on the look of a miniature lake. In spite of this the ever-optimistic crowds remained in their places, patiently sitting out the hour or more that the storm last. When the downpour had ceased, both Collins and Carr again inspected the wicket but failed to agree on the advisability of continuing. The umpires were summoned to arbitrate, and they gave their decision against resuming. The disappointment was tremendous, but the 25,000 spectators accepted it without a murmur. Many of them had come long distances to see the game and had reserved their places weeks in advance.

To-day Hobbs and Sutcliffe will resume for England, with the score at 32, with no wickets down.

SUZANNE WINS MORE LAURELS

Shares in Victory For Women's Doubles Championship.

U. S. WINNERS.

PARIS, June 14 (Canadian Press)—Suzanne Lenglen and Didi Vlasto defeated Mrs. L. A. Godfree and Joan Colyer in the hard courts championships today 6-1, 6-1, thus winning the women's doubles championship.

Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey, of the United States, won the finals of the men's doubles. They defeated the French team, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

Kinsey had his share of ill-luck, as well as good luck, when with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, he was eliminated in the mixed doubles by Mr. and Mrs. Godfree.

He started in this match within ten minutes after the finals of the men's doubles and was too tired to carry the attack along.

Showers fell throughout the day, spoiling much of the enjoyment of another large crowd that came out for the events.

Richards and Kinsey led almost throughout against Cochet and Brugnon; only in the third set, when they lost 4-6, were they pressed. Then they softened for a time and served dainty shots right on to the racquet of Cochet who was waiting at the net to kill them.

In the first, second and last sets, however, Richards and Kinsey were easily masters of the Frenchmen and managed to keep the dangerous Cochet at a safe distance from the net most of the time; they even had him netting their drives at a good rate.

Mary K. Browne, captain of the United States Wightman cup team, had her chance at Suzanne Lenglen's ascendant star yesterday and when the match was over, the French woman's reputation was still as high as ever. The score was 6-1, 6-0, Miss Browne taking the second game of the match.

An analysis of the play showed Suzanne's complete superiority particulary in that most important factor—placement. She scored 24 to Miss Browne's 11, many of them following shots which the ordinary player would let go as too difficult.

STILL WINNING.

CALGARY, Alta., June 14 Canadian Press)—The victorious Canadian tour of the famous English soccer team continued heer Saturday when a representative Calgary squad was defeated 7 to 4, in an excellent exhibition witnessed by 6,000 fans at Victoria Park.

BELLEVILLE LOSE IN NINTH INNING

Played a Good Game and Were Unfortunate To Fall.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 14 (Canadian Press)—In a game that provided plenty of thrills especially towards its close the Kingston seniors pulled through by a decidedly good punch as well as decidedy good luck in the last of the ninth inning to defeat Belleville on Friday evening at the George Richardson Memorial Stadium in a C.O.B.L. game by the score of four to three.

When Cairns lifted a fly between third and short and the Belleville players at short and third stood, one waiting for the other to take it, neither getting it, Purvis romped over the pate with the run that won. "Bubs" Britton after a steal of third, had just before made the run that tied the game, three to three. It was a real ninth inning rally and though satisfaction is high locally that Kingston won, taken all round Belleville was the better team. They did not have a single error and they made one more hit than Kingston but that one last break in the ninth lost the game.

It was certainly a heartbreaker for Belleville but they are to be commended for the game they played. They were careful and were snappy and were no more like the team that played here a week ago than night is like day. They had the old fight and with "Peeney" Mills on hand to steady them down, the Nationals went in and played ball. It was unfortunate for them they should be robbed of the victory after apparently salting the game away in the sixth inning when they jumped into a three to two lead.

Stan Hagerman of Belleville made a remarkable catch out in left field. Halbert took a mighty swing on one of Oulette's fast ones and let it go sailing through the air. Hagerman running back picked the ball off with one hand. Batstone was the feature performer of the evening with the bat and clouted the ball for the longest clean home run in the stadium this season. It landed in the track at the north end and bounced over the low fence.

Line-up:

250 MILE RACE WON ON THE POST

Winning Automobile Driver Covers Distance in 2 Hours, 13 Minutes.

SPEEDWAY, Altoona, Pa., June 14 (Canadian Press)—Dave Lewis, veteran of the Roaring Motors, won the 250 mile automobile race by a scant margin over Norman Batten on the Altoona Speedway yesterday. The fortunes of the gruelling contest swung time and again as the speed wagons tore around the mile and a quarter board oval, but Lewis and Batten, driving a non-stop battle won the prized positions. Lewis average for the 250 miles was close to 112 miles an hour. His time was two hours, thirteen minutes, twenty-four seconds. Batten crossed the line a few seconds behind Lewis.

Seventeen drivers were sent away by Starter Fred Wagner, but only ten finished.

John Duff, a new comer in the racing world, was third, two laps behind the winner. Fred Comer was fourth, Eddie Hearne fifth, Bennett Hill sixth, Frank Elliott seventh, Peter de Paolo eighth, Ralph Hepburn ninth and Ben Jones tenth.

Lewis took the first prize of $9,000, Batten $5,500 and Duff $2,000.

REPLAY SOCCER TO-MORROW NIGHT

De Laval and Masseys Will Decide Phelan Cup Semi-Final.

To-morrow evening (Tuesday), the replay Phelan Charity Cup Tie will be played at King Edward Park. Kick-off at 6.15 prompt. Referee, Alex. McKinley.

A definite decision must be made of this game because the Phelan Cup final is scheduled for Saturday first. On the instructions of the association, corner kicks will also be a deciding factor of the issue. That is to say, that if a draw in goals is the same when the final whistle blows, the team who has the most corner kicks will be the winner.

The last game was a draw of one goal each, when the Masseys' full eleven failed to defeat the ten men of the De Laval.

Masseys' team will be chosen from T. Mongomery, Grant, Blowers, Mann, Haliday, Roberts, Westlake, Clark, James, J. Montgomery, Laidler, Foster and Willis.

THE AVERAGE MAN MOVING AHEAD

Radio is doing more to further the education of the masses than any other one instrument to-day. It is bringing into the home at nominal cost the best in music, lecturers on all conceivable subjects, debates on topics of the day—in fact, all sorts of instruction and entertainment, light and heavy.

Upon coming home from work the man of moderate means, instead of going to some cheap entertainment or down to the corner to shoot pool, turns on his radio and selects his evening course with the hand of a master.

How much better is this than the "beer bout" of an evening in "the good old days"; and how much better the man feels the next morning—and the morning counts in business.

So, after all, radio is educating and controlling in more ways than one, and is helping to move Mr. Average Man and his family ahead.

ORIOLES LOSE DOUBLE HEADER

Baltimore Run of Luck Turns Sour Against Rochester.

INTERNATIONAL.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 13 (Canadian Press) — The Orioles brief run of luck turned sour today and Baltimore dropped a double header to Rochester. The scores were 3 to 2 and 4 to 3. With the first battle going to 11 innings.

ABE MITCHELL CONQUERS 150

But Went Down Wnth Tolley Before United States' Pair.

TOLLEY TO BLAME.

MOOR PARK, England, June 14 (Canadian Press) — Abe Mitchell, Great Britain's leading professional, beat one hundred and fifty golfers in the new target golf championships which finished here Saturday. It was remarked by observers that the great Mitchell paid little attention to the circles which ringed the cup and green and shot squarely for the pin thus proving that by playing super-golf one can also make high scores on the targets and defeat fine fields by scoring 337.

Mitchell bore Great Britain's burden in the ensuing international four ball match, but despite his accurate and strong work, his partner the great redoutable Cyril Tolley, was too much for the team and they went down before Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen of the United States, four and two. Tolley's bulky form was usually among the bunkers.

RACER'S COLLAPSE NEAR THE FININSH

John C. Miles, Marathon Champion, Loses 10 Mile Event.

MELROSE, Mass., June 14 (Canadian Press) — John C. Miles of Sydney Mines, N.S., holder of the world's Marathon record, collapsed an eighth of a mile from the finish of a ten mile race here yesterday and Albin Stenroos, Olympic champion, finished first. Miles, whose strength suddenly went from him as he pressed Stenroos toward the finish line, made a quick recovery and was able to accompany his father to their hotel. A doctor who examined him at the track said his heart had not been affected.

Stenroos' time for the race was 54:47 2-5. The Finn and the Nova Scotian had the race all to themselves after they had passed the ninth lap. Jimmy Henigan of Dorchester, Mass., who finished second was far behind with Clarence Demar, National A.A.U. champion, who finished fourth, and Gus O'Neil of Dorchester, a handicap runner who took third place.

Miles said that he had been bothered by a cold and thought that he had conquered it, but it appears that his system had been undermined by the slight illness.

MARMORA JUNIORS WIN SECOND GAME

Beat Deloro 9-7 on Smelters Diamond—Triple Play Made.

MARMORA, June 14 — Deloro Juniors playing the return game with the Marmora Juniors on the home diamond Friday evening after a plucky fight again suffered defeat, this time by 9-7. Skinner, who pitched throughout for them, turned in a splendid game and had not support been denied him in the fifth frame the result might have been diferent. Play was evenly divided, being sparkling at times and then ragged. G. McInroy pitched five innings for the visitors, Brady relieving him in the sixth. The finest play of the game occurred in the sixth. McCoy for Marmora hit a line drive which Robertson caught, making a triple play at third and first. The same thing almost happened again in the eighth frame when McCoy hit to the right fielder who doubled a runner at first. Deloro threw away a good chance of tying in the eighth.

Score by innings:

CLERKS TAKE LEAD IN SOFTBALL RACE

Defeat Mill 10-9 in Important Campbellford League Game.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 14.—The Clerks took the lead in the association softball race by beating the Mill 10 to 9 in ten innings at the Agricultural Grounds on Friday night.

Neither team played up to the form expected of them. The importance of the struggle apparently affected the players of both teams, although there were many brilliant plays that brought cheers from the biggest crowd of the season.

While the Clerks made more errors than their opponents, they also outhit the Mill boys.

The game see-sawed back and forth with first one team in the lead, then the other. The Mill scored two runs in the ninth to tie up the game. The Clerks put over the winning run in the tenth. Cook hit to left for two bases, went to third while Storey was tossing out Wood, and scored on Parsons' sacrifice fly. The Mill were retired in order in their half of the inning.

The line-up:

Mill — Blakley lf; Ayrhart cf; Cochrane 2b; Montgomery 1b; Storey p; Reeves 3b; Blake ss; Bell rf; Lambert c.

WEAR

THE Philosophers and Wise Men of Ancient India performed the functions that College Professors do in modern times. The great teachers were so revered that their doctrines are held in sacred observance to this day. Their ancient definition of Eternity was this: "Eternity is the time it would take to wear away a huge block of granite by the bare feet of a Rajah walking across it once a year."

GRANITE is an appropriate substance to represent eternal WEAR. It always appeals to our minds as the hardest and most un-wear-outable of materials, yet granite, subjected to the usage given an automobile tire, would wear out far sooner than does the tough, resilient, long-serving Tread of a "Gutta Percha" Tire. There is a rubber compound that gives phenomenal resistance to the kind of wear that a Tire has to withstand in road travel. The laboratory of the Gutta Percha & Rubber, Limited, has been successful in perfecting this rubber compound, which, without sacrificing elasticity, is the last word in resistance, endurance and WEAR.

THE ability to WEAR is the crucial test of desirability. A suit of clothes, a piece of jewellery, a roadway, shoes, machinery, everything is judged and valued by the ability to WEAR. This is the outstanding virtue of a good tire, and its ability to WEAR and outwear its rivals is a distinguishing merit, which has placed the "Gutta Percha" Tire in its present eminence of popularity. This popularity may be judged not only by the number of "Gutta Percha" Tires you see on cars throughout the country, but by the increasing number of dealers who are glad to be selected as representatives for the sale of these unequalled Tires.

GENE SARAZEN—GIVING BACKSPIN.

I copied my backspin or "stoppum" shot from the famous Jock. He is easily the master of this stroke.

There isn't a man in the world who has the control over his spectacular shot that Hutchison has. It was at Toledo, in fact, that I set out to learn the stroke.

Hutchison, ever ready to help a young fellow, said: "Let me see how you play it."

After I had made my shot he said: "You've got to catch the ball with the club-head before it hits the turf. You'll have to keep your eye glued right on that pill and you'll have to be careful not to cut the ball too much or you'll have no ball for your next shot. Go into the shot hard, with the left arm very stiff. But make sure to hit the ball before the club-head strikes the ground; then you can let the club-head sail right through. But hold the club firm all the while."

That was the big point I was after—how to hit the ball—and afterwards I practiced for hours trying to hit the ball before the club-head struck the ground. No one can make the ball hop like Hutchison."

SECRETS of STARS on INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

(By Grover Alexander.)

Be a good listener is probably the best bit of advice I can give to all pitchers ambitious to make the majors, also those who are getting the big chance but still have the grade to make.

If a pitcher will listen and keep his eyes open he will soon improve his work in every department of the twirling game.

In baseball, as far as pitching is concerned, one is never too young or too old to learn. I have been at it many years, have had my share of good luck, but not a year passes but what I pick up some pointers on how to improve my game. Often it comes not from a pitcher but a wise catcher.

It is a fatal mistake for a youngster trying to make the majors to be satisfied with himself. Most veterans are ever ready to help the rookie who is looking for information, seeking to improve his game.

Too many youngsters have either spoiled or delayed big league success by laboring under the belief that they know all there is to know about pitching. Usually when a recruit pitcher comes up in that frame of mind he is permitted to work out his own problems

As a youngster I was always a good listener. As I go back over my record as a pitcher it is a very easy matter for me to recall the many bits of valuable advice given me by veteran pitchers and catchers. I never failed to experiment with the suggestions offered and invariably improved my game.

Be a good listener. Let the fellows who are rated the stars do the talking. Adhering to such a system will put most pitchers in a position where some day they can do the orating instead of acting as the audience.

Juveniles Played In Rain; Seniors Game Unplayable

There was no senior soccer game between the Masseys and the De Laval on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval.

The juvenile soccer match was played as per schedule when the Auburn defeated the Young Vets two goals to nothing. As youth would have it, they were determined to play the game in spite of the torrent of rain that continued throughout the allotted span.

After the juvenile tussle, the official referee, J. C. Russell, who inspected the ground, found it unplayable and declared the game off between the seniors.

Humorous Situations Galore Introduced Logically by Director Into Movie

HIS FIRST REAL COMEDY

Robert Z. Leonard, With Aid of Charles Ray and Pauline Starke, Puts It Over

The combination of Charles Ray and Pauline Starke in "Bright Lights," the picture now playing at the Regent, was a happy one, according to Robert Z. Leonard, the director.

Ray was secured by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization for the role of "Tom Corbin" in this picture, and his work in this serio-comic part was the talk of the studio.

"Ray's boyish charm and unsophistication, coupled with Pauline Starke's wistful appeal, offered a marvelous opportunity for a type of comedy that is certain to win the approval of theatregoers," said Leonard.

"In the making of this picture we worked on the supposition that any man likes to see another in an embarrassing situation. Carrying out this idea, there are many different ways of getting a laugh, and Mr. Ray and Miss Starke utilized them all. For instance, an audience lves mentally to foresee an action and then see it happen. Another type is the surprise laugh; that is, when something totally unexpected occurs. A third is when the inevitable is interrupted by a totally unexpected event."

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"I'm going to be a track," said the pink ticket in Nancy's pocket, sticking out its head and looking around with its pink eyes. "It says on my back that I am to take you to the next station, and I'm going to do what it says."

"What is the next station?" asked Nick.

"It's called Nip-and-Tuck Town," said the ticket.

"Is it in Drowsy Land?" asked Nick, who was still feeling around in his pockets to make sure that none of the vanished money had remained. He and Nancy had found bushels of it, you know, and studdenly—puff—it disappeared in a second.

"Yes, Nip-and-Tuck Town is in Drowsy Land," said the ticket. "You will have some queer adventures there."

The ticket began to slide out of Nancy's pocket, and then it laid itself on the ground like a track—a long, long track that stretched as far as they could see, like a railroad; the black lines on the sides became rails and the lines of printing became ties.

The little black patch with the date on it turned into a car, and the Twins got in.

Then the little car rolled along and rolled along and rolled along on the pink ticket-track and finally it stopped at the station of Nip-and-Tuck Town.

The ticket then picked itself up and jumped back into Nancy's pocket again, and then the Twins realized that the little car had dumped them out and disappeared also.

"I wonder why they call this place Nip-and-Tuck Town," said Nick.

"Because it's nip to get in and tuck to get out," said the station agent, which happened to be a large mail-box painted "Parcels and Letters."

The Twins looked very much surprised to see so strange a person, but everything was so different in Drowsy Land that they were becoming accustomed to it.

"We're looking for Inco, our china elephant that ran off, and Flops, my toy clown who ran off with him," said Nick. "Did you see them?"

"Did they come by rail or by mail?" said the mail-box.

Nancy and Nick looked at each other. They knew the runaways had come on a moonbeam, but it did sound too silly to say so. "We're not quite sure," said Nancy.

"Well," said the mail-box kindly, "I shall look in all my letters and newspapers—perhaps there is news of him there."

The mail-box took a key out of his pockets and unlocked his front door. Out spilled a hundred letters and papers and about six parcels!

"Oh, dear!" said Nancy, "they are all in envelopes."

"That doesn't matter, does it?" asked the mail-box in surprise.

"Of course it does. You can't open a letter that doesn't belong to you. Can you, Nick?"

"I should say not," said Nick.

"But if you have your name on it's different," said the mail-box. "Here is one addressed to the Twins, Nip-and Tuck Town, Drowsy-Land-on-the-Moon."

"Well, I declare!" said Nancy. "Whoever knew we were here?"

"Oh, lots of people," said the mail-box.

CUTWORMS IN WEST DO SERIOUS DAMAGE

About 1,000 Acres of Wheat Destroyed in Parts of Saskatchewan.

REGINA, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Serious damage to growing crops by "pale western" and ordinary "red back" cutworms is reported from various points in Saskatchewan The full extent of the damage done is not clearly known at present but K. M. King, Federal entomologist, has returned from a visit to the Kronau and Lakeport Lajord districts and reports that about 1,000 acres of wheat have been wholly or partially destroyed in those districts. Other outbreaks of cutworms are reported from Abernethy, Balcarres, Tregarva, Young and Richardson.

The Samoyede dog is named after the Samoyede race, its original breeders, who were once populous in northern Asia.

FLAGS EXCHANGED BY KIWANIS CLUBS

Peterborough and Poughkeepsie Present Each Other With Countries' Flags.

One of the most outstanding events which occurred at the Kiwanis Convention, held in Montreal last week, was the presentation of the Canadian Ensign by the Peterborough Club to the Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Club, and the presentation by the Poughkeepsie Club of the American Flag to the Peterborough Club.

A separate dining room was set aside at the Windsor Hotel for the use of the two clubs and there were about sixty-five present from the Poughkeepsie and Peterborough Clubs.

A regular meeting was organized, with President Dr. John Craig in the chair, and Charles Cook, sergeant-at-arms for the first half of the meeting. The second half was in charge of President Ben Schelisinger of the Poughkeepsie Club. Dr. Craig called upon District Trustee John I. Allen who in connection with Robert H. Maar, secretary of the Poughkeepsie Club, originated the idea. Mr. Allen, who is a former Poughkeepsie boy, told in his introduction of the Honorable G. N. Gordon, who presented the flag, some of his experiences in Kiwanis, also of his early years in Poughkeepsie.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, in making the presentation, spoke of the meaning of the Union Jack and of the different crosses and the making up of the flag, in general. He also spoke of the happy relations which existed between the United States of America and the Dominion of Canada His speech was very interesting and was listened to with attention. Isaac McNabb then brought forward the Union Jack and the flag was presented to the president of the Poughkeepsie Club.

The meeting was then turned over by the President of the Peterborough Club to the President of the Poughkeepsie Club, who called upon Dr. J. Card, coroner of the City of Poughkeepsie, who made the presentation of the Stars and Stripes to the president of the Peterborough Club. Dr. Card, in making the presentation, spoke of the meaning of the blue field with the stars and the red and white stripes. He also spoke of the harmony which existed between the two countries and the increasing friendship. The American flag was then brought forward in company with the Union Jack and the entire representation of the Peterborough and Poughkeepsie Clubs stood at attention and sang God Save the King and America, then saluted the flags.

This was the only exchange of flags between the different clubs. There was, however, a flag exchanged by the Ontario-Quebec district with the New England district, which occurred on Tuesday evening.

There were present at the presentation of the flags, Lieutenant-Governor of the New York State district, Governor Stanley Higman, of Ottawa, who was later re-elected Vice-President of the International Kiwanis, and Lieutenant Governor Bill Cockburn of Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS.

STODDARD—WHATLEY.

A pretty wedding took place at half past two o'clock on Saturday, June 12th, at the Danforth Avenue United Church, Toronto, when Rev. Mr. Watch performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony May Whatley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whatley, 7 Butternut avenue, Toronto, and formerly of Peterborough, and Earl Stoddard, of Toronto.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white crepe, heavily embroidered with beads and sequins. She wore a white veil, with coronet of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses.

Two charming little flower girls were Beverly Stewart, of Midland, and Jean Neill, of Toronto, wearing frocks of pink and green taffeta, and carrying baskets of sweet peas and gypsophilia.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were prettily arranged with ophelia roses, lily of the valley, sweet peas and maidenhair ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard left later for a trip to points east, the bride travelling in an ensemble suit of brown crepe, trimmed with squirrel fur, and hat to match. On their return, they will reside in Toronto.

BEAVIS—HARRIS.

The marriage of Lorena Harriet Harris, eldest daughter of Mrs. M. Ball, to Kenneth Ray Beavis, son of Mr. Robert Beavis and the late Mrs. Beavis, Peterborough, was quietly solemnized on Thursday, June 10th, at George Street United Parsonage by Rev. Mr. Todd. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beavis. Mr. and Mrs. Beavis will reside in Peterborough.

OBITUARY.

ROBERT JAFFRAY CHRISTIE.

TORONTO, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Robert Jaffray Christie, president of Christie, Brown and Company, Limited, biscuit manufacturers, died early Sunday morning after an illness of some months. The funeral will be held to-morrow at 3 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

HARRY LOCKINGTON.

The death occurred on Saturday at Swastika of Harry Lockington. Deceased had until recently resided in Toronto, but was born in Peterborough and had been connected with mining in Northern Ontario.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, formerly Miss Lily Wesley of Peterboro, one daughter, Margaret; four brothers: Alexander of Brantford, Frank, George and Bert of Peterboro, and one sister, Mrs. Bradfield of Woodrow, Sask.

Mr. Lockington was an Anglican by religion, and was a member of the Masonic Order, being a Past Master of Haileybury Lodge, A.F. and A. M.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. from 358 Brock Street to the Little Lake Cemetery. The Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave will conduct the service at the house.

Demand For Stocks To-day Covers Very Broad List

NEW YORK, June 14. — A broadening demand for stocks characterized the resumption of the upward movement in to-day's market. The most important business development of the day was the announcement of an increase of $2 a ton in structural steel by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. This brought fresh buying into the steel group.

Widespread rumors that the long awaited move in oil shares would start this week seemed to be on their way to fulfilment when block buying developed for Pan-American B., Marland, and Panhandle producers, and refiners, all of which touched new highs on current recovery.

Sharp gains also took place in some industrial specials, some of which are believed to be under pool manipulation.

Many Mines Make Gains In Light Trading Session

TORONTO, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Prices were firm and trading light on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Sales for the session totalled 118,653.

Slight advances were made by Barry Holly, Hollinger, Teck Hughes, Vipond, and Canadian Lorraine. Barry Holly was active and after opening 1-2 up at 43 1-2, closed at 44 1-2 for a net gain of 1-2. Hollinger gained 10 points, Teck Hughes 2, Vipond 3, Canadian Lorraine 2. There was considerable activity in Noranda but the quotation remained unchanged at 15.00.

Toronto Exchange Quiet Brazilian Drops To 96½

TORONTO, June 14 (Canadian Press). — Brazilian Traction and Canadian Lorrain provided features in trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today The session was very quiet, the volume of trading being very light in practically all issues which have been the centre of interest during the past week.

Total sales of Brazilian amounted to 1,450 and this stock dropped to a low of 96 1-2.

Twin City opened a half up at 74 1-2 and closed at 75. F. N. Burt Common closed at 56 5-8 for a net gain of 1 5-8, although this stock showed little activity. Consolidated Smelters remained inactive.

Rains In Wheat Fields Cause Early Price Drop

CHICAGO, June 14 (Canadian Press).—Beneficial rains northwest and west, together with a decline at Liverpool, led to an early downturn today in the wheat market here The expected increase of hedging sales from the wheat harvest southwest tended also to weaken values Opening a half cent to 1 1-8 cents down, wheat underwent a little further setback and then showed something of a rally. Corn and oats displayed notable weakness. Corn starting 3-8 to 7-8c off and later continuing to sag. Provisions were easier.

EXECUTIVE OF CHURCH CHOSEN

Composition of Committee of United Church Is Completed.

FORTY MEMBERS.

MONTREAL, June 14 (Canadian Press)—The composition of the executive committee in connection with the formation of the permanent organization of the church was completed this morning at the general council of the United Church of Canada. The committee will be made up as follows: moderator, secretary, and treasurer of the church; two members, a minister and a lay member from each conference; one member appointed by each of the following boards: home missions, foreign missions, evangelism and social service, religous education, superannuation, education and publications; two members from the Women's Missionary Society, and such additional members appointed by the general council as will bring the total to forty.

ASQUITH ILL.

Liberal Leader Will Be Unable To Attend Party Meeting.

LONDON, June 14 (Canadian Press)—The Earl of Oxford and Asquith, leader of the Liberal party, is ill with influenza. It is not believed his condition is serious, but it seems likely that his illness will prevent him attending the meeting of Liberal federation to be held at Weston Supermare next week.

CO-OPERATION TO FIGHT SMUGGLING

Expected That Customs Committee Will Make Recommendation.

OTTAWA, June 14 (Canadian Press)—Closer cooperation between the Canadian and United States governments to tighten up and more strictly enforce the provisions of the anti-smuggling treaty of 1925, probably will be one of the recommendations of the House of Commons committee on smuggling when its report comes down this week. The report will be ready about Wednesday or Thursday, according to present expectations.

The committee is now considering its report after four months of public sittings. During that time volumes of evidence and trunk loads of exhibits have pointed to the existence of smuggling on a large scale of many different commodities from the United States from Canada also was uncovered and it is probable that the connection between the two will be pointed out in the report.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HELD CONVENTION

Good Addresses Given at Meeting Held in Dummer.

WARSAW, June 14.—The annual Dummer Sunday School convention was held in the United Church on Thursday afternoon and evening. Rev. H. B. Herrington led the opening exercises in the afternoon. Mr. Thomas Paterson, superintendent of the Ninth Line United Sunday School, and president of the association, was in the chair. The financial statement showed that Dummer had paid in over one dollar more than the allotment.

The best reports given were by Mrs. William Forsyth on "Girls' Work," and Mrs. J. A. Crowe on "Missionary Work." Cottesloe Sunday School has the best standing, with 95 per cent. Mrs. Forsyth is superintendent. The largest representation in the afternoon was from the Ninth Line School. Bethel and Warsaw Presbyterian, though good schools, had no representatives. The Anglican, Baptist and Zion United Churches have no Sunday schools.

Dr. Fletcher gave an interesting and very helpful and instructive address on the development of the boy and girl. He said in part that boys and girls were often not understood. People understand their business and their animals, but parents often understand their animals better than their children. He gave examples showing how children are often abused for that for which they were in no way to blame. Often children are deliberately told falsehoods, and often a deliberate attempt is made to instil fear in a child. This is nothing short of a crime.

Little children of four and five years have vivid imaginations, if they are normal, and they live in a land of make-believe. The toy auto is a real auto, the doll is a real being, the visions seen are real, and the child is not lying when telling of these things. He is telling things real to him. When little ones reach the age of about six years they are more inquisitive, even to the point of destroying things, to see how and why they are made. God made them so, and the inquiring little minds must be led and guided, and truth told them. When about nine years of age, the child grows more slowly, becomes more rugged, is a bit rougher, loves to do things requiring a good amount of physical energy. The girl is a Tom-boy. Before they are twelve they admire the person who can do things and should learn to love and follow the leader and captain, Jesus, not so much with the idea of a saviour from sin, but as a leader who can do great and noble things. They soon become conscious of themselves. The boys want to be with boys; the girls with girls. By the time they are fifteen they are apt to be nervous and emotional, and the girls will giggle without reason. That very fact is apt to make them deeply religious. It is really a dangerous time, and the use of cigarettes or alcohol is very injurious, for it quietens and deadens the emotion, numbs the nerves and defeats God's purpose.

During these years, from twelve to seventeen, they should be in separate classes. Energetic, consecrated teachers are needed. A boy or girl will not come to Sunday school unless the teacher is on the job.

Dr. Fletcher gave illustrations to drive home his points, and one thing he stressed was that when children began to enquire about the origin of life, they should be told the truth of God's greatest and most sacred act of creation, for if they are not told beautifully by parents, they will learn in ways they should not, and in ways that may harm them all their lives.

The Rev. Mr. Pinkerton spoke on the qualifications of Sunday school teachers. He stated that every one could not be a successful teacher. The first essential is that the teacher be a Christian. "We cannot accomplish what do not know"; secondly, there must be a real conviction for the truths of God's Word; thirdly, there must be a real desire to see boys and girls take Christ as their own.

Mr. Thomas Sargent, county secretary-treasurer, was present for the first time at a Dummer convention. He explained why it is better for each Sunday school to send contributions through the township treasurer, as it saves confusion.

During the conference there was some discussion on Mr. Pinkerton's first point. The need of missionary work and of temperance work was emphasized. Most of the Sunday schools have regular missionary work, but the temperance work is being neglected.

The officers chosen by the Executive were: President, Thomas Paterson; Vice - President, Dr. Munro; Secretary-Treasurer, James Hawthorne; Superintendent of Children's Work, Mrs. David Miller; Superintendent of Girls' Work, Mrs. George Taylor; of Boys' Work, Fred. Crowe; of Young People's Work, Mrs. William Forsyth; of Adult Department, Dr. Munro; of Home Department, Miss Clara Payne; of Teacher Training, Rev. H. B. Herrington; of Missionary Work, Mrs. J. A. Crowe; of Temperance, E. N. MacDonald.

The 1927 convention is planned to be held at the Ninth Line School. There will be a meeting of the Township Executive in Warsaw United Church on the evening of Friday, July 8

The ladies of the United Church Sunday School served a bounteous supper to all.

In the evening Rev. Stillman led the opening exercises. Rev. Bennett gave a short address on the "Message, according to the Scriptures." He started by saying that facts are chisels that never lose their tempers. He asked, "What shall we teach? That Christ died for our sins and rose again the third day—according to the Scriptures.

"We can live good lives without going to church, and we can live decent lives without reading the Bible. The first Church exhibited a life. Since then the Church has gone through many changes, but they all went back to the word of God.

"Facts are facts, and they never change. We worship to-day the Christ Who died for our sins, and Who rose again for our justification. His death was a sacrifice for our sins, but He rose again, and is our living head."

Mrs. Charles Foster sang "We Build for Eternity."

In Dr. Fletcher's evening address he said it was a great thing to be a Christian. "There is always something ahead," he said. "No one wants to go back to methods of agriculture used forty years ago. Now many lives are saved that forty years ago the doctors could not have saved. Then it could not be helped; now it is criminal not to help. So it is in all lines of temporal things, but many stick to old Sunday school methods. Is progress not to be made in dealing with the human soul? There is as keen research in the one as in the other. God does not change. We find out new things concerning God. Electricity has always existed, but only recently has it been discovered.

"Most of those who give themselves to Christ do so through the Sunday schools. God wills that not one should perish. Boys' and girls' minds are eager, they can learn quickly, and retain well. When people are older they lose these powers. There will be no harvest if we do not work as God works. Good seed must be sown in a seed-bed well prepared. There is different seed for different soils. Teach the love of God manifested in all things. So teach that young people will be brought to Christ before they are twenty, for the chances are poor for them coming after." Dr. Fletcher put it very strongly that it is parents' and teachers' fault if the little ones do not come to Christ.

THOUSANDS VIEW ARRIVAL OF LEGATE

New York Streets Thronged as Colonial Procession Passes.

NEW YORK, June 14 (Canadian Press)—Fifth and Madison avenues were thronged yesterday with a crowd estimated by the police at 500,000 as Cardinal Bonzano, the papal delegate, rode at the end of a procession blazing with flags and the vestments of the church and the uniforms of semi-military organizations.

Thousands had stood from noon to 3.30 o'clock to receive the papal blessing. Hundreds knelt in the streets as the Cardinal passed by blessing the throng.

Thirteen persons were overcome with heat and given medical attention by physicians in ambulance stations along the route of the procession.

Blood stains are fixed by hot water and partially removed by tepid or cold water.

Liberal Chief States Attitude To O.T.A. In Norwood Speech

Severe Criticism of Ferguson Government From Messrs. Sinclair, Parliament and Marshall, in Addresses to Peterborough County Liberals.

HINT OF UNION WITH PROGRESSIVES AT NEXT PROVINCIAL ELECTION

(By a Staff Reporter)

NORWOOD, June 15—The Liberals of the new riding of Peterborough County in the Provincial Legislature held an organization meeting here yesterday in the Town Hall. The meeting was well attended and the several speakers were surprised at the size of the crowd as it was a wet day. Representatives were there from practically all the townships and the speakers for the day were Hon. W. E. N. Sinclair, Hon. Nelson Parliament and Hon. Duncan Marshall. Dr. Munroe, the president of the Liberal Association of the old riding of East Peterborough occupied the chair. A resolution was passed that a Liberal candidate would be put in the field at the next Provincial election, and that the executive should go ahead and make plans to call a convention for the nominating of such a candidate at Lakefield in the near future. The selection of the candidate is to be by delegate three or five persons being appointed from each polling sub-division.

Dr. Munroe, the president, began by saying that "the truth crushed to earth will rise again." The Liberal party in this constituency has been handicapped in the last few years by many entanglements. The farmers' party disorganized the Liberal party but now the party was becoming stronger by a greater united effort and the farmers were coming back to see the party rise again; for Liberalism is the truth, said Dr. Munroe.

W. E. N. Sinclair, the first speaker, stated that the situation that has arisen in Ontario at the present time is due to the diversion of forces in the last election campaign. At present there are 21 seats in the Ontario Legislature that are occupied by Conservatives who ran as minority candidates. If these 21 seats were added to the Opposition the Conservatives at present would have a majority of one. The Liberal leader said that the Liberal Party was big enough and broad enough to take into its ranks all non-Conservatives. I do not think that there are many who contend that the Progressives will again form a government so the next government will be either a Liberal or Conservative. In the last appeal to the people the Conservatives were in the minority in the total vote cast all over the province and at the next general election it is my hope and desire that the non-conservatives will be in the majority.

No one knows when the election will come, there may not be one unless the present Prime Minister can make up his mind as a man occupying the seat as Prime Minister ought to do. The Premier, speaking at the King Edward hotel, Toronto, lately stated that he reserved as his right the whole authority in the matter and the chief part in his speech was either "I or Me." The next day at Weston he changed the ground of tactics which is not unusual to the Hon. Howard Ferguson and said an election would be held when it would be the most advantageous to the Tory party and at London he said that an election would be held when he felt sure the Conservative party would have a majority of 75. At present they have a majority of 45 in a house of 112 so it may be that we will never have an election, said Mr. Sinclair. They do not have to go to the country this summer as there is still another term to run but to the ordinary man there are 7 vacancies and the Premier himself is occupying three portfolios so this is one of the reasons why people think there will be an election. A seat is not supposed to remain vacant in the house for more than three months unless the house is sitting so it was the premier's duty last fall to fill these seats but the Premier made several excuses. The Drury government had two vacancies one session which they did not fill. This is the only time I can remember that Howard Ferguson ever took refuge in what the Drury government did, stated the speaker. Then again Mr. Ferguson said that the country was upset by the Dominion election but he cannot argue that now. Then the season of the year was bad but the roads have improved since then so this does not hold good today. Then there was the excuse for a winter election but that is also gone and the last of all was that the public has not demanded bye-elections which is only a Conservative idea and an extreme Tory doctrine at that. There is no reason today why these bye-elections should not be held. It may be said that the session of the legislature is over but a man's duty to his constituents does not end with the sessions and everyone of these seats have been vacant for over 200 days. There is a principle at stake. Why should 165,000 people be disfranchised? This cannot be defended by the Prime Minister or anyone else, said Mr. Sinclair.

Financial Situation

In Hon. Mr. Prices' first budget there was a deficit of 15 million dollars for the Conservatives tried to rake up everything possible against the Drury government for the purpose of advertising. The next year the deficit was $8,500,000 with an increased expenditure of $6,500,000, and the last year there was a deficit of five million dollars and an So in the three years the public debt has been increased $28,500,000 and the interest charges on this is $1,250,000 annually which has to be taken out of the current revenue for the succeeding year. At the present time the revenue has been increased from $34,000,000 to $46,500,000 and the annual expenditure is $51,500,000. Mr. Sinclair stated that the time has come for the balancing of the budget and the income cut down rather than increased. What the country needs is a business administration. Many things were brought

ONTARIO TO AID HER FARMERS MARKET GOODS

Will Provide Facilities For Assembling and Storing Produce.

IMPROVE QUALITY.

Hon. John S. Martin Asks Aid of Ontario Bank Managers For Project.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., June 15 (Canadian Press).—It is the intention of the Ontario Government to offer facilities to farmers for assembling and storing their products for shipment to the Old Country. The Government also will try and improve the quality of these products by requiring that they be approved and stamped with a Government stamp. In this way Ontario farm products will be standardized and be eagerly sought by the discriminating British buyer.

This was the message which the Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, gave a unique gathering of over 100 branch bank managers and inspectors of Eastern Ontario, sponsored by Canadian bankers association here yesterday. The motive was to impress on these bankers the need for their support in impressing on farmers at every opportunity to send their sons to agricultural schools.

In touching on the Ontario Government's proposals to improve the Ontario products shipped to the Old Country, Mr. Martin referred to the disappearance of Canadian apples there. Australian apples were now taking the lead. He stated that considerable attention was being given by the Government to the marketing of Ontario farm products. The Government has started a movement to standardize all products that are shipped.

COAL CONTRACT LET.

Hodgson Brothers Will Deliver Coal To Isolation Hospital.

At a meeting of the Board of Health held to-day, the contract of supplying coal, to the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital, was given to Hodgson Bros. They tendered a price of $9.75 a ton for 70 tons of Pocahontas coal to be delivered at the hospital. Other tenders were received from R. Hicks and Co., Wm. Scott and Co., J. E. A. Fitzgerald and Cooney and Jopling.

Two applications for sanitary conveniences were forwarded to the city solicitor for his report.

MONTREAL HARBOR ACCOUNTS AUDITED

Member Suggests They Should Also Be Reviewed By House.

OTTAWA, June 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. R. B. Bennett pressed in the House last night for parliamentary supervision of the expenditures of the Montreal Harbor Commission. The House in committee was discussing a bill to authorize a loan of $12,000,000 to the commission. Progress was reported. Mr. Bennet spoke of a newspaper report that election expenses should be paid out of Harbor Commission funds. He intimated that, on the third reading, he might move an amendment to the bill providing that the expenditure of the Montreal Harbor Commission be subjected to audit by the auditors appointed by Canada, also be subject to review by the Public Accounts committee of the House. Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine, said the accounts both at Montreal and Vancouver had been audited by the Dominion auditor. He promised consideration of the proposed amendment. Speaking on the bill Mr. Cardin said the proposed loan was for harbor improvements.

Crying Baby Adds Doleful Note To Court Sitting As Disposal of Twins Is Under Consideration

Twins, both placed in one basket, graced a table in front of Magistrate O. A. Langley, in the County Court House Building yesterday afternoon. One of the twins cried during the entire proceedings, giving a somewhat doleful air to the session. The occasion was a court of enquiry held under the Children's Protection Act. The twins are the children of George Mill, who was sentenced some time ago, and the late Mrs. Mill, who died since her husband was imprisoned. They are at present in the Nicholls Hospital, where they are being cared for pending their being made wards of the Children's Aid Society. After hearing the evidence of J. Edgar, representative of the Children's Aid Society, His Worship stated that he would reserve judgment.

Those present were Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., Finch Miller, City Relief Officer; J. Edgar, and the Peterborough Health Association nurse.

BIG PILGRIMAGE OF CANADIANS HEADED BY BISHOPS EXPECTED TO ATTEND CHICAGO CONGRESS

Nineteen Special Trainloads of French Canadians Alone.

MANY INDIVIDUALS.

Preparations For Reception of Huge Crowds Are Well Advanced.

CHICAGO, June 15 (Canadian Press). — Canada loomed suddenly today into the foreground of activity connected with the 28th eucharistic congress, which opens here on Sunday

With advices at hand that His Excellency the Most Rev. Peter Di Maria, Apostolic delegate to Canada, and Archbishop Gauthier of Montreal, are starting in a special car tomorrow in time to greet the Papal legate, John Cardinal Bonzano, preparations at the chief Canadian centres in Chicago gave evidence that a rush of big crowds was quickly to follow.

Nineteen train loads of Canadians, it was announced, are scheduled to arrive in Chicago on Saturday night and Sunday morning, June 19 and 20. These nineteen train loads are organized bodies of pilgrims and are exclusive of pilgrims coming as individuals. They are composed entirely of French-Canadians.

Bustling Chicago pushed toward completion today preparations for the reception of the hosts coming for the congress. Workmen were busily engaged in transforming the interior of Holy Name Cathedral into a panorama of green for the reception of the Papal legate at 2 p.m. on Thursday, soon after his arrival aboard a special train from New York carrying a dozen cardinals and more than 300 bishops and archbishops.

George Cardinal Moundelein and Auxiliary Bishop Hoban, honorary president of the congress, will greet the papal legate and his party when they detrain.

The official reception committee will include 1,000 Knights of Columbus. A civic welcome will be extended to the papal party on Friday night.

At least 655,000 visitors are expected for the formal opening of the Congress on Sunday, the Rev. I. P. Hurmana, chairman of the Housing Committee, said today. He added that this was a conservative estimate.

Fall Downstairs Fatal To Aged Toronto Lady

TORONTO, June 15.—(Canadian Press.) — Mrs. Melissa Kelly, 65, died in hospital last night as a result of a broken neck which she suffered when she fell downstairs while going about her daily work. When admitted to the hospital her injuries were not thought to be of a serious nature.

CROWN WITNESS AGAIN ON STAND IN MURDER CASE

Simpson Is Cross-Examined on Statements Made Yesterday.

MURDER FOR LOVE.

Trial of Mrs. Emily Gallop For Slaying Husband is Resumed.

ROBERVAL, Que., June 15. — (Canadian Press.)—When the trial of Mrs. Emily Gallop charged with the murder of her husband, Abraham Gallop, on August 5, 1925, at Illemaine, Que., was re-opened this morning, Walter Simpson, one of the more important of the Crown witness, again took the stand. Yesterday in answer to question by the Crown lawyer, Simpson stated that he baorded with the Gallops in 1925. He testified that Mrs. Gallop had confessed to him that she had poisoned her husband, whom she did not love and that she loved him (Simpson).

This morning Simpson was cross-examined on this evidence.

LOCAL PEOPLE IN AUTO SMASH

Car Hits Telephone Pole, Shaking Occupants—Damage Slight.

NEAR BOWMANVILLE.

A car, which was driven by "Pete" King, and in which were his mother, Mrs. D. N. King and Mrs. Hocken, took the ditch yesterday morning near Bowmanville. A large truck was stopped on the road, and another car was coming from the opposite direction, and when the King car slowed up on the slippery pavement it went into the ditch and struck a telephone pole. The report went out in the city last night that the women were seriously hurt, but outside of a few scratches they came off all right.

THE WEATHER.

The rainfall of yesterday and last night was heavy, in fact it took its place with the half dozen heavy rains of the last quarter of a century. It totalled one inch and 85-100 of an inch. For the younger reader: One inch of rainfall equals 100 tons to the acre. Suppose a farmer has a 160-acre farm, how many tons of water did his farm receive yesterday and last night? How many pounds? How many gallons?—W. P.

Dominion Iron And Steel Crisis; May Default On Bond Interest; Commons Considers Situation

LIBERAL LEADER.

W. E. N. SINCLAIR
M.P.P. for South Ontario and elader of the Liberal party in the Provincial Legislature who addressed the meeting at Norwood last night.

Gigantic Concern May Go Into the Hands of Receivers on July 4 and May Possibly Go Into Liquidation.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE IS SOUGHT BY MARITIME MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT

British Empire Steel Company Will Probably Disappear—Mr. Meighen Blames Liberal Policy For Threatened Disaster.

OTTAWA, June 15 (Canadian Press).—"Battered by many adverse forces, Dominion Iron and Steel Company is going out to sea, unless help comes," declared a Toronto financial authority, discussing the question before the House of Commons yesterday. "British Empire Steel Corporation, only a holding company, will probably disappear. Millions of dollars of paper capital will be annihilated in the re-organization now being planned by its officials, and made compulsory by trustees for bond-holders.

"At the best, Dominion Iron and Steel must go into the hands of a receiver, and at the worst, it will go into real liquidation. If the latter occurs, $130,000,000 of bond and stock securities will shrink disastrously. The whole block is now worth on the market, about half par value. Preference stocks, some of them, would become waste paper and second preferences worse than that."

Adjournment of the House to discuss "An urgent matter of public importance" was moved by Finlay MacDonald, Conservative of South Cape Breton. He referred to the threatened default of bond interest this year by the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, a subsidiary of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

If this were allowed to occur, Mr. MacDonald stated, it would be a great disaster to the industry and to those employed by it or deriving benefits from it At present there were 3,000 employees at the company's plant, and several allied industries depended for their existence on the Dominion Company.

Child of Liberals

He thought that the government could save the situation and he implored it to do so. The Company was a child of Liberal Governments of the past. They had pointed with pride to its growth and worth. The present crisis transcended all other problems. It was not his purpose to charge the present situation to any Government action or inaction. He merely wanted to point out the situation and ask for an assurance that the government would do something to save the situation.

Life Savings Lost

Premier King asked what he would suggest, but Mr. MacDonald said he would not presume to advise the Government. It was well aware of the seriousness of the situation; it had the remedy it its hands.

L. W. Johnson, another Nova Scotia member, in seconding the motion, said that many people in the Maritimes had their life savings in this company. The situation was partly due to the depreciated currencies of other countries The disability was one that could not last, but in the meantime Sydney might be wiped off the map.

Not Politics

R. K. Smith, Cumberland, stressed the fact that this was no question of politics, but one that must be treated nationally. He said that not only were debased currencies responsible, but also child labor in foreign producing countries. Iron and steel workers in foreign countries had secured wage increases totalling six times the value of the franc. Canadian workers had secured increases of 80 per cent. based on gold.

Next to agriculture, Col. T. Cantley said, the iron and steel industry was the most vital industry to Canada. Belgian, German and French billets had been brought into Canada at a lower price than the steel companies of Canada could supply it because of the depreciated currency in those countries Colonel Cantley said that tens of thousands of people in Eastern Canada were in doubt as to their future because of the uncertainty of the steel industry in Nova Scotia He was advised that proposals had been made to the government which he did not propose to discuss He asked the government, however, to do something to assist in stabilizing the industry.

Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, said that when the British Empire Steel Corporation came into being, the general feeling was that it would be successful. It was well and favorably located with a supply of coal which, it had been stated, was good for a thousand years, and iron deposits situated in Newfoundland. There were two other steel companies operating in Canada. The Steel Company of Canada was located at Hamilton; the Algoma Steel Company at Sault Ste. Marie. While Besco was apparently unable to meet dividends and even might fail to pay interest on bonds, the Hamilton Company was making money, meeting its bond interest and putting aside a substantial sum for reserves.

Inflation

Besco has been formed in 1921 and during the period of the war the constituent companies had been able to meet competition successfully. Profits made during the war, however, had inspired those at the head of this company with a desire to inflate the capital, although this inflation had not been as large as the company desired. Customs statements did not indicate that great quantities of steel were being imported from countries where the currency was depreciated. The larger part of the steel imports had come from the United States, the minister said.

The government desired to do what it could to place Besco in the position it should be—as favorably as the Steel Company of Canada, which was not quite so well located. But the government had to consider the one thousand industries in Can-

ENGLAND BUYS COAL ABROAD TO KEEP SUPPLY

Baldwin Tells House of Steps To Maintain Essential Supplies.

LONGER HOURS.

Government Will Permit Eight Hour Day To Aid Negotiations.

LONDON, June 15 (Canadian Press).—The Government has been obliged to place orders abroad for the maintenance of essential supplies of coal, Premier Baldwin said in opening the debate on the coal strike in the House of Commons today.

He would make no attempt, he said, to apportion the blame for the coal stoppage, a folly which must leave everyone worse off than at the beginning, but would address himself to finding a way of escape and a return to common sense which alone would save the situation.

Mr. Baldwin said the difficulty arose from the fact that, for the period immediately preceding 1924, prosperity of the coal trade rested on an artificial basis. The only relief that would come from within the industry lay in measures of reorganization and diminution of labor costs, as the researches of the Royal Coal Commission had shown.

The Government, he announced, had come quite definitely to the conclusion that a return to a longer working day was essential. This was greeted by loud and angry cries of "No" from the Opposition.

The Premier said he had been influenced in his decision first and foremost by the interests of the men. The Government proposed to leave the seven hour act on the statute book, but to introduce legislation enabling an extra hour to be worked for a period of time. This would not prescribe longer hours, but would permit negotiations on a basis offering a prospect of a far better scale of wages than that existing.

FIREARMS BILL PASSES SENATE

Further Restrictions Placed Upon Arms Other Than Hunting Rifles.

TAX RATE REDUCED.

OTTAWA, June 15 (Canadian Press).—Belcourt Bill to impose further restrictions on sale or possession of firearms other than hunting rifles passed all stages in the Senate last night. It now goes to the House of Commons. Senate gave final reading to two Government bills; the one changing income tax rate and excise bill, which affects the sale of Canadian tobacco in foreign ports and reducing to $3 a thousand the excise on cigars put up in boxes of ten or less.

NON-CONFIDENCE RESOLUTION IN HOUSE TO-DAY

Member For East Calgary Says Promises Not Carried Out.

MOTION IN ORDER.

Speaker Upholds Motion When Point of Order Is Raised.

OTTAWA, June 15 (Canadian Press)—Fred Davis, Conservative, Calgary East, this afternoon made motion of non-confidence in the government on the ground that the promises made in the speech from the throne had not been implemented. The motion was made in an amendment to a motion to go into supply.

Mr. Davis referred to a clause in the speech from the throne proposing legislation to restore to Alberta its natural resources.

J. J. Denis of Joliette raised a point of order. He held that the Davis motion was not in order inasmuch as it raised the question of Alberta natural resources in regard to which there was still a standing motion on the order paper.

Speaker Lemieux held that the motion itself, being in general terms, and not referring to the Alberta natural resources, was in order, but it would not be competent for members in discussion to refer to the Alberta resources in view of the motion on the order paper.

Premier King said that he had been given no notice of the motion. This suggested that the opposition was hoping, by the absence of the members of certain groups in the House, to score against the government. "If that is the motive of the opposition," said Premier King, "the sooner they score the better."

Premier King said further: "May I say to the honorable members at once as to the steps that will be taken; that if this government does not enjoy the confidence of this House it will lose no time in asking for the dissolution of parliament and an appeal from this house to the country."

PRINCE OF WALES PICNIC IS SUCCESS

Many Pupils and Parents Assembled For Annual Outing.

The annual picnic of the Prince of Wales school, held under the auspices of the Home and School Association on Friday last, was a very successful event, attended by over seven hundred and fifty of the children of the school. The excellence of the refreshments provided for the occasion and the manner in which the children enjoyed them is evidenced by the fact that over thirty gallons of ice cream and two thousand cones were consumed during the afternoon, also eighty gallons of lemonade. The candy booth was very well patronized.

A fine programme of sports was in charge of the teachers. A ball game between pupils of the Prince of Wales school and the Queen Alexandra school ended with a score of 12-6 for the visiting team from the Queen Alexandra school.

The general convenor of arrangements was Mrs. G. Worboy. Mrs. A. Jones was in charge of refreshments, Mrs. G. Davis of the lemonade, and Mrs. F. Pearson of the candy booth, and Mrs. H. Wilson of ice cream. The hundred or more parents in attendance were looked after by a committee in charge of Mrs. G. Davis, assisted by Mrs. H. Beatty, Mrs. C. Thompson and Mrs. G. Wells. Two cases of orangeade were donated for the occasion by Mr. James V. Borland.

The following is a list of the winners in the various sports events:—

Girls 6 and 7: 1, Doris Routley; 2, Freda Hodgson; 3, Gladys Gilbert.

Boys 6 and 7: 1, Bob Sutherland; 3, Ray McWilliams; 3, Billie Elliot.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS MEETS A DEAR LITTLE FAMILY.

"My goodness!" Doris exclaimed when she caught sight of the queer-looking little fellow snoozing on the bank of the stream. "What in the world is this?"

The little fellow in question awakened and, stretching his legs, eyed Doris very closely.

"Oh, please, Mr. Whatever-your-name-is, don't run away," whispered Doris, all excitement. "I'll not harm you. Really, I won't."

"I've seen you with Squeedee and Happy Giggles," laughed the funny-looking creature, "so I know you're a friend of the meadow and water folks. But you don't seem to know who I am. Ever seen anything like me before?"

"No, I never have," replied Doris. "You see, I haven't been in Australia very long. I'm visiting my aunt."

"Then I know you've never seen me before," laughed the queer fellow. "Well, I'm called an Australian Duckbill, if you please, and I will be glad to have you look me over. If you'll notice, my head, bill and webbed feet resemble those of Mr. Duck, while my furry body and tail look a great deal like Mr. Beaver's, don't they?"

"They certainly do," replied Doris. "But tell me, Mr. Duckbill, why are your claws so heavy and strong? You don't have to have them that way to swim, do you?"

"Please Don't Run Away."

"No, that wouldn't help much in swimming," he chuckled. "The real reason is to help me in digging my house. I'm really a water animal, but I try to fool me enemies by living in a burrow in the ground instead of the bottom of the ponds and streams. You've never seen the house of a Duckbill, I know, so come along and let me show you mine. My wife is setting on the nest right now, but I'm sure she will be glad to see you. All I'll ask is don't tell anyone how to get there after I've shown you the way."

Doris promised she would never tell a soul, and Mr. Duckbill led her to an opening in the bank. Here Doris walked along a great long, dark tunnel after Mr. Duckbill until at last they reached a hollow room. Here, on a nest of leaves and dried plants, sat Mrs. Duckbill, and when she moved over and showed Doris what was under her Doris was so excited she could hardly speak.

"I don't blame you for getting excited," Mrs. Duckbill laughed. "I'll bet you never knew of a four-legged animal laying eggs before, did you? Well, we have strange things here in Australia. I'm sorry you didn't wait until my eggs were hatched. The babies are hatched entirely naked, just like baby mice are, and when they go to sleep they roll themselves up into the cutest little balls. You'll have to come again when my four little babies are out of their shells."

Doris could hardly wait until she reached her aunt's house to tell them of her wonderful experience. Of course, everyone thought she had dreamed the whole affair, but her aunt knew that Doris had really visited with her little Duckbill friends.

THE LIBERAL CHIEF STATES HIS ATTITUDE TO O. T. A. IN A SPEECH AT NORWOOD

out in the Public Accounts Committee of the last session but a lot of information was not brought out which a lot of people expected, due to the way the government handled the investigation, said the speaker.

Agricultural Inquiry

Then there was the Committee of the Legislature appointed to inquire into the agricultural conditions of the Province. This committee worked through the recess of 1925 and then their report was not in printed form until the Tuesday after all the members had drawn their cheques and very few on hand. This committee has cost the Province $30,000 and up to the present time I do not know of any matter which the committee has recommended and has been followed up in the house. The way the government has dealt with the committee, it cannot claim to be the friend of the agriculturalists and I challenge the government to say what they have done or accomplished and what they have found out by this committee which was not already known by them.

O. T. A.

Everyone knows the attitude of the Premier. He violated the pledge to the people and by doing so, I submit that he as a public man has forfeited his pledge to the people of Ontario for the word of public men in the British constitution is regarded as sacred. The O. T.A. act was passed in 1916 and voted on in 1919 and 1924 and it is an act on which the people have passed and it is the duty of the government to carry out the mandate of the people. That is my stand on this question stated the Liberal leader in closing.

Hon. Nelson Parliament

The speaker commenced by congratulating the audience for the way in which they had handled the business part of their meeting and he asked, Do we want a government which is headed by a Premier which will not keep his word? Do you want a government which withholds pronouncements and who says the election will be held when it is in the interests of the Conservative party?

Only two of the seats vacant were held by government supporters so would you not expect him after all his bragging to be able to hold these seats but what is he afraid of? Politics is the best thing people can be engaged in outside of their own business for the provincial government deals with the various things that affect the home. It is a big enough job for Premier to be President of the Privy Council without holding two other portfolios. He is Minister of Education because he thought that he had some ideas as to education. Have you seen any brilliant changes, asked the speaker. He has mentioned making the high schools take up the first two years of the University curriculum. This thing would save the pocket of the government an immense sum but who would pay for the extra cost of running the high schools? The people would. The time has struck when you should choose men who should render to this country the best possible services. Is not this the attitude of Liberalism? Liberal leaders might have made mistakes, but Liberalism never was wrong. It stands for those things which mean the greatest good for the greatest number. Let our minds go back to 1921 in Ottawa when there was a change in government; since then the expenditure has been reduced 170 million dollars, and this session the postage has been reduced, the income tax reduced and the tariff on automobiles.

Timber lands in the north have not been sold by competition but to friends of the government. The Redistribution bill took nine rural ridings away and added ten urban. The riding of Cochrane is bigger than all of Ontario south of a line drawn from Georgian Bay to the Ottawa, and this was to be represented by one man. The Premier stated that there was an army of officials to look after this country and at the head of this army is Mr. Keefer who draws $6000 annually so as he will look after things in the interests of the Conservative party. We all believe in representation by population but to-day in Toronto there are ridings right under the towers of the Parliament buildings that are smaller than plenty of the rural ridings.

In ending the speaker said that the province demanded a Liberal government and desired to put out of office those who were there.

Hon. Duncan Marshall.

The audience was advised by Mr. Marshall to get their candidate in the field as soon as possible and let him get around and become acquainted with the electorate. Mr. Ferguson has been on every side of the O.T.A. question but one side, and he is going to be on that side after the next election, which is the underside. I have been unable to discover anything that this government has achieved since it came into power. Even the stupid proposal of Mr. Ferguson on abolishing home work failed. There is something radically wrong with our educational system—last year there were 7500 students in the four Ontario universities and less than 500 in the Ontario College of Agriculture, said Mr. Marshall. There never was such a deliberate neglect of agriculture; every move made has been to depreciate agriculture and elevate the professional line; even the public school children by their books are taught to dispise agriculture. In Alberta to-day, with one-quarter million of population, there are more boys being trained to farm than in Ontario, with her population of two and a half millions. It is to be hoped that when the Liberal party comes into power things will be changed. The Prime Minister has deliberately neglected Agriculture except by appointing a committee which has cost the province $30,000, and done nothing.

In the Dominion the Tory party said at first the Liberals could not govern, and soon they had changed their tune, and were saying that they had right to govern. But in spite of : is they have introduced the best ..get that has ever been presented to Parliament since Confederation, reducing the expenditure, the income tax and the postage. They lowered the duties on autos, and have also taken the five per cent. sales tax off, giving the people an opportunity to buy at a still lower price, for this sales tax has only been taken off Canadian made cars, and only on condition that the manufacturers would reduce their prices likewise. The government has received the support of the Progressive party. Why? Because of its leader, said the speaker. I doubt if there is another man in the House of Commons who could have commanded such support, and I do not believe there will be any difference between the Progressives and the Liberals in the next general election. In a country as large as Canada no single group will be able to carry on unless there is a reasonable compromise. Mackenzie King has shown that he can carry on the reins of government of this country. The Massey-Harris company is doing a bigger business; a silver manufacturer in Trenton told his employees at the last election that it was a bread-and-butter election and that they must vote Conservative, but to-day he is building an addition to his plant which will just double his floor space.

G. B. Nicholson, speaking in the House the other day tried to make things out badly as usual, and he took on hand to tell how much money was being paid out annually for foreign bolts and nuts being brought into this country. He had a sum up in the millions, but he made a mistake when he calculated along with the nuts the eatable nuts. The speaker concluded by saying that when there is a good crop and good prices you cannot prevent the manufacturers from going ahead. Canada produces more than she can eat, so a great foreign trade has to be built up, and other countries do not like buying things from us unless we buy something in exchange from them in return. The government had undertook to develop trade, and with this we have successful farmers, and following that we have manufacturers who are thriving well and who were able to pay the big advertising bills in the last campaign, because they expected they would be returned seven fold, and make the rest of the people hewers of wood and drawers of water when they got control with the Conservative Party in power.

Pres.: Dr. Munroe.
1st Vice-Pres.: W. A. Anderson.
2nd Vice-Pres.: Mrs. W. M. Graham, Lakefield.
Sec.-Treas.: W. A. Richardson.
Vice-president of each township, who is to act in the capacity of chairman:
Belmont and Methuen: Patrick McNulty.
Otonabee: Messrs. Ernest Deyell, Walsh and Hastings.
Ennismore. John Flood.
Harvey: Robt. Shaw.
Burleigh and Anstruther—Duncan Brown.
Galway and Cavendish: John Clark.
Chandos: David Campbell.
Douro: Vincent Moher.
Dummer: E. Hawthorne.
Havelock: Warden Curtis.
Norwood: John Robb.

The chairman, warden and the secretary were appointed a committee to wait on the Liberals of the new townships to make plans for organization.

HASTINGS MAN'S WAGE CLAIM FOR $3,000 DISMISSED BY COURT

John Peters Sued Mrs. A. B. Spellman, Widow of Hotel Proprietor.

COBOURG SESSIONS.

Chief Justice of Common Pleas Presides in Court.

COBOURG, June 15. — A wage claim of $3,000 by John Peters, of Hastings against Mrs. A. B. Spellman, whose husband for years was the proprietor of the Spellman House, Hastings, was dismissed without costs by Chief Justice Meredith, presiding yesterday at the June non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, appeared for Mrs. Spellman, and Frank M. Field, K.C., of Cobourg, for the plaintiff.

The suit was for the balance of wages alleged to have been earned during the later years of Arthur B. Spellman, who died in July, 1924. After the facts of the case were outlined to him by plaintiff's counsel, Chief Justice Meredith asked whether a settlement might be agreed upon.

Mr. Gordon replied—"No, your Lordship, I don't offer a cent."

Mr. Peters, in his evidence, stated that he had lived in the village of Hastings all his life. He said he had been engaged by the late Mr. Spellman to take charge of the poolroom of the hotel at a salary of $12 aweek. He began his duties on January 1, 1919, and continued in the position for more than four years. Peters said Mr. Spellman had told him he could not personally attend to the pool room.

Plaintiff stated that he had never been paid his wages, that the pool room receipts averaged $15 a week, and although he had asked for his money, Mr. Spellman had not paid him.

Chief Justice Meredith asked Peters why he had not taken his money when he was entitled to it. Peters replied that he was playing fair with Mr. Spellman.

Mrs. Spellman, in her evidence, said that in all the years Peters stayed at the hotel she never once heard of any arrangement about wages between her husband and Peters. The defense contended that Mr. Peters was paid in his board and lodgings.

Chief Justice Meredith— "What we are concerned about is did Spellman ararnge to pay this man. Unfortunately Spellman is dead and this woman knows nothing about it."

Mrs. Spellman— "Nothing more than what my husband told me."

The Chief Justice—"Now don't say what your husband told you. Sometimes husbands don't tell their wives everything they do. It is very improbable that a man would allow all that sum of money to accumulate without asking for his wages. There is nothing to show that there was a contract for wages.

Mr. Gordon did not ask for costs and the suit was dismissed.

Many Deficiencies Found When Arabs Watch Women

NEW YORK, June 15.—(United Press)—American women may be the ultra ultra of the world of pulchritude as far as America is concerned, but the leader of a band of 75 Arabs bound for Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial from Tunis agree that desert women are more appealing. After a few hours on American soil, Hardj Mahommed and Ali Djame found these prime deficiencies:

"Their skirts were too short.
"Their faces unveiled.
"Much paint did they sport.
"Rolled stockings prevailed."

To conclude the diatribe Ali said he was astonished at the way the American women danced and the freedom of their behaviour with men. However the party probably aint seen nothing yet.

10,000 Gallons Alcohol Emptied Into Harbour

Customs men poured into the waters of New York Harbor more than 10,000 gallons of alcohol found on the steamship Eker, which was seized off Yonkers on April 29. The destruction order was obtained from Federal Judge John C. Knox.

The alcohol was contained in two great tanks below decks. The contents of the tanks were siphoned overboard from the vessel. The Eker is anchored off Liberty Island.

Bernard M. Reaves, captain of the freighter, was arrested on June 5 and is now at liberty in $10,000 bail. Captain Reaves got away in a small boat when his vessel was seized.

ada which were using steel products.

Report Asked

"Every year at this time, someone comes along and asks us to do something for Besco," said Mr. Robb. "We know that a certain report has been made on this industry and we have asked for that report, and we have been told that it was private We propose to withold consideration of the requests of the British Empire Steel Corporation until we know the contents of that report."

Mr. Robb said he proposed to deal very fairly with the House and proceded to read correspondence between Mr. Wolvin, President of Besco and himself between June 6 and June 10 of this year. In the communications Mr. Robb insisted throughout that before he could take up the company's requests for claims his colleagues, the members of the cabinet, should have before them the Coverdale report. Mr. Wolvin replied that this was "A very serious request" as the report had been made for the directors of the company only. On June 9 telegrams were exchanged between Mr. Robb and Mr. Wolvin in which the minister insisted on a copy of the report before further consideration. He was at the time in conference with Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia. On June 10, Mr. Wolvin wrote that he was prepared to offer the contents of the report to the Prime Minister and to Mr Robb only "Any report given to me in my capacity as minister should be available to the government," said Mr. Robb to the House.

Mr. Meighen asked if the government had wanted to make the report public.

"No, it would be regarded confidentially," said the minister. "This company is asking for considerations involving expenditures. Isn't it fair that the Government should have this information, which any banker would require."

Arthur Meighen

Mr. Meighen said he gathered from the corespondence that the company was prepared to trust the Prime Minister and Mr. Robb with the contents of the report, but not the other members of the Government.

The company would have to place its confidence in the other members of the Government if it expected considerations, said Mr. Robb.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, stated that the seriousness of the situation could not have been better stated than had been done by the member for Cape Breton South (Mr. MacDonald). When it was realized that a city of 25,000 as well as other town were wholly dependent upon this industry, and that many centres were dependent upon allied interests, one could not sit silently by and let this industry fail.

Analogy With Railways

Mr. Meighen stated that the Canadian Northern and other railways had been taken over because of the immensity and far reaching effect which might ensue by their failure. The Government of the day had not been responsible for the situation which existed at the time of the taking over of our railways. "The present situation appears to be much the same kind," he stated.

The fundamental causes of the present situation were the tariff and transportation.

Members on the Government side had argued that it could not be anything in the way of government policy which was responsible, because one steel company was getting along. "He who is satisfied with the condition of the steel industry as an industry in Canada today, and especially satisfied with her compares it with the progress made by our great competitor, is either a very small Canadian or else he is so blinded by politics that he is satisfied with anything under his party," said Mr. Meighen. "The Steel industry of Canada today is struggling and staggering," he added.

Under our tariff today 15 per cent of all that was produced by the three great steel companies in Canada was imported free or there was a 99 per cent rebate in duty. Under this situation we found our largest company on the brink of the precipice, while companies in the United States were enjoying a marked prosperity.

The Conservative party did not advocate higher and higher and higher protection as suggested by Liberal members. What they asked for was a definite policy of protection for Canadian industries.

"What is adequate protection?" interjected Robert Forke, Progressive leader.

Adequate Protection

Mr. Meighen replied that it was protection which put the industries of Canada on a parity with their competitors in other countries. He knew that a certain appeal had been made to the government by Besco. He knew that Parliament should do what it could to avoid a great calamity. He promised the Government that the Conservative party would approach any suggestion which it made to improve the situation in a sympathetic mood. The Conservative party wanted the industry saved.

Woodsworth Sceptical

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre) said that again and again Besco had come before the government asking for assistance. Not so long ago the miners of Nova Scotia had come to the Federal Government but they were told to go to the Provincial Government, that the matter was one for the province. Now Besco came asking for "a hand out." He suggested, said Mr. Woodsworth, that although there had been many investigations into this corporation, there had never yet been one into its finances.

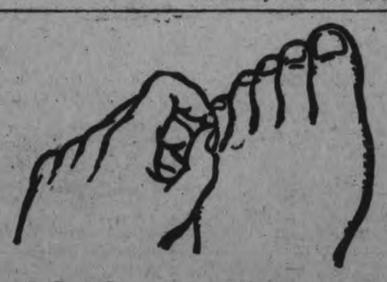
A. De Witt Foster (Conservative, Hants-Kings) said that one-fifth of the entire population of Nova Scotia was dependent upon the steel industry for a living. This whole question was, therefore, one of vital importance to the Maritimes.

He wished that the Progressive leader, Mr. Forke, would make a definite pronouncement that in matters effecting the East he would be willing to go as far as Maritime members have shown their willingness to go in respect to Western legislation. "We ought not to allow this House to prorogue, we ought not to allow this debate to be finished, until we have at least some indication that the government will take this matter under its consideration," said Mr Foster

Pride Versus Facts

J L Brown (Progressive, Lisgar) said he had reason to doubt the economic soundings of the operations of some of the Nova Scotia mines where several tons of water had to be pumped up for every ton of coal raised Virginia coal was actually entering the Maritimes, he said When Provincial pride conflicted with economic fact, pride should be set aside and the true facts revealed.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George) said it was clear that the Dominion Iron and Steel Company was unable to operate at a profit which would enable it to pay the interest on some $12,000,000 of first mortgage bonds falling due in July. The industry would be in the hands of the receiver this summer unless some steps were taken.



Out with Corns, Root and All

If you suffer from corns don't waste time on half measures. Cutting and plastering may give you a brief spell of relief, but if you want to remove the corn, root and all, take a Radox foot-bath. It is the root of your corn that is the root of the mischief, and it is the root that you must remove. Radox softens the entire corn, root and all. You can lift it clean out easily and painlessly. A Radox user writes:

"I feel it my duty to write and let you know what great relief I got from Radox Bath Salts, as forgiving years I was troubled with hard corns. As soon as I put my feet into the Radox water it soon softened them, and by the time I took my feet out again I could lift the corns out bodily.

right out. I have recommended it to several of my friends who are also getting beneficial results."
13th Sept., 1925. (Miss) E. P.

When you put your feet into a foot-bath containing Radox the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn, and the oxygen which Radox liberates enters the pores, opens them, and penetrates further and further, carrying the corn-softening salts right to the root of the corn, which is thus loosened so that it can be lifted out bodily. This life-giving oxygen leaves the feet clean and healthy.

COUNCIL OPENS JUNE SESSION

BRIDGES REPORTED.

COBOURG, June 15. — Warden John McCubbin opened the June sessions of the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham Monday afternoon with the simple formality of greeting the municipal delegates, nearly all of whom were present when the first business was taken up. The communications did not disclose any unexpected questions of importance and at the close of the session the County Property and Equalization Committees were called together with the School Committee scheduled for the evening. Dr. J. H. Hess of Hastings presiding.

The debenture debt of the counties was shown to be $28,143.25 principal, paying 4 per cent. interest, the last debenture being due in 1936. This report was presented by Col. Neil F. MacNachton, clerk, and elicited the comment that this was an exceedingly favorable financial condition. Some members expressed the doubt that under the mounting highway expenditure the debenture debt could be kept at the present low figure.

The Provincial Highways Department submitted a statement of the amount to be paid by the counties under the County Road System for 1925, totalling $97,849.98, and $49,376.79 to be returned by the government on account of county roads built last year.

Alex. Anderson, reeve of South Monaghan, reported that he had recently inspected the Wallace Point bridge with a representative of Peterborough county, and found it in good repair, but Cunningham's bridge was found in bad condition, and the road leading to it was closed.

W. H. Nelson, deputy reeve of Percy reported Thompson's bridge in good repair. Bert Richardson, deputy-reeve of Manvers, found the Pigeon Creek bridge in good condition. Dr. Hess reported the Hastings bridge in good repair, except its need of Tarvia covering, which was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

On motion of Messrs. Murphy and Clark of Cramahe township each municipality will be required to purchase its own collectors' and assessment roll books.

Reeve W. T. Wood of Millbrook, proposed that the clerk, assistant clerk and secretary to the County Road Superintendent be aailable as secretaries for the various committees of the council, and a motion to that effect by Deputy Reeve George Hooten of Cavan, seconded by Alex. Anderson, was adopted.

Mr. Wood was elected chairman of the Equalization of Assessment Comittee, composed of the Deputy Reeves, with the reeves of the municipalities that have no deputies.

MINISTER TELLS ABOUT ASSEMBLY

Rev. James Grier Speaks of Progress Made By Presbyterian Church.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — The services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday were conducted by the minister, Rev. James Grier. Mr. Grier returned last week from Montreal, where he had been attending the General Assembly, and his sermon was on "Some Milestones in our Church's History." It was an account of what the Presbyterian Church in Canada has accomplished in her work of reconstruction, as seen in reports presented to the Assembly. With a membership to-day of over 154,000, the Presbyterian Church in Canada is larger than the Irish Presbyterian Church, and about the same size as the Southern Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

The problems that confronted the Canadian Church at the 10th of June last year seemed insuperable, but each department was again functioning in fine order, he said. The Sunday School department was mentioned as one where chaos had given way to order, and a permanent secretary appointed by Assembly. The college situation had been settled in a very satisfactory fashion to all concerned, the appointment of Rev. Dr. Eakin in particular, as Principal of Knox Church, Toronto, having had a very happy issue.

Mr. Grier reported a satisfactory outlook in both the home and foreign missionary fields. The work in the home field during the past year had been largely that of organizing new worshipping units, many of which are minority groups left without a church home. Churches had been built and some were in course of construction for the use of such congregations. A fund of $750,000, the speaker said, was to be raised for building and extension work.

The foreign fields have not yet been divided on the basis the Presbyterians have laid down, viz., the relative membership of the churches in Canada, and, if not, the Presbyterian Church, without wasting time unnecessarily, will proceed to open up work in the unoccupied portions of those fields she was given under the comity of dissions. The congregation was assured that the Assembly had reached unanimous decisions on all vital issues, and that the Presbyterian Church was a Christian army, marching as to war, and could sing:

"We are not divided,
All one body we;
One in hope and doctrine,
One in charity."

OBITUARY.

CHRISTOPHER G. VARTY.

HAVELOCK, June 15.—There passed away at the family residence in Belmont on Friday, June 11th, an old and highly respected resident of the township in the person of Christopher German Varty. The deceased, who was sixty-two years of age, was born in the township of Hungerford and had resided in Belmont for about fifty years. The cause of death was heart trouble and he had been confined to his bed since September.

Besides his wife there are left to mourn his loss, two daughter, Mrs. Wellington Ellis of Belmont, and Miss Gladys at home; two sons John of Rochester, N.Y. and George at home; two sisters, Mrs. George Brown of Roseneath and Mrs. James Sampson of Dummer, and two brothers, George and Louis of Belmont.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, the service at the residence, lot 10, concession 8, Belmont, being conducted by the Rev. E. O. Seymour of the United church. Interment was made at Maple Grove cemetery.

MRS. A. INKPEN

LINDSAY, June 15—The death is recorded at Fenelon Falls, of Mrs. A. Inkpen, mother of Mrs. George Pogue and Mr. Albert Inkpen, of Peterboro. The late Mrs. Inkpen was widely known in the district, having conducted a grocery business in Fenelon Falls for the last twenty years. She had been in poor health for some time, and last March retired from business. Besides her son and daughter in Peterboro, deceased is survived by four daughters, Mrs. George Kemp, East Kingston, N.H.; Mrs. Joseph Perrin, Sault Se. Marie; Mrs. William Davies and Mrs. David Barker, Verulam; and a son, John Inkpen, Havergill, Mass. There are also nineteen grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

The funeral was held to Fenelon Falls cemetery. Among those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. A. Inkpen and son, and Mrs. Harold Wilson, of Peterboro.

MRS. ELIZABETH KELLER.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — The death occurred here yesterday of Mrs. Elizabeth Keller, mother of the wife of Deputy-Reeve C. W. Palliser. Other surviving members of her family are her sons, F. S. Keller, of Heeley Falls, Hugh Keller of Madoc, George Keller of Brimley, Mich., and her daughters, Mrs. Geo. Peeling of Galt and Mrs. Gordon Bertram, of Campbellford. Mrs. Keller was born at Trenton about 67 years ago and was the widow of the late Roderick Keller.

ELECTRICITY PREVENTS SLIPPING

Electricity now has been called into use in experiments to give loose belts a firm grip on the pulleys. The method, known as the Johnson-Rahbeck effect, presupposes the use of metal pulleys, coated with any smooth, hard and durable insulating substance. The friction of the belt, says Popular Science Monthly, causes it to be charged with electricity on its inner surface. As the belt passes over the insulating coating, the metal of the pulley becomes charged by induction with electricity of the opposite pole, and strong attraction between belt and pulley is developed.

THE FISHING SEASON.

Tomorrow may be just June 16th to most people, but to that prince of good fellows, the angler, it means a new interest in life.

The opening of the game fish season—you've got to be a real fisherman to know just what that involves.

Catching fish, of course, that game battler, the small-mouth black bass, and the hard-hitting maskinonge, but catching them isn't all.

It's the things that go with it, the charm of Canadian scenery, the incense of the pines and cedars wafted across dancing waters, the tang of wood smoke from the camp-fire, the whiff of frying bacon, the aroma of boiling coffee, the countless delights that say that this is Canada and summer is here.

THE WRONG WAY TO DO IT.

A news item in last evening's Examiner that related a narrow escape from drowning when a canoeist upset in Little Lake conveyed a warning to those who know little or nothing about canoes.

This tyro paddler, alone in the canoe, was sitting at the stern of his craft, with the result that the bow was high out of the water, and a sudden gust of wind did the rest.

One of the first things a beginner should know about a canoe, after he has learned that he must be careful about how he moves in the boat, is that it is a very ticklish operation to paddle from the extreme stern of a canoe when one is alone.

Yet the average amateur almost invariably tries to guide his craft from that position, which leaves him at the mercy of the wind or of the swells from a passing power launch or steamer.

Canoeing is a fine safe sport for experienced and careful canoeists. An amateur should get some lessons first before endeavoring to be a solo paddler.

WEAR THE MAPLE LEAF.

Canada's national holiday, the anniversary of the birth of Confederation, is but two weeks away.

Unfortunately, that means to most of us merely a day's freedom from work; just a holiday, meaningless, without significance, without inspiration.

The day that should be marked by a Dominion-wide celebration, by a patriotic impulse in every heart, by a re-dedication of ourselves to the service of this great country, is frittered away in the amusements of a summer holiday without an indication that the significance of the occasion is felt by any of us.

There is one simple but effective way in which we can mark Canada's natal day.

We wear the rose on St. George's Day, the Shamrock on St. Patrick's Day—why not wear Canada's emblem, the maple leaf, on Dominion Day?

The suggestion is not original with the Examiner—in fact, we do not know who first proposed it.

But we believe it a splendid plan and recommend it to the people of Peterboro.

Let us, as the citizens of a Canadian centre which sent thousands of its sons to fight for Canada in the Great War, testify that we are proud to be Canadians by each wearing a maple leaf on the first of July.

BUSES AND THE SPEED LIMIT.

It is contended that because the automobile speed limit is constantly violated by the majority of motorists who do not believe in the reasonableness of the regulation that no attempt should be made to insist upon motor buses being operated within the legal limit.

The same line of reasoning would justify the conclusion that because the Ontario Temperance Act is violated every day by people who do not consider it a crime to drink liquor the bootlegger ought to be allowed to ply his trade without interference from the law.

It is true, of course, that most people who drive a car do exceed the 25-mile an hour limit, and it may be that our representatives in the Legislature are wrong in adhering to such a limit.

But the motor bus is in a different category.

Motor bus companies are using for their own private gain the highways built by the people of this Province—not only using them, but tearing them to pieces.

If they are to be allowed to treat the speed limit as a scrap of paper the motor bus will speedily become the bully of the highway and drivers of ordinary motor cars will have a hard task keeping out of the ditches.

If the highways built by the people of Ontario for the benefit of all the people are to become right-of-ways for motor passenger and freight lines, the least that can be done for the protection of the general public is to insist that such passenger and freight lines must be operated according to the law.

To say to the operators of motor buses, "Go ahead and drive as fast as you like. Everybody else is doing it," would be the quickest way the Examiner can think of to increase the automobile casualty list.

The regulation of motor traffic in the interest of public safety is one of the biggest problems our law-makers have to face.

It is a disturbing thought that while doctors are devoting their lives to finding means of preventing and curing disease and have made wonderful progress, this new engine of death, the automobile, is taking the place of the conquered maladies as a killer.

The automobile slew 22,500 in the United States in 1925; it murdered 6,300 children.

It is the duty of us all to endeavour to control this modern juggernaut; to draw up regulations that will to some extent at least check the loss of life.

We can't do that by each adopting our own private code of regulations.

If each driver is to follow his own ideas about speed, if a motorist, for example, because he thinks a regulation about turning at a street intersection is nonsense, feels free to turn in the middle of a block, if a bus driver considers himself justified in driving his ponderous machine 35 miles an hour because other automobilists do it, it is to be feared that the list of fatal accidents will inevitably increase.

CADET TRAINING IN SCHOOLS.

In the May issue of the Current History Magazine, there is an article by Major-General C. P. Summerall of the United States' army on the subject of school military training, which has a number of interesting points. General Summerall's article deals specifically with what is called the Reserve Officers Training Corps in the United States. This is an institution which covers much the same ground as our cadet training in schools. It has now a total of 121,000 cadets enrolled in 226 educational institutions throughout the United States, the idea being to have a reserve of trained officers in the nation to meet any emergency which might develop; and one effect of this idea is that the United States army is restricted to less in numbers than might be the case if there were not this reserve of possible officers available in a time of national emergency. General Summerall scouts the idea that such training in the schools is likely to promote any tendency towards military aggression, and he emphasizes the fact that the student in these cadet corps is taught the best ethics of the code of manliness, including courage, fortitude and good citizenship.

There is another side to this cadet training business not connected with ethics, but perhaps fully as important, whether as regards the candidates themselves or the nation at large, namely the promotion of health. The war draft in the United States, General Summerall recalls, showed that from thirty to fifty per cent. of young men liable to military service were unfit physically. Now, the conditions were not desperately severe; they simply required average health in the young man and average endurance. Yet out of every million young men of the nation, from 300,000 to 500,000 were found lacking in health or physical fitness. We wonder if this ghastly fact has ever occurred to the intelligence of many of the good people among us who object to cadet training in schools? Cadet training is one of the most valuable things that have developed in recent years to promote the health and physique of the rising generation, and it is a disheartening thing that a good many well-meaning people among us with the hazy idea that they are doing something to minimize the possibility of war, should set their faces against a movement which is needed, sadly needed, in a modern civilization in which the people are crowding into the towns and where even in the ample room of the United States nearly half a million young men out of every million are in poor physical condition.

Such are General Summerall's figures, but the figures of our own Canadian experiences in the Great War show that the condition was hardly any better among us, although as a Northern nation we should be able to show a large proportion of virility among our men. Let us remember that lack of health and physique may mean all the difference between a valuable and contented life and a more or less unsuccessful and unhappy one, and hesitate to obstruct any movement which tends to promote the physical well-being of our people.—Ottawa Journal.

PROTECTING THE FOOD SUPPLY.

That the local Board of Health and the Town Council acted wisely in appointing a duly qualified inspector of meat offered for sale on the market and elsewhere in the town is evident in the reports which are being made from month to month by that official. These show that as a result of his inspections meat unfit for human consumption has been condemned and destroyed. It is true that the quantity found unfit is relatively small in comparison with the number of carcasses examined. Yet the mere fact that such a quantity was offered for sale and without that examination would have been consumed illustrates the dangers which were formerly present. The very knowledge that all meat brought to the local market must undergo this inspection is in itself a deterrent, for in other days there were individuals who did not scruple to display for sale meat and other commodities which they knew to have come from a contaminated source and which they would not think of consuming themselves.

Before the adoption of the regulations administered by this inspector, the preparation, conveyance and sale of meats, milk and other foodstuffs offered upon the Brockville market was carried on in a rather slipshod manner. Slaughter houses situated in the surrounding district were far from being what they ought to have been; stables were often dirty, dark and ill-ventilated; meat was brought to market in many cases in a miserable conveyance without covering to protect it from dust or flies. There was no safeguard for the public against the purchase of meat from diseased carcasses, no guarantee that what they bought was fit for consumption. Meat procured by butchers through the abattoirs was inspected at the source by professional veterinarians, but that locally killed underwent no inspection. What this may have meant in the promotion of disease can only be imagined. To bring about correction was obviously a responsibility which rested with the health authorities, and they very properly took a step which has already resulted in marked improvement. Dr. Waghorn, the inspector appointed, has been most energetic in carrying out his duties. Besides making regular inspections of meat and milk, he has visited the slaughter houses and stables of the district, insisting upon the improvement of conditions wherever they required correction and leaving no stone unturned to assure the quality and cleanliness of the town's food supply. As the result of his efforts and of the enforcement of the municipal tuberculosis order in respect to dairy herds, the town may now boast of well administered pure food laws and householders may purchase these essential commodities in perfect security.

If it was possible to apply similar safeguards to the handling of bread, another forward step would have been taken. It has always been a mystery to know why bread, which generally leaves the ovens in a clean condition, becomes soiled by the time it reaches the consumer. The performance of a baker's boy a few days ago while delivering bread at a grocer's establishment furnished a possible explanation. Fresh from the horse's lines and from contact with other sources of contamination, this boy drew the loaves from the interior of the vehicle with his hands, stacked them like so much cordwood against a coat of the cleanliness of which there was no guarantee, and then bore them into the grocery, where it is quite possible that they went through the same process all over again before being placed in the hands of the consumer. If compulsory wrapping of bread is not considered advisable at this juncture, perhaps it is not too much to insist that bakers, grocers and all others having to do with the handling of this commodity do their utmost to protect its cleanliness and purity. We have seen loaves of bread, here and elsewhere, which bore every appearance of having been rolled in the gutter or employed as footballs.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Some good old-fashioned Canadian summer weather is the one thing needed to ensure growth both in the crops and in the tourist traffic.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Perhaps the talking movie idea could be useful. Why not limit it to talking sub-titles? Would save reading aloud.

Next big wet and dry argument that comes up we are going to use a fine wise-crack about one side meeting its Waterloo.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

In the good old days when we were boys and took our weekly bath in a wash-tub and slept in the attic on a corn-husk mattress, we were sovery happy—maybe.

In the happy days when we were kids and wore cowhide boots and our hands were chapped from wearing wet woollen mittens in winter—in our early years when we were sent to the village grocery store to buy brown sugar sold from an open barrel that stood next to stale slabs of smelly codfish and sides of pork exposed to the dirt and dust—in our boyhood days when chunks of cheese weer cut with an unwashed butcher-knife and the fly-covered faucet on the mollasses barrel was attracting a swarm—in the good old days when the green-colored kerosene barrel made the back room smell like spoiled cabbage—in the dim, distant days when it took a whole day to drive to town and back—I say, in the good old days we were happy in our ignorance of the advantages of ice, the importance of electricity, the necessity for sanitation, and the presence of radio.

In place of the modern package of food, give me the good old days when the store cat slept on the top of the big square tea-box after a night of prowling around with relatives and rats. In the olden, golden days tea had a different flavor.

Personally, I would much prefer the old-time, smoky, dirty open fireplace to steam heat. Somehow I just hate these more modern conveniences that contribute to my health and happiness—maybe.

PICKETING OFFENSE.

Supreme Court Decides That It Is Contrary to the Criminal Code.

OTTAWA, June 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Peaceful picketing in the course of a strike is an offense in Canada under Section 501 of the Criminal Code. This decision, of great interest to Canadian labor, was rendered in the Supreme Court of Canada this morning in the case of Reners versus the King.

The judgment reaffirms the decisions of the Alberta Appellate Court which confirmed the conviction and fining of a man named Reners, a member of the Red Deer Valley Miners' Union for peaceful picketing during the strike of a number of employes of the Alberta Block Coal Company, Drumheller, in June last.

Winnipeg market is steady. Dealers quoting country shippers, extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 21 to 22, delivered cases returned. Prices to retailers, extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 27. Retail, extras 37 to 39, firsts 35, seconds 30.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 14 (Canadian Press).—With foreign bids for Canadian grain still below local exporters' views, the export trade on the Montreal market to-day was again very quiet. The demand from United States exporters for continental freight from this port was good and engagements of heavy grain were made at 14½c to 15c per hundred pounds.

The domestic market for top grades of Canadian Western oats was weaker and prices were reduced one cent per bushel. There was some demand for tough No. 2 feed oats and sales were made at ½ cent per bushel over the July option, c.i.f. Montreal, and 10,000 bushels of Manitoba No. 6 wheat also changed hands.

Prices for spring wheat grades of flour were well maintained under a fair demand. The winter wheat situation was without any new feature to note.

Under a continued good demand from country buyers, the feeling in the millfeed market was steady. There was no change in standard grades of rolled oats and the demand was limited.

The feature of the potato trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices were reduced fifteen to twenty cents per bag.

A fair volume of business was transacted in eggs and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 3,228 cases.

Extreme dullness marked the butter trade, but prices showed no change. The receipts were 1,271 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was firm but the demand was small. The receipts were 8,149 boxes.

The market for beans was quiet, with choice white hand-picked in car lots quoted at $2.20 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $2.30 to $2.40 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 14 (Canadian Press).—An unexpected decrease in the visible supply figures sent wheat shorts scurrying for cover late today and wiped out most of the losses in values which had marked the earlier trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. At the finish wheat varied from Saturday's close to 5-8c off.

The rally in wheat came too late to affect coarse grains, and corn finished down 1 7-8c to 2 3-8c; oats were 7-8c to 1 3-4c lower and provisions were unchanged to 37c off.

The visible supply figures that strengthened wheat was an estimate of a decrease of 2,632,000 bushels. Prices fluctuated rapidly in the closing minutes, but as a whole the market gave a good account of itself, there being excellent buying on every dip. This support was credited to interests which have been on the buying side for several days.

Rains over the week-end in the North-West and West dampened the spirits of bull traders in the earlier wheat dealings, and values displayed a downward tendency. Lower quotations at Liverpool also brought out considerable selling. Some commission house buying developed around $1.38 for July, but as most of the news at that stage was of a bearish character, the market made only a half-hearted response to efforts by a local bull trader to rally the prices. A sagging tendency was in evidence until just before the close.

Harvesting of wheat is progressing in the south-west and hedging pressure is expected to be an important factor in the market before the end of the week.

Corn displayed considerable weakness. Reports of continued soaking rains over most of the corn belt, found buyers scarce, while commission houses were generally on the selling side. Oats were inclined to lower levels in sympathy with corn.

Trade in provisions was exceptionally slow and without feature, the price tendency being lower.

FARMER ACQUITTED.

Accused of Theft of Post Office Money—Brother in Prison.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., June 15. — (Canadian Press).—Fred H. Jones, prominent local dairy farmer and clubman, was acquitted in district court yesterday on a charge of having in his possession $185, the property of the Postmaster-General, knowing it to have been stolen from the mails during the $30,000 robbery of the Moose Jaw Post Office on December 1, 1924.

The fact that Jones was not apprehended until nearly sixteen months after the robbery of the Post Office was the basis of acquittal, according to a fifteen-page judgment, read in court by Judge F. A. G. Ousley.

For participating in the robbery, a brother of Jones is now serving a prison sentence.

NORWOOD W.M.S. VISITS HASTINGS

Guests of Sister Society in Trent Village on Friday.

NORWOOD, June 15.—About fifty members of the Women's Missionary Society of Norwood United church were guests of the Hastings Society on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Alfred Metcalfe, president of the Society, presided. The guests were given a hearty welcome by Mrs. B. F. Doxsee. An interesting addres was given by Mrs. (Dr.) Mortimer Clarke on Missionary work in China. Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., gave a very concise account of the Branch meeting held in Trenton last week. A solo was rendered by Mrs. Malcolm Baker. Miss Carrie Doxsee presided at the organ.

After the meeting a delicious lunch was served in the Sunday school room. A vote of thanks was tendered to the Hastings' ladies for their hospitality. Mrs. B. F. Doxsee on behalf of the Socieу moved a vote of thanks to the speakers of the afternoon, and the meeting closed with the Doxology.

Mrs. Toye of Toronto was the guest of her daughter, Miss Dorothy Toye, B.A. of the High school staf over the week end.

Mrs. Marsh of Campbellford was a recent guest of her nephew, Rev. F. Stillman at the United church parsonage.

Miss P. Gray, R.N. of Peterboro is the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stan Weir were in Colborne on Friday, guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Byers. Mr. Weir sang at an entertainment given that night by the Colborne Improvement Society.

Mr. B. W. Squire, Mr. H. Stephenson and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Elliott were guests of Peterboro friends on Sunday.

Mrs. James A. Stevens is visiting friends in Perth and Lanark.

WORKING ON ROAD.

Contractors Have Torn Up Main Street of Bailieboro.

BAILIEBORO, June 15.— The contractors on the provincial highway commenced operations last week, to construct the new macadamized road between Bailieboro and Fraserville.

They already have considerable draining accomplished, and during the past three days they have succeeded in getting the village streets torn up, getting it in readiness for the stone and finish.

Motor traffic is still allowed to continue providing the drivers are careful when passing the workmen and their outfits.

The provincial highway between Fraserville and Bailieboro is at present very rough for motoring, and it has been in this condition all season, so it will be a relief and treat to the residents of the village when the new road is completed as they will then have the advantage of a splendid road all the way to Peterboro.

It has been stated by citizens here that the good road system to Peterboro will encourage the residents of this district to do more of their buying and selling in the city, as the good road will inspire them to take advantage of it.

John Taylor and Co., Famous English Mine Owners To Start Work in Manitoba Gold Bearing Areas

WINNIPEG, Man., June 15 (Canadian Press).—With capital of $4,500,000, John Taylor and Sons, of London, England, one of the largest gold mining companies of the world, have definitely entered the Lake Winnipeg mining area.

According to official announcement to-day, negotiations have been closed for the amalgamation of the Central Manitoba Mines, Limited, Anglo-Canadian Explorers, Limited, and properties of the W.A.D. Syndicate. Application has been made for a Manitoba charter.

Development work is to be immediately undertaken, according to T. C. Anderson, vice-president of the Central Manitoba Mines. Construction of a modern mill will be started this winter, he said.

John Taylor and Sons own practically all the producing gold mines in India, including the famous Mysoro Mine, for many years the greatest individual producer.

PROPOSAL BY PRESBYTERIANS TO DIVIDE MISSIONARY AREAS REJECTED BY UNITED CHURCH

Dr. Gandier Says Ninety Per Cent. of Workers in Foreign Fields Voted Union and Must Be Given Free Choice.

RECOMMENDATIONS WERE ADOPTED.

Mission Council Will Co-operate With Non-Concurrents Wherever Possible and Some Fields May Be Handed Over to Continuing Church.

MONTREAL, June 15 (Canadian Press). — The General Council of the United Church of Canada yesterday afternoon took a decided stand against any division of the foreign mission fields of the Presbyterian Church with the existing part of that body which would put their missionaries in the dilemma of giving up their life's work or remaining out of the larger federation. This was the way Dr. Alfred Gandier put the position of many missionaries should the request of the present Presbyterians for a division on the basis of the numerical vote in Canada be granted. He declared ninety per cent. of the foreign missionaries voted for union and these must be given the sacred right of making their own decision. To the demand for a division which would make them leave their fields or join the non-concurring brethren, the Executive of the General Council and the Foreign Mission Board had given a decided "No." He knew, he continued, by the applause which greeted his declarations that the Council felt the same way and he put his recommendation, which were unanimously adopted. They are:

"In any field where there are non-concurring missionaries, we agree to any measure of co-operation which the Mission Council on that field may find practicable.

"We agree to consider the handing over or division of any field where this can be done in the interests of the work and without asking the workers to contravene their own decision as to Church Union or impair their status as missionaries of the United Church of Canada."

"While we would like," said Dr. Gandier, "to share our work with the non-concurring Church, our missionaries came into the Union and they took the work in with them." No power on earth could keep him out of Union, he declared, and he asked the same right of choice for the missionaries. Citing the case of North Formosa, where, he said, there was only one non-concurring missionary, and he detailed the amount of work being carried on there which would require, according to the speaker, some three years before the Presbyterial Church could train men to cope with it.

The Presbyterians had also asked for British Guiana, where there were no non-concurring missionaries and South China, where there were no non-concurring men.

Dr. Gandier termed as "folly" the handing over of work to those who could not carry it on.

Following the principle of giving fields where the missionaries were still Presbyterians, the Gwalior Mission in India had been surrendered but the only basis on which an agreement could be reached elsewhere was one of co-operation. The United Church, he knew, would undergo any sacrifice rather than assent to any other course.

The work of drawing up the permanent organization of the Church continued to keep the spotlight for much of the afternoon. This is the only matter so far concerning which the Council has plunged very much into debate.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME ON FARM

Harold Patterson, Living Near Warsaw, Loses House and Contents.

HAS INSURANNCE.

WARSAW, June 15.—Fire destroyed the home of Harold Patterson, five miles from Warsaw, yesterday afternoon. Some of the household goods were saved, but the majority were lost, either through fire or breakage. A woodshed adjoining, which was filled with wood, was also burned.

The house was built 13 years ago on the site of one burned in a previous fire. It was covered by insurance.

ASQUITH ILL – MAY BE UNABLE TO ATTEND IMPORTANT MEETING

General Health Not Affected and Speedy Recovery Is Anticipated.

HEART ALL RIGHT.

Liberal Peer May Be Absent From Conference With Lloyd George Faction.

SUTTON COURTENAY, Berkshire Eng., June 15 (Canadian Press).—Lord Oxford and Asquith, the Liberal leader and former Premier, is under the care of physicians. His condition is said not to be serious, and was described yesterday as "a mild attack of angina pectoris, following influenza.

A bulletin issued last evening, however, seemed to rather modify the first diagnosis. It says:

"After further consultations it has been agreed that the attack from which Lord Oxford and Asquith is suffering is of a functional nature, not organic. His general health will not be affected in any way. A few days' absolute rest should restore him to good health."

The statement that Lord Oxford's affliction is functional, rather than organic, indicates that no important lesions of the heart or arteries are present.

Lord Oxford has been engaged in sharp controversy with former Premier Lloyd George, the outcome of which thus far seems to have favored the little Welshman. Efforts have been made of late to bring the two warring factions of the Liberal Party together, and an important meeting of the Liberal Federation is to be held at Weston-Super-Mare, probably the end of the week. It is feared Lord Oxford will not be present.

INDISPOSED.

NO DRASTIC ACTION WILL FOLLOW CHAMBERLAIN'S NOTE TO RUSSIA

Protest Note Believed Inspired By Desire To Placate Anti-Soviet Faction.

REPLY IMPROBABLE.

Foreign Secretary Will Make Further Statement on Thursday.

LONDON, June 15 (Canadian Press). — Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, yesterday gave the first official account of the British action towards Russia growing out of the despatch of Russian funds to support the recent general strike in Great Britain. Sir Austen's explanation confirmed what has been a growing belief that the original unofficial accounts of the transaction were exaggerated.

The rather mild form of protest which the Foreign Secretary admitted having made in his note to Russia, did not accuse the Soviet Government itself of providing the money, but only complained of relaxation in favor of the British strikers of the Russian law against the export of money. Moreover, it is understood, the Government hardly expects Russia to reply to its protest.

It is believed the real intention of the British note was, first, to please the strongly anti-Russian section of the Government's supporters in the press and Parliament, and, second, in the hope that such a protest might deter the Russians from sending additional funds.

For although the amount of money the Russians forwarded to England would not give each of the strikers more than about a few shillings, and thus could not do much to prolong the strike, yet the moral effect of money from abroad was to brace the men to hold out.

Sir Austen promised a fuller statement Thursday, but it is believed no attempt will be made to send a stronger note, for many of the Government's supporters in Parliament advocate even closer relations with Russia in the interest of trade; they fear that other countries will get ahead of Great Britain in securing profitable contracts.

The Secretary, pressed in the House to take stronger action than a mere protest, returned an evasive answer.

There is also the difficulty that whatever objection might arise to receiving money from Russia in a trade dispute would apply equally to money coming from many other countries, and no protest has been made against them.

Atheist and Theist Argue On Existence Of God

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 15.—(Associated Press).—The existence of God is to be debated by the International Theistic Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism if negotiations under way materialize.

Dr. Arvid Reuterdahl of St. Paul, head of the Theistic group, has accepted a challenge from Freeman Hopewood of New York, general secretary of the Atheistic organization, to debate the question.

In accepting the challenge Dr. Reuterdahl has suggested to Mr. Hopewood that the debate be staged in the columns of some magazine that a greater number of persons might be reached. Mr. Reuterdahl awaits a reply to his suggestion before a definite date for the debate is set.

CAMPBELLFORD WAR MEMORIAL TO BE UNVEILED

Rev. Colonel Beattie Will Perform Ceremony Next Sunday.

PROGRAM ARRANGED.

Committee Extends Invitation To All Relatives of Deceased Soldiers.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15.—The unveiling ceremony of the war memorial will be held on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. A programme will be given and Col., the Rev. William Beattie, D.D., of London, Ont., formerly of Cobourg, will perform the ceremony.

Many of the relatives and next of kin of the soldiers whose names appear on the monument, have since the war, changed their addresses, so that the committee have no way of sending out invitations and wish that all interested will accept this notice as their invitation to attend. Seats will be reserved for them and they will have an opportunity of placing flowers on the monument.

SALMON FISHERY IS MOST VALUABLE

Total Value in 1925 Nearly 12 1-2 Millions—Halibut and Herring Next.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 15 (Canadian Press).—The fisheries production of British Columbia in 1925 had a total value of $22,420,253, compared with $21,257,567 in 1924, says the Bureau of Statistics. These figures represent the value of the fish marketed, whether sold for consumption fresh, or canned, cured or otherwise prepared.

The value for 1925 exceeds that of any previous year's production, excepting that of each of the years 1918 and 1919, the greater value for each of these two years being due to the higher average prices obtained for fish products.

The salmon fishery is of chief importance, the value of its products in 1925 amounting to $14,966,445, or 67 per cent. of the total value of the fisheries production of the Province. Although the catch of salmon was less in 1925 than in 1924, the value of production was greater by nearly two million dollars.

The total pack of salmon in 1925 comprised 1,720,622 cases, valued at $12,385,098, a decrease in quantity of 26,883 cases, but an increase in value of $2,067,106, compared with the preceding year. The large increase shown in the total value of the pack is due to the fact that decreases in quantity are confined to the lower-priced varieties, while the higher-priced kinds of salmon show increased production. The average price in 1925 for all varieties was $7.20 per case, compared with $5.90 in 1924.

Next in importance to the salmon are the halibut and herring fisheries, the former having a production in 1925 valued at $3,898,385, and the latter a production valued at $1,721,232. Decreases in quantity of catch and in marketed value are shown for halibut and increases for herring.

First Taste Of Jazz Fatal To Old Musician

NEW YORK, June 15.—(United Press).—Through most of the 79 years of his life Nicola Coviello had blown a cornet in a dignified way and so well that in England where he lived he was said to have played for Queen Victoria and many another person of royal or noble blood had thrilled to his music.

Then he came to America to visit his nephew here, he arrived last week and on Sunday went to Coney.

"What's that", he asked, when he heard strange sounds issuing from a dance hall. "It's jazz," said one of these with him, realizing that it was Nicolas first encounter with syncopation.

There was no answer, but suddenly the old man turned pale, his body stiffened, and he was dead.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair With

If you want to keep your children's hair in good condition be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoo or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can not possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

KILLED IN MINE LIFT.

NELSON, B.C., June 15 (Canadian Press).—The roof of a mine lift at Sandon, near here, collapsed on Jacob Hanson, 40. He was completely buried in loose rock and was dead before he could be rescued.

EXTENSION COURSE IN ART OF THEATRE

Will Be Given By Toronto University in Hart House.

In every town and city in Ontario and in most villages there is an amateur theatrical society which is doing an important piece of work for the community. In order to supply instruction and training to those interested in this type of work the Department of University Extension of the University of Toronto is offering a Summer Course in the Art of the Theatre from July 5th to August 14th. In this way it is hoped to show how better plays may be selected and how they may be produced to the best advantage. The work will be carried on in Hart House Theatre, the best equipped little theatre in North America. This is the fourth summer that this course has been carried on and it has always been highly successful.

Some theatrical societies are choosing a representative and paying his or her expenses from the receipts from performances. The University Extension Office reports a fine list of applications to date and there seems to be every prospect that this year's Course will have a much greater enrolment than any previous one. It is an excellent opportunity for those interested in amateur theatricals.

SALE OF COOKING.

Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church Holds Successful Function.

A very well attended tea and sale of home-made cooking was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's church, at the Manse, Friday afternoon. The guests were received by Mrs. J. W. Gordon and Mrs. C. R. Banks, president of the society. They were ushered in to the tea-room, where Mrs. G. H. Thompson was in charge, by Mrs. G. H. Roper. At the table, very prettily arranged with Cluny lace cloth and silver basket of white lilacs and pink turnips, Mrs. R. W. Cormack poured tea and Mrs. A. Moir cut the ices, assisted by Mrs. P. L. Allison, Mrs. B. L. Barns and Mrs. G. Gilman. The sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mrs. J. H. Edmondson, assisted by Mrs. W. L. White. During the afternoon, a pleasant musical programme, in charge of Mrs. M. T. Breckenbridge, was given, with a vocal solos by Miss Bertha Hill, accompanied by Miss Green, little Peggy Cooney, accompanied by Miss K. Cooney, and instrumental numbers by Miss Marjorie Turner.

LAKEFIELD PLEASED WITH FEMALE CHOIR

Chorus Numbers and Solos All Well Received By Audience.

LAKEFIELD, June 15—The Female Voice Choir of Peterboro assisted by the Juvenile Choir gave a delightful concert in the United (Presbyterian) Church on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild. Owing to several counter attractions the audience was not as large as was hoped but the excellent programme was greatly appreciated. Great credit was due to the director, Mrs. R. Bugg, who has spared neither time nor effort in the work which gives to music lovers a genuine treat. Rev. P. L. Jull occupied the chair and was as usual, an encouraging and acceptable chairman. The following is the programme:

"O Canada"; Group of songs, England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales; Children's Choir, "Jesus Wants Me"; Solo, Miss E. Harrison, "Always"; reading, Mrs. A. Nicholls, "Our First Quarrel"; Solo, Miss Allen, "Sing Me the Rosary" and "The Blue Bird"; Solo, Miss Annie Fletcher, "Nursery Rhymes"; Solo and chorus, Mrs. Jackson and the choir, "Who's That Calling"; Cornet solo, Mr. J. Minnicolo; Vocal solo, Miss B. Payton; vocal solo, Miss Phyllis Pink, "Buttercup Meadow"; Reading, Mrs. Nicholls; Solo, Mrs. Jackson, "The Garden of Happiness" and "The Bear"; Chorus, the Choir, "My Faith"; Children's choir, "Safe in the Arms"; Solo, Mr. Minnicolo Quartette, "Somewhere the Sun is Shining"; Double Quartette, "Sweet and Low."

The last number was beautifully rendered and was a fitting selection for the closing of a well balanced well rendered programme. "Somewhere the Sun is Shining" was especially fine also. Miss M. Flowers was the pianist and Mrs. Bugg the director. The work of the Children's Choir was remarkably good with the "Nursery Rhymes" number by Annie Fletcher being the most outstanding. Mr. Minnicolo is not a stranger to a Lakefield audience and his selections are always worth while and Mrs. Nicholls' readings made a pleasing interlude in the musical programme. It is hoped that when the Female Voice Choir again visits Lakefield that it will have a bumper house as the performance certainly merits. The soloists were all obliged to respond to encores which showed in a slight degree the appreciation of the audience. The soloists were Mrs. Jackson, Miss B. Payton, Miss Allen and Miss Harrison.

The members of the choir were: Misses M. Berwick, A. Berwick, A. Murray, Weston, A. Parkin, J. Parkins, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. C. Chew, Mrs. Farthing, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Nicholls, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Rathbone, Miss S. McKinley, Miss A. McKinley, Mrs. Ladell, Mrs. Cairns, Mrs. A. Marshall.

The soloists in the children's choir were: Misses Annie, Ina and Madeline Fletcher and Phyllis Pink. Other members of the choir were R. Rummary, G. Murray, J. Schorley, W. Francis, E. Playford, and M. Fletcher.

Now a Way to Give Dull Teeth High Polish

Dental authorities urge this new way

Please accept full 10-day tube free. Note the coral firmness of your gums, the great difference in the color of your teeth as dingy film coat is cleared from them.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. That's why brushing failed you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. Beneath it are the dazzling white teeth you envy.

It keeps your smile unattractive because it absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria by the millions.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. Works wonders on dingy teeth. 10-day test will be sent for coupon if you wish.

LADIES CONDUCT CHURCH SERVICE

Two School Teachers Officiate in Apsley United Church.

APSLEY NEWS.

APSLEY, June 15—An unique service that attracted a large congregation was held in the United church on Sunday evening, the minister, Rev. J. O. Ogden, being away on his vacation. Service was conducted entirely by ladies, Miss Anderson and Miss Peake, who are teachers in two of the school sections north of Apsley, and belonging to the Plymouth Brethren and Baptist denominations respectively. Favorable comment has been heard of the ladies' ability as preachers, and it is understood they will occupy the pulpit again next Sunday.

Great activity prevails in and around Apsley in real estate, and a number of options on property around Loon Lake have been secured by a gentleman representing Toronto interests. It is reported that Wintergreen Hill, overlooking Apsley has been bought by another interest, and that summer cottages will be erected shortly. A number of cottages are in process of erection at Long Lake, Jacks Lake and Loon Lake, to meet the increased demand of the tourist trade. A big influx of tourists is expected this summer.

Mr. J. Stuart has done quite a lot of insurance business in the district in the last few weeks.

Mr. Robert Cleghorn was a visitor to Apsley on Sunday last.

Mrs. J. Kilborn has returned home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. George Kilborn.

Mrs. Dean has returned after a lengthy visit to friends in Toronto.

Hubert James trapped two fine bears last week.

A slight fall of snow occurred here on the King's birthday, and a thin coating of ice was observed early on the fourth of the month.

COUNCIL TO PASS ELECTRIC BY-LAW

Only Course Possible in View of North Monaghan Council.

The township council of North Monaghan held its regular monthly meeting at the Court House, Peterboro, on Saturday, June 12, all the members being present.

A resolution was passed that the clerk be instructed to advertise that a public meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, June 16, at 8 o'clock p.m. at Mays School house. All ratepayers interested in the electric light question in the township are requested to be present.

Another resolution was passed, that the council of the township of North Monaghan has come to the conclusion that the only course for it to take is to pass the by-law and sign the agreement athough it is not satisfied with the conditions imposed by the H.E.P.C. of Ontario.

The clerk read a letter from T. L. Clifford, superintendent of the Radial Railway, stating that the council's communication had been sent to the head office in Toronto.

A resolution was passed that the reeve and deputy reeve be a committee to arrange with W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. a meeting with the Minister or Deputy Minister of Public Highways of Ontario at Toronto, and to ask for a settlement for the North Monaghan road subsidy before the year 1925.

A communication was read from J. H. Seels of the Peterboro Rotary club, asking for a remission of the township license fee on a summer carnival that the Rotary Club proposes to bring to Peterboro to be used in raising funds for charitable purposes. In reply to this a resolution was passed that the license fee to be imposed on the carnival company being brought to Peterboro by the Rotary Club shall be one-half the usual charge.

The clerk was instructed to buy new jaws for the stone-crusher.

Reeve Rye referred the council to the suggestion made by Mr. Patterson, the road superintendent some time ago suggesting the changing of the drain from New Chamberlain street to the lane at the rear of the lots at the south side of New Chamberlain street.

A resolution was passed that the council meet at Byers' store on Saturday, June 26, at 2 o'clock p.m. for the purpose of inspecting the town hall and having the same repaired. Residents of the town hall district interested in the preservation of the old town hall are asked to attend.

A resolution was passed that the assessor be given authority to arrange with the county registrar for keeping track of all transfers of small lots in the township of North Monaghan on a nominal fee which has been arranged.

The following bills were passed in order to be paid:

D. Belleghem and Son, $4; St. Joseph's Hospital, $15.

The following salaries for officers and allowances for meetings and committee meetings were now passed and ordered to be paid:

H. B. Rye, $48; R. T. Lillico, $45; R. A. Dobbin, $39; W. T. Byers, $24; J. A. Wood, $45; Bruce Johnston, clerk and treasurer, $450.00; John MacIntosh, assessor, $112.50; Frank Pratt, relief officer, school attendance officer, sanitary inspector, $80.

The meeting then adjourned.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

John Parrish loves Audrey Morton. She loves her guardian, Harry Morton, rich, unmarried, middle-aged, and much sought by women.

Nona, who has just made a great success as a dancer in Toronto, also loves Morton.

Parrish has left Morton's employ, as secretary, because he believes he never can win Audrey.

Audrey herself has suffered a nervous collapse, and as this chapter opens, has been unconscious for many hours in Morton's Toronto apartment.

His home is in Peterborough but spends much of his time in the larger city.

Morton, distracted by his adopted daughter's illness, has lain sleepless two nights. The doctor asks Nona, who has called in sympathy, to walk him until he is exhausted, so he may sleep. She finally puts him to bed in her own apartment and leaves him with Abe Sunshine, a theatrical manager, while she goes to fulfill her evening's engagement. Morton awakens, and startles Sunshine by calling Audrey! Too late! Dead!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LII.

Mr. Sunshine ran to the switch, and turned on the electric light.

Morton's feet were on the floor now, and he was sitting on the edge of the couch, his arm across his eyes.

Dead—here at my feet!"

The other man sped to his side and shook him. You've been asleep, Mr. Morton'" he shouted. bending to the other's ear.

Morton dropped his arm, and looked vacantly about him. I had found her again, and——"

His eyes caught the figure of Abe Sunshine, beside him. He passed his hand across his face, as if to wipe from it a veil that obscured his vision.

What am I doing here?" he said, sharply. Swaying, he rose to his feet, and laid his hand on Abe's shoulder.

Where's Nona? Audrey——".

He pressed both hands to the sides of his head. I was living a scene of nineteen years ago," he said, slowly. And it was so real that I thought——"

He shook himself. How long have I been here?"

Mr. Sunshine took out his watch, and looked at it. About eight or nine hours," he said. And I haven't had any dinner, and Nona didn't have any sleep at all last night, and now she's at the theater, dancing."

The words finally aroused Morton.

He took the other's arm. I'm terribly sorry, Abe," he said. I remember what happened now. Nona took me, and walked me for four mortal hours. The doctor said I had to do that, or I couldn't get to sleep. And then she brought me up here. Did she say she hadn't been to bed last night?"

You bet," Abe assured him.

Then," said Morton, she had no breakfast either, and no luncheon. I was with her." He groaned. I'm just a calamity to my friends."

Mr. Sunshine took him affectionately by the arm. You're no calamity at all, Mr. Morton," he assured him. You're just a fellow in hard luck. We're all glad to help."

Morton was searching around for his collar and tie. Finding them, he put them on before Nona's boudoir mirror. Have you heard anything from Audrey, over at my apartment?"

Mr. Sunshine shook his head. I'd have called up, but I didn't want to wake you," he said. Come on—I'll go over there with you, in a taxi. Then I'll go to the theater, and see how Nona is. She must be pretty nearly used up, by this time."

Telephone me as soon as you find out," urged Morton, as they descended the elevator. Poor girl! And tell her how I appreciate it, won't you, Abe?"

The theatrical man assented heartily.

And I'll get me some dinner, too," he said.

They found a taxi, and soon were at the Morton apartment. If you can eat cold food," Morton said, come on up. I'm sure there's nothing ready, now. It's late."

I want a hot beefsteak," said Abe. I'll get one for Nona, too, after the show."

Morton shook his hand warmly, and turned into the building.

Once in his own apartment, Morton went quickly to the door behind which Audrey lay. Pushing it open, he cautiously entered. The nurse was sitting placidly at the head of the bed. Audrey was still asleep.

Miss Morton asked for you," the nurse said, coldly. It seems that you were out some place. I had to tell her you were asleep. She said she was glad, and went to sleep again!"

Her stare at Morton was hostile.

The doctor told me to walk until I was exhausted," he explained, humbly.

Finally, when I got so weak I couldn't walk any longer, I was taken to a friend's apartment. I just woke up."

Oh," her tone was more friendly.

Well, Miss Morton was given a little nourishment, and her heart action is stronger."

She glanced at the disheveled clothes of the man before her. They were wrinkled from use as sleeping garments, and with his unshaven face, gave him the aspect of a vagrant.

You can use some more sleep," she said, this time with real kindness. Go on, go to bed—I think you can sleep normally now."

He stooped and kissed the sleeping Audrey, and then went to his own room. In a few moments, he was in a dreamless sleep, his arms wrapped about his head, his legs sprawling.

Audrey was awake, but very weak, when he entered her room the next morning. He had bathed and shaved and dressed himself carefully, and appeared a different man from the weary, broken figure that had crept out of the room the night before.

"Dearest!" he exclaimed, and ran to her as he saw that her eyes were open.

She smiled, in gentle welcome. "Daddy dear! I'm so glad! They said you were almost ill yourself!"

He sat on the bed beside her, and smoothed back her hair. "I'm all right—I'm always all right," he said.

She was quiet a little while, and her chest moved as if she were breathless.

"Daddy, may we go back to Peterborough when I'm able to be up!" Her big blue eyes were fixed on him imploringly, as if she feared a refusal.

"Of course, sweetheart. The doctor said you had to go back there, as soon as you could be moved."

She gave a sigh of content. "I feel as if I were in a wilderness, here, some way. I feel lost."

She turned her head away from him, and looked out the window. His face, with quick lines of misery upon it, startled the nurse who was watching him.

"Don't worry so, sir," she said. "Miss Morton is getting better."

The girl on the bed turned to him again, and reached for his hand. "Yes—don't worry, daddy. I didn't mean to worry you."

He began to tell her what the doctor had said—that she was a plant transplanted to the wrong soil, and that she should have quiet and real home life. Her eyes lost the light that they had held when he came in, and now she stared at him, as if she could not comprehend. Her lids drooped, and opened again.

"It's all so mysterious," she sighed.

She was asleep again.

"She can't be talked to much, for a long time, Mr. Morton," the nurse said, rising and coming to the bed. "It tires her mind, if she has to think hard about anything."

"I do everything wrong, don't I?" he said, looking down at the quiet figure before him.

The nurse's sympathies were aroused. Quickly coming around the bed, she stood beside him. "She loves you very much," said the nurse. "There isn't anything you've done that she won't forgive."

It was the wrong consolation. Tears welled into his eyes, and hastily he left the room, and stumbling down the steps, went into his own study and locked the door.

At the end of an hour, he came out. The butler, listening at the key hole, had heard him stirring around inside. Now Morton's breakfast was waiting for him, on the table.

He smiled a little as the man pointed at the meal triumphantly. "I timed it just right, sir," said the butler.

Morton thanked him, and sitting down, for the first time since Audrey's illness ate a full meal.

When he had done, he assured himself that Audrey's condition was not changed. Then he went into the drawing-room, and sat down with the newspapers.

A little after ten o'clock, Nona called on the telephone.

"May I come over, and see Audrey?" she asked.

"Do come, my dear," Morton said. "I want to thank you, Nona, for what you did for me yesterday."

"Didn't do a thing!" Nona declared. "But I'm glad you got some sleep."

"And I'm not glad that you didn't get any sleep at all," he told her. "But come on over, and we'll talk about it."

Nona came, her eyes anxiously scanning his face as she came in the door.

"You're better," she said, with relief. "Is Audrey still sleeping?"

He told her of Audrey's awakening. He choked a little as he told how his own words had tired her again.

"But anything would have tired her," said Nona, sympathetically. "Poor little dear! It will be weeks and weeks before she's strong again. The nurse told me."

She sat down, on a deep divan that stood beside the organ alcove.

"Abe said you woke up, thinking that Audrey was dead," she said, hesitantly.

He leaned forward, bowing his head so she could not see his face. "It was not this Audrey I thought I saw," he said, "It was another Audrey—an Audrey who really lived one time, and whom I found——" he did not finish the sentence.

The girl made a movement toward him, but restrained herself.

"I think Audrey's illness—this Audrey's—was what brought it to my mind," he went on. "Old wounds can be reopened, you know."

Her face was filled with tender sympathy, but to spare him, she abruptly changed the subject.

"I have a new contract," she told him, brightly.

"A good one?"

She dipped into the bag that hung on her wrist, and drew from it a legal document.

"Here it is," she said, handing it to him.

He glanced over the paper. "Why, that's a tremendous salary boost!"

He smiled with pleasure as he passed the contract back to her.

"Are you glad?" she asked him.

"Indeed I am!" he told her. "Nona, you're a successful woman!"

"Not successful," she told him, soberly. "No one is successful, unless they have achieved happiness."

He arose, suddenly, and strode to the window. "I know that, Nona!" he said, without turning his head. "Riches don't make happiness! My God, I know they don't!"

She ran to him. "I didn't mean to wound you, Harry," she said. "I was just thinking about my own case. I wouldn't have said anything to revive—to make you think of sad things, Harry. You know I wouldn't, don't you?"

He extended his hand backward, and took hers. "You're kind and good, Nona," he said softly.

The butler came to the entrance, and rapped upon the door. Morton did not let go of Nona's hand, as he turned.

The servant had a telegram upon a silver tray. Morton took it, and tearing the envelope, read the message.

He passed it to Nona, and she read, aloud:

"Have just learned of Miss Morton's serious illness. May I come please. John Parrish."

CAVAN LADIES' AID REGULAR MEETING

Thanksgiving Fowl Dinner Is Among Business Discussed.

CAVAN, June 14.—On Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Aid of Cavan United Church met at the home of Mrs. C. Carr. There were fourteen members and three visitors present. The president, Mrs. R. S. Staples, conducted the meeting.

Among the items of business discussed was the annual fowl dinner which is always held on Thanksgiving evening.

During the programme Mrs. (Rev.) Totten read an interesting paper on "Christian inflence." Mrs. R. Matchett read a clipping, "Keep an open mind."

Lunch was served by a committee of ladies.

An invitation from Mrs. Albert Elliott to hold the July meeting at her home was given and accepted.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lang and family motored to Peterboro on Monday last and attended the graduation exercises of Nicholls Hospital. Among the graduates was Miss Bernice Smith, Garden Hill, a cousin of the Lang family.

Cavan Dramatic Club gave the play, "Willowdale," at Pontypool on Monday evening last. It was well received.

On Thursday evening the Executive of the Religious Council of Cavan and South Monaghan was called to a meeting in Cavan Church.

Mr. William Pudsy has a number of men employed putting an addition to his stable.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McGill and two children, of Janetville, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morton, Claybo, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Pudsy on Sunday, motoring over.

Mrs. T. W. Donaldson, Centreville, is visiting her brother, Mr. Eber Syer, and Mrs. Syer.

Miss Ruth Keegan, who last week graduated from the Homeopathic Hospital, Rochester, accompanied her father home on Monday last.

Ebenezer Church held a lawn social at the home of Mr. Bruce Sharp on Wednesday evening. There was a good crowd. The young people of Christ's Church, Bailieboro, presented their play, "Safety First."

Conductor Davis and Mrs. Davis, Bobcaygeon, spent the week-end with Mrs. Milligan and Miss Kelly.

Miss A. Stark has been confined to bed again, suffering from a painful illness.

FRANC DROPS AGAIN.

Reaches New Low Record of 36.57 to the Dollar.

PARIS, June 13. — Canadian Press. — The French franc to-day tumbled to a new low record for all time, reaching 36.57 to the dollar, and 173.25 to the pound sterling.

YOUTH IS FREED ON THEFT CHARGE

Pleads Guilty and is Given Suspended Sentence—Money Refunded.

MILLBROOK, June 15 — The trial of Stanley Fisher, on a charge of theft, held here on Friday evening, resulted in his being let go on suspended sentence for one year. Magistrate Floyd tried the case, and W. F. Kerr, of Cobourg, represented the Crown.

Fisher, who was defended by A. A. Smith, pleaded guilty to having stolen a pocketbook containing $10 from B. Vanderburg; both men were working with a railway construction gang, the car where the men were accomodated being located at Cavan C.P.R. station. Previous to the trial Fisher had admitted to Provincial Police Cousans having taken the purse and contents from Vanderburg's clothing while it was hanging in the construction car.

An older brother, Harry Fisher, who lives with his uncle, Mr. Alfred Henderson, of Manvers, repaid the money to Vanderburg, and also repaid to Station Agent P. Stinson, an amount that the accused had recently taken from the cash drawer at the local C.N.R. depot. In the latter instance no arrest was made, the detective who traced the theft giving the boy a good talking to and putting him on trial as to further good conduct. Magistrate Floyd, in allowing the year on suspended sentence, also gave the young man some good advice as to better behaviour during his twelve months' probation.

Apparently Fisher has not had a good record locally; he will be twenty-one next March; his mother is a widow.

A motor accident ocurred on King street about 10 o'clock on Saturday evening when David Morton, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Morton, who lives two miles or more west of the village, was knocked down by a car driven by Ronald Deyell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deyell, of South Monaghan.

The boy was crossing the street opposite H. Nattrass' barber shop, and ran directly in front of the car, the bumper striking him and throwing him between it and the radiator; the car passed over him but luckily the wheel did not touch his body. He was cut about the head, and was taken to Dr. H. A. Turner's private hospital for medical treatment. Mr. Peterborough schools. Evidently he Peterborough school. Evidently he had no opportunity to avoid hitting the child; he was not driving at an excessive speed.

Examination at the hospital showed that the Morton child had no bones broken, the cut on his head, and his face scratched from contact with the roadway, being the extent of his injuries so far as present developments show.

DOURO PERSONALS.

DOURO, June 14.—The members of the County Council inspected the proposed site for the bridge at the mill dam on Friday.

Mrs. McKenty and son, James, of Kitchener, are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien, and other friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. O'Connor of Coppercliff visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Connor and other friends here.

Miss Ellen Forsythe visited her nephew, Mr. Kerwood Taylor, and Mrs. Taylor of Port Hope, on Sunday.

Mrs. Edward Sullivan received the news of the death of her brother, Mr. Michael Sheehan, which occurred at Iona, Mich., on Friday last. Mr. Sheehan was about eighty-one years of age. He is survived by three daughters: Mrs. J. Almond of Iona (with whom he was residing at the time of his death), Mrs. M. Belhagel of Lansing, Mich., a daughter, and one son, James, residing at Grand Rapids, Mich. His wife predeceased him last July.

The members of the Township Council drove over a good many roads of the township on Monday to decide where repairs are most needed.

Messrs. Joseph O'Connor, John M. Condon and Kenneth Cavanagh have purchased cars.

UNITED CHURCH SCHOOL DISCUSSED

Council Will Consider Requirements of These Institutions.

MONTREAL, June 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Its secondary schools received special support from the United Church of Canada to-day when, after hearing a plea from Dr. O. H. Sanford, Vancouver, and other commissioners, the General Council adopted the following resolution:

"Secondary residential schools and colleges will have important places in the educational programme of the United Church. It is recommended that the Council request the Board of Education of the United church to examine carefully the requirements of these institutions, financial and otherwise, and develop a policy which will enable them to make the greatest possible contribution to the church and society."

Trading In Toronto Dull With No Features To-day

TORONTO, June 15 (Canadian Press).—Trading was light and featureless on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, inactivity at the opening continuing throughout the session, The sales were exceptionally light, even in issues which have been the centre of interest during the past week.

Consolidated Smelters, after opening at 211 1-2 bid, advanced to 213 1-2. Brazilian Traction was very inactive, closing at 97 for a net gain of 1-4. F. N. Burt Common, after opening down three points, recovered during the trading to 55 3-4 for a net loss of one point.

In mining stocks, Vipond opened up 5 points at 175 and closed at 176 for a net gain of 6. McIntyre showed a net loss of 10 points, while Hollinger closed 5 points higher at 19.95. Imperial featured bank stocks, the quotation remaining unchanged at 206.

Unfavorable Crop Reports Lead To Unturned Prices

CHICAGO, June 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Unfavorable crop reports from Kansas led to an early upturn in prices of wheat to-day after a setback at the start. The initial weakness was ascribed more or less to the rains northwest and west. Opening unchanged to 1-8 cents off, wheat underwent a moderate general drop and then rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Corn and oats were easy, corn starting unchanged to 1-4c. off and later fluctuating within narrow limits.

Provisions developed firmness.

Assertions that Kansas has lost 10,000,000 bushels of wheat since June 1 were current here to-day, credited to a recognized unofficial crop authority. The reason given was heat and drought.

Mining Exchange Quiet Prices Generally Firm

TORONTO, June 15. — (Canadian Press.)—Prices were firm and generally unchanged on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day.

There was little activity in Hollinger which remained unchanged at 19.90. Teck Hughes was more active and opened and closed unchanged at 3.63. Vipond opened unchanged and advanced to 1.75 for a net gain of three points. McIntyre suffered a decline of five points. Noranda, which has been an active stock of late, opened down ten points at 15.00 and wavered between that figure and 14.95.

Oil and Copper Shares In Broad Upward Movement

NEW YORK, June 15. Canadian Press. — A heavy accumulation of oil and copper shares featured the resumption of a broad upward movement in to-day's stock market. The rapidity of the recent rise, combined with the fact that the market, judged by industrial averages, had regained half the ground lost in the March reaction, led to extensive profit taking in the recent strong spots, but selling was well absorbed. Marland changed hands in large volume, moving up nearly 3 points to a new high record for the year at 62. Texas Co., Panhandle Producers and Rouers and Lago also touched new high records.

LAUNDRY MAN HAD MUCH OPIUM

OUTFIT WORTH $1,500.

COBOURG, Ont., June 15.—(Special.)—Charles Lee, a Chinese laundryman, was remanded until June 28 to-day on a charge of having narcotic drugs. The police pound opium valued at $1,500 with pipes and other equipment in his shop late on Monday.

PASSERBY SAVES THREE LITTLE ONES

Enters Burning House and Brings Children To Safety.

CHATHAM, Ont., June 15. — A passer by, William Reumer, rescued the three children of Gordon Guerin from a burning building in the town of Wallaceburg this morning. Seeing flames coming from the flat over the Morrison Irwin store, he entered, and by crawling on hands and knees, to escape the dense smoke, reached three children, aged twelve, ten and six years, who were huddled together in the room, carrying the smallest one, and pushing the other two ahead of him, he brought all three to safety. The building was gutted and the store stock destroyed. Guerin, whose wife is out of town, had gone to work, leaving the children alone in a flat. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TWELVE DIED DURING STORM

Scores Injured in Three-Day Storm Around Chicago.

CROPS BENEFITTED.

CHICAGO, June 15 (Canadian Press)—A dozen dead, scores injured and a million dollars worth of property damage is laid to the account of a three day rain and electric storm which centred in Illinois and Iowa and benefitted the crops to the worth of a million dollars. The storm last night was moving eastward into the great lakes but rain still fell in the middle west, adding to the record precipitation. The mortality toll included six in Illinois and five in Iowa.

DISTRICT A.Y.P.A. LAKEFIELD MEETING

Many Attend June Gathering of Young People—Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, June 15.—The June meeting of the Peterboro District Council of the A.Y.P.A. was held in St. John's school-room on Thursday evening, June 10, and was attended by more than one hundred young people from Peterboro, Millbrook and Omemee. Clergy present included Rev. R. C. Blagrave of St. John's, Peterboro; Rev. G. J. Bonsfield of St. Luke's, Peterboro; Rev. J. L. Hughes of St. George's, Peterboro, and Rev. Walter Cox of St. John's, Lakefield.

The President of the District Council, Mr. A. Hope of All Saints', Peterboro, was in the chair, and the Sunday School orchestra of twelve pieces of All Saints', Peterboro, were in attendance and played for the hymns. The opening prayers were read by the chaplain of the district, Rev. J. L. Hughes of St. George's, Peterboro. A short address of welcome to the visitors was given by Rev. W. Cox, rector of the parish, in which he referred to the old building now used as a parish hall, but which was the first church in Lakefield and was built about seventy years ago.

Miss M. E. Dawson of All Saints', Peterboro, read the minutes of the last district meeting held in May in the Parish Hall of St. Luke's, Peterboro. The report of the Treasurer was given by Miss Irene Clemett of Christ Church, Omemee, Treasurer of the Council.

Miss Clara Adams of St. Luke's, Peterboro, gave a report of the Debating Committee, of which she was convenor, and recommended an amendment to the rules for judges, which would require the judges to reach a decision and which would eliminate a tie in the debates.

Mr. H. Jordan, President of St. Thomas' branch, Millbrook, was presented with the debating cup by Mr. Hope, Millbrook, having won the cup three years in succession and now becomes the owner of the trophy. Mr. Jordan made a graceful speech thanking Mr. Hope for the cup.

Mr. Hope expressed regret that the debating was not more general between the branches as it was a feature which provided both interest and instruction. A new cup will be secured for next season.

After some discussion it was decided to hold the annual picnic at South Beach on July 22. Lakefield branch is to be responsible for the sports programme, with Mr. C. C. Stenner, President of the branch, as convenor.

Brief remarks on extension work in the branches were given by Mr. H. Hill, Omemee; Mr. Robert Stone, Millbrook; Mr. J. Price, All Saints', Peterboro, and Mr. Bert Graham, St. John's, Peterboro.

Several new ideas were given and there was no doubt as to the sympathy of the meeting with the work.

Rev. J. L. Hughes urged the cooperation of the A.Y.P.A. in the reception and support of the Church Army who will visit Peterboro the fourth week-end in July in their Crusade of Witness, and urged strongly that every branch should be represented as largely as possible at the meetings when the opportunity is given to bear witness publicly for Christ and church.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the members of the Lakefield branch.

Band Concert.

The following was the programme of the open-air band concert on Thursday evening, which was enjoyed by a large number of citizens, despite several counter attractions:

March—"Auto Club."
March—"Golden City."
Waltz—"Rosalind."
Overture—"Tryme."
Andante and Waltz — "Hawthorne."
March—"Good Fellow."
"God Save the King."

Jolly Picnic.

The Junior Auxiliary of the W. A. of St. John's Church held their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. C. C. Stenner, the Junior Superintendent, on Wednesday afternoon. The rector and Mrs. Cox were present, and also Mesdames William Watson Sr., Brown and Wannamaker, who assisted Mrs. Stenner and the children, numbering in all about twenty-five.

Tea was served at four o'clock, after which races were run off on the grounds of the Public School.

The following were prize winners:

Potato race—Eva Hendren.

Kindergarten potato race—Jean Blewett.

Girls' flat race—Olive Edwards.

Kindergarten flat race — Jean Blewett.

Flat race, 8 to 10 years—Kathleen Wannamaker.

Flat race, 10 to 12 years—Olive Edwards.

The races were followed by a baseball match between two teams captained respectively by the rector and Mr. Stenner. The latter were the victors.

Three hearty cheers for the Superintendent brought a very happy event to a close.

Garden Party.

The annual garden party of St. John's Church will be held on Tuesday afternoon and evening in Riverside Park and Pavilion.

A delightful Book tea was held yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Rotary-Annes, at the residence of Mrs. Claude Rogers, McFarlane avenue. Although the attendance was marred somewhat by inclement weather, a large number of books were received, to be used for the replenishment of the shelves of the library at the Rotary Boys' Camp at Clear Lake. The guests were received by Mrs. Rogers, president of the Rotary-Annes, and Mrs. J. H. Seels. Mrs. F. L. Roy ushered the ladies into the tea room, where Mrs. N. Buchanan was in charge. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. J. Kidd and Mrs. T. Barrie, assisted by Mrs. C. G. Graham and Mrs. G. H. Thompson. The decorations, in charge of Mrs. Roy, were a profusion of mauve and white lilacs in the living room. The tea table was centred with a silver basket of lily of the valley and pink honeysucke, while the color scheme of white, pink and blue, was carried out in bowls of white lilacs, pink tulips and blue iris. A very pleasant musical programme, in charge of Mrs. Gerald McClelland, was given during the afternoon, and included vocal solos by Mrs. Douglas Fletcher (formerly Madame Farnum of Toronto), Mrs. Ford Turner, Miss Mathilde Masson and Miss Daisy Davidson, with accompaniments by Mrs. H. Carey, Miss Marjorie Turner and Miss Mary Harstone. Instrumental numbers were given by Mrs. Harry Carey, Miss Marjorie Turner and Mrs. J. A. Foster, the latter playing the violin, with accompaniment by Mrs. E. Fenwick. A number of Miss C. Littlefield's pupils from the Y.W.C.A. also gave two pretty interpretive dances, the "Butterfly" dance, in which those taking part were Grace Comstock, Jean Harvey, Margaret Scott, Helen Hatcher and Annie Williams, and the "Vintage" dance, given by Arleigh Comstock, Bertha Loban, Jeanette Allen, Margaret Lacheur, Viola Harvey, and Mabel Nixon. Violin and piano accompaniments for the dances were played by Mrs. J. A. Foster and Miss Madeline Willis.

Evening Examiner "Ideal Fashions" by Jean Belle Hamilton

Fashionably Correct, Yet Slender of Line

Each line of the frock pictured here was skilfully planned to make its wearer look more slender. Fashioned of satin, crepe, or the printed cotton materials, it portrays an untrimmed simplicity of line flattering to the full-figured type of woman. Notice the long V-shaped neck opening, and the seam over the bust extending from shoulder seam to below the top of the hip—both carry the eye toward the bottom of the frock, where there is a soft ripple. The skirt portion at the back is joined to a semi-fitted bodice having a seam in each side. The vestee in front may be omitted and the collar fastened to the neck, while the loose sleeves may be fitted to the arms, by means of a dart at the back. NO. 1368 is in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust. Size 40 bust requires 3¾ yards 39-inch figured material, and ⅞ yard 36-inch plain contrasting color. Price 20 cents.

Do you know what a cameo is?

A cameo is maybe a piece of jewelry, for it is classed as that, but it is really a little picture with a story carved into it. Someone takes a piece of shell, carves it into a little picture, and it is a cameo.

Camoes are so small that only one little part of each story can be pictured. Therefore, when we look at a cameo, we sort of know all about the man who carved it and the whole story he saw, though we see only one little scene.

All life is made up of little stories. Each separate story would make a nice cameo, and here is one little scene which was made into a cameo, and from which I have learned the story that caused it.

This cameo was on a big clam shell, and it pictured a Canada Goose with her goslings around her, while big, brave Daddy Canada Goose was chasing away an old but much annoyed hen. That was all the cameo had on it, but here is the story behind it, the story that the cameo maker saw:

A nature lover was away back north, watching the wild folks in their homes and painting them at odd whiles, when he discovered a nest of Canada Goose eggs, hidden beside a small lake on the farm of his host. These eggs belonged to a captive pair of Canada Geese and the farmer who owned them was glad to hear the news.

The farmer went out and stole the nest of eggs, much to the consternation of the wild goose folks, who were fairly stunned by their loss. However, the farmer thought some cat or animal would harm them if left in the open, so he gave the job of hatching them to Biddy, his best and most faithful old hen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wild Goose mourned their loss and took it very badly, not knowing that all the while, safe in the barn, Biddy the hen was mothering the eggs. And at last they were hatched!

Everyone got ready to see the fun, as Biddy strutted forth with the goslings, but Daddy and Ma wildgoose heard voices they knew as those of their children, and say! when they saw those wildgoose babies they nearly went crazy with delight. Biddy was chased away and the procession started for the little lake.

JERRY IS ANGRY.

"Go on upstairs to the locker room Angie, and wait for me. I'll be right along. I've got one more thing I want to do here."

As Angie walked toward the elevator, I stooped and hunted around, among the papers below the counter at my feet. Finally, I found the bottle with the red skull and crossbones on its label that I was looking for. For the first time since I picked it up in the women's rest room I looked at it carefully. And I was greatly consoled and encouraged that there was very little of the deadly burning stuff gone from the bottle. Perhaps Miss Cleaver had not taken enough of it to make her case serious.

So Doctor Flint wanted to get this tell-tale evidence away from me. He wouldn't get it if I had anything to do with it. I slipped it into my bag and followed Angie.

"I hope you will have a nice time, Judy," said Angie Horton to me as we were putting on our wraps preparatory to leaving the store. "You will never know how grateful I am to you for letting me have the money. Our rent is due tomorrow. I just didn't know what I was going to do for I hadn't a cent. Perhaps that is what made me say all that foolish stuff about falling for J. D. I expect I wouldn't do it after all, for I have had other chances, and I always managed to get along without taking the fatal step."

Jerry was waiting at the corner with his roadster.

I didn't tell him I was not going to dinner with him until I got in the car.

"This has been the longest day I have ever spent," he exclaimed. "Where will we go now, darling?" he asked, turning to me with great satisfaction in his eyes.

"To the Congress Hotel."

"You certainly dont want to go there, Judy, do you? Peacock Alley is full of overdressed women and prowling men at this time of day. I wanted to take you out in the country somewhere for dinner. There are lots of little places outside of the city limits where we probably would be the only people to dine so early."

"That sounds lovely, Jerry, and we will go there som e other time. I can't go anywhere to dinner with you this evening—"

"But you said—"

"I know I did, Jerry dear, but I'm sure you will let me off. It is very important."

Jerry Hathaway became furiously angry. His face changed so that I was afraid of him.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Number Fourteen.—

THE TWINS START FOR MISTY HILL.

This was the letter that the mail-box handed to the Twins in Nip-and-Tuck Town. It said:

"Dear Twins, I am sorry that you are having such a hard time finding Inco and Flops on the moon. But I am sure they are in Drowsy Land somewhere. If you do not find them in Nip-and-Tuck Town, just ask your pink tickets to take you to the Dream-Maker Man. He lives in a castle with seven pointed arrows on Misty Hill.

"Lovingly yours

"The Fairy Queen."

"The Dream-Maker Man," cried Nick. "We never thought of him, did we, Nancy? He's a good one to go to. Come on—let's start."

"Where to? Where to?" asked the two pink tickets when they heard this. "Where are you starting for? We have to know if we are to turn ourselves into tracks again so we shall be sure to go in the right direction."

"To Misty Hill," said Nancy. "To the Dream-Maker's house."

The pink tickets were trying to decide which one of them should be the track this time, when along came a sandwich plate and a large picnic coffee pot.

"May I pour you a cup of coffee?" said the coffee pot, hospitably. "You have ten minutes stop-over for lunch."

"Thank you," said Nick, "but we—we aren't allowed to have coffee."

"Well—I like that," said the coffee pot in an offended voice. "I suppose you'll be saying that you don't eat sandwiches either."

"Do they have mustard on?" asked Nancy timidly.

"Of course," said the sandwich plate. "Mustard and horse-radish and Worcestershire Sauce."

"I guess we won't have any, thank you," said Nancy.

"Upity! That's what they are! Upity!" snorted the sandwich plate. "And me priding myself on my seasoning."

The coffee pot and the sandwich plate took hands and walked away.

"Now we'd better be going," said Nick. "Come on, tickets, we're ready."

"Won't you take something to read with you?" said a new voice. And there stood two magazines, a red one and a blue one with pictures on the back.

"We'd like to, thank you," said Nancy. "Do you have nice easy words that we can understand?"

"Nothing shorter than 'conglomeration' and words like that," said the magazines. "That's the kind of reading that puts you to sleep when you travel."

"I guess maybe we don't swant to read, thank you," said Nancy. "But perhaps you could tell us if you have seen a china elephant and a clown anywhere. We are looking for them."

But the magazines had walked off in a huff. They hadn't heard the last part of Nancy's speech.

"We certainly had better be starting," said Nick. "This place is well named Nip to get in and tuck to get out. Every time we start someone comes along and stops us. Quick, here comes somebody else."

The pink ticket in Nick's pocket jumped out and instantly became a track again. And there was the little car, too.

The Twins got in and started for Misty Hill.

BOY IS SHOT.

Thirteen Year Old Lad Killed By Bullet of 22 Rifle.

PORT ARTHUR, June 15. —(Canadian Press.)— Joseph Thobylonski, thirteen, is dead of the effects of a shot in the back of the head from a twenty-two calibre rifle, said to have been in the hands of another boy of the same age named, L. A. Prade. The two were chums and the affair took place in a playhouse near their homes on Pearl street.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A STUNNING SUMMER COAT.

Yesterday Pam and I were invited to go out to the races. We were delighted at the prospect, for we both love to see a good horserace, and then it is always interesting to see the new clothes worn at the races.

"Now comes the eternal question, 'What shall we wear?'" Pam ventured.

I knew, from seeing the clothes that Madame's clients buy for the races, that both dark and light things are good, according to the weather. We took a squint at the sky and decided to steer a middle course and wear crepe de chine frocks and take our new Summer coats.

My coat is a crepe roma and Pam's is a smart quilted silk, so they look well, whether they are much protection or not.

We sallied forth with the friends who invited us and were delighted to find they had seats in the inclosure, where the best-dressed people are usually found.

"Now, if this were the French races we should see lots of manikins parading in the newest creations of the best-known coutouriers," I whispered to Pam.

"Glad it's not," replied that young lady. "I want to look about and enjoy myself and don't feel like parading."

Instead of photographers taking pictures of manikins there were photographers trying to seek out the smartest society women and get snapshots of them, and one stopped to have her picture taken just in front of where we were sitting.

"She is lovely and she wears her clothes so well that she might easily be a model," our hostess whispered.

"And what a stunning coat!" Pam returned. "It is the most effective one I have seen, even counting the one I have myself."

The coat was such a perfectly stunning thing that I did a quick drawing of it on my program. It was beige crepe, shirred all over, and what I tried to bring out in my drawing was the way the shirring was arranged, far apart in some places and closer together at others, to vary the horizontal pattern of the coat.

The lovely creature wore a big hat of natural Bangkok, with a velvet crown, and she did look too charming for words.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Young mothers have a lot to learn. Between babies every mother forgets a few things, certainly. Then, too, knowledge about curing babies and keeping them well is progressing all the time. So, you see, every mother has a lot to learn.

I'd rather have the satisfaction of helping to lighten the burdens of mothers and to make life easier for little children than to be emperor of the world. Wouldn't you?

Most of the troubles of babies have to do with their digestive organs. Their sensitive insides can get out of order without half trying. Just when you think a baby is 100 per cent well he suddenly begins to vomit and act up generally.

There are so many causes for vomiting in babies that it isn't easy to find out just what is wrong. This is a common symptom. Almost every disease that baby can get begins with vomiting.

But you need not worry your head off just because the baby vomits. It is not a sign of real disease by any means. Nursing babies are likely to vomit every once in a while. Usually it is of no importance, except to indicate overfeeding.

Overfilling the stomach of an infant produces symptoms such as you have when you crowd your stomach. The organ rebels and you are inclined to empty it. If the child's feeding has been too rapid and the stomach has been filled to overflowing vomiting is the natural means of relief. The remedy is simple—reduce the quantity of food given at each meal.

Rapid feeding is just as bad for babies as it is for grownups. The fast swallowing causes air to be taken in with the milk. The stomach fills up with gas or air. Of course, if the stomach becomes inflamed there may be vomiting of a more serious type. In that events the expelled material may not be the unchanged milk alone, but it may be milk mixed with slime and traces of blood, perhaps.

There may be present a form of indigestion which has vomiting as one of its symptoms. Then there is sourness of the vomited material.

When vomiting is frequent without apparent cause it is important to find out what is wrong. The doctor will have the urine tested to make sure the kidneys are in good condition. Kidney trouble is one of the possible causes of this symptom.

The mother should give attention to the ailment, because a good many children form the habit of vomiting. Like other habits, it is difficult to overcome.

Sore throat, fever, the beginning of the little diseases children have—all these have vomiting among the possible symptoms. Bad milk and tainted food of every sort are bad for baby and may cause vomiting.

In every case of vomiting—whether occasional or habitual—you should carefully see what is wrong in order that the cause may be found and removed.

BRIDGE.

The So-and-Sos, from down the street, go callin', three doors west. And, on the way, the mister says, "quit frettin'—do your best." The men folk play the women—yep, it's bridge that's under way. Each one expects a trimmin' 'cause they "don't know how ta play."

The cards are dealt and—after a while—the dealer bids one spade. Then promptly starts to wonder how the deuce it can be made. One diamond is the next bid—and, of course, that's just a slip. The diamond bidder passes—but the partner's got the tip.

Two diamonds finally take it, when the partner has her say, and both the men are wond'ring how the women get that way. Two tricks or more are lost before the bidders set the pace. Then Mrs. So-and-So forgets — and trumps her partner's ace.

The evening thus progresses 'mid mistakes at every turn. Each couple, 'course, is thinkin', "will those people never learn?" It's lots of fun when playin' bridge and most folk have their fling. But, when most people play it—shucks, the rules don't mean a thing.

Bill and Fred Cook Sign Contracts To Play in New Professional Organization.

SUMMER TRIP.

Connie Smythe is to be the Coach—Strict Supervision of Training.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Two former local hockey players, Bill and Fred Cook have signed contracts to play next winter with the new professional league that is being organized in New York city to be known as the "Ranger." They played last winter with the Saskatoon Sheiks and were formerly members of the Soo team. It is reported here that Bill is to receive eight thousand dollars and Fred five thousand. Connie Smythe, former University of Toronto man, is to be coach of the new team. All the members of the new team are to be taken to New York during the present summer as guests of the management. The trip is to be arranged for the occasion of the Dempsey-Tunney boxing match and is for the purpose of having all the players become acquainted. During the winter, the players have been notified, they will be held under the most strict control. A training table will be operated and regulations will be strictly enforced. All players are to report in October.

SWEDISH BOXER NEW CHAMPION

Harry Persson Defeated Phil Scott in Heavyweight Bout Last Night.

IN ELEVEN ROUNDS.

LONDON, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Harry Ferguson, Swedish boxer, won the heavyweight championship of Europe last night by knocking out Phil Scott, the English champion, in the eleventh round of their bout at Holland Park.

Pearson and Scott were evenly matched, each standing about six feet three and weighing about 210 pounds. The Englishman began the attack immediately while Pearson was inclined to remain on the defensive.

The end came dramatically in the eleventh. Scot broke from a clinch, and as he did so Pearson landed a right hook. The Englishman was floored but rose at the count of seven. The Swede went at him, and with another right sent him to the mat again for the full count.

TEST MATCH POSTPONED.

Cricketers Rained Out at Nottingham For the Second Time.

NOTTINGHAM, June 14, Canadian Press. — The test cricket match between England and Australia was postponed again to-day on account of rain.

JACK DEMPSEY IN TRAINING

By JOE WILLIAMS.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., —Jack Dempsey had just finished an hour's work out in a warming spring sun, high up in the Blue Ridge Mountains that roll thunderously against a purple skyline, like giant elephants in stampede.

He lay on his back on a rubbing table in the little white cottage he uses for a home here, while Jerry the Greek, his idolatrous trainer, kneaded his muscles and massaged his loins.

Like the gentle swell of the sea at low tide, the heavyweight champion's chest rose and fell and tiny rivulets of sweat cascaded down his bristly face.

News had come that day from New York that the eastern commission had formally sanctioned his September fight and either Harry Wills or Gene Tunney would be his opponent.

"Which would be the harder to whip?" I asked Dempsey as Jerry the Greek sprayed his lean-limbed form with alcohol.

"That's not easy to answer," replied the champion. "Off-hand I would say Tunney might give me the more trouble. He is younger and faster. I might have a harder time hitting him on the 'button.' But I'm not sure."

Rolling over on his side at the request of the Greek, who never calls him anything else but "chompion" —pronounced as if the mouth were filled with steaming potatoes— Dempsey added:

"This fight game is funny. Whenever you look for an easy fight you draw a tough one. I imagined Jess Willard would give me my hardest fight; it was the easiest. I thought Luis Firpo would be my easiest; it was my hardest."

I asked Dempsey how he planned to fight Tunney, if Tunney ultimately drew the assignment.

"This may sound ridiculous to you," he answered, "but I haven't the slightest idea right now how I would fight either Tunney or Wills. Not only that, but I won't have any set ideas concerning an attack or defense even when I climb between the ropes. I never do. I just get in there and start throwing fists."

This is probably true, in a degree, for Dempsey is one of the most impetuous fighters that ever advanced to the higher levels of the nose-spreading racket.

It is undoubtedly true as it concerns Tunney, for he has never seen the ex-marine in action.

Hidden back in his noodle I rather imagine Dempsey has a pre-conceived idea of how best to battle Wills, for he has seen him in two of his winning fights—against Fred Fulton, whom he stopped in short order, and against Firpo, whom he did not stop.

"The only reason I haven't seen Tunney in the ring," explains Dempsey, "is that I have never been around when he was boxing."

AUSTRALIA WANTS TO ABOLISH THREE DAY TEST MATCH LIMIT

Feeling Grows in Favour of Playing to a Finish—Warner Suggests Extending Time to Four Days.

47 MINUTES' CRICKET IN TWO DAYS.

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 15.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The question of increasing the time allotted to test matches continues to form an important topic for discussion among followers of the cricket code, and it is expected that the present condition of things here will given an impetus to the feeling favorable to extending the playing time. In the present test match only forty-seven minutes of play has been possible in two full days, and since the game would ordinarily have ended on Tuesday, the task of reaching a satisfactory decision is impossibe. Playing out four innings in one day is out of the question.

Two weeks ago, the imperial cricket conference met at Lord's and passed unanimously the resolution of Sydney Smith, manager of the Australians team, which called for all test matches in England being played to a finish, extending beyond the third day if this were necessary. It had been hoped that before the present series began aSturday some action would have been taken by the governing body, and it is known that the matter has already been discussed as a result of the recommendation by the conference.

At the same time, not a little opposition to the Australians' contention has been developed among those who take the stand that unlimited play would kill the spirit of cricket and while agreeing that some extension appears to be necessary, they desire to see definite terms arranged.

Pelham Warner, chairman of the English Selection committee, interviewed by Reuter's, speaking as an individual and in nowise committing the official body to his opinion, favored an extension of time to four days, with a limit at the end of that period.

Herbert L. Collins, captain of the Australian team, declined to express his opinion, but it is known that the Australians have already submitted arguments favoring the playing of test matches to a finish.

Karl Haig Leaves For Three Rivers—Burnbrae News.

BURNBRAE, June 15.—Karl Haig, star short stop and pitcher of the Burnbrae baseball team left on Friday for Three Rivers, Quebec, where he has secured a position. Karl has been attending Queen's University as a medical student. His presence will be missed from the ball team as well as the community life.

The Ladies' Aid of Stephen's church, Hoards, at the regular meeting on Thursday afternoon decided to hold the annual lawn social on July 8.

The Hoards' softball team is quite enthusiastic over the league which has been formed in Hastings county.

Local Holstein breeders will be pleased to learn that the annual Campbellford Holstein Club picnic will be hed on Tuesday, June 22, to Mr. G. A. Brethen's home, Hillcrest Farm, Norwood. This should prove a decided attraction as Mr. Brethen's herd is well known and Mr. Holthy, fieldman, will be asked to conduct the judging class.

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

Miss Gloria Swanson of the flickering films will be supported by a cast of fashionable fleas in her next picture.

This seems to offer sufficient proof of current indictment that anybody can get into movies, with or without mother to guide her.

Doughboys who posed for Pathway News Weekly coming out of front-line trenches back in 1918 were on intimate scratching terms with some of most valorous beetles that ever defied a top sergeant's growl.

But those beetles were above sordid commercialism. They were in war for glory of thing. What was a furlough to you was a hunger strike for them.

An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and a year for a champagne bath. Let this be a warning to you Bob Fitzsimmons had freckles, no summer rash.

Which reminds us of first cootie to volunteer for overseas ravages. They called him Jake because her name was Minnie and there was no joy in Mudville that night, for the mighty Casey had struck out.

Jake was closer to swagger leaders of World War armies than any other befuddled indoor military expert. . . . In fact, Foch finally had to use a garden spray to blast him from a previously prepared position back of left shoulder blade.

It will be interesting to watch harassed flea heroine on screen repel advances of oily stranger from mid-western metropolis whose intentions are not only dishonorable but—well, there are men like THAT in this world whether you believe it or not.

Soon you'll be reading this: "The Sting of Passion" in five reels by Hal Roach starring Tanglefoot, educated cheese hound, from who laid the rail.

Mr. Roach will also be remembered as the genius who conceived the great epic of the kitchen, entitled, "The Fly in the Ointment."

You can never tell. Maybe the time will come when we'll be writing in for autographed pictures of Rudy the Flea who knocked 'em all squirming by his steaming performance in "Hot Sands and Hot Lips."

BABE RUTH'S TOTAL NOW TWENTY-TWO

Homer in Second Inning of New York-St. Louis Game.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth poled his twenty-second home run of the season in the second inning of yesterday's New York-St. Louis game. No one was on base. Bob Meusel, who followed Ruth at bat, also hit a homer. Charles Robertson, Brown pitcher then was taken out.

The new home of the New York Athletic Club will cost $7,500,000 and will occupy an entire block in entire block in Seventh avenue.

A bout between Joe Dundee and Willie Harmon will inaugurate the season of open-air boxing at Coney Island Stadium on May 28.

BETHEL MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Horses Bolt, Dragging Him Across Field Behind Roller.

BETHEL, June 15.—What might have been a very serious accident happened on Thursday afternoon when a team of colts attached to a roller and driven by John Graham, took fright and bolted throwing Mr. Graham from the seat and dragging him some distance. He struck his head against a stone, causing a severe gash, which bled profusely. But for the timely aid of his man, who was in the field, he would likely have bled to death. Mr. Graham is still under the doctor's care.

AUTO CAR PLUNGES OVER END OF BRIDGE

Cecil Roberts' Steering Wheel Failed To Work Properly.

ROSENEATH, June 15.—While driving to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Sherwin the car belonging to Mr. Cecil Roberts plunged over the end of the bridge near Mr. Lee's gate, the steering wheel not working properly being the cause of the accident. Mr. Roberts received a bad gash on the head and also had to have several stitches put in his leg. Fortunately Mrs. Robert and little daughter escaped with a few scratches.

LEAGUE ENTERTAINED.

Young People From Bailieboro Visit Bensfort Branch.

BAILIEBORO, June 14.—The young people of the Young People's League of the United Church here, spent a most enjoyable evening with the members of the Bensfort Young People's League on Monday evening.

The first part of the programme was taken by the Bailieboro League, the president, Fred Barnard, presiding over the meeting. At the conclusion of the devotional exercises a duet, "Oh! Where is my wandering boy tonight" was ably rendered by Miss Dorothy Falls and Eldridge White. The topic of the meeting entitled "A Man's Double Nature," was taken by Miss Kathleen Bateman. Mrs. Charles Dawson and Mrs. Norman Thompson then sang another duet, "In the Garden".

The young people of Bensfort then entertained the visitors in a social gathering at which a flower contest was indulged in. A splendid lunch was served at the conclusion of the program by the Bensfort folks.

About forty of the members of the Bailieboro league were present.

BULL FIGHTER KILLED.

Mexican Star Fatally Gored in First Performance in Spain.

McINNIS

BY "STUFFY" McGINNIS.

Every first baseman has his own pet theories about playing the position aside from the routine features that are regarded as fundamentals.

Major league first basemen are not all agreed on the proper way to make certain set plays. Players have individuality, hence are original in their methods. Hence very often two players differ slightly in their style of executing the same play.

Here are some fundamentals that I consider very necessary in the proper play of first base.

When tagging a runner coming down the first baseline, always get a good grip on the ball to prevent it from being knocked out of your hands as a result of the inevitable collision.

It is well to give a trifle with the touch, in a sense relax slightly, if you have the time to do so. Often the play is so hurried that the fielder, if he is to get the decision from the umpire, cannot do this. That's where the good grip comes in.

I always make it a point to have my foot in front of the bag, not on it, as I set to receive a throw. This makes it possible for the fielder to shift feet if the throw demands it. Footwork is a big feature of first base play.

On low thrown balls stoop with the drop of the ball to the ground. This will assist materially in the pickup.

A first baseman, if able to make a play on a ground ball himself, should never toss the ball to the pitcher, who is always supposed to cover on this play.

SECRETS of STARS on INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

BILLY MEHLHORN—GENERAL AND FROM ROUGH.

It is not a good policy to take too much time with any shot. Study your shot thoroughly, then select your club, take your stance carefully and do not waggle your club more than three times. Twice would be sufficient. The beginners should learn to do the same, as they usually try to think of too many things at one time when playing slowly. This gets them in the habit of doing too much analytical thinking and playing too little sensible golf.

This advice does not mean to hurry through every shot and then race to the next one, because good golf will never be played if this is done.

It is not necessary to use a heavy club in the rough unless the grass is very long.

When bunkers are in the way I would take a chance on a high shot with a lofted club, with loft rather than backspin to make the ball fall dead. That is, if the length of the grass makes it impossible to apply backspin. But the pitch-and-run is more practical.

Diamond Disputes Decided

BILLY EVANS

There is one out and a runner on first Batsman hits a home run. Runner on first, in scoring, fails to touch third and is retired. Does that act affect the status of the batsman who made the home run?

The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base in no way affects the status of a succeeding runner with all the rules.

The argument is often offered that, since the succeeding runner touched the base which the preceding runner failed to do, he technically passed said runner on the baselines and is automatically out for so doing.

Such an impression is decidedly wrong. It is foolish to argue that a runner who touches each base in the proper manner should be penalized for the failure of a runner ahead to observe the rules.

The runner who failed to touch the base is out but his slip has no bearing on any succeeding runners.

SINGLES FINALS WILL BE PLAYED AT LOCAL GREEN

Dates of Bowling Tournaments For Eastern Ontario Are Issued.

MANY ARRANGED.

Elimination Contests Will Be Held For Dominion Meets.

OSHAWA, June 15.—(Canadian Press.)—D. A. J. Swanson, one of Oshawa's enthusiastic lawn bowlers and a member of the Dominion Lawn Bowling Association's tournament Commission, has issued a list of tournaments to be held in Central and Eastern Ontario during the months of June, July and August. The list includes:

Wednesday, June 23, Barrie, Cannington and Elmira, the latter to be played on Stouffville greens.

Thursday, July 1, Oshawa.

Wednesday and Thursday, July 21 and 22, Peterborough.

Wednesday, July 28—Port Perry.

Monday, August 2, Civic Holiday, Bowanville.

Monday, August 16, Dominion Lawn Bowling tournament.

Tournaments are being arranged for at Lindsay, Ottawa, Belleville and Kingston, but the dates for the same have not as yet been announced.

The Dominion Lawn Bowling Association Inc., will again this year hold elimination contests in singles, doubles, and rinks, for clubs, counties and districts.

The finals in the singles will probably be played at Peterborough, the doubles at London and the rinks at Toronto and all competitions will be of twenty-one ends.

PETERBOROUGH LODGE LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Moving Pictures of Mooseheart Being Shown at Capitol Theatre.

Mr. Samuel J. Bain, District Supervisor for the Province of Ontario for the Loyal Order of Moose, is in the city representing Peterborough Lodge Loyal Order of Moose and is meeting with good success in his efforts.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal society of more than seventeen hundred lodges in the United States, Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all of these lodges of nearly eight hundred thousand men. The lodges provide for sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

As a means for better accomplishing their purpose, the lodges have organized a central agency called the Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, with headquarters at Mooseheart, Illinois. All the general activities of the order center there, and the supreme officers in active charge have their offices there.

Mooseheart is an estate of one thousand and twenty-three acres of land, thirty-five miles west from Chicago on the Fox river, between the cities of Aurora and Batavia, Illinois. The title of this estate is in the Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose. Mooseheart is a home and vocational training school for more than fifteen hundred normal children of deceased members of the order. The residential part of Mooseheart resembles a modern village of about five thousand inhabitants, and consists of about fifty buildings of modern concrete fireproof construction, with red tile roofs. There is a central heating plant and power plants, large modern print shop, a high school building, several industrial shops, a modern farm plants and many dormitories and residences.

The educational features are highly vocational and practical. About twenty-five of the most useful crafts, including agriculture are being operated as a part of the educational work.

Mooseheart is the national school and home of the Loyal Order of Moose. It was built to care for the children and widows of deceased members. There is $12,000,000 invested there at this time, and they are caring for 1,500 children.

By special service dependents of deceased members are provided for in their own homes when unable to go to Mooseheart.

At Moosehaven, Orange Park, Florida, the Loyal Order of Moose, working through the Moosehaven Regents, operates a community for aged members and their wives. The community operates upon the principle that the fraternity owes its members nothing other than the difference between what they may need for comfortable living and what they themselves may be able to contribute in service to such living. All of the inhabitants, therefore, keep themselves busy at such tasks as their bodily condition and previous training may permit or make advisable. The community is largely self-governing, operating through a regularly chartered lodge of the order, in which all male inhabitants have membership.

Two reels of Mooseheart pictures was shown at the Capitol Theatre last night and will be shown again to-night and to-morrow.

PERET RESIGNS FINANCE POST IN FRENCH CABINET; OPPOSITION TO HIS PLANS BELIEVED REASON

Briand Refuses To Form Cabinet From All Parties of House.

NO INFLATION.

Peret's Plan of Financing Is Violently Opposed—Cabinet Meets.

PARIS, June 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Raoul Peret resigned today as French Minister of Finance.

The reasons for M. Peret's resignation are considered in authoritative circles to be two-fold:

Firstly, Premier Briand's refusal to enlarge the ministry and make it a National Union Cabinet, "representing all parties, along the lines of the war cabinet."

Secondly, violent opposition against the project, attributed to Peret, which is regarded as disguised inflation. The project would recommend that all short term bonds and the existing fiduciary circulation be declared to form a whole— meaning that the holders of short term bonds asking reimbursement wold be paid in fresh issues of paper money.

The Cabinet is meeting again this evening to consider the situation.

The Chamber of Deputies, by 309 to 195, to-day acceded to Premier Briand's request for postponement of the date on interpellations regarding the financial situation and Finance Minister's Peret's resignation until Thursday.

CABINET RESIGNS.

PARIS, June 15. — (Canadian Press.) — Aristide Briand's ninth Cabinet has ended. The Ministry's resignation was placed in the hands of President Doumergue this evening. A communique was issued stating that the Cabinet was unanimous in its decision. The ministers, after examining the situation caused by the resignation of Finance Minister Peret, this morning decided it was best to give President Doumergue full liberty of action.

SOCCER NOTES.

A special practice of the Thistle F. C. will be held on Wednesday evening at King Edward Park, at 6.15 prompt. All players and executive please attend so as to make arrangements for Saturday's important league fixture against Omemee.

FIRST TEST MATCH ABANDONED TO-DAY

English and Australian Cricket Teams Have To Quit.

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 15 (Canadian Press)—The first Test Match between the English and Australian cricket teams was abandoned today, when rain made further play impossible. Forty-seven minutes of batting only was possible in this match, this taking place on Saturday, when England scored 32 for the loss of no wickets.

COGS WILL PLAY KEENE TO-NIGHT

Important Game in East Peterborough League at Exhibition Park.

An important game in the East Peterborough League will be played at Exhibition Park this evening, when Cognawagas meet Keene. The result of this game will have a lot to do with the winning of the first half. Keene are playing good baseball and will give the Cogs a real battle. The game will start at six o'clock.

ASCOT OPENING.

Feature of Royal Race Meet Is Won By "Miss Sport."

ASCOT, England, June 15 (Canadian Press.—Miss Sport won the Ascot Stakes, the feature of the opening day of "Royal Ascot" week, in the presence of the King and Queen.

Miss Sport is owned by H. K. Cottrill; C. M. Woolf's Catalin was second, and M. M. Calmann's Tournesol, third. Sixteen ran.

Miss Sport, at odds of 10 to 1 again, won by a neck, while three-quarters of a length separated Catalline and Tournesal against which the odds were respectively 10 to 1, and 100 to 14.

Royal weather favored the crowds and horses on the opening of the Royal Ascot. The sun shone brilliantly as the procession of Royal carriages conveying the King and Queen and the guests drew along the racecourse flanked by picturesque riders.

All London's smart set and many wealthy overseas visitors in varied splendor lined the course.

Lord Woolavington's Coronach, winner of the Derby, won the St. James' Palace Stakes. Sir Abe Bailey's Lex was second, and Reid Walker's Indus was third.

KINGSTON PONIES HERE SATURDAY

Joe Daley's Team Have Not Lost a Game This Season.

The fast-going Kingston Ponies will be back with us again on Saturday, the original schedule having been changed to permit Belleville to play here on Dominion Day instead of this week. The Ponies have not been defeated this year, but their last two starts have been close calls and the Petes are hopeful of giving them their first setback of the season on Saturday. The Petes are rounding to form and should be in good shape for the clash with Joe Daley and his men. Kingston may use their right-hander, Van Young, in this fixture. Young has beaten Belleville twice but has not faced the Petes this year.

CRIMES SOLVED IN POLICE LABORATORY

Scientific Instruments Detect Important Clues in the Smallest Specks.

Two men, good friends for years, had quarreled. One night one of them, stepping out of his home, saw a man rise from a stooping position near the front porch and disappear around the corner. Under the porch he found a bundle of oil soaked rags. Inside it was a chunk of sulphur. A piece of oil soaked string, with one end around the bundle, had been lighted, evidently to act as a slow fuse.

The former friend was suspected, but he offered a good alibi, and the case seemed balked. Twenty years ago it would have been.

The oil soaked string was taken to a chemist at police headquarters in New York City, where recently has been established one of the strangest scientific laboratories in the world, devoted entirely to solving crimes. The police experts showed conclusively that the fiber in the oil soaked string was identical with that in string used in a factory where the former friend was employed. Confronted with this amazing evidence, the man confessed.

This is just one example, says Popular Science Monthly, of the effective detective work performed by New York's new crime laboratory. Here are installed high powered microscopes, X-ray apparatus, ultra violet light machines, remarkable photographic equipment, and delicate instruments to weigh and identify mere specks. They represent the most dangerous foes a criminal ever met.

Among the many instruments used in the crime laboratory is a microscope of tremendous power, called a dactyloscope. It magnifies finger prints so powerfully that even the shape of the sweat pores can be examined. Another instrument is the Duboscq colorimeter, employed for examining blood. This instrument shows not only whether there is any blood in a stain, but also the exact quantity. Even minute specks of blood hardened under a finger nail may be enough to accuse a man of murder.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, June 14.—"Coral Gables Casino" was opened for the first dance on Friday night and was largely attended by crowds from far and near.

Mr. Burgess and his assistants worked faithfully the preceding week preparing for the big night but owing to the short time available it was impossible to finish decorations which promises to be beautiful when completed. The Royal Varsity Five Orchestra from Toronto wdas unexcelled and delighted every one. A special feature was the monnlight waltz, colored lighting effect being used. During the evening Mr. Burgess distributed souvenirs to every one present.

There was a social evening at the church on Friday, the occasion being a presentation to the pastor, Rev. E. O. Seymour from the ongregation before his departure to another charge.

Tables were arranged in the lining hall by the Ladies' Aid. Supper was served after which Rev. E. O. Seymour was presented with a handsome gold watch chain. Mrs. Seymour, Sr., was presented with a club bag and Miss Marion with a piece of French Ivory. Mr. George Spencer reading the address and Mr. Rufus Redden making the presentations. Mr. Seymour's brother, Rev. Harold Seymour was present and spoke on behalf of his brother and mother. There was a good attendance and a pleasant evening was spent.

The girls' softball team from Wilson Settlement played the Trent River girls Friday evening here, the result 11-13 in favor of Trent River.

Personals.

Mrs. Thos. Lloyd, Miss Dorothy and Mr. Kenneth Burgess motored from Toronto to attend the opening of "Coral Gables Casino" on Friday night.

Mr. John Boyd was summoned to Fort William Friday and left immediately for that city.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16.

According to the subtle nature of the predominant planetary forces governing this day, the prospect is for perplexing and baffling situations and conditions in all the affairs of life. This because Neptune, the significator of the eccentric, peculiar, subtle and underhand, manifesting in conspiracy, intrigue and diplomacy, holds sway in all workaday affairs as well as in personal and domestic activities. Beware fraud and deception and be particularly discreet with the finances.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of intrigue, peculiar conditions and subtly operative forces working in all their affairs. These may not be entirely adverse, but it would be well to be on guard against duplicity and fraud and the finances should be rigorously safeguarded. A child born on this day may have a subtle and scheming nature, gaining its points by intrigue and diplomacy rather than straightforwardness, unless great care is given to its early training. While there is a degree of hypocrisy shown, the methods and intent are not always sinister. The finances may cause concern.

THEATRE

"BRIGHT LIGHTS"
CHORUS GIRL IS HEROINE OF FILM

It is not often that two stars of the magnitude of Charles Ray and Pauline Starke are seen in one picture, but that is what is promised in Robert Z. Leonard's production of "Bright Lights," which is now on at the Regent Theatre.

The production is said to be a colorful depiction of the life of a Broadway chorus girl who tires of the sham of her butterfly existence and goes back to mother in New Jersey. Here she meets a young farmer, who gets the mistaken idea that in order to win her he must go to Broadway and obtain more polish. The ensuing complications are not of the usual sort, and the picture is one to delight the eye as well as being excellent entertainment.

Jessie Burns and Lew Lipton wrote the continuity from a magazine story of the same name by Richard Connell. Lilyan Tashman, Lawford Davidson, Ned Sparks, and Eugenie Besserer, complete an unusually competent cast.

AT THE CAPITOL.

NORMAN TALMADGE IN "KIKI."

The lovely Norma Talmadge, who has usually been associated in the past with pictures of a romantic mould, appears in "Kiki," the feapicture at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week, in a role which has a strong comedy flavor. It is one of those productions which illustrate temperament more than anything else, and is a great deal like the roles in which Mabel Normand, in her palmy days, delighted to appear. "Kiki" is somewhat like Miss Normand's "Susanne," with a French instead of a Spanish setting, for the pranks and follies of the little star. It seems to suit beautifully the art of the frolicsome Norma, who gives a splendid presentation of the part of the waif of Parisian streets, the small and dainty Kiki, who lands a job in a "Follies' chorus, by ways distinctively her own, and then proceeds to lasso, in the same manner, the handsome director of the Revue, Victor Renal, a role taken in his usual attractive fashion by the handsome Ronald Colman.

"Kiki," probably through the art of Norma Talmadge, who manages to inject a great measure of reality into her most extravagent productions, is one of those pictures that, even in its most fantastic moments, appears to be very true to life. The little lady is so extremely natural that she does the most outrageous stunts without fear, and then, when she is about to be ejected violently from the picture, she weeps, and is forgiven, to go ahead with some more temperamental exhibitions.

The hero is a harassed man. He is subjected to pursuit from two determined females, the tall, beautiful blonde Paulette, (Gertrude Astor) and the tiny dark brunette, Kiki, who, after a series of wild adventures, finally lands him. However, she loves him madly, and the other lady, who has been his fiance up to the time that Kiki projects herself into the picture, does not profess to, so the ending is quite a satisfactory one, as far as the audience is concerned. In her campaign, Kiki makes her debut on the stage as a chorus girl, becomes entangled with the star and falls into the bewildered harpist's lap. Then she gets Victor to take her out to dinner and proceeds to become dizzy over the champagne. After making a scene in the cabaret, she esconces herself in his homes, and refuses to be ejected. A final desperate measure is the feigning of a state of catalepsy, in which there are some very funny moments.

One of the most interesting portions of a picture which abounds in ridiculous moments, is the quality of the sub-titles. With a splendid cast, an entertaining theme, plenty of funny episodes, and a very attractive star, "Kiki" is an extremely entertaining picture.

With it there is one of the screamisg Lloyd Hamilton comedies, "Nobody's Business," with some new and clever comedy bits in the streetcar scene where the dignified comedian reads a letter from home, and in the lunch counter episodes. An opening to the picture programme was a portion much enjoyed by the audience, some interesting pictures of "Mooseheart," the centre of the activities of the Loyal Order of Moose.—Jeanette.

PLAN TO ERECT MOVIE THEATRE RESULTS IN RIOT

Eight Killed and Twenty-three Injured—Grain Market Destroyed.

NEAR MOSQUE.

SIMLA, British India, June 15 (Canadian Press).—Eight Moslems were killed and fourteen Moslems and nine Sikhs injured in the intercommunal riots which broke out at Rawal Pindi last night, owing to the suggested erection of a motion picture theatre near a mosque. The grain market was destroyed and extensive looting occurred in side streets.

Military pickets have been stationed throughout the town and the situation today was well under control. The district magistrate has prohibited the carrying of clubs or sticks and assembly of more than four persons.

PARACHUTE BREAKS BALLOONIST KILLED

Falls 4,000 Feet in View of Hundreds of Spectators.

FLINT, Mich., June 15 (Canadian Press).—Falling approximately 4,000 feet in view of hundreds of horror-stricken spectators, when the fastenings of his parachute broke, S. Hastings, a veteran balloonist, was killed instantly at Flink Park on Sunday night. Dropping like a plummet, he struck a tree, and his body was mangled beyond recognition.

Hastings was 38 years old.

Why Do So Many Neglect Their Eyes?

Every other part of the body receives attention, but the eyes, though their importance is recognized, are neglected sometimes for a lifetime. UNITED CHURCH COUNCIL WILL UNITE COLLEGES

Manitoba and Wesley Colleges at Winnipeg To To Be Joined.

EASTERN UNION.

Mount Allison and Pine Hill Colleges Merge Theological Course.

MONTREAL, June 16 (Canadian Press).—The amalgamation of the Manitoba and Wesley colleges in Winnipeg under the name of "United Colleges," but retaining for the present their separate charters, will come into effect when the respective executives come to an agreement, it was decided by the General Council of the United Church of Canada this morning.

The Council also approved of plans for the centralization of theological instruction in the Maritime Provinces in Pine Hill College, Halifax. The Theological College at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., will be transferred to that place. It was further approved that the Church give support to arts work at Mount Allison. Five or six theological subjects will continue to be taught at Mount Allison as part of the arts course.

Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, ex-Moderator, presented the report of the bureau of literature, information, and public meetings of the joint committee on Church Union, which was adopted.

There will be no change in the centres of theological work in Ontario, the General Council of the United Church of Canada decided today in confirming recommendation of the commission on colleges and higher education to this effect. This affects institutions at Kingston and Toronto.

FEAR RENEWAL OF INDIAN RIOTS

Moslem Feast Will Be Celebrated During Next Week.

INCREASE POLICE.

SIMLA, British India, June 16 (United Press).—A renewal of the Moslem riots which over the week-end claimed about 14 lives at Rawalpindi, is feared in connection with the Mohammedan festial of Akirid, which begins on June 21.

Rawalpindi was quiet today but special constables were being enrolled there and in Delhi.

CHINESE PIRATES ARE BADLY BEATEN

Portuguese Governor of Macao Leads Attack—300 Are Killed.

LISBON, Portugal, June 16 (United Press).—Dispatches from Macao, China, today reported that three hundred pirates have been killed by organized Portuguese attackers.

Tse Hung, leader of the pirates, and 150 of his followers were captured.

The pirates have harried the Portuguese colonists at Macao for many weeks until it was fanally decided to send an expedition against them. The battle took place in the Chu Kiang River, where the pirates had their base of operations.

Macao is a dependency of Portugal on the west side of the entrance to the Chu Kiang River, about 70 miles from Canton.

Women Now Wear Less Than Old-Time Nightgowns

WASHINGTON, June 16. — (United Press).—"The woman in society today doesn't wear as many clothes as her grandmother did to go to bed," Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, told the Senate during the debate on farm relief legislation.

"She has thrown away the bustles, corsets and straps, and now is developing as nature would have her," Norris continued. "The textile industry," Norris said, "might suffer as a result of styles, yet it could manufacture silk stockings to go with the short dresses.

"On the other hand," he pointed out, "the farmer cannot change his production, nor shut up shop, nor even enjoy the benefits of tariff. He is helpless comnared with the manufacturer."

SAD EXPERIENCE OF WOOLER LADY

Sees Friend Drown During Visit To Little Weslemkoon Lake.

BODY RECOVERED.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 16 (Canadian Press)—After persistent search extending over two days the body of Ernest Lukes, 19, son of prominent Detroit family and himself a prominent athlete, was recovered from the waters of Little Weslemkoon Lake, in Lennox and Addington county. Accompanied by Miss Violet Gunter of Wooler and a chaperone, from Frankford, Lukes went back into the vicinity of the lake in which the fatality occurred, took a dip in water which at the point in which he dove from the skiff is about twenty-five or thirty feet in depth. He suddenly called called out as though in distress to the party who were fully four hundred yards from the spot, standing on land with no boat to go to his assistance. Coupled with this no cottagers were in the vicinity and young Lukes sank within sight of these horror stricken friends. Immediately they realized nothing could be done for Lukes, two women began a trudge of seven miles through swamp and heavily wooded country along the shores of the lakes until they reached the mouth of Seymour creek where they sighted Mr. William Cornell, South John street, who was fishing. Their shouts attracted his attention and he rowed to the shore and the women gave the alarm. They hastily boarded the skiff and were taken by Cornell to the landing where the party was immediately assembled and the search for the body started. The condition of the body leads to the inference that the young man was seized with cramps as his limbs were drawn up under his body. The country-side for miles about the scene of the accident was deserted save for the presence of Mr. Cornell who was a guest at Colonel Marsh's camp, he with several friends having gone out to Weslemkoon about a fortnight ago.

CLOUD BURSTS FLOOD AUSTRIA

Many Bridges and Houses Are Destroyed—Danube Rises Nine Feet.

VILLAGES INUNDATED.

VIENNA, June 16 (Canadian Press.—Fourteen communes in Austrian Burgunland have been inundated by cloudbursts. Bridges were washed away and houses were burned after having been struck by lightning. Several communes in Upper Austria were devastated. Owing to the heavy rainfall the Danube in Vienna has risen nine feet.

Grandparents Fall Out Seek Legal Separation

NEW YORK, June 16. — (United Press).—Mrs. Rifka Toppel Birenbach, 70 years old, is suing her octogenerian husband for a separation because, she alleged on Friday, he called her a bad name and accused her of "running around with other men."

Pending the trial of the suit she applied in Supreme Court for alimony and counsel fees.

The Birenbachs were married five years, after having met through a professional match-maker who was paid $10 for his services. She was the grandmother of four and he the grandfather of six.

Lack of Confidence Motion Is Defeated After Sharp Debate

Government Members Keep Talking All Evening To Give Whips Chance—Members Come In On Night Trains To Vote at 2.00 A.M.

TWO PROGRESSIVES LE AVE PARTY BUT GO VERNMENT WINS 113-106

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press).—After ten hours of uncertainty and erratic rumor on Parliament Hill yesterday, the Government emerged from a conflict which was aimed at its defeat with a majority of six. A motion of non-confidence moved by Fred Davis (Conservative, Calgary East) took the Government unawares early in the afternoon. It was based on "failures to implement promises," but directed specifically at the Government for dropping from its programme the return of Alberta natural resources.

When the motion was made, the Government responded by several short, defensive speeches from Premier King, the Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, and the Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior. The Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition, made an attack upon the Government for "compromise and intrigue."

With these opening speeches disposed of it became clear that the Opposition was prepared to vote on the motion immediately.

The Government whips set out to bring the party members into line for the division, and found several members out of town. For several hours the debate was kept alive by the speakers on the Government side until a few members who were out of the city could get in on evening trains. During the course of the debate, W. T. Lucas, Progressive member from Camrose, and A. M. Boutillier, Progressive from Vegreville, announced that they would oppose the Government. As the debate proceeded current rumors stirred in the corridors and lobbies to the effect that several of the Alberta Progressives had abandoned their support of the Government. After midnight, the debate was revived by sharp conflicts between the Hon. R. B. Bennett and Lucien Cannon, Solicitor General. At two o'clock this morning, the division bells rang and the two Progressive members who had previously declared themselves were the only ones to break from the party lines. The vote stood at 107 to 113.

OTTAWA, June 15—Mr. Meighen declared that if the motion of want of confidence carried it was the duty of the Government to resign.

The Prime Minister's threat of dissolution," he said, "is lodged only for the purpose of threatening those whom the Prime Minister believes to be timid and susceptible to such threats. There are forever open to him—both a right and a duty and this is to resign because he must know that he has not the confidence either of the House or of the country."

OTTAWA, June 16.—Fred Davis, Conservative, Calgary East, yesterday afternoon made a motion of nonconfidence in the Government on the ground that promises made in the Speech from the Throne had not been implemented. The motion was made in amendment to a motion to go into supply.

W. R. Motherwell

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, in reply, reviewed the various subjects discussed in the Speech from the Throne to show that the Government had carried out its undertakings faithfully. With reference to the return of the natural resources to Alberta, he said that it took two parties to make a bargain. The Government could not force Alberta to accept an agreement which it was opposed to. "If one party defaults, you can't marry yourself," he remarked, as members laughed. He referred to the tariff reductions on automobiles, claiming that the Government had really helped the automobile user materially by these changes. The reduction in the sales tax would also be of benefit to the Canadian public. This was the case while the leader of the Opposition "with his hand waving round like a man flailing peas" was complaining that the Government had take the tariff off and then, to all intents and purposes, put it on again.

Cites By-Elections

The leader of the Opposition had suggested that the Government was not entitled to another dissolution of Parliament. What was the usual indication of growing confidence in the Government, asked Mr. Motherwell. It was to be found in the result of recent bye-elections. In Prince Albert, Regina and West Middlesex, Government candidates had been returned by substantial majorities. Every bye-lection since the general election had been won by the Liberals.

Political Rabies

Mr. Motherwell recalled the nervous days at the beginning of the session when test divisions found Government and Opposition alike anxious. At that time the diseases of animals branch had found it necessary to issue regulations regarding rabies in dogs. The Minister of Agriculture described the attitude of the Opposition then as "species of political rabies, running rank through the whole opposition. They were snapping and biting at everybody, until I wondered if my officials would not have to put muzzles over their mouths,—perhaps they were more or less muzzled by the closure."

In any case, said Mr. Motherwell, the Opposition was much less human in those days. Now they were mellower, "much like ourselves." The present move was a last effort, he thought, on the part of the Opposition. "Up till today," he continued, "we understood that their one last trump card was the customs probe——"

Stick to Discussion

Mr. Speaker reminded the minister that he must stick to the motion under discussion.

"All right," replied Mr. Motherwell, "but I fancy I have said enough—" The rest was drowned in general laughter.

Mr. Motherwell was going on to recall "that famous snap vote" of early session, "when after all the denunciation—"

At this point, just before six o'clock, he was interrupted by the rinking blows of Black Rod on the chamber door, summoning the Commons to the Senate for the signing of Bills by the Deputy of the Governor - General, and further speaking was suspended while the members filed out to answer the call. The hour of dinner recess was reached before this ceremony was finished, and the Commons adjourned until eight p.m.

Car Overturns When Driver Swerves To Miss Bicyclist.

TWO UNHURT.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 16 (Canadian Press). — Clarence Lamberton, 22, died in the General Hospital this morning, and Joseph Calderone, 19, a junior lacrosse and basketball play, is suffering from a broken arm and head injuries, as the result of a motor accident near the city limit just before midnight. Two other occupants of the car were thrown out, but escaped injury. The car was driven by Lamberton. When to avoid hitting a bicyclist, the driver swerved to the wrong side of the road, the wheels caught in a railway siding.

GETS SEVEN YEARS.

Farmer Also Sentenced To Ten Lashes For Serious Offence.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., June 16. — (Canadian Press).—Found guilty of a series offence involving his young daughter, Eugene Johnston, fifty years of age, a Malahide Township farmer, was sentenced by Judge Ross to-day to seven years in Portsmouth Penitentiary. His Honor also ordered that the prisoner be given ten lashes.

Beggars Made To Order At Bowery Speakeasy

NEW YORK, June 16. — (United Press).—Down in the Bowery there is a speak-easy where armless, legless and hunchback persons are made to order, it was disclosed in Essex Market Court on Monday by Arthur Williams.

Williams, apparently without a right arm, was asking persons to "help a poor war veteran," when detectives arrested him. In the Police Station he was searched.

"Well what did you find?" the lieutenant asked.

"We found his right arm," said the arresting officer.

The prisoner then revealed that a friend told him about the Bowery "clearing house." "He told me they could make you a real beggar," Williams said. "I decided to be an armless veteran for the day, while my friend became a legless veteran."

OSLO TIED UP BY BIG STRIKE

Four Thousand Municipal Workers Walk Out in Norse Capital.

OPPOSE WAGE CUT.

OSLO, Norway, June 16 (United Press). — Traffic was paralyzed in the greater part of the city to-day when 4,000 municipal workers, including 1,000 street car men, struck.

Citizen volunteers joined in maintaining some services, and scenes reminiscent of the British general strike occurred.

The strike was caused by wage reductions.

LOCAL BANKER MAKES REPLY

A. J. Reynolds Praises Work of Agricultural Schools of Province.

AT KEMPTVILLE.

A. J. Reynolds, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Peterborough, replied on behalf of the assembled bankers to the address by the Hon. John S. Martin to the bankers of Eastern Ontario at Kemptville. He praised the work being done by the agricultural schools in this Province and in Alberta, and urged his fellow-bankers to take more interest in better farming methods. He maintained that at no time in the history of the country had there been any shortage in rural credits on the part of the banks and that "no class of business appealed more to bankers than the farming business."

The Ontario Government was congratulated on the fine school at Kemptville by H. K. Ross, on behalf of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

SIGNS LIFE CONTRACT.

Frank Nighbor, Hockey Star, Marries Ottawa Girl.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Frank Nighbor, centre player of the Ottawa Senators professional hockey team, was married to-day to Miss Dorothy Slattery of Ottawa. Nighbor holds the Lady Byng trophy for clean hockey playing, and is very well-known in sport circles.

FOREIGN DELEGATES LEAVE FOR CHICAGO

People Kneel as Purple Robed Cardinals Pass Through Streets.

NEW YORK, June 16 (Canadian Press.—With a blast of sound and flash of color New York yesterday gave official welcome to seven foreign princes of the Roman Catholic Church prior to their departure today to attend the Eucharistic Congress at Chicago. Never in its history did New York accord such an ovation to churchmen. Men, women and children kneeled in pious veneration as the red and black robed Cardinal's passed through the streets. Mounted police forced back men and women who made vain attempts to kiss rings worn by the Cardinals.

SOVIET DID NOT SEND ANY MONEY TO AID MINERS

Russian Note Expresses Resentment at Charge of Assisting Strikers.

THE REAL SOURCE.

Sums Were Sent By Bolshevik Trades and Labor Unions.

MOSCOW, June 16 (Canadian Press).—The Soviet Government, in a note to Great Britain yesterday, declared that it could not prohibit Russian trade unions from sending money abroad to aid trade unions of another country. At the same time, the Soviet Government expressed a criticism of intimations made by some members of the British Government that the money in reality had been remitted by the Russian Government.

The note, which was handed to Robert M. Hodgson, British Charge d'Affaires, was in reply to a British note concerning the transfer of large sums of money from Russia to Great Britain to aid the recent general strike called by the Trades Union Congress. The Congress declined the money which later was accepted by the British Miners' Federation.

The Russian reply says that there exists in the Soviet Union no prohibition against the remittance of money abroad, but only the obligation to obtain a permit for such remittance.

"Expressing as it does the will of workers and peasants of the Soviet Union, the Soviet Government cannot prohibit trade unions, comprising a million workers of Soviet Russia, from sending money abroad in aid of trade unions of another country.

"The Soviet Government at the same time calls the British Government's attention to the incompatibility with the real facts and with the normal relations between governments, of the statements of some members of the British Government alleging that the sums remitted to the British Trades Union Congress were sent by the Soviet Government, when, in reality, they had been forwarded by the Central Council of Labor Unions of Soviet Russia in agreement with the Central Committee of Soviet Trades Unions."

COUNTY RENEWS ITS ROAD POLICY

Will Be Protected Against Accidents on County Highways.

HEARS AGENT.

Mr. Plaxton of the Globe Indemnity Insurance Company addressed the County Council this morning re insurance against accidents on the county roads, bridges, connecting links through the various villages and detours where a county road is under construction. He pointed out that the tourist traffic was increasing and that the people of the county were becoming educated as to the claims allowed them through the act. The townships of Otonabee, Smith, Douro and North Monaghan now carry insurance against accidents on the various township roads. The amount of policy is estimated on the mileage of county roads, which is 159 miles at present; a reduction of six miles from last year. It was moved by Reeve Smithson of Otonabee and seconded by Reeve Rye of North Monaghan that the policy be renewed for next year. The policy allows up to $5,000 in case of one death, and up to $10,000 in the case of more than one death. In Ontario today thirty-one of the thirty-seven counties are carrying such insurance.

CLEAN WINDSHIELDS AND GLASSES.

Would you ever choose to drive in a wet, blinding storm when you could ride just as readily in the bright sunshine behind a clean windshield? Of course you wouldn't. And yet some folks voluntarily suffer from inefficient vision (and a host of other disorders traceable to the eyes) when a pair of becoming glasses will make the whole world bright and clear for them. TWO DIE FROM SPOTTED FEVER

Halifax Men Taken Ill While Returning From General Assembly.

DIE AT MONCTON.

MONCTON, N.B., June 16 (Canadian Press).—A second death from spotted fever was announced today. George Wallace, well known merchant of Halifax, who had been attending the Presbyterian Assembly in Montreal, succumbed after an illness of three days. He had accompanied Robert McCleave, also of Halifax, to the meetings in Montreal and had started home with him, stopping off in Quebec. McCleave was taken from the train here on Thursday and died on Saturday from the same disease.

HOUSE EXPECTS END OF SESSION LATE NEXT WEEK

Report of Customs Probe Committee Most Important Item.

READY THURSDAY.

Two Days Expected To Dispose of This—Prorogue Next Thursday.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Early prorogation of parliament is now predicted. With the Alberta natural resources question out of the way, the members are beginning to look for the end about the middle of next week. The Order Paper is practically blank, nothing remaining but the Montreal Harbor loan bill and supply. One remaining item of business, which may hold things up, is the report of the committee which investigated the Department of Customs and Excise. It is expected that this report will be tabled in the House of Commons tomorrow or Friday. A couple of days will, it is expected, be sufficient to dispose of this, and Parliament would be in a position to prorogue about Thursday of next week.

Papal Nuncios at Madrid and Berlin To Get Red Hats.

ROME, June 16 (Canadian Press)—Newspapers report that Monsignor Federico Tedeschini, Papal Nuncio in Madrid, and Monsignor Eugenio Pacelli, Nuncio in Berlin, will be made Cardinals at a consistory to be held in October.

BRIAND FINDS "NATIONAL UNION" CABINET VERY DIFFICULT TO FORM

Herriot Declines To Take Any Part—Poincare Also Out.

MANY CONSULTED.

Tenth Ministry of Premier Would Include Most Parties of House.

PARIS, June 16 (Canadian Press) Premier Briand is seeking to form a "national union" cabinet, to replace the ministry which resigned yesterday, but is finding the task more difficult than he anticipated.

The premier was given a mandate by President Doumergue this morning after most of those called into consultation at the Elysee Palace had urged the need of such a cabinet.

The ministry would include groups as far to the right as the Union Republican, or old "Bloc National" headed by Louis Marin, and as far left as the groups whose leaders are willing to participate.

Edouard Herriot, radical leader, is understood to have refused to enter the "national union" ministry and it is expected that his party will formally decide against entering a "national union" combination. Former Premier Poincare, sounded as to his position, has indicated that he prefers to remain outside, but is willing to waive his personal preferences if it is possible to form a "sacred union" such as was maintained during the war.

THE WEATHER.

Highest temperature yesterday, 71 degrees; lowest point last night 42 degrees. There were again traces of white frost this morning. The highest temperature this year as yet was 81 degrees on the first Sunday in May, and the real warm days (of 90 degrees and over) are yet to come—if they do come.—W. P.

Century Old Purse Found.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 16. — James S. Mattoon has located an old pocketbook, a souvenir of Pittsfield of old. On the pocketbook is written in ink:

"Thomas Taylor, Pittsfield, Massachusetts, Nov. 27, 1828."

In the pocketbook was a tax bill with the items: "Taxed for 1826—Town and county tax, $3.75; inister tax, $1.85; total $5.58. Received payment, John Dickinson, Treasurer of Pittsfield."

Mr. Taylor was a deacon of South Congregational Church.

Irish Flappers All Right Says Veteran Clergyman

NEW YORK, June 16 (United Press). — So far as Father Eugene McCarthy of Dublin is concerned, the flapper—the Irish flapper—is all right.

Father McCarthy, one of the Irish representatives to the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, described the modern Colleen on his arrival here.

"Our flappers do not smoke or drink," he said. "They have their hair bobbed, and they wear short skirts, but I think that is a good thing.

"As for dancing," Father McCarthy said, "the Charleston skipped past Ireland when it invaded Europe. The Irish flapper is keen about dancing," he said, "but generally does the old dances."

UNITED THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE WAS CONSTITUTED YESTERDAY

Seminaries of Three Denominations in Union Formed Into One and Council Seek Authority From Legislatures To Amalgamate Other Schools.

DRAFTS OF BILLS TO BE SUBMITTED TO EXECUTIVE

MONTREAL, June 16 (Canadian Press). — The United Theological College of Montreal was constituted yesterday afternoon by the General Council of the United Church of Canada. The new institution will merge with itself the Congregational College of Canada, the Presbyterian College of Montreal within the United Church of Canada, and the Wesleyan Theological College of Montreal, and will have power to take over from time to time, subject to the authority of the General Council or its executive, any other institutions carrying on theological training in Canada.

The Faculty are as follows:

Principal and Professor of New Testament Language and Literature —Rev. James Smyth, D.D., LL.D., formerly of Wesleyan College.

Dean and Professor of Systematic Theology—Rev. D. L. Ritchie, D.D., formerly of the Congregational College.

Director of Graduate Studies and Professor of History and Philosophy of Religion and Apologetics—Rev. R. E. Welsh, D.D., formerly of the Presbyterian College.

The others are: Ernest M. Best, Professor of Religious Education; Rev. Charles Bieler, Professor of French Theology Subjects and of Moral Theology; Rev. William A. Gifford, Professor of Christian History; Rev. Alex. R. Gordon, Professor of Old Testament Language and Literature; Rev. Samuel P. Rose, Professor of Practical Theology; and hereafter such others as may be appointed.

Brief Addresses.

In honor of the occasion brief addresses were given by the heads of the new College. Dr. Smyth hoped the same spirit which had prevailed during the past year would continue. Dr. Ritchie found great joy in the spirit of goodwill manifested among the uniting interests. Dr. Welsh said his college came somewhat impoverished but with hearts in the common cause. Little had been lost by the handing over by the Legislature of the Presbyterian College to the Presbyterians, and he mentioned the obligations which would have to be met by the present holders. The State, however, could not undo a college established by a Church and he wanted graduates not to feel that they had lost their alma mater.

Formation of the United Theological College was made by adoption of recommendations of the Laws and Privileges Committee proposed by Sir James Aikins and seconded by G. W. Mason, Toronto, Church counsel. These were presented during consideration of the "Commission on Colleges and Higher Education," presented by the chairman, Dr. S. D. Chown. Consideration of this department was not completed yesterday but a great many decisions were arrived at concerning the various institutions of the United Church or confirmation given to steps already carried out. These included:

Recommendations.

That the two Edmonton Theological Colleges be brought together into one building, the building formerly known as Alberta College South, and operated academically as one. This policy has been carried out for the past year.

That for the present and with a view of retaining the interest and support of the constituencies represented by both colleges, dual principalship be recognized and that the two principals alternate year by year in official and public relationship; and that to conserve the continuity of policy one principal assume permanent charge of academic duties and the other matters of administration and discipline. One Alberta commissioner stressed that this policy was working out harmoniously.

Amalgamation.

Approval was given to the amalgamation of the Theological Colleges at Vancouver upon the basis that the boards of Westminster Hall and Ryerson College make application for the passing of a bill in the next session of the British Columbia Legislature which would incorporate a new Theological College by amalgamating the two institutions. In this connection Dr. J. H. Riddell, Winnipeg, moved that all colleges seeking charters under the United Church should submit drafts of the bill of incorporation to the General Council or its executive and get approval. Dr. W. H. Smith, Vancouver, asked that this should cover colleges seeking changes in charter, but finally the matter was passed on to the Committee on Laws and Privileges, Dr. Chown remarking that he believed the proposed restriction would not be constitutional where charters had been granted and certain rights given.

The Council agreed to the plan of amalgamation in Winnipeg under which Manitoba and Wesley Colleges should retain their separate charters for the time being, but under a joint name of "The United Colleges," with one calendar and "a staff in theology and arts," and other functions carried on jointly. Further,

"With a view to the better understanding by the board of each college of the work of the other college, and in view of the fact that eight of Wesley College Board will be appointed by the General Council this year, and also one-third of the Manitoba College Board, it is suggested that the General Council in appointing these eight representatives on the Wesley College Board, shall appoint four former Methodists, three former Presbyterians (also to be members of the Manitoba College Board), and one former Congregationalist; and that the General Council, in appointing representatives on the Manitoba College Board, shall make a similar appointment of at least four former Presbyterians, three former Methodists (also to be members of the Wesley College Board), and one former Congregationalist.

"It is agreed that the former Presbyterians and the former Congregationalists appointed on the Wesley College Board shall be members of its executive committee of twelve and the Manitoba College Board shall have three former Methodists and one former Congregationalist."

A suggestion in the committee report, supported on the platform by Dr. A. B. Baird, Winnipeg, that a definite yearly sum be set aside by the Council for the colleges for a term of five years, was referred to the Board of Education.

OVERLAND TO BUILD NEW SMALL CARS

Will Be Designed To Compete With Ford and Chevrolet.

TORONTO, Ont., June 16.—Statement made on apparently good authority says that Willys-Overland is shortly to bring out a new, light four-cylinder car which will be directly competitive with Ford and Chevrolet. It is expected that a general announcement will be made about the first of July and that the new car will follow the European style of construction in that it will be capable of high speed, will be low in construction, and will travel much farther on a gallon of gasoline than present cars.

New earnings of the company for May are expected to be in the vicinity of $2,500,000 and all departments are working at capacity. A new record in Willys-Knight production was achieved during May when, on one day, 416 of the new Willys-Knight Seventy models were built.

WHAT.. MORE.. COULD.. ONE VACATION HOLD?

If you made a list of all the things you consider would constitute an ideal vacation and then made a list of all the things you can get at Kawartha Lakes, you would find that the two lists would balance each other exactly.

Scenic beauty, health,. recreation and inspiration are all here, and you enjoy them amid cedar, sparkling lakes teeming with hard-fighting fish and cool verdant forests, pungent with pure balsam and spicy cedar. There are hotels in plenty at Kawartha Lakes and every requisite for a full calendar of sports. It is just the place for a wonderful holiday.

GOLDEN JUBILEE OMEMEE CHURCH

Many Former Members of Trinity Church Return For Celebration.

HISTORY RECALLED.

OMEMEE, June 16.—The golden jubilee of the former Methodist Church of Omemee was fittingly celebrated on Sunday and Monday, June 13 and 14, when many former members returned to the village of their birth to celebrate with those who remain to carry on the work begun half a century ago by their forefathers. The church was most tastefully decorated for the event, with white lilacs, combined with golden tulips, marigolds and snapdragon, thus producing a very pretty color scheme of gold and white.

The morning service was to have been in charge of Rev. Alex. Evans of Portland, Oregon, an old Omemee boy, but circumstances prevented his coming, and Rev. John Morgan, Rev. William Johnston, Rev. Francis Johnston, and the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, all of whom were former Omemee boys, took part in the devotional exercises. Rev Archer Wallace, M.A., of Toronto, delivered a most inspiring message, basing his thoughts on the text: "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Special music consisted of a duet by the Misses Vera and Mary Lowe "Rock of Ages," and an anthem by the choir, "My God and Father WhiteI Stray," with obliggato by Harold Laidley.

In the afternoon, a mass meeting was held, the children of the Sunday School occupying the centre front pews. A choir of young girls brightened the service with two carols, "The Children's King" and "Let the Notes of Rapture Swell." Mr. George Mulligan of Peterborough, an old Omemee boy, was heard in two vocal selections to the delight of all. Mr. Wallace again delivered a short talk to the children, which was bright with humor and held his hearers with rapt attention.

The church was packed to the doors on Sunday evening, and many a heart swelled with emotion as the recollection of bygone days loomed up and the familiar faces of those now departed were recalled. The church of fifty years ago resounded with echoes of the past as the grand old hymns, chosen for the event, and heartily rendered by all present rang out on the evening air.

Rev. John Morgan, of, Toronto was in charge, while Rev. R. F. Stillman of Norwood, Rev. William Johnston, and Rev. E. W. Rowland occupied seats on the platform, along with the special speaker. Rev. Archer Wallace of Toronto. As at the morning service, he again delighted his many hearers with his splendid discourse, taking as his subject: "Right and Wrong Ideas of Religion"

The choir with the assistance of Mr Mulligan, again rendered a pretty anthem, "O Come, All Ye Faithful." Mr. Mulligan also sang two solos as well as a duet with his daughter, Miss Helen Mulligan, all of which were very much appreciated. It was a lengthy service, but all were delighted and altogether the entire day was one well spent and one long to be remembered.

On Monday evening a jubilee garden party was held, thus giving an opportunity to many former friends who have gathered to meet in a social way Tea was served in the Sunday School room followed by a choice programme given in the auditorium of the church by the orchestra of George Street United Church, Peterborough.

It will be of interest to many to read of a few of those who have served prominently during the fifty years and also the extent of the Omemee circuit fifty years ago and now.

A Large Circuit

Fifty years ago, the Omemee circuit comprised the following appointments: Omemee, Lebanon, Middle Road, Bethel, Ops, Orange Line and Mount Horeb. Each pastor was given an assistant. Rev. William Godfrey was the pastor of 1876, and for the dedication and opening services of the newly erected church, the Rev. Dr. Jeffers of Cobourg, then President of the Bay of Quinte Conference was the special preacher.

Following Mr. Godfrey from 1876 until 1926, the following ministers, many of whom have long since passed to the Great Beyond, served faithfully and well the Methodists of this community as their pastor: Rev J. A. Chapman, Rev. E. Barris, Rev. J. C. Wilson, Rev. C. Watch, Rev. William Johnson, Rev. C. L. Thompson, Rev. Newton Hill, Rev. E. Roberts, Rev. George Brown, Rev. J. Locke, Rev. R. McCullough, Rev. R. Burns, Rev. J. Chapman, Rev. J. Downs, Rev. J. Lewis, Rev. R. F. Stillman, Rev. E. W. Rowland.

It is of interest to note that the choir of fifty years ago, led by Dr. Higginbotham, occupied the gallery at the front of the church. The organist, an E flat and a B flat she was assisted by three brass inganist was Mrs. David Balfour, and cornet and a baritone. The choir of half a century ago was composed of Sopranos, Rena Anderson, Lillian Williamson, Mary Balfour, Nancey Ivory, Carrie Elliott, Miss Blewett, Mrs. Bowman, Millie English; Alto: Miss Peplow. Bass: George Balfour, John Mason and T. J. Parsons. Tenor: Dr. Higginbotham.

The organists since that time have been: Mrs. J. J. Lang, Miss Mollie English, Miss Olive Beatty, Miss Rose Williamson, Mr Charles Caldwell, Miss Florence MacPherson, Miss Annie Ivory and Miss Eva Race.

In 1907 Lady Eaton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCrae, presented a beautiful pipe organ to the church, in commemoration of the golden wedding of her parents.

In 1910 a beautiful memorial parsonage was built in memory of her father.

Following the first choir leader until the present time were the late George Balfour, T. J. Parsons, the late R. J. Mulligan, and Miss Lila Parsons.

The Sunday School has the novel distinction of having had but three superintendents during the 50 years, namely the late William Miller, the late Dr. Thompson, with J. J. Lang as assistant, and Mr. T. C. Ivory with William Kennedy as assistant and who has now as his assistant Mr. Harry Lamb.

The class leaders were the late Thomas Kennedy and Gabriel Balfour, the memory of whom is still cherished in the hearts of the older members of the church. In later years Dr. Thompson and William Kennedy and R. Poast were the class leaders.

The fruits of 50 years' labor in God's vineyard can now be seen in the work of the following, who have gone forth from this church.o

Miss Mabel Thompson, now Mrs. Rev. T. Cook, of the China Inland Mission, Kiating, West China.

Rev. E. W. Morgan, B.A., G.D., Chung Chow, China.

Rev. John Morgan, Weston, Ont.

Rev. D. Balfour, died, Aug., 1922.

Rev. W. H. Nugent, Ph.D., D.D., Portland, Oregon.

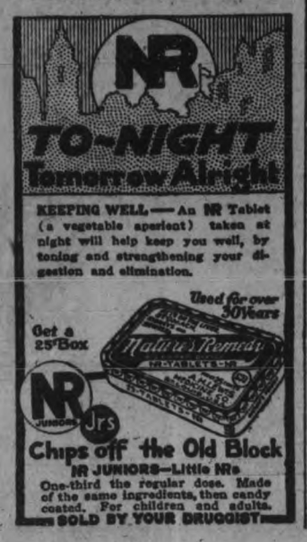
Rev. G. R. McQuade, Odessa, Ont.

Rev. W. J. H. Smith, M.A., B.D., Wellington, Ont.

Rev. D. M. Stinson, M. A., B.D., Wilfrid, Ont.

And the Rev. E. W. Rowland, at present pastor of the church from which he went out.

Among those from a distance who attended the Jubilee services were Miss Annie Thompson, Nyack, N.Y., Miss Ida Nugent, Toronto, Rev. Francis and Mrs. Johnston, Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lang, Toronto; Miss Bina Beatty, Peterborough, Mrs. Rev. D. R. Clare and daughter, Miss Margaret, Welcome, Ont; Rev.. R. F. and Mrs. Stillman and daughter, Blanche, Norwood; Rev. Wm. Johnston, Toronto; Rev. John Morgan. Weston, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Nugent and daughter, of Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. A. Irwin, Sharbot Lake; Mr. and Mrs. S. Stinson, Janetille. Dr. and Mrs. Vansborough, Lindsay; Mrs. Dr. Irvine and Mrs. Staples, Lindsay; Lady Eaton and two small daughters, Florence Mary, and Evelyn, of Toronto; Mrs. Mulligan, Miss E. McCrea, Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradburn, Janetville, Mr. and Mrs. George McKim, Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. J. Laidley, Lindsay;; Miss Edna Moore, Lindsay; Mrs. Musgrove, Toronto; Mrs. Charles McCaffrey and daughter of Windsor; Miss Wilma Sluce of Peterboro, Miss Myrtle Weir, Fraserville, Mrs. George Balfour, Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Corneil and daughter of Manilla, Mr. Charles Laidley, Miss Ida Laidley, Dunsford; Mrs. Newton Smale, of Lindsay; Miss Thornbury, Lindsay; Miss Lottie Robinson, of Toronto; Mrs. Thurston and daughter of Dunsford; Mr. and Mrs. Ford Moynes and daughter of Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. Waterman, Fraserville, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mulligan, and daughter, Miss Helen, of Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. Strong, Peterboro.



MEMORIAL FUND AIDED BY COUNCIL

Increase of One Mill in Stirling Tax is Imposed.

STERLING, June 16.—At the regular meeting of the village council held last week, a delegation from the memorial committee was heard regarding assistance towards the completion of their plot on Mill street.

Mrs. (Dr.) Alger gave an outline of what this organization had done since its inception. The total expenditure to date had been about $2,500. In their efforts to raise funds they had realized $1,500, leaving a balance of $1,000. The council was asked for a grant to enable the committee to pay off the debt and clear the ground of the old buildings. After some discussion, the council granted their request to the extent of adding one mill to the tax rate for 1926 for this purpose which will amount to about $450. The council also gave a grant of $25 to the Horticultural Society. They also decided to enforce rigidly a milk by-law.

The Provincial Health Officer for this district was in town last week consulting with our local board regarding matters pertaining to the health of the village.

Lodges Exchanged Visits.

Sterling Encampment No. 80, I.O.O.F., visited Moira Encampment No. 59, at Belleville, last week, and exemplified the Golden Rule degree. Under the direction of P.D.D.G.P. W. T. Sine, the following composed the Degree team: C.P., J. B. Thompson, P.D.D.G.P.; S.W., E. R. Carlisle; H.P. J. M. Clarke, P.D.D.G.P.; J. W., H. E. Hulin; G. of T., R. Walker; G. of T., J. Carlisle; Nations, G. Weaver, J. M. McGee, F. Hulin, V. Taylor, G. Megginson, W. Broadworth, R. Thrasher, E. Wilson, M. W. Sine, A. Vandewoort, H. Farrell, I.S., B. R. Sarles, Pianist, E. Ward. After the conferring of the Degree, the Belleville brethren maintained their record for hospitality in the provision of a bountiful banquet and fine toast list, at which P.D.D.G.P. Way presided.

Sterling Encampment are looking forward with pleasure to Friday night, June 18th, when the Degree staff of the Peterborough Encampments are expected to visit their camp in force and exemplify the Purple Degree.

Ladies' Bowling.

Great interest is being taken in bowling this year. A ladies' club has been organized and the members met last week for their first practise, making a better showing than the men, after the contests, ice cream and cake were served and a social time spent.

Women's Delegation

A large delegation from the Women's Institute, attended the District Convention at Ivanhoe last Thursday. Splendid reports were heard from the different branches. At the afternoon session, addresses were given by R. Atkin, district representative of agriculture, Miss E. Chapman of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, and Mrs. Bert. Finkle, of West Hastings.

One of Stirling's members was elected president for the ensuing year.

At noon an excellent lunch was provided by the Ivanhoe ladies.

Garden Party.

A very successful garden party was held last Friday night by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, at the residence of Mr. A. B. Fargey, Ridge road. The receipts were $160.

The services at St. Paul's United church were taken by a student in the absence of Rev. Barret, who is attending the General Council of the United Church, in Montreal.

Annual Church Parade.

The annual church service of the Orange Society was held in St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon, the sermon was preached by Rev. B. F. Byers.

The Rev. Robt. Simpson, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Sterling, and Rev. T. G. Marshall of St. Peter's Presbyterian church, Madoc, exchanged pulpits on Sunday.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson left last week on a motor trip to Sault St. Marie, to be gone for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Martin are in Montreal attending the General Council of the United Church. They will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Martin on a motor trip through New York State.

Mr. Chas. Bailey is a patient at Havelock hospital, where he was operated on for appendicitis last Thursday, and is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. F. A. MacDonnell is visiting her sister, Mrs. McLean at Orillia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McKenzie motored to Brockville on Saturday, where they visited friends over Sunday, from there Mr. McKenzie will go to Kemptville, where he will attend a Banker's Convention.

Mrs. L. Bird, of Smithfield was a visitor in town last week.

Miss Rosina McGee, of Windsor, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McGee. Mr. Winters, of Bancroft is also a visitor at Mr. McGee's.

MISSIONARY GIVES ADDRESS ON CHINA

Rev. Stuart Forbes Tells of His Work at Honan.

LAKEFIELD, June 16.—Rev. Stuart Forbes gave an interesting address on his work in Honan, China in the United (Presbyterian) church on Sunday evening.

The city in which he worked was a walled city and a sacred city also situated at the base of two hills on which there were a great number of temples containing many images. Each year sees a great number of pilgrims coming to visit these temples. There is a great goddess there (in effigy) in beautiful silken robes and although rather dusty she is of benign countenance and is known as the aged grandmother. The legend goes that once she was a young girl, the third daughter of a wealth landowner, the two older sisters married and according to Chinese custom a husband was chosen for her (like all Chinese girls she had not seen him), when she rebelled and declared she would not marry but would offer herself to the Gods. so she left home and became a nun. The reputation of the priests was as unsavory then as it is today so her father in a terrible fury set fire to the temple and all the priests were burnt but the nun was burnt in an earthen cask of water into which she had flung herself. Her innocence was vindicated and she was made a goddess and she is said to give sons to those who pray to her for them. In that section of the country no woman has really lived till she has gone to that place and worshipped at that shrine. These people are heathen but their prayers are probably more sincere than some Christian prayers. People throng there at certain seasons and it was not uncommon for people to be crushed to death in former years. The beggars are importunate in their demands and at the altars where the incense burns, the priests have clubs to keep the beggars from stealing the incense.

"In giving the gospel of Christ to these people we do not tell them of Christ's miracles as they will cap these stories with similar tales of their gods and the same is true of the virgin birth, but the story which wins them is that of the story of the Cross of Jesus Christ and His resurrection from the dead and that is what we preach," said Mr. Forbes. For years the church had tried to get a foothold in the city of Swinshan with very little result but a few years ago there was a great famine and the missionairies gave themselves up to relief work and in this way came into contact with the upper classes who had been impossible to reach under normal conditions. The acquaintance brought forth very little aid and they found a building for mission work which no Chinese would live in because of its reputation for being haunted. As they said, "It did all right for Christians for they did not believe in or fear ghosts." The missionaries fixed up the place and they got a chapel which now has a bell which is a memorial to Mr. Forbes' mother, sent by her Sunday school class in Chatham. There is service in this chapel every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with the same sort of service as in Canada, the same hymns (translated into Chinese) and sung to the same tunes. There are many men and women who have become earnest Christians and who are zealous workers in the work of extending the knowledge of Christ. One old man, a basket-maker, has won ninety people to Christ and is rather proud that he can preach five hours without stopping.

"When we pray for missions let us remember those Chinese Christians who are enduring persecution for their faith," said the speaker.

In the afternoon at the chapel the men come to study the Bible. These men are of the educated class with manners that would grace a court, highly educated, with a marvellous knowledge of the classics and most remarkable memories. They are not Christians but for years have been coming to study the Bible. When the speaker first undertook this class he was rather nervous of these proud, self-confident men, for he had no great knowledge of Chinese but he took the Bible, text by text, and expounded it to them. On Saturdays he called on them (there were about 30 or 35 of them) and discussed politics, the weath the lessons, and left books circulating library. On Sund attend the class, they ha died the gospels of St. Luke John and part of the Acts Apostles. Four of the men have become Christians, not the older. It is easier for uneducated to become Chris than these men. Why do come? At first it was out of spect to the speaker and their terest was aroused and they enj the study. There are great forc at work in China today, the old Em pire has disappeared and a republic has taken its place, the old education has been scrapped and the tablet of Confucius is no longer worshipped in the schools

The old religions are losing hold and new societies are being formed in an effort to search for the truth. "Can you find a greater reason for missionary work than this? It is the challenge to Christianity today to nations and individuals alike and what are we to do about it. Many people think they are very generous when they give a paltry five dollars when the world's great heart is aching so fiercely and the need is so great," said the speaker in conclusion.

Some Italian volcanoes produce boric acid, ammonia and other commercial materials in such quantities that factories using them are built near the craters.

MANY CUTWORMS AROUND WARSAW

Garden Stuff Ruined in Many Places—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, June 16.—The growth, for the season, is wonderful. There seems good pasture, and the promise of good hay.

A good deal of corn is not yet planted and many feel it is just as well as the soil is cold. At least one farmer plans to tear up a field of corn. Straw was up about two weeks ago.

Many report the cutworm as very bad. In one garden that is protected by a hedge the worms have cleaned up the cucumbers, nearly all the beans, much of the lettuce and other things, and even have tackled the early potatoes, which are well up. Over fifty of the worms were killed in the small patch of lettuce for family use.

Another garden had many tomato pants destroyed. This is no weather for killing weeds. A nice hot sun, with a little wind, destroys them when thrown out.

The sheep-shearers are still busy.

Next Sunday evening Rev. H. B. Herrington will preach on "Tithing."

Rev. J. Wesley will preach to the Orangemen at South Dummer on June 20. It will be his last sermon there as regular minister. He will preach the anniversary sermons on Sunday, June 27, at Cottesloe, and that will be his farewell there.

The Rev. Mr. Pinkerton preached in the Baptist church on Sunday morning.

Mr. Stevens preached to a good sized congregation in the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon.

A good number attended the service in the Anglican church on Sunday morning.

The Presbyterian and United church Sunday schools on Sunday morning were well attended.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 16.—Mr. Otto Sarginson and Mr. Walter Benedict of Napanee spent the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sarginson, Rear street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ayrhart and children of Napanee spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potts.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly of Roseneath were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerr for the week end.

Harry Ayrhart of Napanee spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ayrhart, Sebastopol street.

Mrs. Thomas Atkinson left last week to visit her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Wood of Syracuse, N.Y.

Miss Blanche Gibson, nurse-in-training at Mark's hospital, Detroit, spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson.

Mrs. E. Hanan and children of Belleville spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Rowe.

Recognized Quality

THE large number of motorists who can afford to buy any make of car, and yet drive a Ford by choice, is a tribute to the car's intrinsic worth.

Simple in operation, built to a high quality standard, and maintained by a superior service organization, Ford products appeal to the most discriminating.

For twenty-one years Ford has maintained this standard of quality, which fact has been recognized by over twelve million owners.

PRODUCING ORATORS.

The Hamilton Spectator calls attention to a move started in Canada which promises to grow, and as our contemporary puts it, well deserves to grow.

The reference is a plan for determining the best young orator in the country who will visit the United States and engage in a speaking contest with champions similarly selected in the United States and in Europe.

The scheme has been in operation in the United States for three years, and last year 1,400,000 school pupils took part in the various competitions.

The Examiner has always favoured any plan that promised to encourage young Canadians to become better public speakers, and there is merit in the method referred to above.

There is no lack of talkers in this country; Parliamentary debates unmistakably prove that fact, but there is a dearth of logical, eloquent speakers with something worth while to say and the necessary technique to say it effectively and concisely.

The education of our young people in oratory, by whatever scheme that promises fruitful results, is a stage of development that all should welcome.

GOVERNMENT MARKETING.

Probably the boldest stroke ever made by any Provincial Government in the interest of agriculture is the scheme of Government marketing just announced by Hon. John S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture.

Briefly, Mr. Martin's proposal is that the Government will take full charge of the marketing of all the agricultural output of the Province produced for export.

Butter, eggs, apples, etc., will be collected, inspected, graded and exported under an official Government brand.

The same method that was followed in the handling of Ontario apples last year, a method that secured for the apples from this Province highest prices in the British market, is to be used in this most comprehensive scheme.

It is the hope of the Minister that Ontario agricultural products, backed by the Government brand, will capture the old country market and command splendid prices.

Naturally the scheme is being attacked by the ...uce dealers, who are almost unanimous in con...ning it as a great mistake, and as an unwarrant... Governmental interference with private business.

This opposition is not likely to have much weight ...th Hon. Mr. Martin, who is enthusiastic over the ...rospects before his plan, as Peterboro people who ...heard him on his last visit to this city well know.

IS RECIPROCITY CALLING?

There is a change of feeling in the middle western United States. So much is shown by the victory of Col. S. W. Brookhart over Senator Albert B. Cummins in the Iowa Republican Senate primaries. Col. Brookhart, once deposed in favor of Daniel B. Steck, has come back with a strong plurality in the State vote. He belongs to the so-called radical group, many of whom worked in his interests.

The election is generally interpreted as a reaction against the administration attitude toward farm relief. It may not be a personal setback for Presi... THOSE CHAIN LETTERS.

When a recent article was penned on superstitious ...s in general, and on that particular form of ...lity which invests those who lend themselves to ...ultiplying of "chain" letters, we little surmised ...low of correspondence which would follow. Not ...he letters were couched in such pleasant terms ...pproval as that of "O. M." She then observed ...shortly afterwards she had fainted for the first ... in her life, and had been taken to the hospital. ...nvinced still as to this particular piece of ill-luck ...ng been caused by her "breaking the chain," she ...unnaturally commented on the singularity of the ... We have much sympathy for this lady, but beg her to keep firm in the faith. We ourselves met with a large-sized chunk of misfortune lately. It obtruded itself about a week before our "chain letter" arrived. We will not say what effect it would have had on our mind if it had arrived ten days later when the chain letter had disappeared into the waste paper basket, but we are convinced that some of our friends would have pointed the moral and adorned the tale. As it is we are still brazen sceptics, frankly opposed to encouragement of a highly reprehensible practice, entirely unashamed in our stand.

Our faith in the judiciary of our country, indeed, is a little shaken by discovering that so many distinguished occupants of the bench have fallen by the way, and added the weight of their vast authority to this form of perpetual motion. In those unhappy States where judges are placed in their high office by the doubtful practice of cajoling the electorate to support their candidature for judicial positions we should not be surprised at anything, but in this enlightened country? Alas, the thing is too painful to elaborate.

We would like, however, to point out a phase of this matter which has probably not suggested itself to those who, after hesitating, say to their typists, somewhat shamefacedly, "Copy this list out, and send it to the following nine addresses." Have they considered that the proceeding is a somewhat audacious and "nervy" one? The recipient may neither have time for the task imposed on him, nor the slightest faith in the whole business. Yet this innocent soul is threatened with ill-luck if he fails to come up to the scratch. That sane and brave sceptic, Montaigne, when he was once badgered to believe in something against his better judgment, remarked, "I am forbidden to doubt upon pain of execrable injuries," and he added, pithily and wisely, "I am not to be cuff'd into belief."

As to the ordering of this great universe, and the precise nature of its architect there are many and diverse opinions. The burdens of life are neither few nor light. Why should we add to them by a feather-weight, or offer the indignity to the high gods of suggesting that they will bless or curse us because we listen, or refuse to listen, to the foolish judgments and misdirected importunity of our weaker fellow-mortals? For ourselves it is hard work to keep up with the letters we ought to write. We will not undertake those we ought not to write.—Ottawa Journal.

ALICE ROGER COLLINS.

It is always a pleasure for the Examiner to call attention to the successful careers of the sons and daughters of Peterboro.

They have a habit of scoring successes in whatever field they are called, and so it is often the Examiner's agreeable task to tell their former fellow-citizens here? at home about their triumphs.

Thus it is with much satisfaction that we quote from the Guelph Mercury an appreciation of Alice Roger Collins, well-known former Peterboro writer, as voiced by Rev. G. N. Luxton of St. Patrick's Anglican Church, Guelph, who writes as follows:

"An old and well-worn story tells about three men who were working in a stone quarry and were approached and questioned about their occupation. The first, welcoming the interruption, replied, 'I'm waiting for the whistle to blow,' another answered, 'I'm working for three-fifty a day'; the last looked up a moment from his cutting and said quietly, 'I'm building a cathedral.' Canada has many strain their ears for the five o'clock whistle, many who work simply for a pay cheque, and all too few who in any sense of the term can be called 'cathedral builders.' Alice Roger Collins is one of the few, and she has earned her right to the title in a dozen different ways. By her influence for good on the lives and ideals of her friends and associates, by the impetus and stimulation she has given to the musical and literary life of the various communities where she has resided, by her creative ventures in poetry and song, by these and other works too numerous to mention she has been building day by day living cathedrals in our midst.

"Her work for music has been recognized for years. She is a Fellow of the Toronto Conservatory and was a Fellow of the old academy. Her poetic work of late years has also been gaining a wider reception. Lately word has come from the British Poetry Society that one of her sonnets is to be included in an anthology of modern verse which is now on the press. All this should be of particular interest to Guelphites because Mrs. Collins is a very near neighbour of ours, living at her picturesque home, 'The Grange,' at Elora.

"Perhaps her verse gives us the most intimate glimpse of her qualities of mind and spirit. For several years now she has been publishing little books of songs and poetry which for their beauty, musical quality and feeling have been applauded both here and abroad. Sir Robert Falconer, after a survey of her work, writes: 'I have caught no artificial note and I am sure that they will give real pleasure to a wide circle.' Sir Robert's phrase is, as usual, happily chosen. Nowhere in the poems does one catch the note of artificiality. It is because in each Mrs. Collins gives us a bit of herself, and those who know her intimately know that artificiality has no part in her person. She is wholesome in life and thought, broad in ideals and outlook, with a deep sympathy and a keen appreciation of beauty in life and nature. If all these qualities are coupled with the heart and energy of a pioneer, the reader will get some idea of the spirit and life of Alice Roger Collins. The present writer considers it one of the greatest privileges of his life that from the earliest days Mrs. Collins has been an encouraging, sympathetic friend, one who has helped him dream his dreams and who has often given new strength to flagging footsteps."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Wear a maple leaf on Dominion Day.

Many a worthy citizen whose veracity is above reproach at any other season finds it difficult to be truthful about the big one that got away.

The number of Ohio cars seen passing through Peterboro indicates that the Cleveland-Canada movement is not confined to one day.

Mr. Ferguson remains silent as to the election date, but everybody else appears to take it for granted an appeal to the people will be made next autumn.

It is said that the Western crops never looked better. That is news that means much to Canadians everywhere.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE ELEMENT OF COMPETITION.

If you would influence your neighbor to do better, do a little better yourself. Bring in a little element of competition. An ounce of good example is worth a pound of good advice. When you begin to shape yourself into something noteworthy, you will be surprised to see how soon the other fellow will ask for the pattern.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, June 16. — Choice heavy export steers yesterday passed the nine dollar mark at the Union Stock Yards. Buyers for the live export trade paid up to $9.15, with freight, bringing the price up to $9.35. For the export dressed beef trade local packers paid up to $9.25 to $9.40, billed through. In the choice butcher section, handy weights, prices were firm to 10c and 15c higher at $8 to $8.85. All other grades of butcher cattle, stable fed, were high in proportion to the rest of the market. Few cattle as yet are coming in off the grass. Until these cattle begin to come in larger quantities present prices are likely to hold.

Calves are steady to firm.

Lambs again a little firmer at 17c to 18c. Sheep slow.

Hogs steady at $15.50 off cars, but packers are bidding 25c lower for yesterday's loadings.

Heavy steers, choice, $8.25 to $9.25; choice butcher steers firm at $7.75 to $8.50; extra choice, selected butcher steers, $8.40 to $8.85; choice heifers, $7.25 to $7.75; medium and common, $6 to $6.50.

Choice fat cows firm, $6 to $6.75.

Bulls, firm, choice butcher, not too heavy, $5.50 to $6.25; medium and heavy, $5.25 to $5.75.

Calves, $11 to $12.50.

CHEESE MARKET

MONTREAL, June 6 (Canadian Press).—On the local curb market yesterday there were 1,200 packages creamery butter offered of which the lots of No. 1 pasteurized were settled for at 36c per lb; No. 1 unpasteurized at 35c per lb, and No. 2 grades at 34c per lb. The offerings of cheese amounted to 2,500 boxes and the prices paid was 19 1-4c per lb. delivered here.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 16 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the market yesterday was again of a disappointing character owing to the fact that bids generally from foreign were below working basis. The ocean grain freight room business was also reported quiet with no important change in rates to note.

There was some demand for Manitoba No. 4 wheat in the local market, and sales were made at the July price, and odd loads of No. 2 feed oats changed hands at 1 cent per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal. The car lot trade was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The demand for spring and winter wheat grades of flour was limited, but prices were well maintained.

Owing to the continued cool weather prevailing the demand for millfeed was fairly good from both local and United States sources. The undertone was firm but prices showed no change. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The volume of business transacted in potatoes was small, but the feeling was steady at the recent declines noted.

The egg market was fairly active and firm. The receipts were 5,240 cases. Extreme dullness marked the butter trade, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 1,468 packages.

Owing to a lull in the demand from English importers, the cheese trade was quiet but firm. The receipts were 11,536 boxes.

An easier feeling developed in the market for beans and prices were reduced 5 cents per bushel with car lots of choice white hand-picked offering at $2.15 per bushel, and broken lots at $2.25 to $2.35 per bushel.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Reports yesterday indicate continued firmness in egg markets and a further price advance is reported from Vancouver.

Toronto—Country shippers report much lighter receipts. They are paying producers, extras 30 to 31, firsts 29, seconds 22, and making sales, extras 35 to 36, firsts 34, seconds 27 in export cases. Quotations for eggs in used cases are 2c less.

Montreal—Dealers paying delivered, extras 32 to 35, firsts 30 to 31, seconds 26 to 27. Prices to retailers, extras 37 to 38, firsts 34 to 36, seconds 30 to 32. Consumptive demand is good.

Winnipeg — Market is steady. Dealers quoting country shippers, extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 21 to 22 delivered, cases returned. Prices to retailers, extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 27. Retail, extras 37 to 39, firsts 35, seconds 30. Receipts for the week ending June 12th were 6,343 cases as compared with 6,185 cases for the previous week.

Saskatchewan — Dealers paying country shippers extras 25 to 26, firsts 23 to 24, seconds 18 delivered, cases returned. Prices to retailers, extras 30 to 32, firsts 27 to 28, seconds 22 to 25. Retail, extras 35 to 40, firsts 30 to 35, seconds 25.

Calgary.—Country shippers making sales, extras 23, firsts 21, seconds 16, jobbing extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 25.

Edmonton—Country dealers making sales extras 25, firsts 23, seconds 16. Prices to retailers, extras 36, firsts 32, seconds 26.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Commission house buying on a large scale in the late dealings yesterday pushed all grain values up grade on the Board of Trade. The finish was strong and near the topmost figures for the day. Final figures for wheat showed a net gain of 1-2 to 1 1-2c, corn finished 3-8 to 1 1-8 up, oats 3-8 to 3-4 higher, and provisions 2 to 32c above Monday's close.

Although there was nothing outstanding in the news early, later reports told of the probability of delay to harvesting in Kansas and Texas because of rain. Unfavorable crop comments also came from the northwest and southwest. A report also was received from an eastern exporter, which said the situation in France was critical, with a possibility of a crop disaster, added to all this the Canadian visible supply figures showed a decrease of 4,337,000 bushels. Corn shorts also covered near the close, inducing some outside demand and causing a stronger tone. Oats, although slightly lower early in the day followed later in the wake of wheat and corn.

Buying credited to cash industries and packers gave strength to provisions.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.85 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.86 1-8.

THIEVES RANSACK CREAMERY OFFICE

Take Small Articles But Cant' Find Money or Valuables.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 16. — The second robbery to take place within a short time occurred here Saturday night when thieves entered the Trent Valley Creameries on Rear street. The robbers gained an entrance through a window in the rear of the building, and made their way to the office, where they gathered up a few articles of minor importance, but were unsuccessful in their search for money or valuables.

Some of the articles taken were returned to Mr. H. N. Carr, the proprietor, by boys who found them in the vacant lot opposite the skating rink, the thieves evidently being in too much of a hurry to examine their booty until a safe distance from the scene of their operations.

Mr. Carr is offering a reward of $100.00 for the apprehension of the thieves.

MR. HALL'S INTEREST.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., resents the supposition that he would advocate the purchase by the city, as a public duty, of water-powers in which he had a personal interest. But Mr. Hall should realize that he was at one time a large and controlling owner of water-power interests in the very dams that are now open for acquirement by the city, if it chooses to acquire them. How were people to know that he had sold out all his water-power interests in this district to the Electric Power Co. (Seymour Power Co.) years ago and that he had no personal interest whatever left. Not only that but Mr. Hall, by an oversight, makes no actual disclaimer in his letter of Saturday. He nowhere in it says directly, so far as I could see, that he had parted with his interests. I know he has failed with them and that he is a wholly disinterested advocate of city ownership, but I found it out accidentally, and very recently at that. Mr. Hall was a very active member of parliament but he was more than that. He did not get much for himself but he did get a whole lot for his riding. Mr. Hall's letters are very definite, informative and convincing but he would do well in his next letter to state, in so many words, that he has no longer any direct or indirect interest in the water-powers, whose purchase by the city he is advocating. I am sir, not a straddle-of-the-fence or Liberal-Conservative or political hermaphrodite but,

Yours truly,
A REAL CONSERVATIVE.

Receive R. A. P. Degree at Meeting of Alderville Orange Lodge.

ALDERVILLE, June 16.—A very interesting old time R.A.P. meeting of the L.O.L. was held in the beautiful lodge room of L.O.L. No. 1069 Alderville.

W.M. Sam Beavis requested County Master W. A. Goodfellow to take the chair and supervise the elevation of fice young stalwarts to the illustrious degree of the Royal Arch Purple.

It is very gratifying to see this lodge reviving itself from an almost dormant state for the last seven or eight years which was in no way a discredit to themselves as their ranks were sadly depleted by the World War when so many of the members ralied to the call of the mother country.

This lodge has resolved to march with their brethren in Warkworth on the coming 12th, headed by the Aldervile Band.

Some of the visiting brethren present were John I. Adams, P.C.M., Ed. Webber, P.D.M., E Spencer and W. J. Latimer, C.R.S.

At the close of the meeting a substantial lunch was served and some excellent music was rendered after which the members repaired to their several homes in the wee sma hours.

WOMEN GATHER TO OUTLAW WAR

Great Peace Pilgrimage Addressed By Lady Astor and Maud Royden.

ALL CLASSES UNITE.

LONDON, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Lady Astor welcomed a vary squad of peace pilgrims at Maidenhead, Berkshire, last night, and delivered a stirring speech at a large open air meeting, urging all the women of Great Britain to join the movement for the abolition of war through conciliation and the arbitration of all international and national differences.

Maude Royden, the celebrated woman preacher, greeted the women pedestrians, who entered Cambridge yesterday on their way to the great peace demonstration, to be held Saturday in Hyde Park. Town and University joined in a great meeting applicating the peace demonstration held at Oxford, Sunday, when Prof. Gilbert Murray was the chief speaker and representaties of all the colleges participated and joined in placing a wreath on the war memorial. Peace services were also held in the Cathedral and every chapel of Oxford.

The women peace crusaders are marching from all parts of the country on London, and on June 19 will gather for their great mass meeting to advocate the need of peace and the outlawing of war. All classes have joined in the movement, from the poor and lowly to the members of the noble houses.

DEATH FOLLOWS SALINE DRINK

Port Arthur Woman Dies Under Mysterious Circumstances.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 16 (Canadiaan Press) — Mrs. William Espin, 45 years old, wife of William Espin, night watchman at the Port Arthur Shipbuilding plant, died this morning at her home under mysterious circumstances. Her death is believed to have been caused by some poison element contained in a saline Mrs. Espin was in the habit of taking every morning. Mrs. Espin and her husband had breakfast together, following which he went to the backyard to feed the chickens. He heard a scream and on rushing into the house found Mrs. Espin on a bed groaning. She was unable to speak. She died in a few minutes later in the arms of a woman neighbor. A bottle containing the saline was found and Dr. Laurie, coroner, has sent it to the provincial analyst for analysis.

POLICE RESCUE STRIKE BREAKER

Disorder Succeeds Trade Dispute in Factory in Quebec.

MAN CHASED.

QUEBEC, Que., June 16. Canadian Press. — Over one hundred strikers staged a demonstration at the door of the Guardian Shoe Company's factory at the corner of St. Anselme and Notre Dame Des Anges street yesterday, and manhandled one of the strike breakers working in that factory.

Serious trouble was avoided by the management of the factory and the police, who prevented the remainder of the workers in the establishment leaving for their lunch.

In spite of the quiet orders of the officers on duty not to gather in groups at any point within the guarded area a large number of strikers, estimated at over one hundred, filtered through the men on duty, and finally came together in a group at the corner of Notre Dame Des Anges street. The policemen lost no time in ordering them to move along, but some difficulty was experienced in having this order executed immediately on account of the fact that large numbers of the spectators — men, women and children — rushed to the scene and started milling back and forth in the streets on either side of the Guardian shoe factory.

Just when the police had their hands full with this surging mob, one of the strike breakers slipped through a side door of the factory, evidently intent on having his lunch at home at all costs. He had hardly taken three steps when several of the strikers espied him and set after him with a hue and cry. They caught up with him at the corner of Caron and St. Joseph streets and but for the prompt arrival of several policemen in a motorcycle it is certain he would have suffered very serious injury.

FINANCE MINISTER QUITS POST AND BRIAND'S CABINET RESIGNS

Fourth French Government To Fall Over Financial Muddle.

PERET'S DIFFICULTIES.

Could Not Get Support For Measures To Cope With Problems.

PARIS, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Premier Briand and his entire Cabinet resigned yesterday. This was the fourth French Government and the eighth French Minister of Finance to fall by reason of the financial difficulties borne of the war.

M. Peret, who has been struggling valiantly at the head of the Finance Ministry, started the crisis by withdrawing from office before the Cabinet meeting. He insisted on abandoning his post in spite of the pleadings of the President of the Republic, and the Premier, because the essential support on which he had counted for a solution of the financial problems and the protection of the franc was lacking.

The "essential support" to which M. Peret referred was variously interpreted, according to political leanings. Those close to the outgoing Minister assert that he meant, first, the fact that there was a suitable majority in Parliament to back up the Government in the stringent measures which were necessary to clear up the situation, and, second, the differences of opinion that had developed between the Minister and the Bank of France and some of the members of the special committee of experts appointed to recommend a means of stabilizing the franc.

The Socialists declare that the Bank of France failed utterly to support the Minister in defence of the franc. The Socialists, however, were in favor of using part of the bank's gold reserve as a pledge for wide operations to protect the franc, a policy which was little favored by the other parties.

The impression last evening is that M. Briand may, now that the way has been cleared, form a national union Cabinet, representing all the parties in Parliament. In case he declines to undertake this difficult task of reconciling all the parties, the return to power of Edouard Herriot, the Socialist leader, with a Cabinet formed exclusively from the coalition of the Left, is talked of, while there are timid suggestions that the hour may have struck for the effective return of M. Caillaux.

Friends of M. Caillaux always contended that his return to the Ministry under M. Painleve was a sort of false re-entry and that the former exile lacked the opportunity to show what he could do with the situation.

M. Caillaux was spoken of during the afternoon as the possible successor of M. Peret in a Briand Cabinet, but it is known that he is determined to try again to renovate French finances only if he is given a high hand, amounting almost to a dictatorship, with authority to take exceptional measures by decree. His friends assert that he is ready at any time to undertake the arduous task if given such authority, which would, in their opinion, be equivalent to what they call "constitutional" authority.

REFERENDUM BILL SECOND READING

Commonwealth Government Wishes Authority To Pass Labor Legislation.

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 16 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—In the face of bitter opposition from the Labor members, the House of Representatives, after an all-night sitting yesterday, passed the second reading of the Commonwealth Government's Bill providing for the holding of a referendum throughout Australia on the question of conferring upon the government power to appoint tribunals to deal with matters relating to the hours and conditions of employment. Should the referendum carry if it goes to the country, it would also authorize the Commonwealth government to legislate on questions respecting trade unions and pass measures to deal with essential industries when it is deemed to be in the interests of the community.

SENATE KILLS REPEALING BILL

Passed Commons Without Division — Rejected By 35-16 in Upper House.

POWER TO DEPORT.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16 (Canadian Press)—Another government bill was thrown out by the Senate yesterday. It was the bill which repealed the legislation of 1919 concerning the deportation without trial of residents, not naturalized citizens, who were convicted of association with seditious movements. The regulations were enacted following the Winnipeg strike of 1919.

The repealing bill passed the House of Commons without a vote. On division in the Senate it was defeated, 35 to 16.

Introducing the bill, Senator Dandurand, government leader, said that its object was to remove section 41 of the Immigration Act, which he thought discriminated against Britishers. Under its provisions, naturalised aliens could not be deported without trial but Britishers not naturalised could, on the authority of one immigration official.

Senator W. R. Ross, opposition leader, said that no justice had been done under this clause but it was there if necessary to use it. He thought the time had not yet arrived when Canada could afford to eliminate this power. Senator McMeans pointed out the United States had authority to deport without trial. Most of the leaders in the Winnipeg strike were British born, he said. During that strike many undesirables came from the United States to assist in overthrowing law and order. Under such conditions there was no time to bring these men before the courts.

Senator Sir George Foster said the bill removed clear and distinct law and left indistinct statutes to govern. The Criminal Code should clearly define which would subject men to deportation. Senator Calder said the government must be put in a position to deal with certain deportable cases without reference to the courts.

The bill was designed to remove the provisions inserted in the act after the Winnipeg strike which authorized summary search of the premises of people suspected of seditious movements and the deportation without trial of any but Canadians found guilty under these clauses.

THREE AIRMEN MAY BE LOST

No Communication From Fliers Who Tried Flight To Argentina.

LAST SEEN SUNDAY.

BUENOS AIRES, June 16. C.P.—All means of communication, including wireless, were used unsuccessfully yesterday in efforts to trace Bernardo Duggan, Argentine sportsman, who is on a flight from New York to Buenos Aires.

The Argentine aviator and his two companions were last seen passing over Cayenne, French Guiana, Sunday morning. He left Paramaribo Sunday morning.

There is a possibility that Duggan may have been detained at Cunany, Brazil, where an air mail station is located. The region in which he was last reported is comparatively inaccessible and difficult to communicate with.

MEETINGS START AT GOSPEL HALL

Mr. Benner Begins Series of Sermons—Evolution First Subject.

On Monday night, in spite of the terrible rain, a goodly company heard Mr. Benner open his series of addresses on the large chart in the Gospel Hall.

His first statement was that there never was a human being in the world till Adam was created.

The first verse of Genesis said: "In the beginnig God created the Heaven's and the earth.

Mr. Benner has no use for the guess of scientists concerning world formation. The only and absolute authority was the Bible. Matter is not eternal. Man is the crowning act of creation, he said.

No species can be changed; no man can create anything. God alone can create, and Mr. Benner was very emphatic on the historicity of the Bible account of creation.

Boy's Body Found In Well.

ST. MARY'S Ont., June 16.—After several hours of search the lifeless body of Alonzo, 3½ year-old adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lloyd, of Park Street, was found in a cistern at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lloyd, of James Street. The little fellow had been playing with the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lloyd. About 3 o'clock he was missed, but a search failed to find him.

Early in the evening a general alarm was raised and the aid of the neighbors and the local firemen enlisted. About 8.30 Firemen Wilson and Skelton happened to raise the lid of the cistern and the body of the child was found in the water.

It is presumed the lad lifted the light covering and fell in, the lid then falling back into place.

STIRRING SERMON GIVEN AT BETHANY

Rev. D. N. Cameron Speaks on "David's Vision of Sin."

"The Christian world has lost the sense of sin" was the opening statement of Rev. D. N. Cameron last night in his message on the subject, "David's Vision of Sin." Rev. D. N. Cameron is a Baptist minister from Toronto, being pastor of the Bedford Park Baptist Church. He was one of the speakers during the recent missionary convention in Bethany Tabernacle, and his ministry of the Word was so appreciated that he was invited back for a series of special services. Many people are availing themselves of the opportunity of hearing his clear spiritual expositions of the Word of God. Rev. Cameron will close his special services in Bethany on Friday evening.

In his message last night to a splendid company of people, Mr. Cameron said: "The reason for the appalling condition in the world to-day is the loss of God's conception of sin." He said if people had God's conception of Christ, His Son, many things that are now wrong and out of balance in the world would be adjusted. It is impossible to have God's conception of Christ and His Word and then turn and twist the truth regarding Christ and His Word as one may please. But on the contrary, to have God's conception of Christ and His Word will bring surrender to Christ as Savior and obedience to His Word.

In Psalm 32 the speaker said that David was talking about his own sin. He was mourning over it, his conscience was awakening, his heart was being stirred, and he called it sin. He used such terms as "transgressions" and "iniquity." We have almost lost the true meaning of these terms to-day, but in David's time they called things by their right names.

Mr. Cameron said the only thing God can do with sin is to forgive it. David experienced the deep eternal forgiveness of his sins by the God of all mercy, and cried, "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered."

Rev. Mr. Cameron will speak each afternoon at 3 and each evening at 8.

HUNDREDTH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION AT OAKWOOD

Celebration at Oakwood, Ontario, of the centenary of John Flynn Cunnings, oldest postmaster in Canada. Mr. Cunnings was for 45 years a lay-preacher of the Bible Christian and Methodist Churches. He was for many years clerk of Mariposa, where he compiled the first voters' list ever made in Canada, and for 40 years was clerk of the division court. Top left, Mr. Cunnings as he appeared on his birthday Sunday; and right, his home and postoffice. Below, left, little Miss Jean Morrow, Mr. Cunnings and the basket of flowers she presented to him. COUNTY COUNCIL HEARS ADDRESS REFERS LETTERS TO COMMITTEES

June Session Opens on Tuesday in County Council Chamber.

MUCH BUSINESS.

Committees Will Report Findings To Council—New Offices Required.

The County Council met in the Council Chambers in the Court House yesterday afternoon, with Warden Curtis in the chair. The Warden delivered his address and Messrs. Smithson, Clark and John Scott were appointed a committee to deal with the address.

The different communications were read and sent down to the various committees.

The raising of the equalized assessment came up for discussion and it was sent down to the committee on equalized assessment to deal with.

The Warden's address was as follows:

To the Members of the County Council;

Gentlemen:

It affords me much pleasure in meeting with you, my colleagues, in the discharge of the duties of this most important session of the year, and in so doing permit me to express my appreciation of the honor conferred upon me, by which I have the privilege of following the time honored custom of many distinguished Wardens who have preceded me, with an address at the opening of the Council.

The promising state of the growing crops and the prosperity of the rural population throughout the County, is a matter for congratulation and a good indication of material progress.

You will observe a number of new farm buildings being erected and other improvements being carried into effect, which means more adequate conveniences thereby adding to the more successful conduct of the agricultural industry.

You will be confronted with the alleged necessity of providing more adequately for Registry Office purposes and Office of County Court Clerk, Clerk of Surrogate and etc., and office for County Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace. I will not refer further to same at present, but matters pertaining to the buildings will be fully discussed during this session.

In case of deciding to construct such buildings, the treasurer has three different amounts for 20-year issue of debentures calculated and ready.

The chairman of the standing committee on finance informs me that after consulting the requirements of all departments that he has been able to present to you an amount that will not increase the rate.

I will not inflict myself upon you in reference to any length regarding bridges or House of Refuge or other departments for I can quite realize the fact that you would rather hear from the respective chairmen who are in direct touch with such matters.

There has been some misunderstanding with regard to the government subsidy on all county bridges in any municipality. Mr. Breckenbridge has conferred direct with the department and was assured of an interpretation of the Act and the attitude the Government would assume toward depot and other bridges.

The chairman of the House of Refuge committee will explain to you the conduct of building operations and other matters concerning the management of the institution.

I have this to say, that the superintendent and matron appear to be equal to the occasion and are giving satisfaction as far as I can see.

The chairman of the County Roads commitee will no doubt, after further conference with the villages, cite to you the conclusions arrived at.

As all are aware the opening of spring wrought havoc on the roads together with the plowing it received with the heavy trucks at a time when such traffic should have been prohibited.

Where breaks appeared, it means resurfacing and it is gratifying to note the success that has attended the efforts of the superintendent in bringing those roads back to level surface again.

Widespread depression prevailed as a result of the Great War, but the British Empire is making progress towards former conditions, particularly Canada, and we trust in the hand of a kind providence for a continuity of such progress.

In conclusion I desire to express appreciation of the undivided assistance rendered in the performance of the various duties devolving upon me as Warden.

Respectfully submitted.

W. T. CURTIS.
Warden.

WEDDING BELLS.

LONGMUIR—YOUNG.

HAVELOCK, June 16.—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 12, at the United Church parsonage, Marmora, when Miss Gladys Mary Elizabeth Young, daughter of Mrs. Ada Young and the late Mr. Albert Young of Rockdale, became the bride of Mr. Roy Longmuir, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Longmuir, Trent River road. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. J. Horwood.

The bride looked very charming in a gown of pearl grey crepe de chene, with trimmings of blue, and hat to match, and wore the groom's gift, a string of pearls.

She was attended by Miss Pansy Longmuir, sister of the groom, while Mr. Douglas Young, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's mother where a wedding dinner was served. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Longmuir left on the afternoon train for points west amid showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return they will reside in Havelock.

RECTOR MAY MOVE.

Rev. Canon Kidd May Go To Ancaster Anglican Church.

HAMILTON, June 16 (Canadian Press)—Major the Rev. Canon W. E. Kidd of St. George's Anglican Cathedral at Kingston may be appointed rector of the historic parish of St. John's, in Ancaster. He was in the city yesterday and conferred with Bishop Owen.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM HICKSON.

DUNSFORD, June 16.—One of the most outstanding men of the little town of Bobcaygeon passed away Wednesday forenoon, June 9, in his 77th year, following an illness since last November.

The late Mr. Hickson was born in Manvers township. He was of a studious bent and after taking a course at the public school he went and took a teacher's and model's certificate. The course of events brought him into the township of Verulam to his first school on the Scotch Line, where he taught two and a half years. He then entered Normal for a six months' course and returned to Scotch Line, teaching another six months when he received a call from Mount Pleasant school where he taught a number of years. When Mr. Armour, principal of the Boycaygeon school, retired in 1883 Mr. Hickson applied and was appointed principal, which position he held for twelve years. But his old school, the Scotch Line, needed a man with disciplinary character. He was aproached and he said if he received the unanimous support of the section he would go.

At the end of two years, which was the end of his teaching career, Mr. Hickson retired to his home in Bobcaygeon.

It was while he taught at the Scotch Line that he wooed and won his wife, Margaret Robertson, daughter of the late Alexander Robertson. Mrs. Hickson went to Mount Pleasant as a bride.

In religion he was a staunch member of the Presbyterian church, in which he was an elder and served on the board of management. He was superintendent of the Sunday school for many years and also secretary of the Union Sunday school excursion committee for 30 years.

Mr. Hickson was auditor of the village accounts for years, and was secretary of the Agricultural Society for 21 years. In all these things Mr. Hickson put his work first and himself last.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon from Knox church. Four ministers were present, namely: Rev. Mr. Smith, Rev. Mr. Hie, Rev. Mr. Haughton and Rev. Mr. Sproule.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, one brother Joseph of Manvers, and two sisters, Mrs. Jackson

FIVE GENERATIONS REPRESENTED AT BIRTHDAY OF JOHN F CUMMINGS

"Grand Old Man of Mariposa" Is Hundred Years Old.

STILL ACTIVE.

Carries Out His Duties as Postmaster of Oakwood Village.

LINDSAY, June 16.—A celebration unique in the history of this district took place in Oakwood, Mariposa Township, on Monday night, when John F. Cunnings, the veteran village postmaster, and the "grand old man of Mariposa," was tendered a complimentary banquet in the Community Hall, which was attended by about one hundred invited guests from all parts of the district. A big banquet was held during the afternoon, which was followed by the reading of addresses and presentations. Rev. Dr. Morrow occupied the chair, and among those present were Messrs. A. O. Hogg, past President of the Toronto Board of Trade and member of the Harbor Commission; T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., Lindsay; R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., Toronto; L. V. O'Connor, Lindsay.

Mr. Cunnings was the recipient of a purse from the township of Mariposa and a number of gold-headed canes from township organizations, as well as a number of bouquets. The venerable postmaster made a most fitting reply to the demonstrations of esteem and respect.

Preaches on Sunday.

On Sunday Mr. Cunnings occupied the pulpit of the Oakwood United Church, together with the pastor, Rev. Dr. Morrow. The former delivered a twenty-minute address in a clear voice, during which he traced the history of religious activities in the district, closing with a fervid appeal to the young men of the circuit to rally to the service of God.

Mr. Cunnings has been a remarkable character in the community. Small of stature, but large of personality, he still moves smartly around his little office. He came to Canada from London, England, in 1858, and was drawn to Mariposa Township because of the settlement of members of the Bible Christian denomination in that section. Years ago he was offered a lucrative position in connection with the Supreme Court of Ontario, which he declined. Sir William Mulock wrote of him: "Since first meeting you, I have shared the esteem in which you are held by the public. Men of character are the world's most precious assets. Your influence has been of unqualified and lasting benefit."

For thirty-five years Mr. Cunnings was Township Clerk of Mariposa and for forty-nine Clerk of the Division Court. He was also an active lay preacher for forty-five years.

Mr. Cunnings claims for Mariposa the distinction of having been the first municipality in which a regular voters' list was published. He himself was the conceiver and compiler of that list.

Called "Sir Oliver."

It was one of Mr. Cunnings' unfailing sources of delight that upon his frequent visits to Toronto in an earlier day he seldom failed to be addressed upon the street as "Sir Oliver." His resemblance of Sir Oliver Mowat was said to be most remarkable. George Brown, the great exponent of Liberalism and a former editor of the Globe, was the guest of Mr. Cunnings just before he was shot down and killed.

Mr. Cunnings, whose family consisted of nine children, has four of his children still living, 41 grandchildren, 72 great-grandchildren and 4 great-great-grandchildren. A grand-daughter, Mrs. Ivey, resides at Campbellford.

There were members of the fifth generation present at the banquet.

EXCITING CHASE AFTER PRISONER

Milton Constable Forced To Pursue Youth For Two Miles.

CHARGE OF THEFT.

MILTON, June 16 (Canadian Press).—There was an exciting man hunt in Milton yesterday afternoon. Chief Constable Chapman arrested Thomas Murray, aged 18 years, of Kingston, who has been working with the C.P.R. repair gang here, on a charge of stealing a suit of clothes from a fellow workman. Just as the Chief was entering the jail his prisoner broke away and bolted for freedom. He swam across Sixteen-Mile River and led the chase for two miles before he was re-captured.

Meighen's Followers Honor Leader On 52nd Birthday

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader, celebrated his fifty-second birthday to-day.

Shortly after midnight, the Conservative members, while waiting for a division on the straight want of confidence motion in the Government, gathered in the Conservative lobby to do honor to their chief.

SPECIAL SERVICES WELL ATTENDED

"Can Man Stand Before God?" Subject on Monday Night.

"Can man stand before God?" was the age long question answered in the messages given by Rev. D. N. Cameron, at Bethany Tabernacle on Monday evening. In spite of the rainy weather a splendid company of people gathered in the Tabernacle to hear the word of God.

Rev. Cameron chose two psalms, Psalms 16 and 24, and from these brought his message and answered the question: "Can man stand before God?"

"Early in the history of the world man had gone far from God. Who would bring it back? Who was able? Samuel came and walked before God and never broke, but he wasn't the man. Solomon failed. David came with the question burning in his heart and voiced in the psalms. David nearly did it—but he fell. The judges missed it; so also did the prophets. They all failed. Now who will swing this world back to God? How can sinful, disobedient man stand in the presence of the holy, just God?

"God looked for a man. And He saw that there was no man—therefore His arm brought salvation. And God gave David the answer, Psalm 26: 'I set my King upon My holy hill, Zion.'

"One who lived amongst us, walked amongst us, worked amongst us, and yet remaining clean in His hands and pure of His heart. If no one had done this we would be hopeless. But God brought His own salvation nigh, and through his King, Jesus, brought back a lost world to God. Mans arch enemy was put through the whole course of defeat in the victory of Christ over him. Now the believing child of God can look into his cruel, steely eyes and say, 'You can not get me for you couldn't get Him.' The believer can always stand on victory ground because he gained the victory."

These meetings will continue all this week. Time of service, 8.00 p.m. A half hour prayer proceeds the evening service.

Afternoon services, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 3.00 o'clock.

STOLEN SAFE IS FOUND IN SWAMP

Money and Milk Tickets Had Been Removed By Thieves.

NO ARRESTS YET.

MIDLAND, Ont., June 16 (Canadian Press).—The safe which was stolen from the Acme Dairy last Friday was found late yesterday afternoon in a swamp eight miles from here. The money, milk tickets and papers had been removed, but the company's ledger was in the safe when found. The police also located the boiler stolen last night from the Lachapelle butcher shop in Victoria Harbor. No arrests have yet been made.

COMPANIES MERGE.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 16 (Canadian Press) — Merger agreements with the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, with home office in Montreal, were approved by the directors of Cleveland Life Insurance Company at a meeting yesterday.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

John Parrish, who quit his place as secretary to Harry Morton, because he thought he never could win the love of Morton's adopted daughter, Audrey, has telegraphed to ask if he can come back when he learns that Audrey is very ill.

In love with her guardian, and failing to win him, Audrey has run away, returned home, tried to go on the stage, and finally has suffered a nervous collapse.

Nona, a Toronto dancer, also is in love with Morton.

Morton himself is unmarried, wealthy, middle-aged but attractive to women. His home is in Peterborough, but he maintains a Toronto apartment where Audrey is ill now.

As this chapter opens, Audrey is unconscious on the second floor of the duplex apartment, and Nona and Morton are talking down stairs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LIII.

"I wonder how Mr. Parrish found out that Audrey was ill?" inquired Nona.

"From my Peterborough office, I suppose," said Morton, taking back the telegram.

"Poor boy," said Nona. "He's lost to the world, too! All of us, Parrish, and Audrey and me!"

Morton had not let go of her hand, and now he led her back to her chair. "You said almost exactly what Audrey said, when she talked a little while," he told her, sadly. "All of us are lost in the world, groping our way."

"But you are not lost," she protested. "You have everything—friends, and money, and position, and people who love you."

A vase of flowers was on a small stand beside him, and he turned to touch the blooms. He rearranged them, with deliberate movements, keeping his back toward Nona. At last he said: "I'm more lost than any of you, Nona."

She pucked at his sleeve, tugging it until he faced her again.

"You're sad now, Harry, because of Audrey. But before that you were always gay. You laughed, and danced, and sang and played pranks like a boy!" Her dark eyes were wet, but she smiled a little, tremulously.

"There was a play one time, about a clown who was dying of heartbreak, while the crowds roared at his antics." He pulled from her, but she still clung to his coat.

"I'll telegraph Parrish to come ahead," he said, abruptly.

Her hand fell, and he crossed to the telephone. Calling his office, he dictated a brief message to Parrish in Peterborough.

"Audrey mentioned his name," he told Nona, as he set the instrument down.

"Is she beginning to like him—to fall in love with him?" Nona asked.

He reflected. "The doctor said she is reaching out for something to cling to," he answered. "Maybe it will be a good thing if he comes."

"If she likes him, and is in love with you, I feel sorry for her," Nona said, arising. "Your personality overshadows his so far that she could not tear herself away from you. Shall we go up to Audrey's room?"

He led her up the stairs, and into the sick chamber. Audrey lay, still and peaceful, breathing gently. Her hair had been brushed by the nurse, and covered with a net to keep it in order. Her cheek lay upon one arm; the other arm was flung backward, her hand resting with palm exposed upon the coverlet.

"She looks like a sleeping angel," Nona whispered.

"You needn't whisper," the nurse said. "Noises do not seem to arouse her."

Nona touched the soft check, across which lay the upper edge of a silken cover:

Audrey's hand closed, and reopened Her head shifted, a little lower.

"Daddy—Mr. Parrish," she said, almost inaudibly.

Nona and Morton looked at one another, and then down at Audrey again.

Nona beckoned for Morton to follow her into the hall.

"She is wondering which of you she cares for the most!" Nona whispered, so the nurse would not hear. "Harry!"

He waited for her to go on. "I hope she chooses Mr. Parrish! I want you—I want you for myself!"

She ran down the stairs, and in a moment Morton heard the outer door close behind her.

Audrey awakened again a little after one o'clock the following morning. Following Morton's instructions, the night nurse aroused him. In slippers and robe, he went into the room, and found Audrey placidly viewing a spray of flowers that the nurse had laid beside her on the bed. She turned her head toward Morton for his kiss, and smiled at him.

"Aren't these lovely flowers?" she said. Her voice had a little more vigor than the day before, and the pauses between the words were not so long. "You brought them?"

"Nona sent them," he told her.

She smiled again, and caressed the dewy petals. "Isn't she good, and sweet, and kind?"

He sat down, and held her hand. This time, he did not talk to her except when she spoke. She asked if he had news of Nona's further success on the stage, and he told her what he knew.

"She has spent almost all the time here she could, you know," he said.

She shook her head. "I must have slept all day yesterday and all tonight," she said.

He caught the nurse's significant glance, and forebore telling how long she had been unconscious of the world.

For a long time she lay, dreamily fingering her flowers, and looking about the familiar room. "It almost seems as if I have been away from here for years," she said, her voice drowsy. "The walls and pictures all look so strange."

She closed her eyes. After a time, Morton withdrew his hand from hers, and softly stole from the room.

He was eating breakfast when John Parrish arrived. The young man had come direct from the train, and he dropped his suitcase in the hall as he advanced with hand outstretched to Morton.

"How is she?" He spoke as if he were afraid to receive the answer.

The butler took his hat, and Morton led him into the breakfast room.

"Have you eaten?" he asked.

Parrish shook his head, but remained standing. "Is she worse? Is she going to——"

He could not finish the sentence. Morton told him briefly what had occurred. "She was awake for half an hour or more this morning," he said. "That was not long after midnight. She seems to be awake for longer intervals."

Parrish sat down, and picked up the tall glass of orange juice that was offered him.

He held the glass a moment before him, staring into the golden depths of the liquid. "I would have come back even if Miss Morton had not been ill," he said, setting down the glass. "You know I love her, sir?"

Morton nodded. Parrish went on: "When I heard from your office in Peterborough that she was very ill, I knew that I never could be far away from her again. Even if she doesn't want me, I want to be near—maybe I can help her, some way."

"I believe I understand," Morton said.

The two men said nothing more, until they had finished their breakfast. Then Morton told the young man to wait, and he would learn if Audrey could be seen. In a few moments, he appeared at the head of the stairs, and beckoned to Parrish. The young man ran eagerly up the steps, two at a time. At Audrey's door, he rose on his tiptoes, and cautiously entered.

She had changed her position, and now lay with her face toward the side where Parrish stood, his hands reverently folded before him. He looked at her a long time, without moving, as one might look upon a shrine.

At length he moved away, and down the stairs. Nona had arrived in the meantime, and was waiting for Morton.

She greeted Parrish with a smile, and outstretched hand. He was embarrassed, and avoided her eye.

"I read in the papers that you are a great success," he muttered, uneasily.

Nona laughed. "Don't be afraid of me," she said.

He turned to her, and her own expression changed as she saw the deep hurt in his eyes. "I'm not afraid of you," he said. "I'm just ashamed."

"Of what?" she asked.

He hung his head. "Of the things I said about you, at the theater—about your being a butterfly, and not worth while in the world. And I'm ashamed of the way I acted to you before."

He looked up, suddenly. "Almost everybody's better and decenter and kinder than I am," he said. "I've been just a boor."

Morton had come up behind him, and now stepped between them, taking Parrish's arm.

"Parrish," he said, "all of us have been as down in the mouth as you are. Audrey was—and she's in bed with nervous prostration. Nona was, but she's keeping on, and making a tremendous success in the world. I was—and am. We've got to buck up."

He took Nona's arm, too, and stood with the man and girl on either side of him. "Haven't we, Nona?"

He led them to the big couch, and the three sat down, Morton still in the center.

"The first thing we have to think of is Audrey," he said. "She mentioned Parrish's name once or twice. I think she would be glad to see him. When she does see him, he's got to be in a frame of mind so he can smile, and help her spirits rise. Can you do that, Parrish?"

"I think so," said the young man.

He turned earnestly, to look into Morton's face. "Mr. Morton, can I come back to work for you? Have you filled my job?"

There was something like a smile on Morton's face as he answered. "I didn't fill the place—because I rather thought you'd be back," he said.

Parrish displayed surprise, but Nona tapped him on the knee. "He knows more about other people's minds than they know themselves," she said.

"If I do," Morton said, "it's by answering mighty hard questions that my own mind has asked, this last score of years."

He went on, more lightly. "Nona here will cheer me up, and I'll try to cheer you up, Parrish, and you see what you can do for Audrey. I made a pretty poor stab at it, yesterday."

The nurse came half way down the flight, and beckoned. The three of them rose and went to her. "She's awake again, now," she said. "I think she can talk to you."

They hurried up the stairs, and Audrey greeted them affectionately by name. "Thank you, Nona, for the lovely flowers, and for taking care of Daddy. I'm sure he has been worn out with worry."

She lifted her hand a little, to greet Parrish, and he took the slim fingers fervently in his own.

"Don't be too rough with her hand you may hurt her," said the nurse.

Blushing, Parrish opened his fingers, and let Audrey's own hand lie loose upon his palm.

She turned her eyes to Morton and Nona.

"Would you mind," she asked, "if I talked to Mr. Parrish here, for a little while alone?"

CONVENTION NOW IN FULL SWING

Rotarians Feel Spirit of Western Hospitality at Denver.

DENVER, Colo., June 16.—The second day of the Denver convention of Rotary International brought forth the united spirit of the institution in its understanding of ethical policies in business affairs and the extension of such policies into the commercial and social life of the thirty-five countries in which Rotary is so well established. Overflow audiences have crowded the City Auditorium at all meetings of the regular convention program, and special meetings have attracted delegates far beyond expectations of the convention managers. The city is thronged with Rotarians and Rotary-anns, the latter intently attending the convention sessions with their husbands and hosts. Speeches of the day have been given by earnest officials of Rotary who have developed their investigations along lines of the international extension of clubs.

Interprets Rotary's Place.

With a clear vision of the trend of service as an utilitarian ideal, derived from an extensive journey among Rotary clubs on the continent, Donald A. Adams, Retiring President, defined the practical fields into which Rotary could put its natural power of manhood. He took the new viewpoint that there is in Rotary unused power of citizenship which can be developed for the benefit of the communities in which clubs are active. "We must not say, 'here is integrity, let us put that into Rotary,' nor 'here is friendship, let us put that into Rotary,' for both integrity and friendship are in our organization and the association of our members, and we have left the necessity and opportunity to use both of these forces simply because they are part of the power of manhood and citizenship."

President Adams placed the issue fairly before the convention in his opening address when he said, "If you could have heard a prominent engineer of Italy speak on the ethical content of Rotary, you would understand why I say that Rotary is in safe hands in those foreign countries. . . . I am sure that the extension of Rotary, now already begun among foreign speaking peoples, will continue, because the understanding of the American ideals will be translated into their native habits as well as into their native tongues."

Ladies' Entertained.

Ladies of the twelve Spanish-speaking countries which are represented at the convention were entertained, with the ladies of all other countries, at a superb reception with fancy dances by young women of Denver, at the Auditorium Tuesday afternoon, June 14. About three thousand were present, and the inter-mixture of so many ladies of Rotary from all parts of the world made of the event a beginning of rare friendships. Ladies from nearly every country in Asia, Europe and South America appeared in native costume and a number of them addressed the audience of Rotary-anns.

Music Plays Great Part.

Throngs of Rotarians and guests have visited the many places where musical programs have been given. The City Auditorium has been the scene of great choral singing by the thousands in the audiences, and an evening of organ recital, choral singing, municipal band music, lead by a Rotarian conductor, and solo singing has formed an evening musical jubilee attended by about seven thousand. During the hours when the convention is not in session the streets and lobbies of the hotels are thronged with moving groups, many dancing and singing to the music of bands brought by the various clubs, the Stark Band of 47 pieces from Orange, Texas, coming from that city in buses especially built for their transportation, and playing throughout the day for the entertainment of the Denverites and Rotarians. The band consists of Boy Scouts of the first class.

Special Studies of Business Problems.

Meetings of special groups of business men are taking place in various halls, the Governor of the State having opened the Senate Chamber and House of Representatives for the use of some of these groups. At these meetings past International Presidents and other members of the official family have presided. Important results of research along lines of sociological investigation in boys' work and crippled children's work as well as of playgrounds and the guidance of the underprivileged boy have been reported.

EXPENDITURE ON AUDITING BOOKS OF COUNTIES GOOD INVESTMENT

Council Decides That $300 Was Well Spent For Good Report.

NO IRREGULARITIES.

Shows Generally Efficient System, Reflecting Credit on Counties Officials.

COBOURG, June 16.—Three hundred dollars for an expert audit of the books of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham was unanimously declared by the Counties Council Tuesday afternoon to have been an excellent investment. Not that any grave irergularities had been disclosed by the comprehensive probing by Oscar Hudson and Company, chartered accountants. In that respect the voluminous detailed report showed a generally satisfactory and efficient system of accounting, reflecting especial credit upon the departments of Col. Neil MacNachton, county clerk and treasurer, and of George Greer, road superintendent.

Aside from that agreeable aspect of the statement, the reading and discussion of which consumed the entire afternoon, its practical importance was found in various recommendations and suggestions, some of them applying to Council procedure itself, and most of them proposing little changes that appealed to the Council as apparent improvements in policy and method.

Reeve Wood's Busy Day.

To Reeve W. T. Wood of Millbrook, chairman of the finance committee, fell the duty of reading the long summary to the report, and that task completed an arduous day for the Millbrook reeve, whose committee had held the stage in its routine business of the morning. The auditors' report had been referred on Monday to the finance committee, but because of its general interest the committee decided to leave the reading and discussion to a meeting of the council in committee of the whole.

Excerpts from Report

The following is an extract from the report:

The first item to call for consideration is the expenditure incurred by the Provincial Highways Department, of which the counties bear twenty per cent. This expenditure is levied in January each year and is payable within six months of the date of levy, and the counties are authorized to issue debentures for the construction work but not the maintenance work. The debentures are repayable over a period not exceeding twenty years. Your council has incurred capital expenditure for the past few years under this heading and levied on the minor municipalities for the amounts in the years in which the payments were made to the province. This procedure is, in our opinion contrary to the spirit of the act and inflicts a serious and unfair handicap on the present generation of taxpayers, in making them pay for construction work that will benefit the community for the next twenty years. It has been the practice in preparing your annual balance sheet to show the amount levied by the province in January as a debt owing in December the previous year. This procedure is in our opinion wrong and we have not therefore shown the 1926 provincial highway levy as a liability in the December 31, 1925, balance sheet.

We commend to your serious consideration the question of issuing debentures for all future capital expenditure under the Provincial Highways Act.

It would be permissable for your council to include all the provincial highways capital expenditure for the past few years in any issue of debentures you decide to make and reduce the 1926 rate accordingly.

Treasurer's Accounts.

We are pleased to report that we found the records and vouchers in the treasurer's office in a satisfactory and methodical order and our requirements were met and even anticipated in a most kindly and courteous spirit by Col. MacNachtan and his assistant.

We found the principle recommended by the Committee on Road Accounting (Department of Public Highways) had been adopted and was working satisfactorily. We have pleasure in reporting that the vouchers and records were kept in good order and much credit is due to Mr. Greer's secretary (Miss McMahon) for her paintaking efforts."

As a pecaution against possible padding of county road paysheets, the auditors suggested that each foreman be required to send specimens of their workingmen's signatures to the superintendent's office for comparison with payroll signatures. It also recommended that Mr. Greer's salary be exclusive of his expenses instead of including them as at present. Another comment in the summary was that reports of all expenditures and motions initiating expenditures should provide the members of the Council with full information. As an example, an item was quoted in which last year the Roads and Bridges Committee had recommended that W. H. Nelson and Dr. Hess be a commission to look after and make the necessary repairs on the bridge over the Trent at Hastings.

Between February 9 and December 7, 1925, the report stated, the sum of $3,882.15 was spent on the bridge, but there was no record that such an expenditure was contemplated as a body.

Council's Approval.

In the Council's discussion it was emphasized by Reeve Holdaway of Port Hope and other members that the Finance Committee's report had been adopted, and the responsibility therefore fell on the Council.

As to the pay-roll signatures, Road Superintendent Greer asked who in the office would compare signatures.

"I'm not an expert in handwriting," he said. "There was a case in Cramahe Township, where a foreman signed the pay-sheet for all the workmen. I believe he was absolutely honest. However, I notified him it was an irregularity, and must not occur again. I sent the pay-sheet back to him."

As to his salary being separate from his expenses, Mr. Greer, "I'd prefer that the auditors' report be adopted. Fortunately my boys are in the garage business, and my car doesn't cost me as much as some of you. But while I am your superintendent I'll never let the matter of any trip enter my mind."

Another question was that of responsibility for requisitions for county road work. Mr. Greer said he could not be directly responsible for every purchase.

"If some tool or part has to be bought by a foreman up in Manvers, he can't wait until I get there. It might take a day to get in touch with me. Every foreman has been recommended to me by his township representative, and I feel that we've got the best men it's possible to get."

Payment by cheque instead of cash was also suggested by the auditors. Among the reasons given for cash payments to road workers, Mr. Greer said the men preferred cash. "Many of them live in small places where there is only one store, and the merchant is likely to take all the money as owing to him. I know some cases in which there wasn't a cent left from cheques."

Mr. Greer said that there was every precaution in checking up the cash payments.

The discussion of the Hastings bridge reference in the report resolved itself for a while into a controversy between the Cobourg and Port Hope representatives, Harry McGuire and W. J. Maher, contending with Harry H. Holdway, Port Hope's reeve, with some support by his deput, Lorne H. Giddy. There was no question of the rectitude of the Hasting bridge commission. The accounts had been duly read on the floor of the house.

Mr. Maher said the best plan would have been to call for tenders. He didn't blame the commissioners, but the Council and roads and bridges committee for giving full authority to the commission in an expenditure that ultimately exceeded $3,000.

"You didn't expect we could floor the Hastings bridge for five dollars," remarked Mr. Nelson.

House of Refuge

The auditors found that the House of Refuge was efficiently managed, but in certain particulars the regulations had not been followed. Tenders were received only for bread, whereas the rules required the contract system for all supplies.

RUSSIA ANNEXES PART OF MONGOLIA

Prepared To Supply Two Million Rifles For Mongolian Army.

TOKIO, June 16 ((United Press)—Soviet Russia is annexing a section of Outer Mongolia and is prepared to supply 2,000,000 rifles for the use of an increased Mongolian army, the Foreign Office heard today.

The capital of the annexed territory is to be called Krasnui. Japanese consuls have been ordered to investigate.

CAMP TEACHES MANY LESSONS

Boys Learn To Appreciate Each Other—Live Happily Together.

COMMUNITY ASSET.

Every boy who is contemplating going to the Rotary-Y.M.C.A. camp this summer is urgently requested to get in touch with the Boys' Work Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. as soon as possible. This course means lending co-operation to what gives promise of being the "real outing" of years.

Peterboro boys—and not the boys alone but every citizen—have every right to feel a glow of pride in contemplating this model camp that the Rotary Club has sponsored on Clear Lake. From its inception in 1922 it has grown to meet each need as the need made itself felt until with the new boat house now under construction and the new War Canoe to match that put into commission last year it ranks second to none in point of utility as a Boys' camp.

This camp, through its contacts with and influence upon the lives of boys has been the means of helping them not alone in a physical way but in a mental and moral experience also. Here too many a boy has learned how to appreciate the other fellow and one of the hardest lessons a boy of today has to face is learning how to live happily with others. "Give in," "Give up" "Give out" is lived in terms of good sportsmanship throughout the term of a boy's life in camp and such an experience can only result in the turning of a boy's thoughts toward good citizenship. In the words of a father whose boy had just such an experience, "The camp developed him in a wonderful way as a mixer and I am more than pleased with the benefits derived in other ways." Surely this is evidence enough that all the expenditure of time and energy as well as finances has been justified in the achievement of the aim in which the camp had its inception.

Many boys have gone to camp accompanied by a reputation of being hard to handle in the sense of a compliance with discipline. Many interesting tales could be told of these lads but the results have invariably been the same—a spirit of "our camp" instilled within his mind and an unexpressed faith on the part of the leader have all contributed to bring out his better self. It might be well to note that no boy is given any extra work to do should he fail to live up to his expectancy. His only punishment is the withdrawing of some privilege held dear to his boyish mind.

Parents of boys and boys themselves who are planning a holiday combining all worth while features are well advised to get in touch with the Boys' Work Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. who is the Camp Director and receive from him some information concerning attendance at the Rotary-Y.M.C.A. camp this year. Rates are such that it is well within the reach of every boy and in the event of a boy desiring to earn his fees information should be sought from the same source.

"ORIGIN OF EVIL" SERMON SUBJECT

Mr. Benner Gives Stirring Address at Gospel Hall.

At the Gospel Hall last evening, Mr. Benner's topic was "The Origin of Evil, and its Final Overthrow." He proceeded to show from Old Testament Scriptures that evil originated in a created being, who is designated "Lucifer," "Son of the Morning," "Day Star." It was pointed out that in the creation of this, and all other rational beings, there is freedom of the will; that a moment came in the undated past, when this great spirit-being chose to set up his will in opposition to the will of God—when he said: "I am a God," "I am God," "I will be like the Most High," and yet again, said: "I will exalt my throne above the stars of God"—that this was the cause of his downfall, and the first entrance of disorder into the realm of the Eternal God. It was pointed out that this once beautiful being had become the dread being revealed in Scripture as Satan, the Devil, that old Serpent, the Prince of the Power of the Air, and that in his downfall he had brought myriads of other spirit beings into rebellion against God, and thus their ruin was secured.

The lecturer emphasized the fact that ancient Spiritism, denounced in the Bible as a wicked thing, is identical with modern Spiritualism—that in holding converse with, as they suppose their loved ones who have passed away, they are holding communication with "wicked spirits in the heavenlies," that these spirits personate the dead, sometimes giving truthful, and at other times lying statements, about eternal things; that though Spiritualism has such noted champions as Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge yet it is essentially wicked—setting aside the word of God, the only God-given guide book for obtaining reliable information regarding spiritual and eternal things.

Mr. Benner pointed out that the final overthrow of evil is secured when Satan, the author of all that is sinful, shall be cast alive into the Lake of Fire.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS HAS A CHAT WITH A LITTLE WOOD CARVER.

Doris climbed on the rail fence to get a better look at the branch of the apple tree. All along one side, as if a bad boy had taken a knife and carved it, were little round holes in the branch. These little round holes ran up the very centre of the thick limb and out one of the smaller twigs.

"Now, I'd like to know who has been carving in this tree," Doris mused. "Oh, dear, I wish——" she began, when a tiny hand caught her apron and gave it a jerk.

"Save your breath," laughed a merry voice. "I'm here and it's a good thing, or you would be blaming that carving on the wrong fellow."

"I'm glad to see you, Squeedee," said Doris, shaking the wee elfin's hand. I can't see why anyone should carve holes in this tree. Who did it, Squeedee?"

"Can't you see for yourself?" chuckled another voice, and Squeedee and Doris looked up to see a little green bug sitting in front of them. Her suit was so near the brownish-green of the branch that Doris hadn't noticed her before. "I'm Mrs. Buffalo Tree Hopper, if you please. Does your Daddy own this orchard? I hope he won't disturb my eggs. I'll take the children away as soon as they hatch."

"Wel, he should destroy every one of them." Doris had never heard Squeedee speak to any of the meadow folks so crossly before. "For your children will soon sap all the strength out of this tree. Nevertheless, I'm glad we met you, so Doris will know a Tree Hopper the next time she sees one."

All the time Squeedee and the little shield-shaped greenish-brown lady had been talking Doris had been studying the little insect.

It was very tiny and shaped just like a shield, the broad part running out to sharp points on either side back of the feelers. Its four long legs and feelers were covered with sharp hairs. When it turned sideways Doris had to laugh, for it looked like a brownish-green leaf walking on its side.

"Can't you see for yourself?"

"And do you mean to say that you cut those round holes in the branches?" asked Doris, carefully examining the round holes. "How in the world did you do it?"

"Easily enough," replied the little Buffalo Tree Hopper. "I did it with my saw-like cutter. In every one of those holes, if you look closely, you'll see my eggs. Now, those eggs will hatch out soon and after they have changed their suits, moulted, I should say, they will turn into other Buffalo Tree Hoppers, just like I am."

"Yes, and just as soon as they hatch out," said Squeedee, "they will all insert their beaks into the bark and begin pumping up the sap of the tree. If I were you, Mrs. Buffalo Tree Hopper, I'd lay my eggs out in the woods in some other tree. Come, Doris, we must go," and Squeedee pulled Doris back to the house. "Now, when your Daddy comes home tell him and let him destroy those eggs before the Tree Hoppers destroy his young tree," and, like a puff of smoke, Squeedee disappear.

That evening Doris and her Daddy went out and cut down the limb with the eggs on. They tossed it into the bonfire and that was the last time Doris ever saw Mrs. Buffalo Tree Hopper.

PRISONER CAUGHT ON PICTON FARM

Syracuse Forger Had Only Two Days of Freedom From Prison.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., June 16 (Canadian Press).—Ransome D. Stone, 26, Syracuse forger and auto thief, who escaped from an Auburn prison road camp at Niles, on Sunday, was captured last night at Picton, Ontario. He was found on a farm owned by Elmer Young, a brother of Miss Ethel Young, of this city, sweetheart of Stone, who is said by the prison authorities to have engineered his escape. The girl, who went to Canada with him, is not under arrest.

Edward Beckwith, assistant principal keeper of the prison, started for Picton this morning, after receipt of a message from Chief Biddle of the Picton police, to bring Stone back.

WILL CELEBRATE CITY'S CENTENARY

Elaborate Programme For Two Weeks at Ottawa Celebration.

Commencing on August 16th, Ottawa will celebrate its Centenary.

Just one hundred years ago, Col. By and his Royal Engineer began the construction of the Rideau canal, which was designed for military purposes. The centennial celebration will mark a century of progress from the military camp to Bytown, from village to town, from town to city, and the city chosen as the National Capital.

Epic of Last Great West.

With the desire of getting something never before witnessed in Ottawa, the Centenary Committee closed a contract with the Alberta Stampede Company. Within the shadow of the Parliament buildings an epic of the last Great West will be produced. Cowboys in their picturesque trappings will ride their western mounts and will show the skill which has challenged the admiration of the world.

The best bucking horses on the continent, full of Hades, and as cantankerous as they make them, will pit their cussedness against the quick wits, daring and muscle of the fearless men of western plain and the foothills of the Rockies. Over one hundred wild horses, real outlaws, and more than one hundred head of wild cattle, will be brought here for the world championship stampede.

Many Features to Interest.

While the stampede and rodeo in the afternoons and the pageants and parades at night will be the outstanding features of the Centennial celebration, there will be all kinds of other factors to interest and amuse. Various committees have plans well advanced for novel offerings. Sports and competitions, water events, music and all manner of attractions will keep every minute ocupied.

Old Timers Home Coming.

Special stress is being laid on the old boys' home coming. They will be here from far and near and a special committee has their entertainment in hand.

The amusement part of the programme will predominate and yet there will be the stately and impressive. Special Sunday programs will be presented. The celebration will also embrace a number of ceremonial events, including the official beginning of the Col. By drive and memorial.

The second week, commencing on August 23, will feature the actors which have made the exhibition such a success in the past. There will be many changes and improvements. Most noticeable will be the new buildings and the rearrangements which have made these possible. The old frame stables which have been along the canal for years, have been torn down. Horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry will be accommodated in the enlarged Howick Hall. Here, too, the coliseum will permit of a horse show and inside entertainment during the evenings.

Exhibition Features.

A new pure food show is under construction, but for this year the show will use the same building as last year. Automobiles and other departments which were in Howick Hall will be placed in the new building. The dog show building has also been torn down and a new and better building will be erected. The dairy building has been turned over to the Dominion government and the dairy display will be shown with the pure food.

Creatore and his band, high class vaudeville, spectacular fireworks, horse races, child's welfare demonstrations, musical events, horticultural exhibits, manufacturers' and merchants' displays, a new midway and other features will make this year's exhibition well worthy of the centennial celebration.

DAMAGE SUIT IS DISMISSED

Claim Against Hope Township For Fatality Is Not Allowed.

NEGLIGENCE FOUND.

COBOURG, June 16—An action for $10,000 damages brought by Mrs. Roland Yates against Hope township for the death of her husband who was killed at Hawkins bridge in March, 1925, was dismissed without costs by Chief Justice Meredith here Tuesday afternoon. The bridge had been washed out by a freshet. Yates was descending the hill leading to the bridge, and first turned out as if to avoid the gap ahead of him, then swung back, meeting death by drowning. His Lordship found that there had been negligence by Yates and contributory negligence by the township in failing to keep the bridge in good condition.

A suit involving an alleged right of way through the property of George Wallbridge of Ameliasburg township, Prince Edward county to Shelley Anderson's sixty acres of land including Massassauga Point on the Bay of Quinte was also dismissed without costs. The plaintiff endeavoured to prove that there had been a right-of-way through the Wallbridge property; that for years it had been used by people going to the resort at Massassauga Point. Mr. Wallbridge denied that there had ever been a right of way or road, and that the people had only been tolerated so long as they kept his gates closed.

Malcolm Wright of Belleville was defendant's solicitor with R. S. Robertson of Toronto having his brief, and E. J. Butler of Belleville with D. L. McCarthy of Toronto appeared for the plaintiff.

ECCLESIASTICAL ART WILL BE EXHIBITED

To Counteract Tendencies of Modern Artists, Say Committee Chairman.

CHICAGO, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Works of ecclesiastical art dating back to the fifth century, and including several paintings by such masters as Leonardo Da Vinci, Raphael, Reni and Van Dyck, are among the several hundred exhibits in the Eucharistic Congress Exposition which opens to-day on Chicago's famous mile-long municipal pier.

One of the purposes of the exhibit, according to Thomas A. O'Shaughnessy, chairman of the committee in charge, is to "combat some of the Bolshevist tendency" in contempory art and "to counteract the voluptuous materialism increasingly manifested by artists."

BUMPER PEACH CROP.

Niagara Peaches Promises To Have Largest Production Since 1915.

CHICAGO, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Peaches are promising the largest production this season since the great crop in 1915. Enlarged production of other fruits is likewise expected, especially in all the important apple and pear sections.

YOUR HEALTH

A few weeks ago the American Medical Association met in Dallas, Texas. It was presided over by my old friend, Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, of New York City.

In his presidential address Dr. Phillips promised "seven years life's expectancy in addition to the twenty gained in the last century." This hope is founded on the condition that the public avail itself of what scientific medicine can give.

This is a perfectly reasonable prophecy. It is one which is likely to be fulfilled. Whether it is or not depends largely on what attitude is taken toward a reform in the habits and practices of the middle period of life.

Infancy has been made less dangerous, largely through the insistence upon good milk. Old age has grown less formidable by reason of better housing, the removal of centres of infection in the body and the practice of improved methods of living.

But in the years between thirty-five and fifty-five or sixty death is just as imminent as ever. Diseases of the heart and blood vessels, pneumonia and some of the nervous diseases are reaping their regular returns.

Economic necessity and economic pressure are responsible for some at least of the ailments which make middle life just as dangerous as ever. Men must work. Worse than this, they seem determined to worry, stay up late and sleep badly. In striving for success they wear themselves out, ruining heart, blood vessels and nervous system.

When men and women will take care of themselves during the high pressure years of their lives, just as they take care of their horses, blooded dogs and canary birds, they will acquire these added years promised by Dr. Phillips.

Worry over money is one of the most deadly of worries. It breaks the sleep, destroys the appetite, overworks the heart and prepares the way for physical disaster. Other worries—all worries, indeed—are bad enough, but business worries seem to sap the vitality and resistance of the strongest of men.

Money worries are not confined to men. They attack women, too. Many a widow on her own resources, many a young woman supporting a widowed mother or younger brother and sister, many a devoted wife, sharing her husband's troubles—all these have to struggle against the killing effects of worry.

It is too bad that some place does not exist where worries can be taken and checked. A checkroom for worries would be the most popular resort in the world.

We cannot hope for Dr. Phillips' seven years until we learn to dodge worry. Good health depends to a great extent on the state of mind.

It is likewise true that the state of the health affects the mental processes. Chronic indigestion causes an otherwise clear-thinking and cheerful mind to become morose, sad and depressed and incapable of lucid and convincing thought.

Whether the fundamental defect is physical or mental, it is a defect, and capable of reducing the safety of that period of life which should be the best and most substantial of the whole career. Greater attention to the middle period of life will go far toward adding the seven years to life's expectancy.

I wish I had it in my power to wipe out the impediments to vigorous health. Mussolini can destroy the slums and shacks of the Eternal City. Would that somebody could so govern human affairs that the disease-breeding conditions of middle life might be destroyed!

Here is one field where doctor and preacher can do effective teamwork. Here is a problem which can be successfully dealt with only by the recognition of spiritual and physical values. Both must be considered to gain these seven years.

Summer Frocks Adopt Shirrings for Skirt Fulness

"Among those present", one always finds such simple, tasteful, and chic little frocks as the one pictured here, fashioned of a soft, lovely, bordered material. It is a one-piece frock, simulating the two-piece effect in front only, the back being quite plain. There are shirrings at each shoulder, where the back comes over to join the front in yoke effect, and the jabot is given novel treatment, being cut in one with the right front. The skirt front has a group of shirrings in each side, providing a rippling movement so smart this season. The design is suitable for either silk, woollen or cotton fabrics, whether plain or printed. NO. 1282 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards 52-inch bordered material, and ¾ yard 36-inch plain contrasting; or 3¾ yards 39-inch if dress is made of plain material. Price 20 cents.

Every woman's desire is to achieve that smart different appearance which draws favorable comment from the observing public. The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are originated in the heart of the style centers and will help you to acquire that much desired air of individuality. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Three People Injured In Saving Snake's Life

SAMMONTON, N.J., June 16 (United News)—Mrs. Elizabeth Schlorer did not want to run over a five foot snake which had wriggled on to the highway, so she turned her automobile into the gravel. The machine did a double somersault. Mrs. Schlorer was thrown out when it turned over the first time and her husband went through the rear window of the sedan on the next flip.

Both were severely injured and their 16-year-old daughter was slightly cut and bruised. The reptile escaped.

That day we were out taking movies of Fish-hawks, or Ospreys, was quite a success from a good time point of view. We got the reels of the Ospreys at home, and then the fun started.

First of all, I must explain something we saw and did not get a chance to photograph. It was Old Man Osprey catching a fish.

Ever see him do it? No? Well, listen then. He flew up and down, up and down, back and forth, back and forth, always with his eyes watching the water, far below. We thought he was having poor luck, but at last we noticed a sudden business-like pepping up of his manner, for he wheeled around on the wind currents in order to get into position. He had spotted a fish near the surface.

There was a moment of wing flapping, as though he was just hesitating in order to aim, and then he made a regular toboggan-slide dash downwards and over a little towards us. He came down through the air on a slant, and at bullet-like speed. He did not crash right into the fish, but seemed to aim at a mark a few feet away from it, then, just before reaching that mark, he curved his line, making it pass over the fish, and as he did that his feet shot out and struck. The splash, the water rings, the wings and the fish all seemed blown to pieces by a submarine, and out of this explosion arose Mr. Osprey, with the fish firmly held in his talons. He turned the fish head on to the wind, and away he went home. Some sight!

But the fun came when Mr. Puttermuch, the wheezy old naturalist of our party, wanted to get an egg specimen. He saw an old deserted nest in an older and more deserted looking tree. In fact, the tree was punky with age. And Mr. Puttermuch started to climb up to see if any eggs had been left. We heard a wild yell, and just looked in time to see the nest topple over, tipping out two very rotten eggs, both of which landed on Puttermuch's head. Then the whole works tumbled on him, and the weight broke the limb and down he came, rotten eggs in his hair, and their latin names in his head, and the worst rotten fish I ever smelled had nothing on perfumed Mr. Puttermuch. "Rottenus, punkus, tumbleorum, eggus!" mumbled Mr. Puttermuch, "wash my head before somebody buries me alive."

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Number Fifteen.—

THE HOUSE WITH SEVEN POINTED TOWERS.

When the Twins reached Misty Hill in Drowsy Land, they knew just what to look for. The Fairy Queen's letter had said, "The Dream-Maker Man lives in a castle with seven pointed towers."

There it was right on top of the hill, its seven towers painted seven different colors, and all its windows shaped like stars.

The track disappeared, also the little car they had traveled in. There they stood all alone at the foot of the hill.

"How do we get up?" asked Nancy. "There isn't a path or anything."

Nick looked around. "I don't know," he said. "I suppose we have to walk."

But just then there was a buzzing sound like a great bee, and what should the Twins see but an aeroplane leaving the castle on top of the hill!

It flew down and landed right beside them and a jolly aviator got out and shook hands.

"Are you the Dream-Maker man?" asked Nick. "We're looking for him. We'd like to know if our china elephant and toy clown came to the moon. The Fairy Queen told us to come here.

"Righto!" said the jolly aviator. "No, I'm not the Dream-Maker Man—I'm his son, Snore. There are three of us, Snoozle and Snuggle and Snore. We do errands for our father, the Dream-Maker Man, in our airplanes. We used to use mares—night mares—but they are all out of style now."

"Snoozle and Snuggle and Snore!" cried Nick. "Why that was the name of the little moon man who opened the blue gate for us when we arrived on the moon."

"Righto!" said Snore, again. "Right-o! Snoozlesnugglesnore was godfather to all of us, so each of us got a third of his name. But if you wish to go to the castle on top of the hill, get into my airplane and I'll take you there. There is no path because thieves would come up and steal the dreams Father makes."

So Nancy and Nick got into the airplane and Snore got into the front seat and away they went right up the hill toward the castle with seven towers.

The Dream-Maker had a spy glass and was looking out of one of his star-shaped windows. He had seen everything that went on.

As the Twins approached he waved a green handkerchief to show how glad he was to see them.

The airplane settled down on a wide porch, and they all got out.

In half a minute, there was the Dream-Maker Man himself, shaking hands with them, also his other two sons, Snoozle and Snuggle.

"So you came all the way to Misty Hill to see me about your lost friends!" said the Dream-Maker Man when Nick had told him his story.

"Yes, sir," said Nick.

"That was right! That was right!" said their host. "The moon is full of queer countries and queer cities. You could never find Inco and Flops without my help. I'll do what I can."

HUSBAND FARMERS.

"The farmer husband may make less money on the farm than he might as a commuter; his wife may never have a diamond pin or a mink coat. But if he works out-of-doors energetically every day, he may at thirty-five or forty enjoy his children more and feel less like running away from the burdens of family life than a torpid-livered white-collar man, fretted to hysteria by conditions of life unsuitable for him."—By Dorothy Canfield.

THE ROAD HOME.

"I think of you in a wee small house,
at the end of a slim, green lane,
In a land that is free of care and doubt,
In a land that knows no pain;
I think of you with blue, smiling eyes,
But your mouth has a wistful line,
As if it longs—oh, I know it does:—
For a fleeting touch of mine!"

By Margaret Sangster.

A WORD FROM THE WISE.

"I think women ought to go to separate universities from men. There are too many distractions and you want to dance. I tried to pass my first examination for Somerville at Oxford three times and I was sent down for not working." This confession wells from the 23-year-old soul of Sylvia Thompson, whose novel called "Hounds of Spring" has been a spring best seller.

BEAD AND MESH BAGS.

Both bead and mesh bags are dead as the deadest dodo, according to Fashion's High Moguls, even if shops are frenziedly attempting to sell left-over stock. Fans, too, except for evening when their gorgeous plumage makes a jewel and not a fan of them.

THE CROWNING GLORY.

Long hair does not seem to come back into style to any extent, hairdressers and wig salesmen to the contrary. Women insist on the sleek head outline. Many are compromising, however—have both sleek head and a few swirls of hair that cloak the rather awkward neckline. Like this. The hair is cut very short with the exception of the side pieces, which may be swirled in "snails" or "twisted buns" over the ears, or crossed in the back, making a soft neckline.

SUMMER PLAY.

Tweeds, homespuns, kashas, all the rough, woolly sport cloths, play their part in the summer fashion revue. Plaids, checks and stripes make a Roman holiday. Plaid or mixture coats worn with plain sports material skirts or dresses are most chic on the One and Only Avenoo.

MY SUMMER BOOKS.

Lazy, golden, rose-fragrant summer days, a hammock, a pitcher of ice-tinkling lemonade, a long leisurely afternoon, and a book. What book? Tell me books to read for fun, and books to read because there's vacation time at last," someone writes me.

How about a list today of "books just for fun?" Books that "you just can't leave alone once you start," summer books, and some meatier ones tomorrow? The list won't be new especially—maybe you've read many of them—but books we can't forget.

Morley's "Thunder on the Left;" "Diary of a Young Lady of Fashion"; "The Little French Girl," by Sedgewick; "Hounds of Spring," by Sylvia Thompson; "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," by Anita Loos; "Women," by Tarkington; "Joanna Godden," by Sheila Kaye-Smith; "The Pride of the Town," by Dorothy Carman; "Three Kingdoms," by Storm Jameson, also her "Pitiful Wife"; "The Judge," by Rebecca West; "Riders of the wind," by Elswyth Thane; "Brass" and "Bread" and "Pig Iron," by Charles Norris; "One Increasing Purpose," by Hutchinson; "The Perennial Bachelor," by Parrish; "Soundings," by Gibbs.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, JUNE 17.

A fairly active and auspicious day is forecast from the lunar and mutual figures bearing rule. Saturn in friendly position assists in all labor and industry, being favorable to miners, agriculturists and machinists, while a favorable Mercury stimulates trade, commerce and all pertaining to letters, writings and publishing. The lunar trine to Venus presages happy, flourishing conditions in heart and home affiliations. Discretion in purely personal matters and indulgences is recommended.

Those whose birthday it is may have an active and industrious year ahead of them with returns for perseverence and application in all lines of effort. In domestic, social and affectional matters there may be gratifying developments, although prudence is recommended in personal contacts. A child born on this day may be popular, respected, clever, versatile, and should succeed through industry and responsibility.

Bodies By Paris

Soften to a Slight Blouse

Not all new styles make the direct appeal of the blouse fashion introduced at the last Paris openings and used by all the important French dressmakers. It is a charming mode and gives an entirely new and fresh air to a simple frock. With its kimono body and straight skirt you could make it in the morning and accept practically any invitation in the afternoon. Paris makes it of Georgette or crêpe de Chine in the new shade of blotting-paper pink printed with iris in a dull tone of purplish blue, in wax green with a design of Madonna lilies, in red camelias and white cherries on pale yellow and other charming designs.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'E CROSSWORD PUZZLE

HER OWN WAY

by A GIRL of TODAY

UNGENEROUS SUSPICIONS.

"I" expect, Judy, you're going to dinner with J. D. Robinson," Jerry exclaimed viciously. "I must say you work quickly."

In a moment I was quite as angry as he. Jerry Hathaway had no business to have such ungenerous suspicions.

"You have no right to expect anything," I said furiously. You are not my keeper or my husband."

"No, I'm not. But I have been fool enough to think that I might be your sweetheart. Dad told me just a little while ago that you were too clever for me; that you would throw me over for Robinson in a minute if you found that he could help you along toward your ambition faster than I. Dad said you were a girl whose head would always overrule her heart."

"I don't care a continental darn what your dad says. He is a vicious old man and I'll tell him so the next time I see him. In the meantime you can tell him for me that I have cut another notch in the stick which I am keeping as a reminder of what I owe him. You may put me down here, Jerry. I'm not going to ride with you another block. I'll walk the rest of the way to the King Edward hotel."

Without another word Jerry drove up the curb and I got out.

As he was starting the car I turned and said: "If it will give you any satisfaction I'll tell you as well as the rest of the world that I'm not going to dine with Mr. Robinson tonight."

I walked away as swiftly as possible.

"Judy, oh Judy," called Jerry.

I didn't turn my head, but I smiled a little as I remembered how many times I had gotten out of automobiles and walked away from them because I didn't like my company.

"Well, this is somewhat better," I said to myself as I went toward the King Edward rather triumphantly, "than my last walk of this kind." Then I had trudged through the rain to my father's house to get away from the obnoxious petting of Chuck Becker. Tonight I left Jerry because he was jealous of me.

What a long time it seemed since that night my father raised the roof over the Becker episode. The little country town with its gossip, pint pot judgments and narrow standards had passed out of my life. The last letter I had had from my mother had been filled with what she had fondly termed "the news" about people in whom I had no possible interest. I had found that some of them I did not even remember.

Was I happier now than I was then?

TOMORROW: What Is Love?

SUMMER DESIRES.

The city dweller dreams, and says, "I wish I had a farm. I'm longing for the open parts, where nature spreads its charm. Somewhere upon a hillside, where my weary mind could shirk. I'd like to rest my mental power, and put my brawn to work.

The tanned and rugged ruralite is sore on country strife. Says he, "I crave the city where there's something real to life. I'd like a monstrous dwelling in a town with acton blest, where I could rear about a bit and get a needed rest."

Whichever place a man may be he'd like to make a change. It seems we're all dissatisfied—and yet, it isn't strange. The play man wants to work a bit; the work man wants to play. The sunshine of the summer makes a fella feel that way.

More steel goes into the construction of a modern ocean vessel than is used in the construction of a 20-story skyscraper.

THE GOLD INLAY.

You have a tooth cavity and tell your dentist that 'just a silver filling will do.'

But he advises a gold inlay, and perhaps you are not quite certain what it is and what its advantages.

However, you have seen inlayed wood, so you can now readily grasp that the inlay is a gold filling prepared from a pattern of the cavity, to fit it accurately and thus replace the missing tooth substance.

Due to its wide range of usefulness and the satisfactory service rendered the inlay is coming into uniyersal and popular acceptance as a restorative of lost tooth tissue.

Because of this type of filling, a wax pattern is first employed, which can be carved to proper form with the greatest ease, and then reproduced in gold, the lost contour of the tooth can be accurately restored.

Also a minimum amount of the patient's time is demanded since, with the cavity prepared, and the pattern formed, the filling may be made ready in the absence of the patient, who needs to return to the chair only long enough for the inlay to be seated—a comparatively brief procedure. Thus the discomfort attending the finishing and polishing in the mouth, as with other types of filling is avoided.

Bon Ami

POWDER?

You'll like Bon Ami Powder. Just as you've always liked Bon Ami Cake.

Women who have used it are all singing the praises of this other form of Bon Ami. The same magic ingredients in a handy, sifter-top can. Soft and scratchless, Bon Ami Powder blots up dirt without hard work.

It cleans and polishes quickly, and thoroughly. Nothing can equal it for making the bathtub glisten, cleaning the refrigerator, or restoring the lustre to aluminium, copper, agate and tin.

But for windows and mirrors, most housewives prefer Bon Ami Cake! Convenient in size and very economical.

Gentle to the hands, gentle to the surface it cleans—Bon Ami in either form is the magic cleanser. Women find it an economy of time and money to keep both these "partners-in-cleanliness" in the home. They meet every cleaning and polishing need.

INITIAL ROUNDS OF BRITISH GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Two Hundred and Ninety-three Entrants Battle For Places.

17 FROM AMERICA.

Royal and Ancient Club Adopts Sectional Qualifying System.

LONDON, June 16. Canadian Press. — British golfdom was agog last night for the opening to-day of the qualifying rounds of the British Open Championship. Two hundred and ninety-three entrants, including 17 from the United States, will go over the various courses to determine who shall have the honor of entering the final competition on the Royal Lytham Links at St. Anne's next week.

For years the difficulties of reducing the number of aspirants for the open golf crown have been worrying the officers of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrew's. This year a sectional qualifying system has been adopted for weeding out all but 100 of the contestants. The total entry has been divided into three sections, the Southern being decided at Sunningdale, near London; the Central at St. Anne's, and the Northern at Western Gailles in Scotland.

The small entry in the north will make it possible to play off the qualifying round there in a single day. Ten players will qualify. At Sunningdale and St. Annes', however, 18 holes will be played to-day and another 18 holes on Thursday.

TEST CRICKETERS RECEIVE WELCOME

Australians and English Teams Are Given Great Reception at Nottingham.

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., June 15.—C. P. — A great popular welcome was given the Australian cricketers and the English test team when the two test teams were guests at the Empire Theatre here last evening.

Sidney Smith, manager of the Australians while they were in this country, congratulated those who sat in the rain to watch the play on Saturday, for their patience. He said that if the same circumstances had obtained at the ground in Sydney, the crowd would have shown much more irritation.

The rain had done good, Mr. Smith continued, by drawing to the attention of the cricket authorities the necessity for granting a longer period of time for the test matches. The tests meant more to the Empire than the mere playing of cricket, the Australians declared, and he hoped that the English cricket authorities would soon agree to a longer period in order to obtain final decisions in games which the Australians had travelled 13,000 miles to play. His short address was greeted with loud cheers.

Responding to insistent calls, A. W. Carr, captain of the English test team, expressed his regret at the Australians' disappointment over the difficulty of securing a final verdict in the present match, which should have been concluded to-day. Laughter was caused by a shout of "toss for it!" The English captain added that whatever the result might be he was confident that it would have been a fine sporting game.

H. L. Collins, the Australian captain, jocularly challenged Carr to a "swimming match" if play was again postponed to-day.

California Jury Acquits the Champion Before Large Crowd of Spectators.

CHOWCHILLA, Cal., June 16—After two hours' deliberation, a jury has returned a verdict finding Jack Dempsey not guilty of speeding on a Madera county highway.

Dempsey's appearance in Chowchilla when the case was heard and verdict rendered late yesterday, gave this town its most exciting day in years.

The largest crowd ever to witness the champion in action without paying for the privilege, came to the town hall.

Dempsey took his acquittal seriously and shook hands with the nine men aand three women of the jury as earnestly as if his life had been in the balance.

PYORRHEA

checks 4 out of 5

WHY take chances with dread pyorrhea? Through carelessness, four out of five suffer with it after the age of forty, and many younger. These are your dentist's statistics.

Tender bleeding gums are the danger signal. If unchecked, the teeth loosen in their sockets and the poison seeps throughout the system, frequently producing rheumatism, neuritis and other serious troubles.

If Pyorrhea has set in go to your dentist immediately for treatment. He can help you. To prevent pyorrhea consult him at least twice a year, and brush your teeth night and morning with Forhan's for the Gums.

This pleasant dentifrice contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea. If used regularly and in time it checks or prevents the ravages of this mouth scourge. Start brushing your teeth with Forhan's today. It not only gives your teeth a perfect cleaning, but keeps you safe from dread pyorrhea's tolls. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

How Long Since You Saw Your Dentist?

Don't wait until your dentist has to treat an aching tooth. Visit him regularly at least twice a year for a thorough teeth and gum inspection. He will keep your teeth and gums healthy, prevent decay and forestall serious illness that often has its beginnings in a diseased mouth.

KING AND QUEEN AT ASCOT RACES

Society Turns Out To Grace Most Fashionable Gathering.

GOLD VASE WINNER.

ASCOT, Eng., June 16 (Canadian Press Cable)—Graced by the presence of the King and Queen, and with society out in full force, Ascot's reputation as being the most fashionable turf gathering in the country was well sustained when the course on Ascot Heath yesterday was thrown open to the public for the first day of the four day meeting.

The finest of the turf's thoroughbreds are here to battle for the rich prizes in numerous important events. Yesterday's outstanding races were the Ascot Gold Vase, the Ascott Stakes and the St. James Palace Stakes. The Coventry Stakes was also important.

The Gold Vase was captured by Sir George Noble's High Art, three-year-old bay colt by Gainsborough-Whiteter F .W. Horlock's Mistley finished a length behind High Art, and Lord Rosebery's Bongrace was third, two lengths away. High Art started at 6dds of 20 to one against; Mistley at 100 to seven and Bongrace at nine to one. Fourteen ran. Sir George Noble's colt besides winning the coveted Gold Vase, took the major portion of a prize of about $6,000. The Vase is popularly coupled with the Gold Cup, to be run later, and was established in 1838. It is a two-mile race.

RECRUITS FOR GIANTS.

NEW YORK, June 16 (Canadian Press)—The New York Giants today signed out-fielder Joe Connell and pitcher Al Smith, both from Villa Nova College, who came here for trials about a week ago. Catcher James Boyle, formerly of St. Francois Xaviers College, of Cincinnati, also reported to the Giants today.

KEENE HITLESS WHEN COGS WIN

Billingsley Gets Fine Support and Scores Shutout By 5 To 0.

GREAT BOX WORK.

Fans at Exhibition Park last evening saw clever pitching performances by Jack Billingsley, the elongated southpaw heaver for Cognawagas, and Max Robertson for Keene, in which the Cogs' flinger won his game by a score of 5 to 0 without allowing the opposition a hit. Robertson tickled the crowd by his great work in the pinches. Cleverly supported by his catcher Charlie Robertson, the Keene pitcher held the Cogs away from the plate with three on and nobody out in the fifth.

It wasn't Keene's night with the willow. Nothing that looked like a hit did they get of Billingsley,s pitching, only two players getting to first base, one walking while the other was deadheaded. His teammates supported him without making a slip, and nicked Robertson for three earned runs.

While the Cogs were doing their best defensive work, the visitors' infield put in a bad night mussing up ground balls, and heaving them high and wide. With this kind of support the Keene battery had to work overtime and they emerged from the battle with a highly creditable record.

Cogs scored a pair of runs in the first on Wilson's single to left, Smith's triple, Cripps' single and C. Robertson's wild heave. They put two on in the second with one down, but Robertson fanned the next two batters geting Wilson for the third out after handing the latter three balls. A wild peg by A. Fletcher after he had made a nice running catch of Crary's hard fly gave the Cogs another run in the third, an error at first also helping in the manufacture of the tally. The Cogs put two on in the fourth but failed to score and put three on in the fifth without bearing fruit. In this frame, Cripps was safe on the short-stop's error. He advanced and Rooke made first on A. Fletcher's fumble. A wide throw by the short-stop to third to get Cripps following Crary's grounder filled the bags. Graham rolled to the pitcher who returned the ball, the catcher showing some nice work in tagging Cripps at the plate. As Billingsley struck out, C. Robertson flashed the ball down to Renwick and doubled Rooke for the feature play of the night. A double play unassisted by M. McCarthy stopped the Cogs in the sixth.

Rooke and Wilson did much of the infield work for the Cogs and handled everything in fine style.

United Church General Council Commends Attitude of Officials.

TWO RESIGNED.

MONTREAL, June 16 (Canadian Press).—The General Council of the United Church of Canada yesterday gave its disapproval to Sunday football and passed a resolution commending the attitude in this matter of John Easton of Winnipeg, president, and Thomas Mitchell, Montreal, vice-president of the Dominion Football Association. These two officials resigned their offices as a protest against the playing of an international soccer feature in Montreal on a Sunday.

One of the oldest golf fixtures on the American continent is the annual intercity match between the Quebec Golf Club and the Royal Montreal Golf Club, which has been played regularly for fifty years, with the exception of the war years.

SOCCER TOURISTS REACH VANCOUVER

Two Games To Be Played This Week—Changes in Team.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 16. — Canadian Press. — Chaperoned by Sam Davidson, secretary of the Dominion Football Association, the touring British soccer team reached Vancouver yesterday morning, and were greeted by Vice-President John Russell, of the D. F. A., and Provincial soccer officials.

The tourists make their first appearance here on Wednesday evening at 6.30. The second game will be played at Nanaimo on Saturday.

It was announced this morning that Joe Smith and Dave Jack, Bolton players, will substitute for Cross and Mainscott on the visitors' line-up.

GROUP LEADERSHIP PASSES TO FIREMEN

De Laval Went Down Before Blaze Battlers in Central Park.

Last night in Central Park the Firemen defeated the DeLaval team and took from them the group leadership. The Firemen played a splendid game of softball and gave their pitcher wonderful support. Dunkerley, the pitcher, was right there in the pinches as he left eight De Laval men stranded on the bases. The other team by no means played poor ball. Frick knocked a home run and the team as a whole did as good hitting as the winners. But they showed a lack of confidence in themselves in the field. This may be accounted for by the fact that they had only played two previous games. Lewis, for the Firemen, was the leading hitter of the evening, getting a triple and a double and one single in four times at the bat. Kennedy allowed one free pass but his teammates failed him in their fielding, making seven errors to the others three.

FAMOUS FEET
...how they're kept free from corns..

MATT McGRATH'S Titular Feet

"You don't win any medals, in athletic meets or walking a beat, when a toe is torturing you," writes Matthew J. McGrath, Olympic weight and hammer thrower and New York police lieutenant.

"So athletes and policemen who are wise never tolerate corns. They get rid of them."

There is no substitute for good old Blue-jay. For more than 26 years it has been vanquishing corns to the count of millions yearly. For Blue-jay first of all relieves the cause of corns. Its cool, cushiony pad ends the pressure and pain at once. Then the medication loosens and ends the corn. Usually one plaster is sufficient. But even an "old offender" will seldom withstand a second Blue-jay plaster . . . . . At all drug stores.

O. H. A. REFUSES 36 OUT OF 54 APPLICATIONS

Players Who Have Changed Residence Are Barred For Season.

FOURTEEN GRANTED.

Ken Kane, of Peterborough, Is Given Certificate—Four Deferred.

TORONTO, June 16 (Canadian Press).—In line with its announced policy of curbing what is known as the "tourist" player, the executive of the Ontario Hockey Association, at a meeting held here last night, granted only fourteen applications and deferred four, out of a total of fifty-four applications of players who have changed their place of residence since last winter, for playing certificates for the season 1926-27. The balance were refused.

It has been known for some time that the ban was to be placed on the "tourist" in the O.H.A.

The Border Cities Hockey Club of Windsor had every one of its eight applications turned down. Stratford had all but two of its seven refused, and these two were deferred. Other refusals made were Brantford, six; Galt, one; Hamilton, three; Kitchener, two; London, three; Preston, one; Port Colborne, three; St. Thomas, one; Toronto, two.

Among those granted certificates were Kenneth Kane, Peterborough, and Roy Ware, Port Hope.

DETROIT SCORES AGAINST BOSTON

Used Nineteen Players To Win Final Game of the Series.

FIVE PITCHERS.

DETROIT, June 16 (Canadian Press)—Detroit used 19 players, including five pitchers and four pinch hitters to win the final game of the Boston series, 7 to 6. DECISIVE WIN IN FINAL GAME

King George School Girls Beat Central 24-2 For Title.

THREE IN ROW.

King George School girls won the Public School girls' softball championship yesterday for the third time in succession when they defeated Central School girls by a score of 24-2. The winners played the same kind of ball that has distinguished their performances all season, and which enabled them to go through the entire schedule with only one defeat chalked up against them. The work of the King George outfield was especially good, Umpire Alec Kay remarking that they were the best he had seen during the games played in the League.

The line-up was as follows:

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO

JOHN DUNCAN DUNN—VALUE OF THE PUTT.

It is often-times hard to get beginners to realize the value of putting in golf. They are impatient to "hit it a mile." The drive is really the only department in which they have any zest: they tolerate the iron shots and the approaches but of the shots on the green they are frequently impatient.

Perhaps it is because they are ordinarily unable to putt with any degree of consistency. They are as apt to hole one from across the green as they are to miss a two-foot drop—anything may happen with them, but nothing does happen with the consistent regularity that makes good golf.

In this connection I would add that in no other department of golf does your mental condition at the time have so great a bearing.

If you have a worry—not just a worry about golf but some business or personal worry, it will show itself much more quickly in delicate putting than in driving, for instance. Concentration and faith are the big things.

SECRETS of STARS on INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

BY "STUFFY" McINNIS.

Selection of a good glove is more essential to the success of a first baseman than any other player, with the possible exception of the catcher.

After getting such a glove, see that it is properly broken before using it in a regular game. This can be accomplished by using the new glove in all practice sessions.

Most ball players are fussy about their bats, but I am far more concerned about my glove or gloves. Bats are much easier to replace.

Since every ball player catches a ball differently, permitting anyone to use a prize glove is a very bad habit.

While I am not crazy about having some one else use my favorite bat, I never object, but asking to use my pet fielding glove always gets a polite but positive NO.

No player on the diamond must be more accurate in the catching of a thrown ball than the first baseman, since a majority of the runners are retired at that base. To permit other players to use a glove that has been perfectly conformed to one's hand simply courts disaster and errors in making plays.

Get a good glove a d then keep it, is my first words of wisdom to a first baseman.

QUALIFYING ROUND.

British Open Golf Championship Play Begins To-day.

LONDON, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Qualifying play for the British Open Golf Championship began today at Sunningdale and St. Anne's.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—It is customary in citing the success of the Irish to attribute to "luck" what in other less volatile and romantic folk is credited to shrewdness, initiative and persistency.

Hence the friends of Tom Moore, picture veteran, refer admiringly, and perhaps a bit enviously, to his "Irish luck" in connection with high-lights of his career.

Stuart Holmes, cronie of Moore and doing a character role with Tom as lead to Pola Negri in "Good and Naughty," cites one of these episodes as Moore listens with wry relish.

Two Thin Dimes.

"Ten years ago Tom and I arrived in New York with only two thin dimes between us," relates Holmes.

"We were wondering what luxuries 20 cents would buy when Tom was stopped by a man who admired a whalebone cane he carried. Tom sold the cane for $5, and we proceeded more happily on our way.

"In the next block Tom found a diamond stickpin on the sidewalk and pawned it for $15. The $20.20 lasted until we secured work. Straight luck, that."

Holmes and Moore both broke into pictures at the same time when they joined the Kalem company. They were sent to New Orleans to make a one-reel play.

They Wrote One.

There they discovered that the director could not begin work because he had no scenario. Tom and Stuart promptly wrote one, overnight, "The Belle of New Orleans."

Something a little more personal, this, than luck.

Then the twain originated blackface comedy for the screen. In one of these comedies Moore's ready invention created a substitute for a dish of ice cream, which melted too fast. He used a fluff of cotton, which he glued to the plate to keep it from blowing away. Ingenuity which impressed his associates greatly.

Moore's contract was about to expire. He was finishing the last picture Told to pick out his own location for the final love scene, the canny Irish actor selected a site where the camera would have to be placed very close to him, then concentrated all his powers and prayers on that last bit. The close-up turned out so beautifully, due to Tom's wise choice of camera angle, that his contract was renewed for two years.

Tom had, and still has, a good deal to do with making his own "luck."

BILLY EVANS Says

Faulty Timing

Modern college sprinters seem to be too fast for the hand-operated stop watch.

Recently five officials of the A. A. U. timed Roland Locke in his record-breaking 100-yard dash.

Three officials caught Locke in 9.6 seconds, one was a second slower, while the other judge clocked the "Nebraska Cyclone" in the almost unbelievable time of 9.3.

In stepping off 100 yards in 10 seconds flat a sprinter must travel 10 yards or 30 feet for every second that elapses from the start to the breaking tape.

Figuring that Locke actually ran the distance in 9.6 seconds, the timer who caught him in 9.3 was three-tenths of a second off, a mere matter of nine feet as to distance.

After all, the hand-operated stop-watch is a trifle antiquated. There must be better mechanical methods to correctly time the sprints.

What college will be the first to put over such an innovation?

First Handicap

The legs of every athlete pay the toll first.

The American League has four outstanding veterans in Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins.

Watch Cobb, Speaker and Collins at the bat and it will soon be evident to you that time has in no way dimmed their eyes.

If you would ask any American League pitcher to name the 10 hardest batters in the league to pitch to, the above trio would occupy prominent places in such a select list.

If you would ask Cobb, Speaker or Collins what, if anything, handicapped their play after so many years of strenuous service, I feel safe in venturing the opinion that the answer would be something like this:

"The only place I feel old is in the legs."

About Johnson

What about Walter Johnson? you ask. Well this bit of information surprised me and I have no doubt but that it will strike you the same way.

This spring when I asked Walter how he felt and how his arm was responding, he answered:

"I'm not worrying about the arm; it's the legs. They feel mighty wobbly every time I stride on them."

The legs are the first to falter, regardless of the sport.

Sande's Status

Earl Sande, generally regarded as America's premier jockey, is to ride in the Kentucky Derby.

Regardless what horse has Sande up on him, it is going to get a good play because of the faith the racegoing public has in the ability of Sande as a jockey.

His victory on Flying Ebony last year was one of the greatest feats in turf history. All the more so because Sande had only ridden a few times prior to the Kentucky classic because of an injury that had threatened to end his career.

Sande has two Derbies to his credit. Johnny Loftus is the only other jockey in the last 20 years to turn the same trick.

Only one jockey, I. Murphy, a rider of the old school, has thrice piloted a Derby winner. He won his last race in 1891. So that 35 years have elapsed since there has been a three-time winner in the Derby.

Come on, Sande!

AT THE CAPITOL

FOX FILM STAR RIDES AT FRONT IN CAVALRY DASH

Kenneth Harlan Wins Respect of Crack Troopers in "The Golden Strain"

Kenneth Harlan, playing opposite Madge Bellamy in "The Golden Strain," Fox Films version of Peter B. Kyne's gripping story which comes to the Capitol theatre tomorrow, proved to the officers and enlisted men at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., that he can ride at the head of the pack—even with the crack members of the Tenth Cavalry at his flank—and still given an excellent account of himself.

Harlan, who saw active service with Kyne in France, is one of those fellows who scorn a double and insists upon getting his full share of the thrills while engaged in making pictures. He can ride a horse—and he loves it.

Therefore, when Director Victor Schertzinger informed the handsome young star that he was to have a dramatic part in a cavalry charge—Harlan wanted to know just how dramatic it was to be.

"Too dramatic for you to ride at the head of the cavalry," Schertzinger said, and began discussing the troop formations with Major Chapin, of the Tenth Cavalry.

"Not on your glittering sword!" said Harlan. "I've got a cavalry horse, these men are going to charge and I'm going to ride."

"It'll be fast and furious!" Major Chapin warned.

"So I am told,' Harlan replied, "but this is a fast and furious horse—and I promise I won't fall off. Let's go. You show me my business, Major.

The major demurred—but Harlan was obdurate. And so he rode with his troop. After they made one round of the big parade field, at Huachuca, the men behind Harlan began calling him "Lieutenant." This tickled him—for it was all very real, with Colonel J. C. Rhea looking on with a critical eye—and then they snapped into it.

Down the field they came, swords flashing, horses snorting, and troopers shrilling their blood-curdling challenge!

Perched on top of the bandstand, clinging to a perilous perch beside his chief cameraman, Director Schertzinger thundered instructions, waved his arms and said unintelligible things which bore a striking resemblance to endearments, not unmixed with a few choice epithets.

But when the bugle sounded, Harlan came in smiling and dusty, saluted briskly, looked up at Schertzinger and said:

"Yes, suh, coolnel—the major was right. It was fast and furious but there are no casualties. All I need is a vacuum-cleaner to knock the dust out of this uniform!"

AT THE REGENT

FOX FILM EPIC IS APPLAUDED BY EDUCATOR

Dr. Crandall Says Young People Should See "As No Man Has Loved."

Dr. Ernest Crandall, director of lectures and visual instruction of the Board of Education, New York City, has written to William Fox complimenting the producer on his latest achievement, "As No Man Has Loved." Dr. Crandall writes:

"This magnificent picture, based on the Edward Everett Hale classic, 'The Man Without a Country,' constitutes one of the most sincere attempts I have ever witnessed to preserve both the spirit and the letter of a literary production upon the screen.

"It is an open secret that producers attempt to utilize the title of well known literary productions for screen purposes often do violence to the theme. In this instance, however, the genius of the immortal tale evolved by Dr. Hale has been religiously preserved.

"Throughout the piece the dramatic suspense is skillfully maintained, the heart interest is intense, the acting is superb, and the photography beautiful. The conclusion of the picture is an exquisite touch and extremely moving. Above all, the patriotic fervor aroused throughout without recourse to cheap tricks or artificial stimulation is sufficiently intense to mark this as a great picture and especially as one which every young person in the land should see."

TO RAISE STATUS OF DOMINION IN NEW MOTION

Requiring Approval of Parliament Before Treaties Are Ratified.

DEBATEE IMPORTANT.

Will Give Commons Opportunity To Make Position Clear.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada's position in the British Empire and its international status alike will be raised when Premier MacKenzie King submits to the House of Commons a motion of which he has given notice. Briefly, the motion provides that before the Canadian Government "advise ratification of a treaty of convention affecting Canada, or signify acceptance of a treaty or convention, the approval of the Parliament of Canada should be secured." The motion follows up a resolution adopted at the last Imperial Conference when representatives of the British Government, of the Dominions and of India discussed procedure to be followed in the ratification of treaties. Conclusion of the halibut treaty between Canada and the United States had largely given rise to this discussion, and the resulting resolution of the Imperial Conference sets forth procedure to be followed in the negotiation and signature of treaties.

Asks For Approval.

So far, the motion of Premier King asks merely for parliamentary approval of the conference resolution. But on the question of ratification, the motion goes further. The resolution says that "it is for each government to decide where Parliamentary approval or legislation is required before desire for, or concurrence in, ratification is intimated by that government."

Since and including the treaty of Versailles, it has been the practice of the Canadian Government to submit for the approval of the Canadian Parliament all treaties in the negotiation of which Canada has participated. Premier King's motion, if carried, will lay down the principle that before the Canadian Government can signify acceptance of the treaty affecting Canada, approval must first be obtained.

The coming debate in the House of Commons will be important as affording opportunity for the Government and Parliament to make its position clear. But it will be merely preliminary to the still more important discussion on inter-Empire relations scheduled for the coming Imperial Conference in October. There, the status of the Dominion in the Empire, the relations of the Dominions to each other and to Great Britain will come in for closer examination. The close co-operation between the British and Dominion Governments which existed during the war and during negotiation of the Peace of Versailles has not been fully maintained in subsequent international conferences. On the ground that the Canadian Government had not participated in its negotiations Premier King declined to submit the treaty of Lausanne to the Canadian Parliament for approval. The Dominion Governments were not invited to participate in negotiating the treaties of Locarno. At the same time, the treaties imposed no obligations on the dominions unless the dominions freely assume such obligations.

While Premier King's motion does not directly raise the question of Dominion status, the whole problem is likely to come under review.

WESTERN CROPS ARE PROMISING

Wheat Looks Well—Shows Sturdy Growth and Good Color.

OTHER GRAINS THRIVE.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 16. C.P.—The following crop report was issued from the office of the Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific:

Crop conditions throughout the west, with the exceptions hereinafter noted, continue quite favorable, and many sections further benefited by the rainfall during the past week. High winds again occasioned some damage in each province; the loss, however, was comparatively small, and confined to the lighter soils on finely worked fields. Generally speaking an optimistic spirit prevails over the western provinces and prospects are considered as favorable at this time as they have been for years. Pastures look well and stock have generally an abundance of pasture, and in addition there have been no fly pests to disturb them so far. Receipts at local stockyards show slight increase in cattle and a decrease in hogs and sheep with some improvement in prices.

MANITOBA: Crops coming along nicely and on the whole are not suffering through lack of moisture, many districts on the contrary receiving generous precipitation through the week. Wheat continues to look well and shows steady growth with good color. Other grains are not as far advanced but are quite promising. While moisture situation is on the whole satisfactory there are districts where further rainfall is needed. Such are found as follows: Carberry sub between Poplar Point and Austin and at Douglas and Chater; Varcoe sub. Westbourne, Arden, Neepawa and Franklin; Souris subdivision, St. Claudem, Rathwell, Cypress River, Glenboro and Carroll; a Riviere sub-division, from Darlingford to La Riviere; Napinka sub, Mound to Deloraine. High winds, which continued over previous week-end as expected, caused considerable drifting on lighter soils. In comparatively few instances, however, was it necessary to reseed fields. Cut worms are working in scattered areas but loss to date has been light.

Many fields of rye are now fully headed, and this crop as a whole promises fair yields. There is a substantial increase in acreage under sweet clover and corn with considerably more drum wheat seeded than usual.

Saskatchewan: Weather for the most part during the week was on the cool side with general rainfall varying from light showers to liberal downpours throughout the province. Seeding is entirely completed and crop nicely above the ground. Wheat looks well and is early for time of year, some of it just coming into shotblade. In many districts early wheat on summer fallow shows stand of 12 to 15 inches, the stalks being strong and healthy. A few localities report moisture needed. Most of these points received light showers, but require more to assure best possible growth. Districts reporting a shortage are Assiniboia sub., Viceroy; Kisbey sub., Tyvan; Expanse sub., Crestwynd, Mossbank and Vantage; McMorran sub., Clamis. Cutworm damage is reported in many parts, the esimated loss varying from 5 to 10 per cent., but on the whole the damage from this source appears less than average year. Farmers generally are now busy on their summerfallow and considerable new breaking is going on.

Alberta: Conditions in central and northern Alberta could hardly be more favorable. Moisture is ample and has been supplemented by further rainfall during the week. Conditions in the southwest are improved as a result of some precipitation during the week end but can stand considerably more rainfall, particularly so in the territory from the main line south to the international boundary and west of Lethbridge to the mountains. This section until the past week nas had no rain to amount to anything this year. While spring wheat is good on summer fallow it is poor on plowing, and there is plenty of seed in the ground which has not yet begun to sproat. Undoubtedly the situation has been relieved by the recent rainfall but to what extent it is not possible to say at present. It is certain however that some depreciation has occurred. In the balance of the province south of the main line conditions are fairly good but would benefit by further precipitation. Stock is in good shape and pasture growth has been better than for some years past. Lambing is over and sheepmen are preparing for shearing. Damage frof cutworms, wireworms and grasshoppers are reported in certain localities, but loss has not been serious.

Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway: Weather during the past week has been quite cool, and not of the best for promoting growth, although beneficial in assisting root development. Present condition of the crop however could hardly be improved upon and farmers are very well pleased with outlook. Heavy rains provided all points with moisture sufficient to carry crops for some time to come. Immediate need however is warmer temperatures to promote growth.

Wheat is up eight to ten inches, and oats and barley showing nicely through, each of these crops exhibiting sturdy stand and good color.

British Columbia: Weather mostly cool and showery. June drop, which was due to the early season, started about the middle of May and still continues, has been heavy, and it is thought will necessitate some revision of predictions made earlier in the season of very heavy yields, particularly is this so with apples and pears. Strawberry shipments are in full swing. In the lower Fraser valley the cherry crop which a few weeks ago looked very promising has as a result of excessive rainfall suffered depreciation estimated at 15 to 60 per cent. of what was expected. Both fall and spring grain crops are looking well and fall wheat with favorable weather should be ready to cut by the first week in July. Alfalfa is heavy and the first cutting started about May 25th. Field corn is well up but has suffered a great deal from cutworms.

Agar-agar, the seaweed gelatine, is being produced in large quantiies from beds of gelidium off the coast of California.

CHURCH 'TALKS OUT' RED LAKE LINE BILL

Toronto Member Declares Grant of Charter Invades Provincial Rights.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press).—T. L. Church (Conservative, North-West Toronto), in the Commons last night, succeeded in "talking out" the bill which would give a railway charter to the Red Lake and North-Western Railway Company.

The measure was reported by the Railway Committee and granted the application of Boston financiers for permission to build a line from Quibell, on the C.N.R., into Red Lake.

Mr. Church contended it invaded Provincial rights.

When is an apparent infield fly no so regarded?

The infield fly rule applies with first and second or first, second and third base occupied with less than two out.

At such times the batsman is automatically out if his effort is a fair fly ball other than a line drive which, in the judgment of the umpire, can be handled by an infielder. There is o ne exception.

If with first and second, or first, second and third occupied, and less than two out, any attempt to bunt which results in a fair fly ball shall not be regarded as an infield fly.

That is the one case where an apparent infield is hot so regarded.

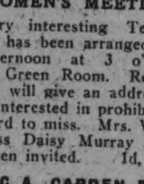
REPORT PROPOSES LABOR CONFERENCE

To Decide Best Method of Putting Treaty Terms Into Effect.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press)—A conference of provincial and dominion representatives intimately in touch with labor conditions throughout Canada to consult as to the best means to be employed on giving effect to the labor provisions of the treaties of peace, is recommended in the report of the parliamentary commission on industrial relations tabled in the House of Commons this afternoon.

According to the report, some workers in Canada are receiving less than will enable them to maintain a reasonable standard of living. "Such an injustice is manifestly unfair and unbusinesslike inasmuch as it costs the country much, involving, as it does, an excess of unrest, ill health and crime," the report says.



The annual decoration days will be observed on Sunday, June 27, when the members will proceed to Little Lake Cemetery, and on Sunday, July 4, at St. Peter's Cemetery.

OBITUARY.

MRS. F. N. SHEPPARD.

The death occurred at Grace Hospital, Detroit, on Monday, June 14, of Mrs. Frederick N. Sheppard, dearly beloved wife of Frederick N. Sheppard, of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough, and loving mother of little Frederick. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. E. J. Waterman and the late Mrs. Waterman of Peterborough, and was born in Campbellford in 1899, and lived in Peterborough until five years ago. She was well-known and well liked in Peterborough, and the news of her death came as a shock to her relatives and friends. The late Mrs. Sheppard leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband, a son, nineteen months old, her father, E. J. Waterman of Peterborough, and two brothers, Uzal Waterman of Peterborough and Earl Waterman of Cobourg.

The body arrived in Peterborough to-day, and the funeral will take place from the home of the deceased's father, 519 Romaine Street, on Thursday at 2.30 p.m., Rev. M. C. MacKinnon officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Little Lake Cemetery.

GEORGE SMITH.

LAKEFIELD, June 16. — The funeral took place this afternoon of George Smith, who died suddenly on Tuesday at Whitby Hospital. The deceased, who was born in England, had been a resident of the village for about a year and a half, and was a member of St. John's Church. He is survived by his wife and a young son Jack. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, and interment was made in Hillside Cemetery.

MRS. SAMUEL KILLEN.

LAKEFIELD, June 16. — The death occurred last night of Mary Carroll, beloved wife of Samuel Killen, at the family residence on Burnham Street. Mrs. Killen, who had been ill for a long time, was 63 years of age. She was born in Caledon Township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Felix Carroll. She was twice married, her first husband being the late James Keane. Besides her husband, one son, Edward Keane, survives.

Mrs. Killen had lived in the village for five years, coming from Ennismore, and during that time had won many warm friends by her sterling character. She was a devout member of St. Paul's Church, and the funeral service will be held there to-morrow morning at 9.00 o'clock. It will be conducted by the Rev. J. J. Garvey, and will proceed to Ennismore Cemetery, where interment will be made.

CHARLES GEORGE WENSLEY

The death occurred today of Charles George Wensley at his residence on Simcoe street. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Martha Wensley, and one son at home. The funeral will be held tomorrow. The remains will be taken to Belleville on the noon train C.N.R. under the auspices of the Masonic or-

JONES IS LOW.

His 66 For First Round Best Score Made This Morning.

LONDON, June 16 (Canadian Press)—Playing the first eighteen holes of the 36 hole qualifying test for the British open golf championship at Sunningdale today, Bobby Jones, United States amateur champion, returned a sparkling 66, the lowest score reported from any of the three courses where the qualifying rounds are being played.

THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK SUMMARY.

Profit taking appeared in the market towards the close yesterday but whereas certain stocks sold off rather sharply others went ahead. Do not sell oil shares in oil stocks. A slight reaction in the general list here would improve the technical position. That is about all that can be expected on the side of the decline. The short sellers of stocks to-day will be the buyers of to-morrow. General Motors is now listed as having stock dividend possibilities. Directors will meet again in July and something definite regarding a good sized extra in stock is likely to be diclosed at that time. General chairman of American Train Despatchers' Ass. for mutual plans for standard wages of $275 a month for train despatchers of all roads of United States against present scale or $195 to $200. Increase estimated to total more than $2,000,000 annually.

Demand Sterling $4.86 3-16. Francs $2.81 3-4, Lire $3.60 1-2.

Mine Market Prices Firm Trading Is Featureless

TORONTO, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Trading was slow and featureless on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Prices remained firm and the market was steady.

Kirkland Lake opened unchanged at 1.10, but lost ground and closed at 1.08, a decline of two points. Vipond opened unchanged at 1,78, advanced to 1.81, and then settled back to 1.79 for a net gain of one point. Hollinger was very inactive and remained unchanged. Teck Hughes was also unchanged.

Easier Money Rates Give Stimulus To Upward Move

NEW YORK, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices swung upward again today under the stimulus of easier money rates and reports of improvement in the steel trade.

Several of the larger motor companies were reported to be contemplating the distribution of extra, or stock, dividends as the result of record-breaking business in the first half of the year.

General Motors continued its sensational advance by touching another new high record at 13 1-2; Hudson and Nash each climbed about two points, and Chrysler, Packard and others in that group advanced a point or more.

Oil shares also made a further response to reports of unusual prosperity by leaders in the industry.

Rails were rather quiet with the heaviness of Southern Railway one of the few distinctive features.

French Remove Duties Wheat Prices Move Up

CHICAGO, June 16 (Canadian Press)—The suspension of import duties in France brought about an immediate upturn today in wheat prices here. The rise amounted to about two cents a bushel during the early trading. Starting at 1-8 to 3-4 cents gain, wheat continued to climb. Corn and oats turned weak, corn opening unchanged to 3-8 cents up but receding quickly to well below yesterday's finish. Provision's scored a decided advance.

Crop conditions in France were also reported 10 to 20 per cent below last year, the development of French wheat being from two to four weeks late.

A liberal export business in North American wheat overnight was noted. Meanwhile at various times today houses here with eastern connections were active buyers of future deliveries.

Toronto Market Is Dull But Prices Remain Steady

TORONTO, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Dullness again characterized the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, but for the most part prices remained steady and unchanged.

International Nickle provided a strong spot among the industrials at prices wavering between 36 3-4 and 37 1-8, and closed at 37 for a net gain of a quarter. Brazilian was very inactive. After opening up a half it eased off again to its previous close of 96 3-4. Consolidated Smelters opened off a quarter but recovered to 214 3-4 for a net gain of a quarter. In the unlisted issues, Kirkland Lake was active, but remained unchanged. Vipond opened up four points, but eased back two points to 178.

Abitibi Paper was one of the feature stocks of the day, opening up 1-8 at 72 3-8, and closing at its high of 75 for a net gain during the session of 2½.

FIRE DESTROYS ONE RESIDENCE DAMAGES TWO

Home of E. Lynch, 18 McGill Street, Totally Destroyed This Afternoon.

ONE HORSE BURNED.

Only One Trunk Saved From Lynch House—All Saved From Others.

One house completely destroyed, another badly gutted, and the roof on a third burned, was the result of a pan of food overflowing in the home of E. Lynch, 18 McGill Street, this afternoon. The flames spread so rapidly that it was possible to save only one trunk of all the contents of the house, while a horse in the stable was burned to death.

The city fire brigade responded and received valuable assistance from the troopers of the Third Prince of Wales' Dragoons, who are encamped at the Exhibition Grounds nearby. All the goods in the second house, 16 McGill Street, were saved. This house belonged to Mr. Lynch, and was occupied by Henry Gordon. The third house, 14 McGill Street, the home of Mrs. Johnston, was damaged by fire, but the work of the firemen and troopers prevented its destruction.

One trooper was overcome by heat and smoke during the excitement, but was quickly revived when given prompt medical attention.

At press-time the firemen were still at work trying to save the Gordon house.

MEIGHEN MOVES TO TAKE PETITION

House Will Decide in Matter of Peace River Election.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Immediately the house opened this afternoon the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen moved that the petition of James Arthur Collins be received, notwithstanding the report of the examiner. This is a petition which asks that D. M. Kennedy be declared ineligible to sit as member for Peace River.

Premier King raised a point of order.

Speaker Lemieux ruled that it was for the House and not for the Speaker to decide whether the petition should lie on the table of the House and become one of the permanent records of the House.

EQUALIZE DUTY.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press).—Equalization of the Canadian Customs duty on cattle with that of the United States was recommended by a sub-committee of the House of Commons Agricultural Committee to-day.

YOUNG'S POINT NEWS.

YOUNG'S POINT, June 16.—The new lock is now so far completed that the boats can be locked through.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Dever, who have been living in the village for some time, have moved to their own home in Buckhorn.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McPherson of Peterboro spent Sunday at their summer home in the village.

Mr. Rex Wilson of Ennismore spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson.

Miss Ethel Wilson, of the Burleigh Falls Fishing Club, spent the week end at her home in the village.

Mr. James Carrol was called to Lakefield on Sunday, owing to the serious illness of his sister, Mrs. Killen.

Miss Aikenhead spent Sunday with friends in Selwyn.

Mr. Joe Walsh spent the week end at his home in Douro.

The many friends of Mrs. P. P. Young will be sorry to hear of her recent illness, with the flu. We trust she will soon be better as she has been confined to her room for the past two weeks.

Master Ted Young of Peterboro spent the week end at his home in the village.

A number of cars, bearing the U.S. license, have been seen passing through the vilage, enroute to the summer resorts. The weather keeps cool. It is mostly the fishermen getting ready for the sport that are here so far.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake and family of Lakefield passed through the village on Friday.

Mr. Harry Barrett spent Sunday in Peterboro.

15 PEOPLE DIE WHEN EXPRESS TRAINS COLLIDE

Fast Limited With Two Engines Hits Rear of Standing Express.

AT BLAIRSVILLE.

Eleven Passengers and Four Trainmen Lose Lives.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., June 17.—(Canadian Press.) — Fifteen persons, including eleven passengers and four trainmen, were killed in the wreck of the Washington express and the Cincinnati Limited, near Blairsville intersection, Pennsylvania railroad officials announced today after a careful check of all undertaking establishments to which bodies were sent. About a dozen passengers are lying seriously injured in hospitals.

The Washington express had come to a standstill to repair an air hose when the crack Pennsylvania flyer came along and crashed into the rear. The terrific impact reduced the two locomotives, two sleepers and a club car to a twisted mass of wreckage. After the fast Washington train stopped, a man was sent back to burn flares and stop the limited, but something went amiss and ten minutes later the flier came thundering along, hauled by two locomotives and ploughed through half the Washington train, driving one Cleveland sleeper through a Pittsburgh Pullman car. The locomotives of the limited were reduced to scrap, and the club car immediately behind the twin locomotives was badly wrecked. A third sleeper shot to one side of the rails.

Bodies are being removed from the wreckage, and it is expected that the death list will be increased.

Passengers who escaped with slight hurts told of wild scenes attending the wreck. The moans of the dying and the terrified screams of the injured pinned in the debris added to the confusion. Those who were able to do so, struggled from the Pullmans which, while not wrecked, were thrown from the rails. Most of them were in night clothes. The only lights available were the dim lanterns of railroad men.

Men were sent afoot to Blairsville intersection to summon aid. Those who remained at the wreck tried to aid the sufferers trapped in the tangled wreckage.

Shortly after the report of the wreck was flashed to division headquarters at Pittsburgh, wreck trains were moving to the scene from this city, Altoona, Johnstown and other points, bearing doctors, nurses and railroad officials. Automobile ambulances were ordered out, and just before daylight, the forerunners of the rescuing crews reached the scene.

Flagman T. W. Beecher, who was sent back with flares to stop the limited train, performed his duty, the railway officials announced today. After the collision occurred, Beecher's flares were found burning on the right of way.

Both engineers and one fireman of the twin locomotives on the Limited are among the dead.

Banks Back Bootleggers Reformed Runner Reveals

WASHINGTON, June 17 (Canadian Press).—An "inside story" alleging that a half dozen banks aided bootleggers in financing their transactions, was unfolded yesterday before the House Alcoholic Liquor Traffic Committee by William G. Davidson, who described himself as ex-bootlegger William Caine, now "going straight." Davidson gave his home as Los Angeles but refused to reveal his Washington address because he "didn't want to be bumped off."

FEES OF PUPILS OF HIGH SCHOOLS ARE DISCUSSED

Question of Paying For Pupils at Collegiate is Taken Up.

OTHER FEES PAID.

Some County Councillors Feel That This is Hardship.

Representatives of the Lakefield Agricultural Society addressed the members of the County Council this morning and asked for a grant towards that society, as they are building a better race track and increasing the prize-list. This matter was referred to the Finance Committee. The Council then went into committee on schools, Deputy-Reeve Lillico in the chair.

The grants to High Schools came under discussion. It was moved and seconded that no further grants be made to High Schools. An amendment was moved that the question be deferred to the open Council. The amendment was defeated. Reeve Rye then spoke re payment of fees of pupils who attended the Peterborough Collegiate. It was pointed out by Reeve Rye that the ratepayers who lived near the city in the Townships of North Monaghan, Smith, Otonabee and Douro were paying for the upkeep of the High Schools in Lakefield and Norwood, and, besides this, they were having to pay $50 a year for their children to attend the Peterborough Collegiate. He thought that the Council should give these townships some consideration.

It was also shown that pupils of Harvey were attending Lindsay School, and in other parts of the county pupils are attending schools outside the county at Madoc and Campbellford, and getting part of their fees paid. Mr. Lillico wanted to know why pupils a stone's throw from Peterborough should not be allowed the same privileges as he said there were plenty of places in Monaghan where the parents were unable to send their pupils as they could not finance it. In one school section in Monaghan there are six pupils who would be getting a secondary school education if they could come into the Peterborough Collegiate in the morning and go home at night. One man in particular is sending four children to the Collegiate, paying $200 fees, and also paying his share as a ratepayer to the other High Schools.

Mr. Strickland pointed out that paying the fees of the pupils attending the Collegiate would hurt the other High Schools, but Mr. Rye said the Collegiate was full at present with the 60 outside pupils coming in.

Mr. Lillico stated that they were asking the county to pay the $50 fee which are only about two-thirds of that which it would cost the county if they were sent to the county High Schools.

The committee adjourned at the noon hour.

ONTARIO VOTES IN 12 MONTHS SAYS FERGUSON

Government Will Go To Province on Policy It Considers Best.

TO ACT FEARLESSLY.

Will Weigh Every Phase of Situation in Deciding Action.

ORILLIA, June 17.— (Canadian Press.)—Premier Ferguson was the guest of honor and the chief speaker at the Conservative picnic held here yesterday. There was a large attendance from the ridings of Ontario, Simcoe and Muskoka. The Prime Minister repeated his statement made previously that the government would not rely on plebiscites or referendums to ascertain public opinion.

He said they would go to the country in about 12 months on any policy which they might deem to be best for the people of Ontario. The Government would watch every phase of the situation and would not listen to the extremists on either side. "No law should be on the statute books unless it has the approval of the people," stated the Premier. "If the O.T.A. does not meet with public approval something must be done. If the Government determines otherwise it will be its duty to enforce the law." The Government still reserved the right to make any amendments to the Act and would do so fearlessly. "If this Government meets with defeat it will be an error of judgment," said the Premier.

The Premier gave a comprehensive outline of the work of his government since election.

RADICALS WON'T JOIN NATIONALS IN NEW CABINET

DIFFICULT TASK.

Fears of Briand in Accepting Mandate Seem To Be Justified.

PARIS, June 17 (Canadian Press) The anticipation of Aristide Briand that he would meet with considerable difficulty in the accomplishment of his task of forming a new ministry seems likely to be justified.

His first setback came from the Radicals. At a midnight session of their congress they voted almost unanimously against any union with "a minority condemned by universal suffrage." That is to say, the Nationalists, but they expressed willingness to sustain a democratic government which would endeavor to unite with the Republicans on a vigorous financial reform programme. It remains to be seen whether the party president of the Radicals, Edouard Herriot, who was absent from the congress, subscribes to this resolution.

The Hydro Octopus

The Hydro Electric Power Commission has spent on an average of $10,000,000 a year during these last 26 years and now controls an investment of approximately $260,000,000 and its annual receipts and expenditures now stand in the mounting millions.

It is now the most huge and enormous monopoly that has ever been established in a free state containing a population of 3,000,000 souls.

Like all other monopolies as it becomes older its tyrannical methods will develop and increase.

The rights of private investors in power developments were the first to feel its exercise of tyrannical power and the many newspapers which supported the Commission left no other course open to the private investor than to grin and bear his loss. The result has been that no group of private investors would ever dream of investing money in water power development in the Province of Ontario because no sooner would the investment be made and prove to be a paying one than it would be hampered and embarrassed at every turn and ultimately taken away at a great loss to the investor. In fact the private investor cannot string a wire across a highway in the remotest settlement of Northern Ontario without the consent of this commission and to string an electric wire on or across a street or highway in or near Peterborough would mean lese-majesty on the part of the investor to the hydro-god if it were done without its consent. This is an indication of its tyrannical power.

Tyranical Methods in North Monaghan

Those living in suburbs of Peterborough now know that they are not dealing with the liberty loving City Council of Peterborough in securing electric light. The residents of North Monaghan now know the autocratic methods of the Hydro Electric Power Commission and they have been told very plainly that they must submit to excessive rates or lose their investment, in wiring their houses or instal some other system, at their own expense. Even our Local Commission has had to submit to tyrannical methods of the Hydro Commission and has been forced to pay over to it upwards of $50,000, that really belonged to this City. The chief cause of complaint against the members of our Local Commission has been that they have tamely submitted in the past to be its stool pigeons notwithstanding the fact that they were elected by the ratepayers of Peterborough and should have disclosed to them the real facts.

Hydro Commission Power Rates Excessive

Full disclosure should be made of the operations and extravagance of this gigantic monopoly. The distribution of electric power in Toronto on the average costs the consumer of light and power $47.51 per horse power:

In Brantford .....$38.66 per H.P.
In Kitchener .....$39.81 per H.P.
In Hamilton .....$41.89 per H.P.
In London .....$42.98 per H.P.
In Welland .....$48.73 per H.P.
In Windsor .....$64.17 per H.P.

and in the Town of Dunnville, in the Niagara District .....$79.82 per H.P.

and in the City of Peterborough with water powers at our door, the cost is.....$45.50 per H.P. per annum.

Under the Central Ontario Power scheme to which this City is committed the capital cost of 6000 Horse Power would amount to $1,325,000, upon which the consumer of light and power would have to pay interest to the Hydro Commission and in addition to that its excessive cost of management.

Peterboro Power and New Industries

Surely it must be clear to every taxpayer of Peterborough that the only sensible course for this City to take, is to develop the water powers at Dams 4 and 5 and at Burleigh Falls where 6000 H.P. can be developed for less than $600,000. This City now pays interest on $1,008,381.37 for only 4563 horse power.

The wholesale cost of power to this City during the year 1925 was over $26 per H.P. This annual cost could be cut in two, by developing our own water powers, and this City would thereby possess a marked advantage in attracting new industries over competing cities in Ontario which pay tribute to support the great Hydro Monopolist.

No Personal Interest

In reply to the letter signed "A Real Conservative," I beg to state that I have no personal interest directly or indirectly in dams 4 or 5 or Burleigh Falls or any land that would be affected by any water power development save and except property in this city which would be benefitted by cheaper power.

FIREMEN USED 1650 FEET HOSE

Two Lines From George Street Across Exhibition Grounds.

WIND FANNED FLAMES.

The fire which started at the home of E. Lynch, 18 McGill street, yesterday, caused by a pan of food overflowing on the stove resulted in the house and barns on the property being razed to the ground and a valuable horse in the stable being burned to death; the house next door being so badly burned that only the bare framework was left standing and the house next to it having a large hole burned in the roof before the combined efforts of the firemen and the members of the Militia who were encamped in the Exhibition grounds nearby, brought the flames under control.

The house where the fire occurred is situated south of the Exhibition grounds and is outside the city limits but the fire department received the necessary permission and reached the scene in time to prevent and even worse blaze as the strong west wind which was blowing at the time fanned the flames and for a while menaced all the houses on the north side of the street.

Chief Gimblett ran two lines of hose from the corner of George and Landsdowne streets across the Exhibition grounds in order to get at the blaze. In all he used 1,650 feet of hose, he said.

Dragoons In Action.

Captain E. G. Johnston and R.Q.M.S. Rose were the first to notice the blaze and immediately phoned in the alarm from the camp telephone.

Captain James Abraham organized a bucket detachment which did yeoman service, keeping a continual supply of water passing along to four men, who with Lieutenant H. G. Mason, were actively engaged in keeping the fire from spreading to the Militia stables, situated in the Exhibition grounds. Col. T. J. Johnston, Captains M. R. Sloan and C. H. Stuart and Lieut R. Malane organized the remainder of the men and proceeded to the scene of the fire. The men did valiant service in getting the furniture out of the two adjoining houses and succeeded in saving most of it, if not all. Upon the arrival of the fire brigade they assisted the Chief and his men with the hose.

E. Lynch, owner and tenant of the house, said he was working in an adjoining field in full view of his home when the fire occurred. His wife called him, he said, and upon looking up he noticed the flames coming from the back of the house. By the time he reached the house the smoke was so bad that it was impossible to see anything. After assuring himself that his wife and family were safe he started to try and save the contents of his home but only succeeded in getting one trunk out of the house which by that time had become a regular inferno. He then went around to the back of the house and managed to save his automobile while some members of the Militia removed two wagons, but the stable was blazing so badly that it was impossible to enter it, with the result that the horse perished in the blaze.

He said hat he had some insurance both on the house and its contents but could not tell how much.

H. Gordon, tenant of the next door house could not say whether any of his furniture had been destroyed or not as he had been called from work, but vouchsafed the answer that he had it covered by insurance. J. P. Pulkinghorn who is the owner of the property said he had $1,700 insurance on the house.

All the furniture belonging to Mrs. Johnston was saved.

Col. T. J. Johnston, O.C., the Prince of Wales Dragons said that considerable damage had been done to the stables and equipment but at the time he could not tell the amount of it.

Trooper Revived.

Trooper Tom Cross who was overcome by the heat revived sufficiently in a couple of hours to enable him to be up and around again.

R.Q.M.S. Rose, who with Captain Johnston, was the first to discover the fire is one of the city's firemen and is at present on his vacation. His experience in the line of fire-fighting was of great assistance in placing the Militia men in the most advantageous positions and probably saved the Peterborough Exhibition Board from losing its entire stables.

Commons Refuses To Receive Petition By Majority of 8

Conservative Members of Parliament Support Collins in Asking Further Investigation Into Conduct of Officials in Riding Where Votes Were Substituted

PREVIOUS REQUEST WAS RULED OUT ON ADVERSE REPORT OF EXAMINERS

Meighen Says Aggrieved Candidate Has No Court But Parliament in Which To Obtain Redress — Former Cases Cited By Bennett.

OTTAWA, June 17 (Canadian Press) — With three Progressives voting with the Conservatives, the government last night by a vote of 103 to 95 defeated a motion by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen to receive the petition of James A. Collins, Conservative candidate in Peace River, despite the contrary recommendation of the chief law clerk of commons.

The Progressives who upheld the Conservative contention that parliament should accept a document which ultimately might unseat their colleague, D. M. Kennedy, M.P. for Peace River, were W. R. Fansher, Lost Mountain, Sask.; A. M. Boutillier, Vegreville, and W. T. Lucas, Camrose.

OTTAWA, June 17. Canadian Press. — The House that assembled yesterday afternoon looked rather bedraggled after the exacting anxieties of a hard night. It was Mr. Meighen's 52nd birthday and on his desk was a huge bouquet. All sides applauded when he came in.

Among those present was Joseph Sylvestre, the Liberal member for Saguenay who travelled by special train all the way from Lake St. John after being specially summoned for the division. He arrived at noon.

When the orders were reached Mr Meighen precipitated a discussion by moving that the petition of James A. Collins, Conservative candidate in Peace River, asking for an inquiry into the conduct of electoral officers in that riding be received despite the adverse report of the examiner of petitions.

Point of Order.

The Prime Minister raised the point of order as to whether the petition could be received. He claimed the petition was almost identical with the one ruled out some weeks ago.

Mr. Meighen knew of no rule that would bar discussion of the matter and Mr. Bouvin held that it could not be revived, the Opposition leader retorting that this matter went to the root of the whole question. As Mr. Collins was debarred from going to the courts his only resort was here.

The Speaker said he had already ruled that the original petition was not receivable, but this one brought up the conduct of servants of the House, and it was too great a responsibility to place upon him or them the decision. He quoted a rule that permitted the House deciding such matters, and he left it to them.

Question of Procedure.

After the petition was read, Mr. Meighen went on with his motion, saying that the previous discussion was largely on a question of procedure rather than on the facts. He reviewed the erstwhile procedure in election cases and held generally that inquiry was quite within the purview of Parliament. It had never divested itself of any jurisdiction in election cases even though it had delegated the courts to deal with such cases.

In this case the jurisdiction that Parliament retained, it was in duty bound to exercise. "The point," proceeded Mr. Meighen, "upon which I intend to dwell and which is the whole heart of the matter is that Parliament is the only body that can deal with this subject. If the wrong committee were one in which we have empowered the courts to hear evidence and give decisions I would not be standing here to-day. The duty is upon me to show that in respect to the complaint of Mr. Collins no court in the land has jurisdiction. Therefore any member who votes against this petition votes to perpetrate a cruel injustice."

"Baldy" Robb's Crime.

Mr. Meighen proceeded to say that in the election recount Collins had 3969 votes; Rae, Liberal, 3944, and D. M. Kennedy, who hold the seat, 3986. At Brule Mines the polls stood Rae 127, Kennedy 12 and Collins 21. "Baldy" Robb, deputy returning officer of that poll had committed the crime of theft by substituting in 90 cases, himself for the votes given by qualified voters.

As a result of these forged ballots, Collins had been deprived of the seat, and Kennedy got it. Robb had gone to the penitentiary. If the case went to the courts, Collins could not establish that he got a majority of the votes unless he was allowed to go to a tribunal empowered to hear the evidence. Before the courts no witness was required to give evidence of how he voted, thus violating the secrecy of the ballot.

Should be Heard.

DOCTOR TELLS COUNCIL ABOUT DISEASE IN JAIL

Mild Case of Smallpox Says Dr. Morgan—Prisoner Isolated.

PLANS CONSIDERED.

County Council Wishes To Have Aldermen View Drawings of Addition.

Dr. Morgan, the jail physician, was asked to appear before the County Council yesterday afternoon and explain the case of small pox in the jail as some of the councillors wished to know the truth about the case.

Dr. Morgan stated that the case was of a very mild type. The prisoner, who is in for a considerable length of time, is isolated in one of the four corridors, and the prisoners who were in communication with this man before the disease developed on May 30 have also been isolated in a corridor. All the prisoners but two have been vaccinated and one of these had been vaccinated lately and the other refused to be done. The prisoner is fed by one of the other prisoners and R. Rae, turnkey of the goal, only unlocks the door to let the prisoner in. This is as far as he comes in contact with the case. The dishes of this prisoner are used by him solely and after each meal are put in a strong solution of carbolic acid. Dr. Morgan considered that more care was being taken with this case than with plenty of cases and if anything else was to be done it was up to the health authorities. The Warden expressed himself as satisfied with the precautions taken.

The plans for the addition to be built to the north end of the court house were submitted to the committee of the council, with Reeve Parker in the chair. These plans have been accepted by the Attorney-General's department. The committee asked that the city council be present at some of the present sessions of the council to discuss the plans.

The finance committee then met, with Reeve Middleton in the chair.

The budget for this year was read and passed and the expenditure of the year so far was also adopted.

TRAIN HITS TRUCK KILLING ONE MAN

Life of Another Passenger Despaired Of—Accident at Lancaster.

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., June 17. —(Canadian Press.)—George Duval, aged 50, a manufacturer, was instantly killed, and William Hamelin, a laborer in his employ, was so seriously injured that his life is despaired of, when a Canadian National Railway freight train struck the truck they were driving through Lancaster village.

Hamelin had one of his arms broken and he suffered internal injuries. The truck was smashed to kindling wood.

MORE POWER FOR KINGSTON

Utilities Commission Asks Hydro To Supply More in Fall.

FOR INDUSTRIES.

TORONTO, June 17 (Canadian Press).—The Kingston Public Utilities Commission waited on the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission here yesterday to ask for more power for the eastern part of the province this fall. The request was prompted, it is understood, by an improved industrial situation. The Ontario Power Commission will review the situation and will be able, it is understood, to take care of the Kingston application if the situation warrants.

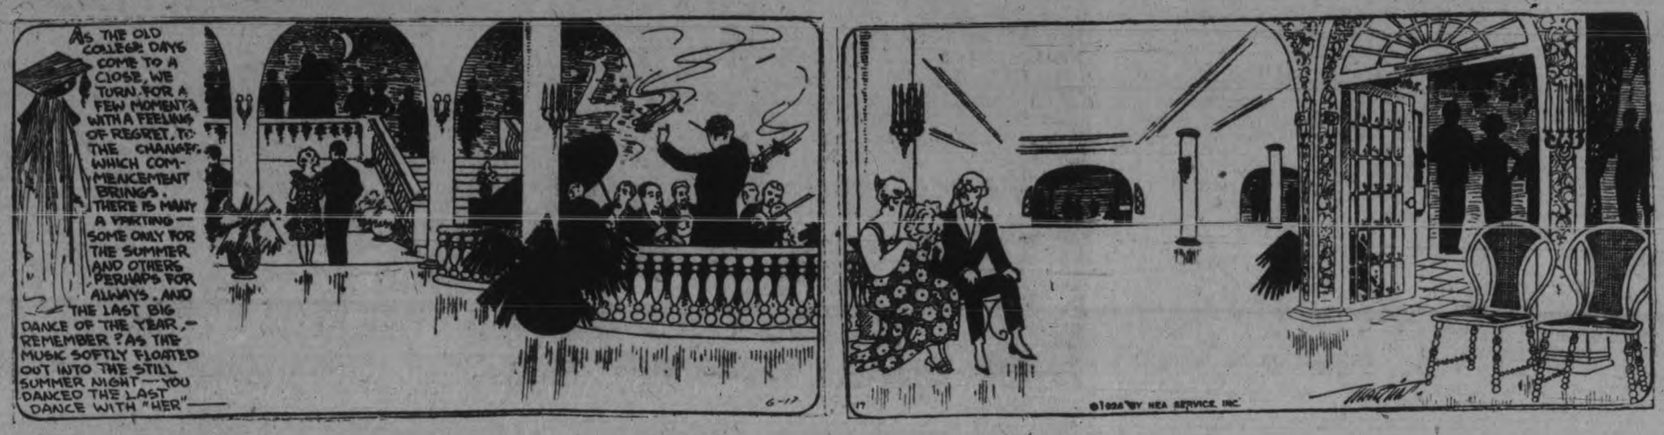
"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"



REV. JOSEPH WILKS, 80 YEARS OLD IS "AT HOME" TO MANY FRIENDS

Many Expressions of Congratulation Received By Veteran Clergyman.

AT MILLBROOK.

Now Retired, He Has Served in Many Lands Since Ordination.

MILLBROOK, June 17. — Rev. Joseph Wilks, who was born in London, England, in 1846, and who is known and loved by members of all denominations, not only in this locality, but wherever he has served during his long and varied ministerial career, observed the eightieth anniversary of his birth on Monday, June 14, he and Mrs. Wilks being "At Home" afternoon and evening for the occasion.

Had it not been for the very unfavorable weather, callers from a radius of several miles distance would have been present to express congratulations and good wishes; and yet, nothwithstanding the heavy and persistent rain, particularly at night, a large number of local residents gladly availed themselves of the opportunity to call and personally convey their best wishes "for many happy returns of the day."

Mr. Wilks has served in some of the far corners of the earth during his almost fifty years in the active ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in which he was ordained by the late Dr. Carmen, in 1873, when the latter was Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada.

After ten years in Ontario pastorates, Mr. Wilks transferred to the Michigan Conference to which he still bears a retired relationship.

In 1884 he was a member of Bishop Taylor's Self-Supporting Mission to Africa, sailing with a party of forty from Liverpool, and he has many interesting incidents to relate in connection with the four years spent in Portuguese West Africa. The men of the party, led by Bishop Taylor, who was a noted pedestrian, walked the 200 miles into the interior, the lady members travelling in hammocks with native carriers. The men had to be gradually broken in to the long tramp, two or three miles being made the first day, five or six the next, and so on until a maximum of fifteen miles a day was reached. The Bishop would change his stride on different days, using a long step, and at other times a shorter one, thus bringing another set of muscles into play and relieving the weariness of his followers in this way.

An amusing incident was connected with some of the women of the party who elected to walk and shortened their skirts considerably for convenience in getting through the long grass; on being told that only convicts in that part of Africa wore short skirts, their predicament was rather serious, and yet ludicrous, for they had used up the material cut from their skirts for other purposes and had no means of lengthening them again. To have some of the missionaries arrive in convicts' garb was apt to lessen the prestige of the party at the outset.

A call at the cosy home of the Rev. and Mrs. Wilks, with a request to be shown the curios brought from the Dark Continent and other parts of the world, is a matter of interest and profit. A native flour sifter, over a foot in height and shaped in graceful lines after a vase pattern, made of fine wicker work, is a veritable ornament. So also is the large tray of woven grasses which has wonderfully retained its natural coloring after more than thirty-five years of possession. The tea set of native manufacture which goes with the tray is a decided curiosity. The spout of the tea pot, though finely woven, has evidently possibilities of leakage and juts out from the very bottom round of the wicker, while the small cups are woven firmly with the saucer, the latter being three or four inches in diameter.

Examples of native embroidery and of intricate patterns in Indian bead work are among other unusual possessions.

Mr. Wilks served a pastorate during strenuous pioneer days in Montana when in the county seat the saloons and gambling dens equalled in number the business houses of the city.

Ten years among the Mormons in Utah is an unforgettable memory as the fight against the practice of polygamy reached a climax. Mr. Wilks was a member of the Ministerial Association of Salt Lake City during the strenuous campaign when the task of unseating B. H. Roberts, an avowed polygamist, from his place in the U. S. Senate, to which he had been elected, was successfully undertaken. The association had often to hold its meetings behind closed doors with outside guards to prevent Mormon sleuths from securing information concerning working plans.

Previous to his retirement in 1916, seven years were spent in the home mission fields in Nevada and California. Since coming to Millbrook ten years ago Mr. Wilks, who seems to have learned the secret of perpetual youth so optimistic is his outlook and so bouyant his spirit, has continued to do pulpit supply work locally and at outside points, and still quite capably takes full charge of two services a Sunday when occasion arises.

He is the energetic superintendent of the Home Department of the United Church Sunday School, besides doing good service for the Lord's Day Alliance, the temperance cause and in other ways.

His reputation as a successful coin and stamp collector is widely known, having been engaged in the former for over seventy years, and the latter for more than half that time.

Early summer flowers and an atmosphere of genuine welcome, made the warm, bright rooms very attractive to the many callers on Monday, and formed a pleasant contrast to the wet and disagreeable conditions out of doors. Mrs. W. E. Russell, Mrs. F. H. Howard, Mrs. (Dr.) Rea and Miss M. Christie assisted Mrs. Wilks in looking after the guests.

A purse containing eighty gold dollars was a private gift that marked the occasion for Mr. Wilks in an especial manner.

GARDEN PARTY IS HELD INSIDE

Heavy Rains on Monday Fail To Dampen Spirit of Jubilee.

AT OMEMEE CHURCH.

OMEMEE, June 17.—The Golden Jubilee garden party which was held on Monday evening displayed prominently the spirit of the men and women of half a century ago, for although not many of the church members of that day now remain, those who do, and their children, braved one of the worst storms of the season to be present again and see to a finish the splendid jubilee celebration commenced on Sunday.

The Sunday school room was most attractive, with its yellow shaded lights and table decorations of white and gold, and the supper with its abundant menu of cold, home cooked ham, pickles, salads, rolls, bread and butter, pies, cakes tarts, and all the good things for which the Omemee ladies are noted, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The weather may have had a dampening effect on those who remained at home to mourn but not so with those who were present, for it was indeed a time of jubilee and smiles and genial good fellowship reigned supreme.

Places were filled and refilled and when it was time for the programme the church was comfortably filled.

The Peterboro orchestra accompanied by groups of friends heeded not the weather but arrived in good time to entertain and be entertained. Rev. Dewey Stinson and Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, both old Omemee boys, drove forty and fifty miles to be present.

The orchestra of the George street United Sunday school provided one of the best programmes for an entertainment of this sort and were most generous in their numbers, being called on for double encores repeatedly. Mr. Cunningham, under whose direction the orchestra is conducted, is to be heartily congratulated on the splendid talent composing this group, listened to on Monday night. Particular mention might be made of the splendid rendition of the Monastery Garden by the orchestra, the solos by Miss Coon, the duets with stringed accompaniment by the Misses Tretheway, the male quartette and a very fine violin duet by two young men, with piano accompaniment.

Among the speakers of the evening were: Rev. William Johnson, a former pastor now over eighty years of age, who delivered a brief address; Rev. John Morgan, a former Omemee boy; Rev. W. J. H. Symth, of Wellington, who with true Irish wit explained why there were so many Smiths. "In the beginning all people were named Smith and as they fell from grace they were named Rowland, Morgan, Johnston, Stinson, etc. Rev. Dewey Stinson also spoke briefly and during the course of his address told several splendid and humorous stories,

Rev. J. Black, of Plainsfield, who had driven that distance through the downpour was a welcome visitor and his short address was heard with pleasure.

On Tuesday evening another gathering was held, there having been made ample provision for what was expected to have been the largest garden party in Omemee. A splendid supper was again served for the small fee of 15 cents.

Following is the programme given:

Opening selection by the Orchestra.
Solo—Miss Elma Coon.
Selection by Orchestra.
Selection by guitars, mouth-organ and piano.
Reading—Miss Margaret Walker.
Violin duet—Arnold Spencer, Roy Rome.
Male Quartette—Messrs. Lillow, Biggs, Thompson, Cunningham.
Selection by Orchestra.
Solo—Miss Elma Coon.
Mouth-Organ selections — Mr. Stanley Thompson; accompaniment by Miss Laura McFarlane.
Selection by Orchestra.
String duet—Misses Tretheway.
Selection by Orchestra—Monastery Garden.
Selection by Orchestra—March.
God Save the King.

A sad misfortune befell little Audrey Baxter, granddaughter of Mrs. Alf. Lloyd, on Wednesday afternoon, when she fell backward from off a couch and fractured her arm. Medical aid was summoned and the little two-year-old will be forced to wear a splint for several weeks to come.

A new bus service between Lindsay and Peterborough commenced on Friday morning last. The schedule arranged so far is two in the morning and again at 1.30 in the morning and again at 1.30 in the afternoon with return trips at 10 o'clock and 5 in the evening. Several citizens, who have already tested the service, speak well of those in charge, although Omemee does not lack for good train service to either points.

TO SAVE THE ROADS.

Another angle to the discussion of the speed of motor buses and trucks is furnished by City Engineer W. P. Near of London, who complaining that "speeding heavy trucks is terrible punishment to the city streets," is out with a proposal that a speed of fifteen miles an hour be made the maximum within the city limits of London.

In fact, Mr. Near would put governors on heavy machines so that they could not travel at a greater rate of speed than fifteen miles an hour.

It is the verdict of highway engineers generally that speeding, even of light cars, results in excessive wear and tear of road surfaces—hence the series of advertisements with which the Ontario Department of Education last year sought to educate the people of Ontario to a realization of the fact that every time they drove at an illegal speed they are not only breaking the law but they are destroying their own property.

If this be true of pleasure cars, it must necessarily to a much greater degree be true of heavy motor buses and trucks.

THE MILITIA'S PROBLEM.

The case of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, Peterboro's cavalry unit, which is in camp at the Exhibition Grounds, illustrates the difficulties under which Canada's militia officers are struggling to keep their organization together and to get the maximum training from the sketchy funds provided for the purpose.

The appropriation for the Dragoons' training, the Examiner learns, is so small that the full establishment of officers cannot take in the camp, it being found necessary to leave some of them out in order to provide for the training of more men.

Similarly in the case of the Machine Gun Company, which is to have three days' training at the beginning of next month, the appropriation is not large enough to properly feed the men, and the balance will have to come out of the pockets of the officers.

The Canadian militia has indeed fallen upon dreary times, and the wonder of it all is that that every patriotic impulse to serve the country has not been killed in the breasts of the officers of the various units.

The militia is sound if it is given half a chance.

The war experience of thousands of enthusiastic young officers is available.

The other day thousands of American spectators sat in the immense ball stadium at Cleveland and watched with warm admiration a Toronto militia regiment, the Toronto Scottish, perform the beautiful ceremony of "trooping the colours" with the precision of regulars.

This is one of the units which is "carrying on" despite the stepmotherly treatment accorded by the nation's Parliament.

Unfortunately, rural regiments have not the same advantages, and in their case the fight for existence is well nigh hopeless.

WEAR A MAPLE LEAF.

"Canadians have reason to celebrate with whole-hearted enthusiasm what has been achieved thus far in laying the national foundations. Dominion Day should be observed every year in a way that would show we have a real love of country and a pride in its history. If we do not do this how can we expect the young people and newcomers to become imbued with a strong spirit of patriotism?"—Winnipeg Free Press.

With this viewpoint the Examiner is in thorough agreement.

We have in this country thousands of new citizens who know practically nothing of Canadian history.

When they see us treating the national holiday as an occasion of trifling importance it is impossible to expect that they will make any substantial progress toward becoming real Canadians.

From some broadcasting station across the border the other night—just where the listener-in didn't ascertain, for the message was wiped out by heavy static before it was finished—there floated out on the air a flowery tribute to the United States flag and what it stands for.

Exaggerated, it may have been, full of spread eagleism, blatant, boastful too to Canadian ears, yet the value of such a message as a stimulus to the patriotic spirit of American listeners was apparent.

It is possible that our neighbors do too much of that kind of thing; there is no doubt that we do too little.

Their methods have been successful in building up a love of country, a national spirit that makes every American consider the United States "God's country."

We could profitably take a leaf from their book, and no better time to start offers itself than Dominion Day.

Let Peterboro as a loyal Canadian city make a little history on her own account by wearing the maple leaf on Canada's birthday.

"A MORE PLEASING OUTLOOK."

At the beginning of May it was evident that some doubt existed as to whether trade, especially in foreign fields, could be conducted along as favourable a course as during the six previous months, says the monthly commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Retail merchants and some wholesale distributors found that the prolonged unseasonable weather was interfering with the disposal of merchandise, field work in many of the farming districts was unduly delayed and there was the possibility of a lengthy tie-up of Great Britain's industries which would affect adversely the most important market for our surplus products. Fortunately, business in general has rested on a sound foundation and can withstand temporary setbacks without serious results, while the termination of the general strike in the Old Country and the advent of better weather have provided a clearer and more pleasing outlook.

As long as the coal strike lasts Great Britain's industries will be handicapped, and at present some branches of Canadian business are feeling the influence of the situation existing in the Old Country. Domestic trade as a whole is now of satisfactory volume and the public is purchasing liberally, but not extravagantly. We have received reports from a few points of a slackening of industrial operations, but this is mainly seasonal; most of the manufacturers who have shared in the increased business which commenced eight months ago are still working on higher production schedules than in the spring of 1925.

The Dominion Government has estimated that about 13 per cent. of the fall wheat sown on 861,000 acres has been winter-killed as compared with 4 per cent. in 1925, the damage of this kind being the most severe since 1918, but not in excess of the ten-year average. It is also reported that owing to weather conditions during last fall and winter the hay crop in the older sections of Ontario may be reduced considerably. Up to 10th May very little progress in spring plowing and planting was made in Eastern Canada, but favourable weather has prevailed since that date.

In the Prairie Provinces seeding of spring wheat was practically completed by the third week in May and a good start had been made in sowing course grains. Throughout most of this area the weather was favourable both for seeding and germination; in addition, the danger of extensive soil drifting on seeded ground was removed by quite heavy rains and the crop situation is most promising, except in some parts of the southern sections of Alberta and Saskatchewan where the need of rain is now rather urgent.

In British Columbia the growth of field crops is generally a month ahead of last year, while the absence of winter injury to the trees, the present bloom and other favourable signs indicate a large yield of fruit.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

Figures given out by the Institute of Social and Religious Research at Washington lend color to the view that villages throughout the United States are holding their own in population with the urban centres. From that fact the deduction is made that the rural areas have not been losing to the extent popularly assumed. The essential issue, however, is not materially affected by the single truth that villages have both multiplied and grown in individual numerical strength. The phenomenon of segregation in cities and towns—the urban crowding—remains undisturbed, and to that extent the disparity as between urban and rural population has been steadily increasing for fully four decades. The movement from the land to the bright lights has not been checked by what has happened in respect of the villages; and in that movement lies the germ of a great social and economic problem.

We have the same problem, in degree at least, in Canada. In 1891 the population of the Dominion was made up of 3,276,141 classified as rural, and 1,537,098 classified as urban. In 1921 the figures were 4,436,361 and 4,352,122, respectively. That is to say, while the proportions stood at 68.2 per cent. in the country districts to 31.8 per cent. in the cities and towns in 1891, almost an equality had been reached in 1921. Perhaps a more illuminating way of putting it is to say that while the rural population was growing by 34.6 per cent. the urban population had expanded by 183.1 per cent. That is the significant and controlling fact in the whole matter. The census figures do not reveal an actual loss on the part of the rural districts—on the contrary, they show a gain of 1,140,221 during the period—but, on the other hand, the urban gain was 2,814,024. In other words, nearly two and a half persons took up residence in the urban centres to one who was added to the country areas.

There is room for diversified views as to why this change has taken place. Beyond doubt the towns and cities have been swollen by thousands of farmers who have retired on the fruits of their toil. Other thousands have gravitated from the farms to the populous centres because of a preference for urban conditions. Whether or not they won happiness in that way is open to argument. But the supreme factor in what has happened is to be identified as the industrial development of the Dominion. That has been the salient force at work in creating a steady approach toward the numerical supremacy of the cities and towns. There can scarcely be any doubt that at this stage, five years after the census data had been gathered, a majority of the Canadian people is to be found in the urban class. If the rate of urban growth which obtained prior to 1921 has been maintained—and everything points to that probability—then the rural population of the Dominion is now in the minority.

We have not, in the political sense, made adjustments to meet this change. In the councils of the nation a rural vote far outweighs an urban vote. It takes from 50,000 to 90,000 of a population to send one member to Parliament from our larger cities, whereas there are many rural ridings of less than 20,000. This is, of course, contrary to the principle of representation by population which lies at the base of our Parliamentary system. While a good deal is to be said in defence of this anomaly, it is nevertheless a thing which insistently calls for broad and rational treatment. As matters stand, the cities are very clearly suffering an injustice. It means that the will of the majority at large might easily be thwarted by the representatives of the minority in Parliament. Such a contingency should be anticipated and guarded against by a just redistribution of seats looking to some approach to equality as between rural and urban representation.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Wear a maple leaf on Dominion Day.

At least the Customs Probe Committee has no reason to complain of lack of material from which to compile a report.

Radio waves are blamed by Painleve, French Minister of War, as a cause of wet weather. The world probably has not yet recovered from the effect of "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" broadcasted on every wave length.

The Financial Post says that even 40-minute speeches in Parliament are too long. The average member finds it hard to say something worth while for that length of time.

It is tragically true, as a contemporary puts it, that many a bright youth who couldn't swim has had his obituary written after the canoe upset.

France and Spain will now start to argue it out in regard to the Riffs. Who won the war?—St. Catharines Standard.

What some of us need is more horsepower and not so much exhaust.—Colden Sun.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BE GRATEFUL.

The thing that bothers me most is to be satisfied with less than I hope to achieve.

It will bother any man of ambition and pride, but no man will attain to the complete fulfillment of his hopes, so the thing to do is to be grateful. You will never be satisfied.

ABOUT TOURISTS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Canadian auto tourists in the U.S. find everywhere the sign "meals and accommodation for tourists." Private houses, farm houses and inns abound with cheap and good meals and lodging for small parties. Down in the heart of New York state you can get tea, bed and breakfast, beautiful and clean, for $1.50. You find signs everywhere like "tea gardens" in England. If we want to get tourist trade here we must wake up and drop high charges. The Yankees are working mightily to keep their people at home.

WHERE ARE THE GIRLS?

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—At a missionary concert in Millbrook the other evening the audience joined in that old familiar song, "Oh! where is my wandering boy tonight?"

In view of the fact that what with drinking and loud dress and the great number of wandering girls on this continent how would it do to begin singing "Where is my wandering girl to night?" and if you don't know I can tell you. If it were not for the multitudes of dangerous girls the boys would be all right. There are more cases of bad girls going into New York and Chicago every day than of whiskey.

—One of the boys.

GREAT LAKES HARD TO NAVIGATE

The Great Lakes are really quite difficult to navigate, there being as many as five hundred reefs and shoals, all of which are a menace to navigators. Ship masters must know not only about where they are located but how far they extend and be able to give them a wide berth in all kinds of weather. There are also nearly a thousand lights on the Great Lakes, each light having definite meanings for each of its characteristic flashings.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, June 17.—Light run was easily cleaned up yesterday, choice cattle holding strong at this week's advances. A bunch of five exceptionally well finished heavy export steers, 1,376 lbs., owned and fed by J. Holland, of Peterboro, shipped by F. Renwick, of Keene, sold by the U.F.O. to James McArthur, at $9.50, top price for heavy steers this week. These cattle will be exported to Glasgow.

All grades of butcher cattle sold steady to strong, except the heavy bulls, and there are inclined a little easier, since few of their class have been taken by exporters this week.

Small meats steady.

Hogs a little unsettled, packers bidding 25c lower, but prospects at noon that market would settle steady at $15.00 off cars.

Heavy steers, choice, $8.25 to $9.50 choice butcher steers form at $7.75 to $8.65; extra choice, selected butcher steers, $8.75 to $8.85; choice heifers, $7.25 to $7.75; medium and common, $6 to $6.50.

Choice fat cows firm, $6 to $6.75.

Bulls, steady, choice butcher, not too heavy, $5.50 to $6.25; medium and heavy, $5.25 to $5.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 17.—(Canadian Press)—Profit taking sales near the close coupled with a lack of outside demand caused a late reaction in wheat on the Board of Trade yesterday, wiping out nearly all of an earlier gain. Corn was independently easier all day. Wheat closed 1-4c net lower to 1-2c higher, corn 1-8 to 3-8c down and oats 1-4c to 5-8c off, provisions varied from 10c decline to a 27c gain.

Bullish foreign crop estimates were largely responsible for the upward tendency in early trading. Private cables said that the French crop prospects have deteriorated on a large scale, one report placing the loss this year at from 30,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels, as compared with a year ago, and declaring that the development of French wheat this season is backward by from two to four weeks. Accompanying these reports was word that the French Chamber of Deputies had voted to suspend the import duties on foodstuffs.

Crops in Western Germany also were said to be deteriorating rapidly owing to incessant rains, and inquiries were made for offers on early shipments of wheat and rye from the United States.

There was good commission house buying of July delivery around $1.42, but the market then became overbought and a decided reaction from top levels ensued. Word that the harvest was progressing rapidly in the southwest, except where delayed by rain, acted somewhat as an offset to the bullish news. The forecast was for generally fair weather, with good rains in parts of Nebraska, the Dakotas and the Canadian Northwest.

Corn was easy, Commission houses bought freely at the start, but the market met selling based on better weather conditions for the crop. Oats covered a narrow price range and eased off with corn.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 17—(Canadian Press).—The feature of the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was the increased demand from foreign buyers. The prices bid were in line with exporters' views and a moderate volume of business was transacted.

The trade in cash grain on the domestic market was also more active, there being an improved demand from exporters and sales of several loads of No. 2 Northern wheat were made at 12 1-2 cents per bushel over Winnipeg July option, C.I.F. Montreal. The car lot business was quiet, but prices were unchanged.

The export and domestic trade in spring wheat flour today was fairly active and prices were well maintained. The demand for winter wheat grades was quiet but the undertone was steady.

The millfeed market was moderately active and firm. Extreme dullness marked the trade in standard grades of rolled oats.

The undertone to the egg situation continued firm and the trade volume was fair. Receipts were 812 cases.

Further weakness developed in the potato market and prices were reduced ten to thirty cents per bag.

Prices for all grades of butter were reduced 1-2 cent per pound. The weakness was attributed to the increased offerings. The receipts were 886 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was easier and prices declined 1-2 to 5-8 cent per pound. The receipts were 5,721 boxes.

Business in beans was reported quiet, but prices were about steady at the recent decline. Choice white hand-picked stock were quoted at $2.15 per bushel in car lots, and at $2.25 to $2.35 per bushel in smaller lots.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 17 (Canadian Press)—Winnipeg is offering seconds at Montreal at twenty-five f.o.b. Prince Edward Island is offering the same grade at twenty-eight delivered and finding difficulty in clearing. Lower prices on seconds are expected at Montreal.

Toronto—Country shippers report much lighter receipts. They are paying producers extras 30 to 31, firsts 29, seconds 22 and making sales extras 35 to 36, firsts 34, seconds 27 in export cases. Quotations for eggs in used cases are 2c less.

Montreal dealers paying delivered extras 32 to 35, firsts 30 to 31, seconds 30 to 32. Consumptive demand is good.

Winnipeg market is steady. Dealers quoting country shippers extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 21 to 22 delivered cases returned. prices to retailers extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 27. Retail extras 37 to 39, firsts 35, seconds 30. Receipts for the week ending June 12th were 6,343 cases as compared with 6,185 cases for the previous week.

Saskatchewan dealers paying country shippers extras 35 to 36, firsts 23 to 24, seconds 18 delivered cases returned. Prices to retailers extras 30 to 32, firsts 27 to 28, seconds 22 to 35. Retail extras 35 to 40, first 30 to 35, seconds 25.

Calgary—Country shippers making sales extras 23, firsts 21, seconds 16. Jobbing extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 25.

Edmonton—Country dealers making sales extras 25, firsts 23, seconds 16. Prices to retailers extras 36, firsts 32, seconds 26.

Every Motorist a

Monarch

Supreme in the Empire of Ontario's Beauty

GOOD roads in Ontario have made each motorist the Monarch of an Empire of natural charm and beauty. This Empire is his to know and to enjoy, with convenience and ease.

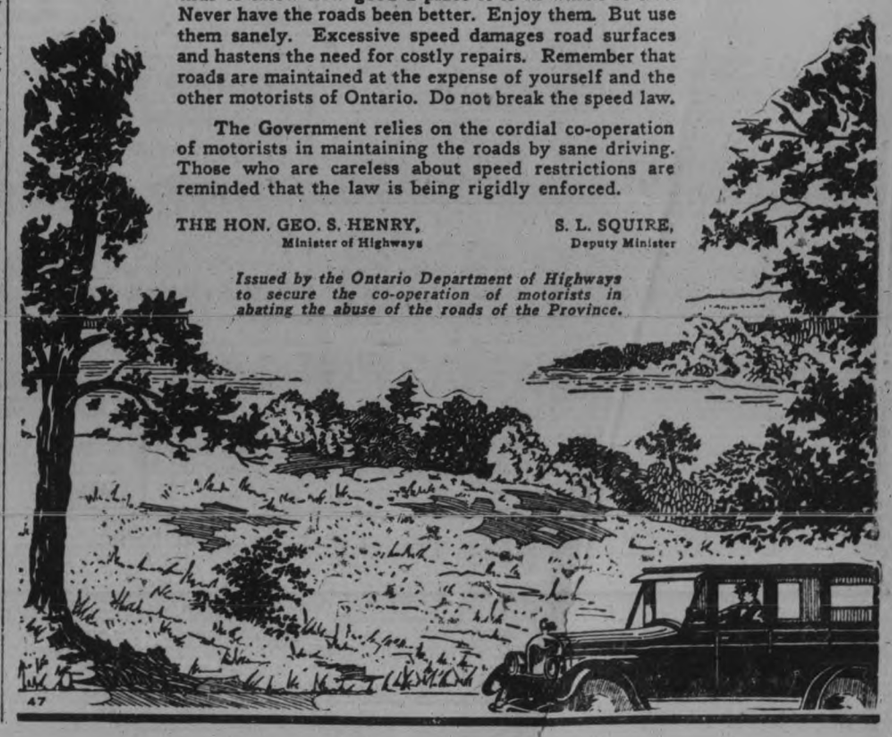
In an hour or less, he can pass through unequalled scenes of farmland, lake and stream—can mount hills which open out a wide and colourful panorama—can descend into valleys where nature is most exquisite because most intimate.

The highways invite you to see your Province and thus to know how good a place it is in which to live. Never have the roads been better. Enjoy them. But use them sanely. Excessive speed damages road surfaces and hastens the need for costly repairs. Remember that roads are maintained at the expense of yourself and the other motorists of Ontario. Do not break the speed law.

The Government relies on the cordial co-operation of motorists in maintaining the roads by sane driving. Those who are careless about speed restrictions are reminded that the law is being rigidly enforced.

THE HON. GEO. S. HENRY, Minister of Highways
S. L. SQUIRE, Deputy Minister

Issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.



OVA SCOTIA MINISTER URGES NATIONAL POLICY TO DEVELOP DOMESTIC PRODUCTION OF COAL

ggests Erection of Coking Plants at Points Serving Large Populations.

U. S. PRIVILEGES.

otection and Subvention For Maritime Fuel Are mong Recommendations.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian ress). — Recommendations for a tional fuel policy, to supply Can- a's coal consumption from her n mines, were made this after- on by Hon. G. S. Harrington, nister of Public Works and Mines Nova Scotia, before the special nmittee of the House investigat- the Dominion's anthracite pply.

Chief among the recommendations de by Mr. Harrington were: —Governmental assistance to se- e the erection of coking plants hin Canada at points serving ge centres of population;

—The granting of a subvention Maritime coal water-borne to ntreal when carried by rail west Montreal;

—Protection to Maritime coal m unfair competition by Ameri- producers, and —Cancellation of the bonding vilege for American coal for nker supplied in Canada.

"It appears to me essential that in nada we make up our mind at the commencement whether or not we can adopt something in the nature of a national fuel policy, the aim and object of which would be to produce within Canada the coal that we consume in the Dominion," he declared. Such a policy should, stated Mr. Harrington, be adopted.

He pointed out that thirty million tons of oal were consumed annually in Canada. Yet, seventeen million tons of this total were imported.

"I would suggest," said Mr. Harrington, that the subvention voted last year for the carriage of coal west of Montreal be re-voted for coal carried by water to Montreal and shipped by rail.

Adirondack Rum Roads Under Armed Patrols

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 17 (A.P.)—High powered automobiles manned with armed men will patrol the Adironack mountains near the summer White House this summer in an effort to check the liquor-laden caravans from Canada. Major Eugene Roberts, dry administrator for upstate New York, announces that the federal court had been requested to condemn a number of fast automobiles sized from bootleggers for use of federal agents. He also stated that as many men as could be spared from other duties would go to the Adirondacks.

EDERAL AND DOMINION POLITICS DISCUSSED BY CONSERVATIVES ANNUAL MEETING AT KINGSTON

r. Manion, Dr. Edwards and Mr. De Witt Foster Criticise King Administration.

MAJOR LEWIS.

ays Talk of Tory Unrest Is Product of Imagination of Liberal Press.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 7 (Canadian Press).—Condemnation of the King administration at Ottawa for what was termed its record of "incompetent government, extravagance and broken promises," was delivered b Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, M.P. Fort William; Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., Frontenac-Addington; A. de Witt Foster, M.P. Hants-Kings; and Major A. C. Lewis, M.L.A. Toronto Northeast, at the annual meeting and picnic of the Conservative Asociation of Frontenac-Addington this afternoon at Lake Ontario Park. The picnic was attended by hundreds of Conservatives from all parts of the riding.

Hon. Dr. Manion reviewed the work of the present session of the Federal partliament and declared hat the record of the government ad been one of bribery to the Progressives, extravagance and inefficiency. He declared himself in favor the national policy as enunciated Sir John A. MacDonald in 1878 nd stated that he stood behind Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons in carrying out hat policy as the best for Canada. Hon. Dr. Manion charged that the King Government since the last Federal election had broken promise fter promise and had played entirely into the hands of the Progressives.

Mr. de Witt Foster

Mr. de Witt Foster declared that he policy of the King Government had been ruinous for the Maritimes and cited figures to show that production in the Eastern Provinces had continually dropped since the present administration assumed power. Thousands of people from the provinces were being forced, he said, to enter the United States in order to earn a livelihood.

Hon. Dr. Edwards spoke briefly nd declared that the Liberal government was legislating for the benefit of the United States' farmers and other high protection countries.

Major Lewis

Major Lewis dealt with provincial matters and declared that though he had been a supporter of temperance in the City of Toronto for the past thirty years, he felt that the Ontario Temperance Act, while it had done some good, had given the province many problems which were not in existence before the act was put in force. He said that the talk of unrest among Conservatives in Ontario was purely the "imagination of the Liberal press." Ontario, he said, had never had such an able government as that of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

FIRE DESTROYS LINDSAY PLANTS AND EQUIPMENT

Two Plants Gutted—Were Running at Full Capacity.

STILL BURNING.

Broke Out in Lumber Piles of Gull River Co. and Lindsay Woodworkers Plants.

LINDSAY, Ont., June 17 (Special)—This morning at one o'clock fire broke out in the lumber piles of the Gull River Co. and Lindsay Woodworkers plants in the Sylvester building opposite the Central Park. The two plants were completely gutted and stock and equipment destroyed. Both plants were running at full capacity and some fifty men are thrown out of work. The loss is roughly estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000. The firemen were still fighting the flames at eight o'clock this morning. The Sylvester Manufacturing Company's wing of the building was saved.

D'Annunzio Tells World He Has Locked Himself Up

GARDONE, Italy, June 17 (A.P.) — Babriele D'Annunzio, soldier, poet, notified the world today through a communication to the press that he had shut himself in his workshop and would remain there until All Saints' Day (November 1).

"Gabriele D'Annunzio," the communication reads, "notifies his innumerable clients — and without bitterness the many mad men who wave flags, and the mad men who in chains attracted by his ancient wisdom—that from June 11 until All Saints' Day he will remain shut up in his workshop where his daily labors cannot be interrupted except by an unanticipated thunderbolt."

M. P. PHYSICIANS LEFT COMMONS TO GIVE SCRIPTS

Members Paired in Vote of Confidence in the Government.

SOME ABSENTEES.

Three Government Supporters and One Conservative Not Paired.

OTTAWA, June 17.—Three members—all Government supporters, were away without pairs in the division that took place in the House yesterday morning. Only one Conservative was absent without being paired—George B. Jones, of New Brunswick. He was supposed to be paired until yesterday with Thomas McMillan, of South Huron. Both went home last week but McMillan arrived back and voted yesterday morning.

Quit Before Midnight.

Sir George Perley and Hon. Chas. Marcil often do that and did it on Tuesday night. They quit before midnight. Hon. Edmond Bristol evidently did not consider the vote of sufficient importance to warrant his being on deck, but he was protected by a pair with Mr. Sam. Jacobs. Mr. Langworthy, Conservative, of Temiskaming, was away on business, but a Liberal, Dr. Deslauriers, who was present, didn't vote because of an arrangement. Alex. Chaplain, of Kent, who missed the first vital vote of the session, was on hand yesterday morning, but he accommodated George Parent, Liberal M.P. for Quebec, who could not be present. They were paired.

Too Many Scripts

Two local doctors upon whom many urgent calls were made for prescriptions or liquor 'scripts,' got fed up, and made an escape. They were Dr. Chabot, Conservative, of Ottawa, and Dr. Fontaine, Liberal, of Hull. Other pairs were between Dubuc, of Quebec, and White, of London, Liberal and Conservative, respectively; between C. W. Cross and Dr. Embury; between Gershaw, of Alberta, and Culligan, of New Brunswick; between Rheaume, of Montreal, and MacNutt, of Colchester, and between Prevost, of Terrebonne, and C. H. Cahan. Except the local men, those who were absent and paired are all said to be called away owing to the urgency of private business.

Rely on Them.

Two Alberta Progressives—Boutillier and Lucas—are now relied on by the Conservatives. The antecedents are Conservative, and if they have voted for the Government, it has usually been very much against the grain. Several other Progressives, who were reported as likely to go against the Government stayed put and failed to justify the assuring reports that came to the office of the general staff of the Board of Strategy.

LABOR OPPOSES SEVEN HOUR DAY

Premier Baldwin's Proposal To Miners Criticised By Ramsay MacDonald.

POLICY INADEQUATE.

LONDON, June 17 (Canadian Press).—The Parliamentary Labor party yesterday voted to resist strenuously the proposals outlined by Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons on Tuesday regarding re-organization of the coal industry.

The members at a special meeting presided over by former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, voted unanimously for a resolution declaring that the Government's declaration of policy on the mining crisis regarding the hours and wages was a violation of the recommendations made in the report of the royal commission.

The resolution also stated that the Government's policy was inadequate to meet the problems of the industry, was a surrender to the demand of the mine owners and was calculated to prolong and embitter the industrial struggle in the coal fields.

Mr. MacDonald already had expressed the opinion that Premier Baldwin's suggestion for a partial suspension of the seven-hour day would serve to make the miners more solid in their strike

Belgian Queen's Hair Is Not Bobbed, Shingled or Dropped Skill of Royal Hair Dresser Responsible For Appearance

BRUSSELS, June 17 (Canadian Press).—Queen Elizabeth's hair is not shingled, bobbed or dropped. Count P. De Liannoy, grand master of the house of the Queen of the Belgians, has issued an official denial of the insistant rumors that Belgium's charming Queen has had her hair cut off, to conform with the prevailing fashions.

"If Her Majesty looks as though her hair were shingled," says the master of the royal house, "that is because of the skill of her hairdresser, who is able to make the Queen's hair appear as if it were cut. But no scissors have touched her hair."

QUEBEC GOES AFTER RECKLESS DRIVERS

Patrol of Motor Cyclist Policemen Established on Main and Secondary Roads.

QUEBEC, June 17 (Canadian Press).—A patrol of 150 motor-cycle policemen was established here yesterday and posted on the main and secondary roads with the orders to check speeding. Announcing the formation of this new body, Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Highways, said that it was the Government's intention to put an end to the reckless motorist. Hereafter, anyone guilty of exceeding the speed-limit would be fined and would lose his license for a year, while the drunken motorist would be jailed.

Mr. Perron said that complaints in the Provincial highways office with regard to motor-car accidents and damage to the surface of the roads were multiplying, and that already considerable portions of the routes that had been repaired in the spring were now impassable.

Last year, he said, the Government had trusted the good sense of the public with regard to reckless driving, but the results showed that instead of decreasing, accidents had increased.

There were 100,000 motor cars registered in the province, he said, and 300,000 were expected to enter this season from United States points.

Whooping Cough School Opened For Anxious Pupils

NEEDHAM, Mass., June 17 (Associated Press).—A "whooping cough school" has been opened in Needham.

The disease has caused many pupils to be absent. Superintendent Davis obtained permission to open a school for whooping cough patients who have sufficiently recovered and thus prevent their failing of promotion.

IMPORTANT.—In preparing feeding mixtures it is imperative that all utensils, bottles, nipples, etc., should be sterilized in boiling water before using. Use a dry spoon in removing contents from the can, and in measuring be careful to pour from can to spoon, allowing the milk in the spoon to level itself. Repeat this procedure with every spoonful measured, using the same spoon every time. This will insure accurate measurement and produce the best results.

DIET FOR CHILD DURING THE SECOND YEAR

Usually after the twelfth month, the mother should select a diet schedule. Every new article of food should be carefully prepared, and given at first in very small quantities. All meals are to be given regularly, with nothing between meals. With many children this expansion of the diet list is attended with considerable difficulty. They are thoroughly satisfied with milk, and refuse all other form of nourishment. In such cases, withhold the milk until the more solid articles of food have been eaten. If both are given at the same time, the child will prefer the milk and when he has finished drinking it he will refuse the solid food. The following diet schedule will permit the mother to select a suitable meal from the foods listed. It is never advisable to make a change in diet during very hot weather.

NOTE: One teaspoonful of EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK added to one ounce of boiled water results in a mixture equivalent in nutritive value to whole milk. Whenever the word milk appears in the following diet, EAGLE BRAND should be diluted accordingly.

12th TO 15th MONTH---FIVE MEALS DAILY

7 A.M.—Oatmeal, barley, or wheat jelly, one to two tablespoonfuls in 6 or 8 ounces of milk. Stale bread and butter, or rusk and butter.

9 A.M.—The juice of one orange.

11 A.M.—Scraped rare beef, one to three tablespoonfuls, mixed with equal quantity of bread and moistened with beef-juice. Or a soft-boiled egg mixed with stale bread-crumbs; a piece of rusk and 6 or 8 ounces of milk.

3 P.M.— Beef, chicken, or mutton broth, with rice or stale bread broken into the broth. Six ounces of milk, if wanted. Stale bread and butter or rusk and butter. Many children at the above age will take and digest applesauce and prune pulp; when these are given, milk should be omitted.

6 P.M.—Two tablespoonfuls of cereal jelly in 8 ounces of milk; a piece of rusk. Stale bread and butter.

10 P.M.—A tablespoonful of cereal jelly in 8 ounces of milk.

15th TO 18th MONTH--FOUR MEALS DAILY

7 A.M.—Oatmeal, hominy, cornmeal, each cooked three hours the day before they are used. When the cooking is completed the cereal should be of the consistence of a thin paste. This is strained through a colander, which upon cooling will form a mass of jelly-like consistence. Of this give two or three tablespoonfuls, served with milk. 8 or 10 ounces of milk as a drink. Toast.

9 A.M.—The juice of one orange.

11 A.M.—A soft-boiled egg mixed with stale bread-crumbs, or one tablespoonful of scraped beef mixed with stale bread-crumbs and moistened with beef-juice. A drink of milk. Rusk or bran biscuit, or stale bread and butter.

3 P.M.—Mutton, chicken, or beef broth, with rice or junket or with stale bread broken in the broth. Custard, corn-starch, plain rice pudding, junket, stewed prunes, baked apple or apple sauce.

6 P.M.—Farina, cream of wheat, wheatena (cooked two hours). Give from one to three tablespoonfuls, served with milk. A drink of milk. Rusk or stale bread and butter.

18th TO 24th MONTH--FOUR MEALS DAILY

7 A.M.—Cornmeal, oatmeal, hominy (prepared as in the above schedule). Serve with milk, or with butter and salt. A soft-boiled egg every two or three days. Hashed chicken on toast occasionally. A drink of milk. Bran biscuit and butter, or stale bread and butter.

9 A.M.—The juice of one orange.

11 A.M.—Rare beef minced or scraped; the heart of a lamb chop, finely cut. Chicken. Spinach, asparagus tips, squash, strained stewed tomatoes, stewed carrots, mashed cauliflower. Baked apple or apple-sauce. Stale bread and butter. After the twenty-first month, baked potatoes and well-cooked strained beans.

3 P.M.—Chicken, beef or mutton broth, with rice or with stale bread broken into the broth. Custard, corn-starch, or plain rice pudding, junket, stewed prunes. Bran biscuit and butter or stale bread and butter.

6 P.M.—Farina, cream of wheat, wheatena (each cooked two hours). Give one to three tablespoonfuls, served with milk, or with butter and salt. A drink of milk. Rusk or stale bread and butter.

The following suggestions have proved to be helpful when properly used with bottle feedings, and they may be used in conjunction with Eagle Brand Condensed Milk.

Always pour the milk from the can into the spoon—allowing it to level itself but not run over. You can readily understand that by dipping the spoon into the can you get more than a level spoonful, because of the milk that would adhere to the bottom of the spoon.
When you have added the milk to the water stir thoroughly. This is important.
After opening, it is safe to leave the milk in the original can. We recommend that you cover the can tightly with an inverted cup, and keep it in a cool, clean place.

ORANGE JUICE

When baby is four months old, give one teaspoonful of strained orange juice, diluted with equal quantity of boiled water, once daily before feeding time. Gradually increase the amount until you are giving the strained juice of a half of an orange undiluted, once daily before feeding time. Orange juice may be continued until child is old enough to eat other fruits as well as oranges.

OATMEAL JELLY

When baby is five months old, add one teaspoonful of oatmeal jelly to each feeding. Gradually increase the amount until you are adding three tablespoonfuls of oatmeal jelly to each feeding. To make oatmeal jelly add four ounces of oatmeal to one pint of water; boil for three hours in a double boiler, and add enough water so when cooking is completed a thin paste will be formed. This while hot is forced through a strainer to remove coarser particles. When cold a semi-mass will be formed. Oatmeal jelly may be continued until child is old enough to eat well cooked whole cereals.

CONSTIPATION

Oatmeal water very often relieves this condition. To make oatmeal water add one heaping tablespoonful of oatmeal to one pint of water, and boil for three hours in a double boiler. This will make a little more than half a pint of thick gruel to which add one pint of water that has been boiled. After straining mixture through fine strainer, you should have a little more than a pint of whitish liquid. This should be used with each feeding instead of the plain boiled water. If you find that this makes bowels too loose, dilute oatmeal water with plain boiled water.

Barley or rice water may be used instead of oatmeal water. If necessary two to three drops of plain codliver oil may be given twice daily added to the morning and night feedings.

DIARRHEA

Give nothing but plain boiled water for twenty-four hours. Then start feeding with barley water, or rice water, to which has been added a little salt to improve the taste. If these feedings are retained, and bowel movements lessened, small amounts of very weak regular feedings may be started and gradually increased according to baby's condition. If your baby does not improve after trying the above suggestions, consult your doctor at once.

BARLEY WATER

Obtain the very best barley flour. Add one rounded tablespoonful to one pint of water. Boil for thirty minutes, strain; then add enough water to make one pint.

RICE WATER

Add one tablespoonful of rice to a pint of water. Boil three hours, adding water from time to time so that you will have one pint of rice water at the end of the three hours.

LIME WATER

It is seldom necessary to use lime water with Eagle Brand Milk but should there be undigested particles of food in the bowel movements (which seem to be otherwise normal) or should there be vomiting of large curds shortly after feeding—or colic—it would be then advisable to try lime water. Obtain freshly prepared lime water at the Druggists, of which add 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls to each feeding.

COLIC OR VOMITING

These conditions may be due to over feeding, or constipation. Reduce quantity of food and use constipation formula, or lime water formula, as given above.

NORWOOD BOARD HOLDS MEETING

Resignations of Three Teachers Accepted—Norwood News.

NORWOOD, June 17.—The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Thursday evening. Those present were Fred. Fry (chairman), Thomas Lumsden, John F. Elliott, E. C. Squire, J. A. Stevens, J. Marks, Edgar Buck, D. B. Cutcliffe, J. G. Keefer and J. A. Finlay.

Mr. Lumsden, chairman of the Property Committee, reported that the new insurance of $10,000 had been placed on the High and Public Schools; also that the school grounds had been graded.

Resignations were read from Miss D. E. Toye, Miss Grace Gillespie and Miss Margaret Graham, assistant teachers on the High School staff.

On motion of Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Keefer, the resignations were accepted and instructions issued for advertising for teachers to fill the positions, the board to meet to consider same on call of the chairman.

The Supply Committee was authorized to purchase a supply of chemical and the Property Committee given authority to purchase grass seed and have same planted on school grounds.

The following accounts were passed:

John E. Roxburgh, insurance on High School, $22.00; John E. Roxburgh, coal for High School, $283.50; John Baskin, work on High School, $10.00; John Baskin, work at Public School, $10.00; E. J. Laing, insurance on High School, $33.00.

The Property Committee was instructed to look into the matter of redecorating and repairing rooms in the Public and High Schools, and also to have the well fixed.

A monument to mark the grave of the late Theodore Burgess has recently been erected in the Norwood Cemetery by the Dominion War Graves Commission. The inscription on the monument reads: "Per Ardua Ad Astra, 171189, Captain Theodore Burgess, Royal Air Force, 25 April, 1918."

This is the second marker to be placed in the cemetery here by the commission, the other having been placed here some months ago, marking the grave of 195716, Private George H. Collins, 1st Battalion, C.E.F., who died Sept. 30, 1918.

Made Shipments.

DI MARIA RECALLED TO EUROPE BY POPE

May Go To Switzerland as Papal Nuncio—Attends Congress.

OTTAWA, June 17 (Canadian Press).—Mgr. Pietro Di Maria, Apostolic Delegate to Canada, announces in a letter addressed to the clergy of the Catholic Church in Canada that he has been recalled to Europe by His Holiness the Pope. Recent despatches from Europe announced that Mgr. Di Maria had been appointed Apostolic Nuncio to Berne, Switzerland, but confirmation of this announcement is not yet available. Mgr. De Maria left yesterday for Chicago to attend the Eucharistic Congress.

The date of his departure from Canada is not yet announced.

FRENCH PEOPLE WILL WEATHER PRESENT STORMS

Says Visitors in Montreal En Route For Eucharistic Congress.

BLAMES GERMANS.

Did Not Pay as Much as Was Expected—Politicians Also To Blame.

MONTREAL, June 17 (Canadian Press).—The French people are confident that they will weather the present storm. France will rise to the occasion soon and face her difficulties with undaunted spirit. This was the firm belief voiced by the Marquis de Dampierre, who was here yesterday en route to Chicago. The Marquis was accompanied by a party of sixteen French notables. "France is economically sound," he added, "despite the continual political disasters that have dogged the Government since the war. It has just been one unpleasant situation after another.

"The general conditions of the country are good. Industry is active and the people are working hard. However, the many setbacks due to politics are increasingly embarrassing. One administration after another is meeting a similar fate.

"Then there is the debt situation and negotiations with the United States. Of course I am not a politician, but one of the first difficulties was due to the tactics of the Germans who did not pay as much as France expected, and since the war it has been a hard grind for the government.

Tactics of Politicians

"The tactics of politicians is adding to this difficulty and the whole management of France's international affairs has not been as satisfactory as might be expected.

"But the difficulties are not insurmountable. The people of France realize the seriousness of the present situation and I have every confidence in the outcome.

"There is no such thing as a panic anywhere in the country. Politicians will in time forget their petty animosities and help the situation."

Distatorship

Questioned as to the probability of a dictatorship in France unless the politicians change their tactics, the Marquis said the outlook in this connection was very unpromising.

"Constructive action will have to come," he added, "but it will come in a very normal way and without any disturbance. The franc will gradually regain its strength and conditions are expected to improve from now on. A sound national constructive programme with the support of the people is what is needed and what will eventually come."

COMMONS REFUSES TO RECEIVE PETITIONS

"Absolutely," replied Mr. Meighen, who went on to say that Parliament had disarmed the courts from hearing evidence in such matter.

Any government that frustrated Mr. Collins' petition would show itself more interested in holding office than in right. The petitioner should not be turned away from Parliament until it could be established that there was some other place to which he could go.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe quoted the report of the Examiner of Petitions adverse to the receipt of the petition largely on the ground that it was a repetition of the one previously rejected by the house. The only cognizance the House could take of this matter he held was on a report of judges properly appointed to inquire into election cases.

Reservations.

Parliament had reserved to itself only those things it had not delegated to the courts and except as to the qualification of a member he contended that all matters regarding elections and the way they were conducted had been properly and exclusively referred to the courts. Mr. Lapointe was very emphatic in saying that a committee of parliament, no more than the courts, could not compel any man to declare for whom he voted.

"The Controverted Elections Act," he said, "changed the tribunals for hearing these cases, but the rules are just the same whether the case comes up in the courts or before a committee of this house."

A Governing Factor.

"To compel the House to deal with such matters as are in this petition," the minister declared, would be to revert to the day when political partizanship was the governing factor in the deliberations of the election committee. We are all human and all party men and parliament was wise when it decided that election cases should be dealt with by judges and not by political partisans."

The minister quoted Bourinot and May to show that any petition could be received "providing it does not deal with a matter coming within the meaning of the Controverted Elections Act." He held that clearly the Collins' petition came within the prohibition quoted.

Redress Lies With House.

Parliament, he said, had power to deal only with the qualifications of a member and no one could question Mr. Kennedy's qualifications. All other matters went to the courts and properly so.

Hon. R. B. Bennett said the point to keep in mind was that petition had been presented to the high court of Parliament. There was no other court in the land which could give to Collins a seat he declared had been stolen from him. It had been held that wherever there was a wrong there was a remedy. Had a wrong been done Collins, he thought the Minister of Justice would admit that there had been.

Would Have Had 100.

In this case the ballot in the boxes did not match the counterfoils. It was clear there was a wrong. The Supreme Court of Alberta had unanimously rejected "Baldy" Robb's appeal. In answer to J. S. Woodsworth he said that had the proper ballots been counted Collins would have had a majority of more than 100, no charge had been made of improper conduct at other polls. The insinuation that there might have been faults or wrongs at other polls was no reason for Kennedy holding the seat. It was not even an excuse. The courts declared that the other proceedings were right. It was wrong to say that there had been crookedness when the court said no.

No Such Court.

He challenged any lawyer on either side to say that there was a court that could give Collins the seat stolen from him. There was no such court. The only remedy was by a parliamentary committee. The House had control of its own membership. It had experienced its right to expel members. It had an inherent power to say who should sit in the House despite the voice of the electorate. Mr. Woodsworth asked if the election could be voided by the courts, Mr. Bennett said they could, but that did not give the seat to the man who was elected.

A First Step.

To Premier King Mr. Bennett said that the Judges could report to Parliament but this did not give the seat. Mr. Woodsworth suggested that this was a first step. Mr. Bennett asked if the Labor member was serious in saying that it was right to keep the property away from the man from whom it had been stolen. Even if Judges did make a report to Parliament they could only make the report on the evidence given before them, and the law prevented them, hearing in a civil action, the evidence on which "Baldy" Robb was sent down and which showed that the seat had been stolen.

Donaldson's Case.

Mr. Bennett cited the Donaldson case in Saskatchewan where the Legislature finding in a similar case that a wronged candidate had no remedy in law, called the clerk of the bar of the House ordered him to strike the name of the man declared elected and to place on the roll the name of Donaldson, who then took his seat. "This case of Collins may be your case and mine next year," said Mr. Bennett. "How would you feel then? I ask the members to remember that this is the high court of Parliament."

In answer to a question he declared that witnesses before the Privileges and Elections Committee must answer questions even though their answers should incriminate them. In the case of Collins, however, it would be unnecessary to summon the 111 witnesses who have been examined in the criminal court proceedings because the record of their evidence would be available to the committee.

C. G. Power (Liberal, Quebec South) asked Mr. Bennett if he would be willing to move that a witness who refused to tell how he voted, before the Privileges and Elections Committee, be punished.

Mr. Bennett replied that he would be willing to do so.

"That's not law," it's Toryism," interjected Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Mr. Bennett retorted that it was a matter of doing justice to a man whose seat in Parliament had been stolen from him.

Premium on Rascality.

To turn down the petition would mean that men, by the robbing of ballot boxes, could sit in the House of Commons in stolen seats and defy redress. It would put a premium upon rascality.

Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor-General, said that none of the evidence mentioned by Mr. Bennett was before the House. By the rules of the House, petitions could not be accompanied by documents or appendages, consequently Mr. Bennett had been referring to matters which were not strictly speaking before the House.

The petition, said Mr. Cannon, came to the House unsupported by any legal evidence that any wrong had been done. Mr. Meighen suggested that the affidavits referred to, and accepted as evidence in a law court, might be accepted in the House of Commons as evidence of wrong-doing.

No Proof of Wrong-doing.

Mr. Cannon said that the fact remained that the House had before it no proof of wrong-doing, and even if it had there was no machinery with which Parliament could right any wrong done. Long ago, he said, it was decided that such disputes as the present one should be settled in the non-political atmosphere of the court of law and not in the House of Commons. The controverted elections act provided for the settlement of this dispute and it was not within the province of Parliament to dispose of it.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George) said that Parliament in dealing with matters of this kind must abide by its rules. The rules of Parliament said that any citizen who had a grievance might apply to Parliament for redress.

Continuing after the dinner recess, Mr. Cahan said that Parliament was bound to receive such a petition as this. He suggested that the proper procedure would be to refer the petition to a committee of the House, which could consider evidence already recorded in the trial of the case and perhaps summon further witnesses in the course of its investigation. Even at this late date in the session the petition should be considered. It would establish a precedent prejudicial to Parliament if the House was to vote against receiving the petition, said Mr. Cahan.

Right to Petition.

T. L. Church (Conservative, North-West Toronto) declared that the Government had cast historical Liberalism to the four winds. The traditions of the Liberal party included the right to petition Parliament.

TWO BODIES FOUND IN OTTAWA RIVER

One With Clothing Stripped Of All Valuables—Indicate Robbery.

OTTAWA, June 17 (Canadian Press).—The finding of two bodies in the Ottawa River last night reveal, according to the police, a case of suicide and murder. The two tragedies are not related, as from the signs on the bodies a considerable length of time exists between the two deaths. The body of an unknown young man with a bullet wound in his chest, and with his clothing stripped of all valuables, indicate a case of violent robbery, according to the police. The other body was identified as that of Ovilla Champagne, who disappeared from a local hotel in April last. He had then been reported mentally unbalanced.

W. A. MEETING HELD.

St. James Anglican Ladies Plan To Redecorate Church.

ROSENEATH, June 17. — The Woman's Auxiliary of St. James Anglican church met on Thursday, June 10, at the home of Mrs. William Houghtailing, with a fairly good attendance. The president, Mrs. J. Drope, conducted the meeting, which opened with W. A. prayer in unison. The secretary, Miss Marion, read the minutes of the May meeting.

The business transactions were chiefly the planning to have the church re-decorated. Moved by Mrs James Webb, seconded by Mrs. Thos McCracken, that the committee, consisting of Mesdames Houghtailing, Coyle and Braithwaite, would purchase the paper and get men to do the work.

The roll was then called, each member responding with a verse of Scripture.

Mrs. J. Braithwaite, Mrs. J. Webb Mrs. W. Coyle and Mrs. J. Brickman attended the W.A. convention held at Peterboro and each gave a very interesting report of the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas McCracken on Thursday, July 8, at 2.30 p.m.

Mr. Edward Weir was kind enough to drive the delegates of St. James' W.A. to Peterboro last Wednesday.

PERSONALS.

Miss Hildred Taylor spent last Sunday with friends in Belleville.

Mr. E. Bowles has returned and engaged with Mr. Norman Sherwin in the garage business.

Miss Marion Coyle is spending a few days with friends in Baltimore and vicinity.

Mr. James Eddington, Sr., took a weak spell on Tuesday morning and is still under the doctor's care.

Roseneath was wide awake early on Wednesday morning, it being the opening day for all kinds of fish in Rice Lake. Very good luck has been reported.

Mr. William Davey, Centreton, is spending a few days at the home of his son, Mr. M. Davey.

WEDDING BELLS.

BROWN—LLOYD.

OMEMEE, June 17.—A wedding of interest to many was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at the Memorial parsonage when Rev. E. W. Rowland joined in wedlock Miss Edna Lloyd, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Lloyd, and Mr. Reginald Brown of Woodbridge. The bride wore a becoming suit of grey tweed with tangerine hat and hose.

The young couple were unattended, and following a wedding dinner at the home of the bride, they left on a brief honeymoon to Toronto and Hamilton.

The good wishes of many will follow them for a happy wedded life.

OBITUARY.

JOHN McSKIMMINGS.

OMEMEE, June 17.—Mrs. Joseph Morden, of Omemee, received the sad news last week of the death of her brother, Mr. John McSkimmings of Winnipeg, at his home, 818 Garwood Avenue. The deceased was 80 years of age. He was a native of Ayr, Scotland, and had come to Canada when about 9 years of age, his parents having settled in Durham County, Ontario, where he was brought up. In 1881 he moved to Winnipeg, where he resided until his death. He had been an employee of the Canadian National Railways for 38 years, serving in the capacity of assistant car foreman. He had been a member of Manitoba Lodge No. 1, I.O.O.F., for 40 years. In the Renian raids he saw service with the British forces.

He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Rebecca Westall, of Durham County, and three sons: George of Seattle and Albert and William of Winnipeg, also a sister, Mrs. Joseph Morden of Omemee.

Interment took place in St. James' Cemetery, Winnipeg, Rev. J. E. Ramsden officiating.

Much sympathy is extended to the sorrowing sister in Omemee by her many friends.

AVIATION MYSTERY IS STILL UNSOLVED

Brazilian War Vessels Search For Duggan and His Companions.

RIO JANEIRO, June 17 (Canadian Press).—With a Brazilian scout ship and gunboat ordered to search for Bernardo Duggan, the Argentine aviator, and his two companions, who are on a flight from New York to Buenos Aires, the entire city is waiting hourly for news of the missing men.

The chief handicap in obtaining news of Duggan, who was last reported over Cayenne, French-Guiana, Sunday morning, is the lack of communication between French Guiana and the mouth of the Amazon. The section where the aviators are thought to be is untapped by telegraph, radio or rail. The coast is webbed with rivers and marshes, while there are comparatively few villages.

ONE SURE WAY TO GOOD HEALTH

Is Keeping the Blood Rich and Red — Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make Rich, Pure Blood and Restore Health.

Thin, pale people lack the power of resistance to disease that rich, red blood gives. Nervous breakdown is the result of thin blood. So is anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism and many other troubles. People suffering from thin, impure blood need just the help Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give. For more than a third of a century Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been famous as a nerve restorer. Thousands upon thousands of letters from grateful people have proved the rare value of this medicine. The first effect of the pills is usually to stimulate the appetite; then the spirits revive and restlessness at night gives way to health-restoring sleep. For sufferers from anaemia, nervousness, general weakness, digestive troubles, rheumatism; or the after-effects of influenza or acute diseases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a restorative of the utmost value. If you are weak or ailing give these pills a fair trial and the result is sure to be beneficial.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done wonders for me," writes Mrs. Russell Hill, Norwood, Ont. "I was run-down and could not eat or sleep and was very nervous. I was pale and would sometimes faint. I took a lot of doctor's medicine but it did not help me. It was a real trial to do any housework, or to go about, and I got so that I scarcely cared whether I lived or died. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It described a case very much like my own and I decided to give the pills a trial. I had not been taking them long when I could feel a change for the better. I continued the pills until I had used eight boxes when I felt like a new woman. Every disagreeable symptom had vanished and I gained in weight, and a good color returned to my face. All this I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I am now never without them in the house, and any time I feel out of sorts they are my first aid. I gladly bear this testimony in the house that it will benefit some other sufferer."

Two useful books, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., if you mention this paper.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box.

FASCIST KILLED.

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

John Parrish, who has quit Harry Morton's employ as secretary, comes to the latter's apartment in Toronto when he learns that Audrey Morton, whom he loves, is very ill. She is Morton's adopted daughter and loves Morton.

Nona, a Toronto dancer, who also loves Morton, has just made a great success on the stage.

Morton's home is in Peterborough. His neighbors have cut Audrey's acquaintance because she invited a group of Toronto chorus girls there to be her guests.

As this chapter opens, Audrey is ill in the apartment that Morton maintains in Toronto. He is rich, middle-aged, and unmarried, attractive to women. Now he is distracted over Audrey's illness. Audrey has asked to talk to Parrish alone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LIV.

Morton sat on the top step of the stairs while he waited for Parrish to come from Audrey's rooms. The nurse placidly strolled up and down the hall for relaxation.

Nona had gone down to the drawing-room.

The minutes passed. The door to Audrey's chamber opened and Parrish came out.

"She's been asleep a while," he said. The nurse passed in. The young man turned to Morton.

"I kissed her before I came out," he said. "I wanted you to know it. She was asleep and didn't know."

He sat on the step beside the older man. Morton waited for him to continue.

"I think you ought to know what she told me," Parrish went on. "She was very weak. She couldn't say much at a time."

He wiped his brow with his handkerchief. He had been under a strain and the perspiration stood out on his face though the morning was cool.

"She said there never was and never would be another man like you," he continued. "But she said she liked me. I was glad to have her say it—I don't deserve her friendship."

He wiped his face again. "She told me she wanted you to marry her—that you need her as much as she needs you. But she told me you wouldn't do it. She knows you love her. She can't understand."

He glanced at Morton.

"Why can't you marry her—why don't you? It will make her happy."

Morton shifted to face the younger man.

"John," he said, "it is impossible. I love her as one loves a child. But I can't marry her."

Parrish leaned his elbows on his knees and gazed absently down the stairway.

"I told her I loved her and wanted to marry her," he said.

Morton laid his hand on the other's arm.

"What did she say?"

Parrish frowned gloomily. "I shouldn't have said it to her," he said. "It was me and closed her eyes. She said: "Daddy—Mr. Parrish! Mr. Parrish—daddy!" That's all she said and she went to sleep again.

He hesitated. "I waited a little while, holding her hand. Then I kissed her and came out."

Morton arose. He started down the steps. Parrish following him.

"Go on down to the office and start work," said Morton. "My correspondence is in a mess by this time. I haven't had a chance to attend to it and there's been nobody in your job."

Parrish secured his hat and picked up his suit case.

"It'll be a good thing for you to be at work," the older man told him. "If you feel as badly about Audrey as I do, you need something to distract your mind."

"I feel worse," said Parrish, as he went out the door.

* * *

It was three weeks before Audrey was able to be moved to Peterborough.

Thin and wan, her cheeks sunken and her blue eyes unnaturally large, she was carried down stairs by Morton and tenderly placed in the tonneau of his car. At his order, the machine crept slowly to the station.

She gave little exclamations of delight as she saw the familiar street scenes along the route.

They passed the theater where Nona was playing. The electric sign and Nona's name in brilliant letters glowed in the sunlight.

"Look!" said Audrey, plucking the nurse by the sleeve. "Isn't it wonderful to be famous?"

"I've seen her," said the nurse. "I wish I'd gone on the stage instead of into training as a nurse."

"And I'll bet at this moment that Nona would rather be a nurse than a dancer," Morton said, smiling. "I know she would have liked to come with Audrey."

A private railroad car had been set out on a side track for Morton and Audrey and the nurse. Parrish was waiting at the station. As the machine drew up he appeared, with a negro, pushing a wheel chair.

Bending in the open door, he offered his arms to Audrey. She arose weakly, supported by Morton, and Parrish took her. Instead of placing her in the waiting chair, however, he went on, carrying her through the gate and down the platform to where the private Pullman was waiting.

The nurse and Morton followed behind.

The porter descended, placing his portable step in position. He offered his own arms to help, but Parrish motioned him away with his head.

Carefully he mounted the steps and carried her into the car. The rear end of it was open, as an observation room. Next to it was a chamber, larger than the ordinary drawing-room, and in this there was a bed, already made up.

With tender care he laid Audrey upon it.

"Mayn't I sit in the observation end?" she asked. "I'm not so tired yet. I want to look outdoors!"

Wordlessly he picked her up and carried her back again.

Morton had brought a large, thick, fleecy woolen robe, and he draped this over one of the leather chairs. Parrish put his frail burden into the seat, and the nurse folded the robe around her.

The girl's eyes were bright as she thanked him.

"You are so strong," she said. "Stronger than anybody I know, except daddy."

Audrey, through the wide plate-glass window and across the polished brass platform rail at the rear of the car, could see the bustle of the station. Men were wheeling trucks of mail, and great towering loads of express packages.

A train had just come in and passengers were hurrying along the platform.

"How many errands there are in this world," she said, half sighing. "Everybody hastening about his business—and we never know what their lives are, or their problems. We see them, and they are gone. We don't know if they are happy or grieving."

"It's a good thing we don't have to pack their troubles for them," commented the nurse. "Everybody has as much as he can carry."

Audrey soon grew tired. Parrish was on the platform outside and Morton carried her to her room. The nurse drew the light silk cape from her shoulders and Morton went out, closing the door.

He joined Parrish on the platform.

"Audrey is retiring," he said. "She'll be asleep long before we pull out of here."

Parrish passed his hand along the glistening hand-rail.

"I'm glad I came back, for your sake, too, Mr. Morton," he said. "There has been a lot to do there at the office."

"You've done well," Morton said. "I haven't been able even to think about my work since Audrey became ill. I want you to keep on, and run the office in Peterborough until Audrey is strong and around again. I am afraid to leave her."

Parrish nodded.

"I'm glad to have the work to do," he said.

He gave a little laugh. "I needed work, anyway," he added. "I haven't paid off all that three hundred I borrowed."

Morton contemplatively bit off the end of a cigar.

"My boy," he said, "I'll let you go ahead and pay off the rest of the debt. But I'll give you a salary raise big enough to do it."

Parrish protested. "You're doing that because I—I love Miss Morton," he said.

"Stuff!" said Morton. "I'm doing it because you are proving yourself an able man."

A switch engine came and coupled itself to the platform where they stood. The engineer had been told that a sick girl was on board and there was scarcely a jar as the coupling clanked into place. Morton waved his hand appreciatively at the engine man, who cheerily waved back.

They were drawn down the track, past a switch, and then were pushed into their place at the end of the train which was to take them to Peterborough.

"Send a telegram," said Morton, as the yard engine drew away. "Send it to the president of the road. I know him. Tell him I want to thank the engineer of Engine 2448 for extraordinary courtesy and care."

Parrish swung off the train and trotted to the telegraph office. The train was slowly moving as he leaped again upon the platform.

"Darn near everybody is a good scout," he said, earnestly, as he discussed the thoughtful engine man with Morton.

"Lesson number one in that great course entitled: 'How to Live'," replied Morton, laughing.

They transported Audrey from the station to her Peterborough home with as great care as they showed in Toronto.

The little housemaid was awaiting them at the gate.

"I'm glad to see you looking so well miss," she said.

Audrey extended her hand from the wrappings that covered her, and greeted the girl.

"I'm so happy to get home," she said.

She insisted on being placed on the front porch. Presently, her hand extended against the wall, she walked slowly to the end of the verandah and looked at the flowers blooming beneath her.

"I want to be housekeeper," she said, turning to Morton.

She pointed to the flower bed. "I planted those flowers, you know, daddy, and look how they've grown!"

Carefully she returned to her chair and sank into it.

"The doctor says you have to be a housekeeper," her guardian told her. "But listen," he teased, "will I have to eat your cooking?"

"I want to learn that, too. I want to be useful."

"Here come some of our neighbors," he said, nodding toward the street.

She looked. It was the couple from next door—the folk who had refused to recognize them the last time they returned to Peterborough.

Audrey leaned forward, prepared to greet them, and Morton looked at them, smiling.

The man and woman slowed their pace as they neared the gate.

"Back again!" called Morton.

They turned their eyes toward him, stared at him deliberately, and walked on, past the house and into their own dooryard.

Mother looked at Audrey; she was beginning to cry.

"Damn them!" he growled, kneeling beside her. Placing his arms around her, he lifted her and carried her into the house.

She was still weakly sobbing as he deposited her upon the bed in her room.

LITTLE SOIL NOT TILLED

In Guatemala and Salvador, the two most populous countries in Central America, the population is so dense that there is very little waste land. Guatemala has 2,000,000 people and Salvador with an area of only 7,225 square miles, 1,040,000 or 144 persons to the square mile. This is the densest population in the Western hemisphere. These countries are rich in sugar, coffee, minerals, rice, hemp, cotton and bananas.

THOUSANDS OF DRUG ADDICTS IN DOMINION, SAYS DR. GULLEN ADDRESSING WOMEN'S COUNCIL

She Estimates 14,500 in Canada and a Million in States.

LEGISLATION NEEDED.

Physicians Shoud Be Able To Issue Certificates, She Says.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 17 (Canadian Press)—"Drug addiction and crime are inevitably interwoven. In time all drug addicts are criminals," said Dr. Stow Gullen, of Toronto, in an address before the National Council of Women last night.

She estimated that there are 14,500 addicts in Canada as compared to 1,000,000 drug addicts in the United States. Legislation to enable physicians to issue certificates similar to those written for insane people, legislation to enable officers and relatives to ask for the commitment of addicts, and compulsory hospital and institutional care and treatment by experts are, in Dr. Stow Gullen's opinion, measures which must be adopted if Canada is to reduce the number of her drug addicts.

Officers Elected

The officers of the National Council of Women, elected by acclamation are:

President, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Ottawa; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Horace Parsons, Toronto; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles H. Thorburn, Ottawa; treasurer, Mrs. S. C. Tweed, Waterloo.

Large Speckled Trout Caught In This District

A speckled trout, which when placed on the scales weighed 3 pounds 7 ounces was the result of an angling expedition by Mrs. Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock. Another speckled trout weighing 2 pounds 8 ounces was caught by Ross Green yesterday in the same district.

Like true fishermen, they did not disclose the locality where the fish were caught, but they were caught in East Peterborough County.

Both fish were sent to Peterborough to J. Fowler to have them mounted. Mr. Fowler said that Dr. Holdcroft had stocked all the streams in that neighborhood for the past twenty-five years at his own expense, and expressed the opinion that he deserved all the luck that was coming. The importance of the catch from an angler's point of view can readily be perceived when it is realized that the weight of the average fish of this variety usually is from one to one and a half pounds.

DOG CATCHER IS IN WRONG

Irate Citizens After Ald. Nagle Phelan With Complaints.

DOGS ON LAWNS.

That the dog catcher has been busy of late was evidenced this morning when two irate citizens whose dogs had come within the toils were seeking the scalp of Alderman Nagle Phelan.

The first man's story was that the dog catcher came up to his house and asked his wife for a dollar because a little pekinese dog they owned had been out on their lawn. He claims he asked the dog catcher for a receipt for the dollar and received the reply that he did not give receipts. The citizen as a result of this reply, he said, did not give the dollar.

Another case was that of the caretaker of the Collegiate, who says his dog was on the school property at the time it was taken into custody. Being busy with his boiler at the time, he had no time to argue the point, and paid over the dollar without protest. This morning he was looking for the dog catcher in order that they could talk the matter over.

Enquiries at the police station elicited the reply that they had had no complaints regarding the work of the dog catcher.

Alderman Nagle Phelan said he had nothing to do with the dog catcher except to pay him his wages in his official capacity as chairman of the Finance Committee.

A Tribute To The Memory Of Lieutenant Colonel Mills

"For so he giveth his beloved sleep."—Psalm 127: 2.

O, bear the honored warrior to his last long sleep,
And o'er his bier the beauteous flowers heap.
While over his unconscious clay, his comrades weep,
His Great Commander will his spirit keep.

The Union Jack does at its half-mast fly
As he, in solemn grandeur passes by.
O, let the flag of freedom o'er him wave
The while his war-like charger
Follows his beloved master to the grave.

And gently lay him down beneath his native soil;
So sweet is rest, after his years of toil,
While unseen squadrons march from realms afar,
Where, nevermore, is heard the din of war.

Beneath the maple trees he loved so well
O, may they wave above—the story tell.
And in those many mansions where his feet now roam
He knows the blessedness of Home, Sweet, Home.

MISS M. HAMILTON Y.W.C.A. PRESIDENT

Succeeds Mrs. Cruikshanks, Who Retires After Four Years in Office.

The first meeting of the 1926-27 board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Monday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. T. Cruikshank, retiring president, took charge of the first part of the meeting.

A letter advising the board of a bequest of $1,000 left the association by the late Mrs. Haslitt, was read by the secretary, Miss A. Wood. The financial report was read, showing a balance for the month of $379.40. Two hundred dollars was voted for necessary repairs. Reports of the month's activities were given by Miss Brownscombe, general secretary, and Mrs. Morrison, residence superintendent. Special reference was made to the annual garden party which will be held this year June 22 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Waddell, and final arrangements made.

The election of officers for the coming year was the main item of business. Mrs. Cruikshank spoke most appreciatively of the splendid co-operation of board and staff members during her four years as president of the association, and wished the new officers the same happiness that the past officers had enjoyed. Miss Margaret Hamilton was then elected by acclamation to the presidency and took charge of the remainder of the meeting. Miss Hamilton spoke of the splendid service of Mrs. Cruikshank, and expressed the regret of the members that Mrs. Cruikshank felt she must give up the office this year. The officers elected were as follows:

Honorary Presidents—Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. T. Cruikshank.
President—Miss M. Hamilton.
1st Vice-President — Mrs. A. W. Cressman.
2nd Vice-President — Miss M. Dickson.
3rd Vice-President—Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner.
4th Vice-President — Mrs. E. E. Harvey.
Treasurer—Miss E. Morrow.
Secretary—Miss A. Wood.
Associate Secretary—Mrs. G. E. Porter.
Representatives—Mrs. R. Neill and Mrs. R. Turner.

Mrs. Cruikshank closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were then served.

RECITAL GIVEN.

Senior Piano and Vocal Pupils of Mrs. Greenslade Please Audience.

A very well attended and pleasing recital was given in the hall of the Conservatory of Music last evening, by Senior Piano and Vocal Students of Mrs. W. A. Greenslade. An interesting and varied programme was presented by the pupils, whose vocal and instrumental renditions both were marked by an attractiveness in the choice of selections, the songs inclining toward the light, dainty order and the instrumental numbers having a wide range that included numbers by modern and classical composers. The piano pupils displayed fine powers of memorization, a facile fingering and smooth, clear tone, with some exceptionally good work by Miss Mary Wood, who also executed with ease the arduous duties of accompanist for all the vocal solos. Pleasing music, also, with the distinctive quality which is always found in the piano work of youthful boy performers, was that of Jack Cuff, who demonstrated a fine quality of brilliant, studious attention in his playing, and of Ashton Fife, who has a pleasing execution and an expressive, confident method of playing that brought him much applause last evening.

In the vocal section, a fine enunciation, nice interpretation, and a clear, pleasing tonal quality were outstanding attributes of the singers, all of whose numbers were received with applause. The songs by Miss Josephine O'Keefe, whose light soprano was handled very daintily, by Miss Violent Buckham, who displayed a clear, vibrant quality in her high tones, and Miss F. Murray, contralto, as were the selections by the male members of the group, Mr. Harold Snelgrove and Mr. C. E. Clark, the latter with true tenor clarity in his attractive voice, and Mr. Hubert Lowes, basso.

At the conclusion of the programme, two beautiful bouquets of flowers were presented by her pupils to Mrs. W. A. Greenslade. Miss Mary Wood, accompanist of the evening, also received a pretty bouquet, the presentations being made by little Margaret Curtis and Nancy Hopwood.

The programme was as follows: Piano numbers—"Morceau" (Wollenhaupt) played by Dorothy Finnie; "Le Secret" (Schubert) by Vera Green; "Erfehntef Gluck" (Lange by Margaret Pollard; "Whims" Schuman, by Margaret Gollop; "Papillon and Roses" (Thome) by Ashton Fife; Duett, "Les Dames de Seville" (Schumann) by Elsie Bennett and Jean Ingram; "Duetto" (Mendelssohn) by Mildred Hetherington; Sonata, Opus 13, "Grave and Allegro" Beethoven) by Jack Cuff; "Kammenoi Ostrow" (Rubenstein) by Mrs. J. Ellis; "Impromptu in A flat Major" (Schubert) by Miss Pearl Rehill; "Prelude and Fugue," No. 15 (Bach) and "Andante and Rondo Capriccioso" (Mendelssohn) by Miss Mary Wood; Duett, "Mazurka," Opus 10 (Weber) by Ashton Fife and Jack Cuff.

Vocal numbers: Duett, "Serenade," by Mrs. D. Wall and Miss F. Murray; "Pale Moon," by Mr. Harold Snelgrove; "A Brown Bird," by Miss Florence Murray, contralto; "One Morning Very Early," by Miss Kathleen Edgar; "Song of the Robin" and "Irish Lullaby," by Miss Josephine O'Keefe; "Duna," by Mr. Hubert Lowes, of Mount Pleasant; "Sing On," by Miss Violet Buckham; "Winds in the Trees" and "Piper of Love," by Miss Annie Burns; Duett, "Twilight," by Mr. Clark and Miss Buckham; "If With All Your Hearts" (Recitative and Air from "Elijah") by Mr. C. E. Clark; "The Pipes of Pan" and "Buy My Lavender," by Mrs. D. Wall.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE WENSLEY

The funeral of the late George Wensley was held this morning from Comstock's undertaking parlors under Masonic auspices. Rev. Gordon officiated.

MRS. MARY A. BRIEGEL.

The death occurred at a quarter to two o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, 315 Rubidge Street, of Mrs. Mary A. Briegel (widow of the late William Briegel of Goderich, who pre-deceased her many years ago. The deceased who was 36 years of age, had been ill for about eight weeks. She was born in Dundas, Ontario.

The end came very peacefully to Mrs. Briegel, who was a wonderful example of the type of womanhood of some generations back. She was dignified and gentle and very sweet, peaceful in her ways and always cheerful. Up to the last conscious moments of a lingering illness, she had a pleasant smile and cheerful word for her visitors, and the quiet years that had passed over her head brought her to a peaceful, almost painless death. It was with only a slight sigh that she took the final step to the world beyond. Always a peacemaker, with a kindly word for everyone, fond of cheer and full of mild merriment, the late Mrs. Briegel will be long remembered by her many friends in the city and her surviving relatives, one daughter, Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, of the firm of Hodgson and Willison, and three grand children, Frederick, Edward and Jessie Hodgson. Two children, a son and a daughter, died many years ago. Since the death of her husband, she has made her home with her daughter, and during her residence of 5 years here, endeared herself to many by her cheerful, youthful outlook and unfailing interest in many things. To those less blessed with worldly goods than herself she was ever ready to extend a helping, generous hand.

The remains will leave the city on the seven o'clock C.N.R. train tomorrow morning for Goderich where the deceased will be interred beside her husband.

CHARLES GEORGE WENSLEY

Charles George Wensley was born in Belleville, January 29, 1861, and about 1878 engaged with the Moore Monumental Works of Belleville to learn that business. Some years since he bought a business in Campbellford, where he remained until a few years ago. While in Campbellford he married Markie Grieve, of Napanee. Besides his widow he leaves one son, George, to mourn his loss. One sister, Mrs. Thomas Moore, pre-deceased him some years ago, and two sisters, Mrs. Donley of Seattle, and Mrs. Frost of Vancouver, survive him.

Owing to ill-health he gave up the monumental business in Campbellford, but has since that time continued to work at the business when his health permitted him to do so.

The late Mr. Wensley was an honorary member and past master of Golden Rule Lodge, No. 12, of Campbellford and Kingston Chapters of Royal Arch Masons, No. 72, of Stirling, and a member of Moore Preceptory, No. 13, of Peterborough, and also of Ramese Temple of the Shriners in Toronto, and was skilled in Masonic work of which he took great interest.

Under the direction of the Masonic Order here, and the Rev. Mr. Gordon of St. Andrews, officiating, the burial service took place from the Comstock Parlors, George Street, after which the remains were taken to Belleville, where they were met by the officials of the lodge in Campbellford, who took charge of the service at the grave.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast — which comes in concentrated tablet form was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will, pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Fort Erie, Ontario, Canada.

SOCIETY

Miss Genevieve Murray has returned home after two weeks' vacation in Rochester, N.Y.

During her recent trip abroad, Mrs. W. R. Morris met Miss Katherine Wallis in Paris, and saw an exhibit of Miss Wallis' work in the Salon, which included a child head, and a bas relief, done in wood and two small paintings depicting Canadian scenes, and also met in London Miss Jane Hatton, who is visiting her brother there. Miss Hatton, who made the trip to England via the Panama Canal, going by a boat which carries only a few passengers and takes six weeks to make the trip, was provided with a ticket to the House of Parliament by a friend met on the same boat, the wife of a Scottish member of Parliament, and had the pleasure of being in the House on the day when Premier Baldwin made his pronouncement on the strike question.

Mrs. Chas. S. Griffin, Lake Street, and Miss Flossie Theobald are spending a few weeks visiting relatives in Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

Dr. H. Gurth Pretty, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pretty, Hunter Street East, has been appointed to the Senior Pathological staff of the Montreal General Hospital, Montreal, where he will remain in residence. Dr. Pretty has also been appointed to the demonstrating staff in Pathology with the Medical Faculty of McGill University.

Miss Jean McBeth, of Vancouver, B.C., who has been at school in Boston, Massachusetts, is the guest of Miss Marion Harvey, Brock Street.

Mr. C. E. Fairles, accountant of the Royal Bank of Canada, has been transferred to the Yonge and College Street branch of the bank in Toronto.

Dr. G. S. Cameron has gone to Vancouver, to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association, which commences there on Monday next, June 21st.

Miss Clara Morris left this week for a three months' stay in Western Canada, during which time she will visit her father, Mr. H. Morris, in Edmonton, and also spend some time in Victoria, B.C. On her return, Miss Morris will enter Macdonald Hall, Guelph.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Sproat motored to Hamilton to-day to attend the Bell Telephone convention being held in that city June 17-19.

Mrs. E. Hollingsworth and little son accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Sproat to Hamilton to-day to visit her daughter Helen.

Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Canning (nee Ethel Heron) are in Westmount, Montreal, today, attending the wedding of Mr. Canning's sister, Miss "Kay" Canning.

Last evening, the Normal students resident at the Y.W.C.A. and several other departing residence members, were entertained at high tea by the superintendent, Mrs. E. Morrison. Guests, to the number of about thirty, had a sumptuous tea at tables arranged very prettily with crinkled crepe paper crossbars of orchid and lavender and bowls of mauve and white lilacs. Board members present included the new president, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Mrs. T. Cruikshank, Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Mrs. R. W. Cormack, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. A. Mowat, Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. A. W. Cressman, Miss E. Morrow, Miss A. Wood and Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Gordon. At the close of high tea, Miss Geraldine Glover toasted the students in rhyme, depicting various phases of their life at the "Y," and Miss Grace Horie responded, speaking of the many kindnesses shown by the girls, the staff and Mrs. Morrison. Miss Mabel McNeelly, one of the students, read an address to Mrs. Morrison, and Miss Marion Bowerman presented her with a bon-bon dish and a bouquet of roses. Mrs. Morrison replied in suitable terms.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding here yesterday of Miss Kathleen McCartney and Mr. Bertram A. Reid included Mr. and Mrs. H. Fell, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McMillan and Mrs. A. Walker, of Allandale; Mr. T. Hodgson of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hodgkins of Midland; Mrs. C. McNeill and Mrs. M. Skinner of Keene; Mr. and Mrs. T. Eakins of Pontypool; Mrs. Wm. McCartney of Bethany; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Walker of Collingwood; Mr. and Mrs. Skinner of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Medd of Cavan; Mr. and Mrs. Cody of Aurora, and Mrs. Beryl Dafoe of Chatham.

Mrs. George Thompson and small daughter, Marjorie, who are summering at Haliburton, are the guests of Mrs. Thompson's sister, Mrs. D. H. Wall, Grand Central Apartments.

Mrs. I. McWilliams and Mrs. M. Miller, Charlotte Street, are going up to their cottage at Stoney Lake today.

Miss Rita Maher, Rubidge Street, left today for a fortnight's visit in Toronto and Muskoka.

Mr. Leo Southern of Pittsfield, Massahusetts, is the guest of his brother, Mr. J. J. Southern, Stewart Street.

The regular weekly luncheon for ladies was held at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club yesterday, with an attendance of thirty-five ladies, including two out-of-town guests, Mrs. Allan of Ottawa and Mrs. Bevington of Winnipeg. Bridge tables in the afternoon were in charge of Mrs. G. H. Thompson, the prize being won by Mrs. B. Gardiner. The golf competitions were in charge of Mrs. R. Grant and Mrs. C. G. Graham, and consisted of driving, won by Mrs. H. W. Cressman, and the best eighteen-hole score, won by Mrs. D. J. Lawrie. Prizes for the golf competitions were donated by Mrs. J. A. Aylmer and Mrs. J. W. McDermid, and Mrs. Gerald Wood donated the prize for bridge.

Guests from the city and from out of town who attended the wedding in Lindsay yesterday of Miss Jean Isabel Fisher and Mr. Lorne E. Conway of Peterborough, included Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Conway, of Brantford; Mr. and Mrs. W. Maunder, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. R. Wilford, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilford, Mrs. MacDiarmid, Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Mulligan, Miss Edna B. A Frock for The Wee Lady of Fashion

Frills of narrow lace, wide insertion and shirrings, result in a frock whose lovely daintiness might well adorn any little girl from two to eight years of age. It is an easily-made frock, with the front and back shirred to a narrow band, which in turn is joined to the lower edge of the front and back yokes, forming a square neck. The sleeves are just little cap affairs edged with narrow lace to match the neck. A wide band of insertion is set into the skirt at the top of the hem. Then, there are little panties which accompany this frock, the legs of which are gathered in knee-bands edged with lace, and the upper part finished with a band to button onto a waist. NO. 1321 is in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 6 years requires 2⅓ yards 32 or 36 inch material for bloomers and dress; or 1⅓ yards for dress without bloomers; 2¼ yards narrow lace, and 1⅓ yards wide insertion. Price 20 cents.

Our new Fashion Book contains many styles showing how to dress boys and girls. Simplicity is the rule for well-dressed children. Clothes of character and individuality for the junior folks are hard to buy, but easy to make with our patterns. A small amount of money spent on good materials, cut on simple lines, will give children the privilege of wearing adorable things. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

RED ROSE "is good COFFEE"

If the average boy or girl, or even man or woman were to be told that a man over on the next block is exhibiting a live hawk, with big sharp talons and savage eyes, I would wager he or she would promptly hasten over there to have a look.

Why?

You can't tell me that common curiosity would draw such a swift result. It is more than curiosity. It is real desire to get close to and know a hawk. Human ignorance is ever with us and we are all children when it comes to hawks, for they are birds of mystery, birds of silent places, birds of the great unknown, who fly before us in off hand moments when we are not ready for their coming. Truly they have a strange fascination for us.

Here is one of these wild independent creatures. It is a Fishhawk, or what we call an Osprey. Let us take some movies of it, and, as we take them, let us see for ourselves much more than the pictures will tell the public.

Ospreys usually build in trees, but these have made a nest on this island shore, right on the ground, knowing that no cats or dogs are here to harm them. What a strange structure they make! Sticks of wood, pieces of swamp weeds, an old bottle, some clam shells, a piece of rope! Look out! Here they come. Let us hide behind this tentlike blind which we have made; it will fool them.

Down through the air spirals a bird of black and white, a small but magnificent eagle sort of hawk. This is the mother Osprey, for I see she is slightly bigger than her mate and has a few spots on her breast. How nicely she glides in towards the nest, approaching it against the wind. Sometimes, when there is no wind for gliding, these birds fly directly over the nest, hold back their wings, and drop down, depending on their feathers to act as a parachute.

But here comes Daddy Osprey with a nice fish in his talons. My! How excited the little fishhawk seems, as it flops about and welcomes him and the promised meal.

Well Ill be switched if they are not just like human folks in almost everything.

HER OWN WAY
A GIRL of TODAY

WHAT IS LOVE?

As I walked along toward the King Edward I summed up things a little more carefully than I ever had before. I had been too busy doing things to think about what I was doing. I knew that my life had been full every minute of it. And I knew now that only when a girl was too busy to think about herself could she be happy.

It seemed at least a year since I left my father's house, so many interesting things had happened. There were Mamie and Angie and Joan and Jerry and even Mr. Robinson and Mr. Hathaway; all these had furnished most interesting and sometimes sinister happenings. Beside all this there were my own affairs, which to say the least, had been rather hectic.

Thinking over what had just happened I almost came to the conclusion that I had not been right in leaving Jerry so abruptly. Surely his kindness to me merited some explanation on my part. Now that I had gotten over being angry I was sure that I ought to have told Jerry with whom I was going to dine.

I really thought that Jerry was in love with me—and although I did not know whether I was in love with him or not, I did know that I thrilled at his nearness when he was beside me. I loved the feel of his arms about me, and I was quite sure that the other night I had returned his kiss.

"If that is not love, what is it?" I asked myself.

Slowly I went up to the door of the King Edward Hotel. Just as I was about to go inside a man in a chauffeur's uniform stepped up to me.

"Beg pardon," he said doffing his cap, "are you Miss Dean?"

"Yes."

"Miss Meredith sent me for you. I am to take you to her home. The car is right here at the curb."

I turned quickly and found instead of the roadster that I had for some unknown reason expected, a large Rolls-Royce town car with an elaborate coat of arms and monogram on the door. It was probable that every man and woman with any society aspirations in town knew that car. I felt very conspicuous.

The door was opened in state by another man in uniform and when in my embarrassment I turned slightly before I stepped in I saw Jerry Hathaway loitering in a nearby doorway.

Again I flushed with anger, for I knew he was spying on me. I waived my hand, bowed, and smiled to him, however, for I was not going to let him know that I suspected that he was playing a spy.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, JUNE 18.

Although there is a lively and quickening influence at work, according to the stellar operations, yet there is augury of an activity that may be read as baneful. There is prospect of abrupt change or an upheaval, which may be precipitated by rash or tumultuous conduct. Avoid these, control the tongue and temper and if in the employ of others the greatest precaution should be taken not to warrant rebuke or dismissal. Be careful with money.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of activity, possibly of abrupt change and upheaval. It is urged that tempestuous or ill-considered words or deeds be not a contributory cause of disagreeable experiences. This injunction holds particular force for those in the employment of others. New undertakings, duly considered, may thrive. A child born on this day is likely to have impetuous and headstrong tendencies which may cause anxiety in life unless subjected to early and rigorous training and discipline.

WEDDING BELLS.

CLARKE—WHITE.

Captains Eric William Ernest Clarke and Selena Maude White were the principals at a Hallelujah wedding solemnized last night in the Salvation Army Temple by Major J. A. McElhiney, now of Toronto but formerly in charge of the local corps.

Many were the friends who gathered to bless and congratulate the happy young couple in their union. The bride is a Peterborough girl, and first joined the army during the term of office of the then Adjutant McElhiney. The groom comes from Niagara Falls, where his family, which has given several officers to the cause, is prominent in Salvation Army circles. Captain Joyce Clarke, sister of the groom, and Lieut. Hallam, a boyhood friend of the groom, supported them.

After a selection by the band and one by the songsters, with a hymn by the entire assembly. Major McElhiney read a passage from scripture and Mrs. Major Higden led in prayer. The actual ceremony was then performed, after which friends of the contracting parties spoke for them.

Lieut. Robinson, who served with Captain White at Arnprior and Pembroke, was the first speaker. She said she had known the captain since they had been together at the training school, and had always found her a woman of sterling character who had given God the pre-eminence at all times. She said that she felt the separation keenly, but that nothing could take from her the good influence which Captain White had had in her life.

Major Higden, officer in charge of the local corps, then read a large number of messages of congratulation, including one from the Commissioner and Mrs. Sowton, and from the Chief Secretary and Mrs. Henry. He congratulated the happy couple on behalf of the local corps.

Captain Joyce Clarke, sister of the groom, then told of her acquaintance with her new sister, which had started in the training garrison, and of the splendid young woman she had found her to be.

Speaking for the groom, Lieut. Hallam said that much of the credit of his fine character should be given to the fine training he had received at his home. Lieut. Hallam was a member of the same corps as Captain Clarke.

Mrs. Major McElhiney spoke of the character of the bride, whom she had known since her conversion, and referred to the solemnness of the occasion. Speaking of the promises made of faithfulness to the army, Mrs. McElhiney said that these were made because the wife of an officer was not only expected to be a companion but to be a co-worker with him. She said that Mrs. Clarke was a woman of the type most needed by the world today, upright, strong, and serene, ready to take her part in the many good works which a woman can perform. She concluded with a plea to all the women there never to dishonor their true womanliness, and to make the world better for their presence.

The bride and groom both spoke, stating that they owed a great deal to God and the Salvation Army, and saying that they would both continue to do their best for God, whose blessing they hoped would be even more abundant.

Concluding the speaking, Major McElhiney spoke a few words to parents, reminding them of the sacrifices made when young people leave their fathers and mothers for matrimony, and of the great sacrifice the parents of these young people had made in permitting them, just when they were reaching an age when they would be of some assistance, to enter a profession which offered little financial returns, in order to do God's work.

A banquet followed the service, which closed with the Doxology and the benediction by Major McElhiney.

Captain and Mrs. Clarke have not yet been stationed at a new post. They have been relieved of their former posts of Haliburton and Pembroke. They left the city today for Niagara Falls, where they will spend a few days until sent to their new post.

CONWAY—FISHER.

A very pretty house wedding took place at three o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride, in Lindsay, when Jean Isabel, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Fisher, of Lindsay, became the bride of Lorne Edwin Conway, eldest son of Mrs. E. Conway and the late W. E. Conway of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Gordon Holmes, pastor of the Baptist Church in Lindsay.

The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of lovely flowers, combining with an ideal day to give a real "June" atmosphere to the ceremony, which was performed in the drawing-room. Here were tall wicker standards of white lilacs, banked by huge bowls of mauve lilacs and mauve and white phlox, and vases of purple iris. From the electrolier and the arch depended tiny white ribbon streamers, ending in drops of purple and white lilac. In the hall was a large bowl of deep purple lilac and the den had rich red peonies and black tulips. In the dining-room were bowls of columbine and bridal wreath, and the table was done in pink and white, with a central silver basket of bridal wreath and pink tulips, tied with a bow of white tulle, and tall pink candles in silver holders.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Clarence B. Fisher, of Lindsay, looked lovely in a French straight-line frock of white hemstitched georgette, with flaring skirt and long sleeves. There was a good deal of silk embroidery outlining the low waistline and a jabot of the hemstitched georgette fell from the neckline at the left side. With this were worn white shoes and stockings, a long veil of white tulle arranged in coronet fashion, the Chantilly lace cap caught with orange blossoms at the sides, and a string of pearls. The bridal bouquet was of pink butterfly roses, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

A sister of the bride, Miss Alice Fisher, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of jadette taffeta, trimmed with pink French flowers. Her hat was of matching tulle, with long pendant scarf, and she wore a string of pearls and silver shoes and stockings. Her bouquet was of Russell roses and maidenhair fern.

Mr. Harold Conway of Peterborough, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The wedding music was played by Mr. John Fisher, brother of the bride, and a vocal solo, "All Joy be Thine," was given during the signing of the register, by Mr. Wesley Maunder of Lindsay, accompanied by Mrs. Neil Gregory.

After the ceremony, a reception was held by the bridal party, and buffet refreshments served to the assembled guests, about sixty in number. Mr. and Mrs. Conway left later by motor for an extended trip to Pottsville, Pennsylvania, where they will visit Dr. and Mrs. Glenny (formerly Miss Alda Pearcey of Lindsay), and will go there from Atlantic City. On their return, they will reside at 333 Burnham Street, Peterborough.

The bride, whose bouquet, thrown from an upper balcony, was caught by Miss Edna Moore of Lindsay, travelled in a smart outfit of blue and grey crepe, with grey shoes and stockings, small hat of navy corded silk and coat of navy with grey squirrel collar.

Last evening, a dance, attended by a number of the guests, was held at Long Beach.

REID—McCARTNEY.

A very pretty house wedding took place at one o'clock yesterday at the residence of the bride's parents, 324 Rubidge Street, when their only daughter, Helen Kathleen, became the bride of Bertram A. Reid, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Reid, 582 Waterford Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Allan of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, in the living-room, which was banked with palms and ferns and arranged with tall white wicker standards filled with pink roses, bowls of white lilac and lily of the valley and wall brackets holding flame-colored gladioli. The wedding march was played by Miss Marjorie Evans, and Miss Greta LeBarr sang 'Until' during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette, with large white picture hat trimmed with moire ribbon and white shoes and stockings. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Daisy Reid, sister of the bridegroom, wore a frock of figured crepe in blue and sand shades, with picture hat and shoes and stockings to match. Her bouquet was of columbia roses.

Mr. Stanley Warren acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served to the guests. Mrs. G. McCartney wore dove-colored flat crepe, with hat to match and corsage bouquet of roses, and Mrs. A. Reid was in grey crepe.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid left later by motor for a honeymoon trip, after which they will reside at 324 Rubidge Street. The bride travelled in an ensemble costume of cinnamon-colored figured georgette, with small felt hat, shoes and stockings to match.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a suitcase and hat box of black leather; to the bridesmaid, the solist and the pianiste, bar pins, and to the best man, a tie pin.

GIRL INDICTED.

Said To Have Confessed Her Part in 40 Burglaries. in Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., June 17, — (Canadian Press).—Said to have confessed to aiding Russell Vansickle, 10-year-old suicide, in committing forty burglaries in this city, Lillian Switzer, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was indicted by the grand jury here yesterday for burglary, third degree, grand larceny, second degree, and criminally receiving stolen property.

PETES FAIL TO OVERCOME BELLEVILLE'S EARLY LEAD

Bunched Hits in First Two Frames, Aided By Fielding Slips, Give Gerow Men Winning Start.

FINAL SCORE IS 6-4.

(By F. D. C.)

The inability of Jeff Hardill to keep the ball out of the groove in the first two frames, several fielding lapses that were costly and some far from sagacious base running were all factors in the defeat sustained in Belleville yesterday when the Nationals won an interesting game by 6 runs to 4.

Most of the damage was done in the first two frames when the winners bunched seven of their ten hits with several defensive slips on the part of the Petes to score four runs. After that Hardill held them to three blows for the balance of the game. The big youngster, who a week ago gave nine bases on balls, had perfect control yesterday and plenty of stuff too but in the first two innings he got them in there too good and the Belleville bats did the rest. After the second he had them well in hand and should not have been scored upon.

Gilly Goyer travelled the route for the winners and staked to an early lead he went along very steadily, giving the Petes no chance to build up a big inning. They kept pecking away but the best they could do was to cut down the Belleville margin, for Goyer was working nicely and receiving fine support in the pinches.

Headier base running on the part of the Petes in the opening frame might have reversed the final result. Rose tried to score from third on a muffed fly by Gibson, that would have resulted in the bases being full with only one out. He was cut down by Gibson's shot to Mills. Later in the same frame Hall stood on third with two out when Weir missed Mills' throw to catch Ash stealing, a soft run being thrown away.

Despite the five errors chalked up against each team the game was studded with sparkling fielding. The double play pulled off by Hardill, Swanston and Harrison in the second inning was lightning fast. Rose made several beautiful stops and contributed the fielding gem of the game in the seventh when he leaped high in the air, knocked down Mills' screaming liner with his gloved hand and caught the ball before it reached the ground. The catch was sheer robbery. For Belleville Weir played brilliant ball at second handling ten out of eleven chances while Ross and Meagher made fine catches in the outfield.

Belleville will be back in Peterboro Saturday and the game should be a red hot one. The two teams are having a battle of their own to earn a place in the play off and the Petes need Saturday's game to pull up on even terms with the Nationals.

How It Was Done.

The Petes started well. Wolfe was hit. Rose forced him at second but Blakely, trying to complete a double killing, overthrew first and Rose went to second. Swanston singled through short, Rose going to third. Gibson muffed Jim Hall's fly back of third, but Rose was cut down at the plate, trying to score on the play. Hall stole second. Ash beat out a roller to Gibson, Swanston scoring. Ash was safe at second when Weir dropped Mills' throw, Hall held third. Helson flied to Weir.

Belleville got two in their half. Ross beat out a tap to Helson and was sacrificed to second by Weir. Harry Mills singled to right, scoring Ross and on Ash's useless and wide throw home the batter reached third. Peeney Mills cracked a single through short to score his brother. Blakely flied to Rose and Hagerman struck out.

In the second Harrison flied to Meagher, Batten struck out and Hardill popped to Weir.

Belleville increased their lead. Meagher tripled to left centre. Gibson hit to Batten, who held Meagher at third, but threw low to Harrison. Goyer's slow roller down the third base line filled the bases. Ross cracked one back at Hardill for a fast double play via the plate and first base. Weir, however, with two strikes on him, exploded a single through short, scoring Gibson and Goyer. Harry Mills singled past first but was forced at second, Batten to Rose by W. Mills.

Wolfe opened the Petes' third with a double to centre. Rose struck out. Swanston singled to left, Wolfe going to third. Hall hit to Weir, forcing Swanston, Wolfe scoring on the play. Ash rolled to Blakely.

In Belleville's half Blakely flied to Batten and Hagerman raised one to Hardill. Meagher was called safe when Helson's throw pulled Harrison off the bag, although the runner failed to touch first base. Gibson's long double to right scored Meagher. Hardill tossed out Goyer.

Weir disposed of both Helson and Harrison in the first half of the fourth. Batten reached second on Blakely's high throw but Goyer took care of Hardill on a smash to the box.

Ross fouled to Harrison, Weir fanned and Rose tossed out Harry Mills.

In the fifth Wolfe led off with his second double to left centre, galloped to third after Ross's catch of Rose's long fly and scored when Swanston squeezed him home on a sacrifice bunt. Meagher made a nice catch of Hall's hard smash to right.

Peeney Mills singled over second in Belleville's half and went to second on Blakely's infield out, Rose to Harrison. When Hardill tried to pick Mills off second his throw got away from Rose and Mills went to third, Latchford, batting for Hagerman shot a long sacrifice fly to Ash, Mills scoring Belleville's last run of the game. Meagher was thrown out by Rose.

Ash's good bid for a hit at the beginning of the sixth was spoiled by a nice catch by Ross. Helson struck out and Goyer tossed out Harrison.

Gibson died on a roller to Harrison, Hardill covering the bag. Hardill threw out Goyer. Ross singled through the box and stole second but Hall made a nice catch of Weir's fly in short left.

In the seventh Batten was thrown out by Goyer, Hardill by Weir and Wolfe by Gibson.

In Belleville's half Rose threw out Harry Mills on a fast play and then made a circus catch of W. Mills' hot drive. Batten took care of Blakely's roller.

The Petes got their last run in the eighth. Rose singled to centre but was forced at second on Swanston's roller to Blakely, a close play. Swanston went to second on W. Mills' low throw to first and scored when Jimmy Hall ripped a single over second. Hall stole second but died there when Ash flied to Latchford and Helson to Harry Mills.

Batten tossed out Latchford. Meagher was safe on Rose's fumble but was forced at second, Rose to Batten on Gibson's tap. Goyer rolled to Harrison.

The Petes made a last bid in the ninth. Jack Hall, batting for Harrison, singled past first. Lennox, batting for Batten, raised a fly to right which Meagher misjudged and which would have gone for a hit had not Hall been forced out at second on Ross's fine throw. It was a tough break. Hardill popped to Weir and then the second baseman ran back into right field and made a sparkling catch of Wolfe's high fly.

Her Face Was Covered With Large, Red Pimples

Miss Greta Carlisle, 23 Leonard St., Brantford, Ont., writes:—"A short while ago, my face was completely covered with large red pimples, and it seemed that it was almost impossible for me to get rid of them, as nothing I took seemed to do me any good.

One day I noticed an advertisement of

and I will never regret the day I bought it, as, now, my face is entirely cleared up of blotches and pimples of every kind."

COURSE RECORD IS ESTABLISHED BY BOBBY JONES

Went Round Sunningdale in 70 in British Open Golf Championship.

FINE CARD.

Georgian Crack is Well Ahead in First Two Qualifying Rounds.

LONDON, June 17.—(Canadian Press).—Bobby Jones, amateur champion of the United States was "on" yesterday and with a record-smashing 66 for the difficult Sunningdale course finished well in front of the first two qualifying rounds of the British Open Golf championships. W. L. Hope went around Sunningdale for the old record of 70 which was considered remarkable, since the tees had recently been set farther back to lengthen some holes, but Jones' performance astonished everybody.

His card was as follows:

Out ... 444 3334, 434 33
In 434 343 444 33—66

The card included three birdies and he was putting for a three on every green. He drove powerfully played his irons brilliantly and putted safely and surely, a single shot which could be called lucky. Only three times during the round was Jones off the fairway.

The young Georgian played most of his long seconds with his driving iron and his beautiful rythmic swing picked up the ball so cleanly that he was always safely on the green.

Abe Mitchell completed his round late yesterday with 72 and is among the lowest scorers.

Completed scores did not affect Jones' three stroke lead.

ROYAL HUNT CUP WON AT ASCOT BY LORD ASTOR

Cross-Bow Gained Second Victory This Season Before Fashionable Crowd.

WON BY NECK.

Thirty-one Competitors in Course Nearly a Mile Long.

ASCOT, Eng., June 17.—(Canadian Press).—Although the second day of Ascot week is not reckoned ultra-fashionable, the Royal Hunt Cup, always popular, drew the usual big crowd today. Headed by Royalty, Society was again fully represented, and the women were able to display their gayest dresses, for even though the sun played hide and seek and lowering skies prevailed, the rain held off, and paddock and royal enclosure suggested a fashion parade on a grand scale.

Lord Astor captured his first Hunt Cup and won his second big race victory this season with Cross-bow which, it may be recalled, started strong favorite in last year's Derby, but on that occasion ran unplaced.

Today Crossbow, which carried top weight of 126 pounds won in a tight finish what experts say was the most meritorious victory in the Hunt Cup Stakes, for several years. He was a neck in front of the Maharaj of Rajpilas Embargo at the end, with Reid Walker's Inca, well up. The favorites A. K. Macomber's Insight 2nd and Solly Joel's Prompt were soundly beaten. Crossbow was at odds of 33 to 1. Thirty one horses ran and the course was a little short of a mile.

SOCCER GAME TO-NIGHT.

Masseys Vs. De Laval on King Edward Park.

Tonight at King Edward Park the Masseys and De Laval meet in the semi-finals of the Phelan Charity Cup. Kick off at 6 o'clock.

In the previous game these two teams failed to come to a decision after a fast going of ninety minutes. It is expected that both elevens will be at full strength, although De Laval will be without Cooper, who had always been an excellent halfback, and the fans regret that "doctor's orders" compels him to give up the game for the present. He was one of the originals of the De Laval juniors that won the Louis Yeotes Cup.

SUZANNE TO PLAY TENNIS SINGLES AT WIMBLEDON

First Round Draw Works Out Very Well—Twenty-one Nations Represented.

192 ENTRIES.

Recent Operations May Keep Helen Wills Out of Tournament.

LONDON, June 17.—(Canadian Press).—With the exception of the womens singles which brings Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Mary Browne, United States ace, together in the first round, the draw for the Wimbledon Tennis Tournament appears to have worked out very well.

The four quarters in the men's singles respectively contain: Rene Lacoste, Howard Kinsey, Vincent Richards and Henri Cochet, and in the fourth Jean Borotra.

Joan Fry, Peggy Saunders and Eileen Bennet are all in the same quarter of the women's singles with Mrs. Molla Mallory, while Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. L. A. Godfree are with Suzanne and Miss Browne. Helen Wills, although entered, will not play, it is believed. She recently underwent an operation.

Twenty-one nations are represented. Entries in the men's singles total 128 and in the women's singles 64.

An interesting feature will be the royal competition. The Duke of York, partnered with Louis Grieg, has been drawn against the veteran internationals, A. W. Gore and H. Roper Barrett, champions of 1909.

CHICAGO PITCHER UNDER SUSPENSION

Alexander Disciplined For First Time in Sixteen Years.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 17.—(Canadian Press).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, under suspension for breaking training rules, was believed to be on his way to Chicago last night. Sport writers said it was the first time he had been so disciplined in his major league baseball career of 16 years.

Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Cubs, who inflicted the penalty, declined to say how long the suspension would last.

McCarthy would not discuss the nature of Alexander's fracture of the rules. He said he had not pitched for a month and recently had been of no help to the team.

WIN FOR DELORO BY LARGE SCORE

Defeats Frankford 19-6 in Frankford—Result Never in Doubt.

PLAYS GOOD BALL.

MARMORA, June 17. — Deloro chalked up another large score at Frankford on Wednesday afternoon, defeating the homesters by 19 to 6. Frankford relied on L. Fraser as pitcher with Babcock on the receiving end. Ralph, a left hander, twirled six innings for the Smelters, giving place then to Shea.

Deloro for the first six frames played the standard of ball which should carry them far this season, replaced to make play evener. Frankford the score read 12 to 0 in their favor at the end of the sixth. In the seventh innings, the Deloro team was changed round and the players replaced to make play evener. Frankford took advantage of this, scoring twice in the seventh and eighth innings, and holding down their opponents score. The Deloro lads exerted themselves in the final frame, scoring seven more. Frankford obtained another brace in their venture, which were earned by good play. A comparatively small crowd of spectators watched the game. Score by innings:

FRASERVILE MAN HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Samuel Bruce Born in Scotland, Has Lived 99 Years in Canada.

An event unique in the history of South Monaghan took place at Fraserville on Thursday, June 10, when Samuel Bruce celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary at the home of his nephew, Robert Holden. A host of people, young and old, from near and far, called during the day with congratulations. Mrs. Holden served five o'clock tea to the afternoon callers. Mr. Bruce enjoys comparatively good health, and is able to take care of himself, even to shaving himself regularly. To his minister, Rev. H. W. Foley, and his callers, he answered many questions about himself and the long ago. He has never been sick nor taken doctor's medicine, but has had a few accidents, such as a broken arm and a crushed breast bone. He says that he never signed a temperance pledge, but he never was drunk, and never used tobacco, a pretty good record for his times.

He was born in County Derry in Ireland June 10, 1926, and came to Canada 99 years ago with his parents, who took up land near Kingston. After some years at home on the farm he went to the Prairie West with the geological survey. Later, when the Dominion took over the Great West from the Crown and from the Hudson Bay Company, assuming responsibility for the Indians, the buffalo having largely disappeared, leaving the Indians without food or skins, Mr. Bruce, on account of his knowledge of the Prairies and its people, was sent with helpers by the Government under Sir John A. MacDonald, to show the Indians how to grow grain and keep stock, taking with them four teams of horses. Later he took west 62 cattle and started ranching for himself. After some fifteen years he returned to Ontario, where he has lived ever since.

Mr. Bruce talks with a good memory of those early days with their pioneer life, before machinery or railroads, and of the public men of those days. He is one of the very few of them still living in the wonderful life of this day in which he has taken part from the very beginning. For the last few years Mr. Bruce had found a happy home with his nephew, Robert Holden, and his family. His family consists of a brother, John, in Parry Sound; a son, Harvey, in Alberta; a daughter, Miss Lenora, in New York State.

Dr and Mrs. Crouh (his grandson and granddaughter) of Belleville and Bruce Guthrie of Elgin, Ont., motored over on his birthday with good wishes, while the mails brought many congratulations. Mr. Bruce has been for a great many years a member of the Presbyterian Church, and he can say after all the years, "The best of all is, God is with us."

QUEBEC STRIKERS QUIET ONCE MORE

Workman Who Stayed on Job Believed Run Out of Town.

QUEBEC, June 17 (Canadian Press).—The shoeworking factory district was quiet yesterday with police on guard at corners, following Tuesday's disturbance when two men named Huse and Brousseau were assaulted.

Huse, who on Tuesday had to be rescued from a crowd at the corner of Caron and St. Joseph's Streets, could not be located yesterday, and it was learned that on Tuesday night a group of men had gone to Huse's boarding house and made him accompany them. It is believed that he was run out of town. He came here from Montreal.

Delicious relief from that mid-afternoon tiredness

"CANADA DRY" is a delicious drink for every occasion, but there is no time when it is so refreshing as in mid-afternoon of a busy day.

Try it along about 3.30 and note how it lifts you up and helps you to keep fresh and smiling to the end of the day. Many women have prevented headaches in just this way.

The reason for this is the genuine goodness of "Canada Dry." It is a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger, and it is so good and pure that it has been served for years in leading hospitals and is actually prescribed by physicians. Make it a point to try this fine old ginger ale soon. It is one of the best known products ever made in Canada and it is known the world over. Wherever you go, you will find people talking about its wonderful flavor. That's worth remembering.

Special Hostess Package

A new way of packing "Canada Dry." Ideal for home use. Twelve bottles in a substantial carton. You will be especially glad to have it handy for your dinners at home or when friends drop in unexpectedly. This Hostess Package is sold by all "Canada Dry" dealers.

BELLEVILLE TEAM TO PLAY SATURDAY

Petes Must Beat Gerow's Men To Regain Second Place.

Needing a victory over Belleville to climb into second place, the Petes will go into Saturday's game with Walter Gerow's men here full of determination. The real race at present is between these two clubs, inasmuch as both are figuring for a chance in the play offs. By virtue of yesterday's win Belleville are in front of the local crew but the Petes can flash ahead again by winning Saturday's fixture and they are confident of doing that very thing.

Belleville were originall scheduled to play here Saturday but Kingston objected to coming to Peterboro on July 1st morning, so a shift was arranged, Belleville consenting to come to Peterboro for the holiday and the Ponies agreeing to come here Saturday. Then the Kingston outfit arranged a series with the Toronto Highlanders for this week-end and refused to fill the Peterboro engagement. The result is that the original schedule will be followed out, Belleville playing in Peterboro Saturday and the Ponies on Dominion Day. The change was made for their accommodation and if they don't choose to live up to their own arrangement they'll have to put up with the inconvenience of making the holiday trip here.

Ouellet will pitch Saturday's game for Belleville while Lennox or Heckman will do the heaving for the Petes.

KLWANIS MIDGETS DEFEAT ALL STARS

Final Score is 18-6—Ten Runs in Second Inning.

The Kiwanis Midgets tucked another victory under their belts when they defeated the East City All Stars in a league fixture at the King Edward school ground last night. The second innings was disastrous for the All Stars, no less than ten runs being scored before the Kiwanis team was dismissed Kearns, pitcher for the All Stars, steadied down, however, and managed to hold them for the remainder of the game. The final score was 18-6 in favor of the Kiwanians.

Crary had 14 strike outs, Killenbeck 1 and Kearns 7.

Hits off Crary numbered 9, Kearns 12 and Killenbeck 6.

The lineup was as follows:

Kiwanis: Holland, ss; Dormer, 3b; MacDonald, 1b; Crary, p; DeForge, rf; Moury, cf; Levine, lf; Hall, 2b; O'Brien, c; Campanaro, lf.

East City All Stars: Meagher, rf; Ellis, ss; Payne, c; Killenbeck, 2b and 6; Montgraw, cf; Griffin, 3b; Adams, lf; Kearns, p; Ferguson 1b.

Umpires: Masterson and Rishea.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

oD you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now by McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.

THEATRE

STORM AT SEA— THRILLING SCENE IN FOX PICTURE

Critics of seventeen New York papers joined in saying that the William Fox photoplay "As No Man Has Loved," which will be presented at the Regent Theatre to-day, is not only a magnificent spectacle but the most compelling argument for love of home and country ever penned or pictured. It is based on Edward Everett Hale's Story, "The Man Without a Country."

Present day Americans are being thrilled at the powerful Fox screen version of the story. They quiver with emotion at the tremendous scene of the storm at sea with the frigate Essex battling with the mountainous waves while a cannon that has broken its lashings threatens the ships destruction. But that and the sea battle with a pirate ship are overshadowed by the poignant mental and spiritual agony of the man who longed for the country that he had cursed.

When Lincoln hands to Nolan's sweetheart, who has grown from girlhood to a tottering little lady of 78, the pardon she has sought for nearly 60 years, handkerchiefs are frankly shown and tears bravely wiped away.

FINALS REACHED.

MONTREAL, June 17 (Canadian Press).—Miss Helen Paget, Royal Ottawa, and Miss Sybil Kennedy, Royal Montreal, are the finalists for the Quebec Provincial Ladies' Golf Championship.

GREAT ACTIVITY IN QUEBEC MINING DISTRICT; WEATHER CONDITIONS FAVORABLE

The Rouyn District in Northwestern Quebec, which will shortly be largely adding to Canada's gold and copper production, is booming with activity. The high pressure at which work is now being done is due to the desire to make up for lost time caused by the exceptional backwardness of the season. On the 22nd of May there was a heavy fall of snow and it was not until the 26th that the ice went out of the lakes and rivers. With weather conditions now favorable and intensive efforts being made it is expected that there will be important news from the district within the next few weeks.

On Noranda property, with which the president of the Hollinger is identified, effort is being concentrated on preparations for the erection of a smelter. The fact that the Canadian National expects to have trains running into Rouyn within the next ninety days will have an important bearing on Noranda developments. It is stated that Noranda has $35,000,000 of ore in sight from the surface to a depth of 300 feet.

Some of the properties which are more in the prospect stage are attracting considerable interest. Among those is Laval-Quebec. During the past Winter necessary buildings have been erected and lines have been cut dividing the property up into squares of 400 feet. Geological work is being carried on under the direction of the well known John Reid and a dip needle survey has indicated an important ore body on the Southern portion of the property. After further careful checking it is expected that Laval will commence a campaign of diamond drilling.

Conditions on Area Mine, which adjoins the Amulet a little to the South of the Waite Montgomery, give ground for considerable optimism. Diamond drilling has cut an important orebody and those familiar with the District believe that the results so far on Area are next in importance to those on Noranda, White Montgomery and Alderson-MacKay.

DRAGOONS TAKE ANNUAL TRAINING

Training Proceeding According To Orders After Fire Interruption.

FEWER IN CAMP.

The members of the Prince of Wales Dragoons are at present encamped on the Exhibition grounds where they are undergoing their annual training.

The training yesterday was interrupted on account of the fire which damaged their stables to some extent, but today it was proceeding according to the orders laid down.

Today is being spent in dismounted and mounted troop drill. After musketry drill tomorrow morning the entire troop will proceed to the rifle ranges.

Church services will take place at St. George's Anglican Church and the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church on Sunday at which the troops will attend.

A ball game is slated for tonight when the officers of the Dragoons will play the officers of the Peterborough Garrison.

A sports committee has been organized composed of officers and men, and purposes starting its activities tomorrow.

The camp is somewhat smaller than usual this year on account of the reduced establishment, the total of all ranks being 91.

MONTREAL, June 17 (Canadian Press) — Winnipeg, Manitoba, was selected for the next meeting of the General Council of the United Church of Canada. The assembly is to be held in the month of June, 1928. The date has not yet been determined but the Council will meet in Young Church.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Mrs. Mackinnon Gives Helpful Address at June Meeting.

The June meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. took place Tuesday afternoon in the church parlor. The meeting opened with the Doxology and the Lord's Prayer, in unison. Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge gave the Scripture reading, after which Miss Craw led in prayer.

Routine business was then discussed, arrangements being made for the July meeting to be held on July 6th, on the lawn of Mrs. George Evans' home, Engleburn avenue. The "Watch Tower" was exceptionally good this month, each "Herald" having a splendid report to offer.

Mrs. M. C. Mackinnon addressed the ladies, her subject being "Making every woman a member of the Woman's Missionary Society." The speaker said every woman should be encouraged to become a member and thus help along in this wonderful work.

After Mrs. Mackinnon's address, a hymn was sung, after which Mrs. M. Kerr pronounced the benediction.

LADIES' AID TEA.

Many Attend Social Function at St. Paul's Manse.

A very successful and well attended tea, which also took the form of a house warming, was held at St. Paul's Presbyterian Manse on Tuesday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Guests to the number of nearly four hundred and fifty attended the affair, which was one of the largest functions of its kind in the history of the Ladies' Aid Society. The floral decorations were exceptionally pretty. The entrance porch was arranged with tall palms and bowls of honeysuckle and lilac. In the hall were white and purple lilacs and bright yellow marigolds, and the drawing room was done in ferns, tulips and iris. In the tea room, the table was centred with Cluny lace and a silver basket of pink roses, lily of the valley and sweet peas.

The guests were received by Mrs. William Allan and Mrs. D. Jordan, president of the Ladies' Aid Society. Guests were ushered into the tea room by Mrs. J. Garbutt, and Mrs. S. McKee, assisted by Mrs. A. McLeish. Mrs. H. C. Sherwood, Mrs. Burrell. Tea was poured in the afternoon by Mrs. E. F. Mason and Mrs. W. H. Hill, and in the evening by Mrs. J. M. McCulloch and Mrs. C. A. White, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Hall.

Tea-room assistants were Mrs. F. C. Webber, Mrs. J. MacNab, Mrs. J. Marsh, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. J McKee, Mrs F Clayton, Mrs J P Pulking-horn, Miss A. Hunter, Miss . Taylor and Miss E. Montgomery.

During afternoon and evening a very enjoyable programme in charge of Mrs. R. W. Davidson, was given, including vocal solos by Mrs. Hazel D. McClelland, Mrs Norman Foote, Miss Greta LeBarr, Miss Daisy Davidson, Miss Olive Cullen, and Mr Ronald Fleming, readings by Mrs. McClelland; pianoforte number by Mrs. Harry Carey, and violin selections by Mrs. P. Hooper. Mrs. H. Carey and Mrs. W. A. Logan played the accompaniments for the solo numbers.

Health Bubbling Over

The old boy's as pleased with himself as a puppy-dog with two tails.

At sixty he's just as young in feeling, just as full of life and "go," as he was in his teens. From the crown of his head to the soles of his feet his whole frame tingles with the sheer joy of being alive. It does one good to look at him.

That's what Kruschen has done for him—given him "that Kruschen feeling" of perfect health and happiness.

It's so simple to gain too! A daily tasteless pinch of Kruschen, taken in the breakfast cup of coffee or tea, gently and naturally cleanses the system of all impurities. There are six different salts in every pinch, and under their energising influence the headaches and fits of depression, the listlessness and lack of appetite, the twinges of gout and rheumatism — in fact, all the little ills that make life burdensome vanish away, to give place to the vigorous cheeriness that comes from physical well-being.

For Kruschen gets down to the cause of these ills — to the impure blood stream and the sluggish internal organs. The regular daily dose stimulates the liver and kidneys to the proper performance of their duty, removes all impurities, and sends new refreshed blood to carry health and vigour to every part of the body.

Take the first step towards renewing health and happiness and the whole-hearted enjoyment of life, by buying a 75c bottle straight away and beginning the Kruschen Habit of Health, with your breakfast cup of coffee or tea to-morrow morning.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dimeful that does it

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 160 doses—enough for three months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

RURAL CREDIT BILL BEING CONSIDERED

Senate Committee Meets in Camera, But Is Expected To Pass It.

OTTAWA, June 17 (Canadian Press).—Meeting in camera, the Senate Banking and Commerce Committee last night considered the Government's rural credit bill. A decision on the bill was not reached, the committee meeting again today to discuss it further. Indications are, however, that the bill will probably pass the committee with some amendments.

Censure For Former Minister And Dismissal of Officials Is Advised In Customs Report

Hon. Jacques Bureau Failed To Properly Discharge Duties of Office Is Finding of Committee—No Finding on Present Minister.

SHOULD BE NO INTERFERENCE IN PROCEDURE ON LARGE SUMS

Many Officers Are Slated For Dismissal in Report—Investigation of Others Advised—Fewer Ports of Entry Are Recommended.

OTTAWA, June 18 (Canadian Press).—With sweeping recommendations of reorganization, dismissals, and suspensions, the special committee of the House which has been investigating the customs department made its report this afternoon. The committee was appointed on February 5, following strong charges made against the customs department by the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative member for Vancouver Centre. Its reports was adopted only after many meetings in camera, and after sharp divisions of opinion. It was on the question of ministerial responsibility that the committee was most at difference. The report finds that the Hon. Jacques Bureau, who was Minister of Customs till shortly before the general elections, "failed to appreciate and properly discharge the responsibilities of his office and as a result there was a lack of efficient, continuous and vigorous control of subordinates by the headquarters staff at Ottawa."

Censure Expected

The report does not make any finding in regard to the responsibility of the Hon. George H. Boivin, Minister of Customs. This is left to the House where, it is understood, the Conservatives intend to move an amendment of censure.

The report recommends that when goods of more than $200 in value have been smuggled, administrative procedure should be automatic and not subject to ministerial interference. It recommends that regulations be made to prohibit clearances being granted to vessels carrying liquors as cargo sailing from a Canadian port to a United States port, such regulations to make an exception in favor of liquor being imported into the United States in accordance with the laws of that country.

The report recommends:

That the evidence given by J. A. E. Bisaillon, formerly chief preventive officer, Montreal, with reference to his bank account and with reference to the Morris Delage motor car case be transmitted to the Attorney-General of Quebec for such action as the evidence may warrant.

Revision of technical regulations governing the denaturing of alcohol.

That 27 firms and companies whose names are given in the report be proceeded against to recover sums if any owing by them to the Crown.

A thorough audit of all distilleries in respect to all matters relating to the loss of Customs, excise and sales tax revenue.

Reorganization.

The reorganization of the preventive service under a chief, possessed with the highest qualification for such office, clothed with wide powers of initiative, direction and control.

Reorganization of the appraisal branch and that all appraisers be chosen because of their competency.

Reduction in the number of ports of entry.

In connection with the preventive service, the committee recommends that the chief preventive officer be authorized to select his staff in consultation with the Civil Service Commission, that he be authorized to organize a secret service force within the preventive service, that preventive officers be given authority to arrest, without warrant, per-

UNIFIED SYSTEM OF FINANCE ADOPTED BY GENERAL COUNCIL OF UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

Three Separate Plans of Uniting Bodies Merged Into One.

SINGLE TREASURY.

Ralph Conner Urges Stressing Spiritual Rather Than Financial Side of Work

MONTREAL, Que., June 18 (Canadian Press) — Approval was given by the General Council of the United Church of Canada this afternoon to a unified financial plan or co-operative budget to be known as "the maintenance and extension fund," which will replace the three separate plans of the Uniting Churches. There will be one treasury. Responsibility for operation of the fund shall be vested in the executive committee of the General Council, which shall determine the annual budget and its distribution to the various boards, and function through a finance committee, a promotion committee and a committee on literature, general publicity and missionary education. These committees acting together shall constitute the committee of direcion of the maintenance and extension fund, whose duty it shall be to promote and raise the fund.

Promotion Committee

The duties of the promotion committee will be to give leadership to conferences, presbyteries and pastoral charges in co-operation with the Boards of the church, in initiating and developing plans for the raising of revenue; for promoting knowledge of the work by public addresses and appropriate publicity and printed matter; for developing Christian stewardship and liberality throughout the church and for cultivating approved methods of church finance, such as the use of duplex envelopes and the annual "every person" canvas.

The executive officers for this unified plan of finance shall be the secretary of the finance committee, a deputy treasurer, a secretary of maintenance and extension, who shall also be secretary of the promotion committee; a secretary of literature, general publicity and missionary education, who shall be editor of "The United Church Record and Missionary Review," and a secretary who shall administer the work now under the direction of the young people's forward movement for missions of the Methodist church. Such additional office and publicity assistance may be engaged as the executive committee of the general council may deem necessary.

Creation of a special staff of a secretary and such other assistance needed to direct the work of the "maintenance and extension fund" provoked debate both this afternoon and this morning on the cost of administration. A number of commissioners thought overhead was too high and another special department for finance indicated too much emphasis of that side of the church work. Others maintained that the raising of money was a spiritual part of the work and leadership in this was needed for the Presbyteries and pastoral charges. The council endorsed this latter view. However, charges of too costly administration raised on the floor of the house and said to be rumored among the congregations had already been considered important enough for reference to a special committee, and this body reported today through the convenor, Rev. J. W. Woodside, Ottawa. His figures, which he stressed were merely approximated, and which he did wish, therefore, to go into the minutes, were to the effect that the cost to the three congregations in their last year of operation was only eight per cent for administration, expenses of the church courts and interest on overdraft.

Complete Investigation

First, stressing the seriousness of the accusations, Mr. Woodside said he thought all were persuaded that a spirit of criticism and lack of confidence would do the church great harm. To dispel this and gain the loyalty and confidence which was essential, a complete investigation was necessary and he moved a resolution, which was adopted, that the executive committee should prepare a statement on administration which should be given wide publicity throughout the church.

There was a misconception, he thought, in some quarters concerning the purpose of Union. It was not to save money, but to spend it more wisely, and to save men.

Figures of Expenditure

His temporary figures were as follows:

Salaries of the general administration offices of the three churches—$159,000 or 4.2 per cent of total expenditures.

Salaries of field secretaries and superintendents with travel — $144,000 or 4 per cent.

Cost of general conference, general assembly and Congregational union—$78,000 or 2.1 per cent.

Publicity literature and missionary education—$78,000.

Interest on overdraft— $58,000 or 1.6 per cent.

Work on fields and institutions—$3,133,000 or 87 per cent.

The forecast for the coming year was that there would be a reduction of salaried officers from 61 to 46 and of their salaries from $210,000 to $172,000.

The opinion of the special committee was that the church was not over-manned but possibly under-manned, that administration did not cost too much, but perhaps too little.

Dr. W.T.G. Brown, Kingston, emphasized that the officials were hard worked, and if anything the church was short staffed.

Rev. H.H. Clark, Halifax, declared the church proposed to raise in the

No Fine Couch For Prince He Fears Becoming Stout

LONDON, June 18 (United Press).—Royalty's traditionally luxurious couch has no charms for the Prince of Wales, who has one but does not use it. He sleeps on a hard camp bed.

It is only one of the expedients H. R. H. adopts for keeping fit. A tendency to generous proportions runs in the house of Windsor, and the dread of seeing himself one day as plump as his grandfather, Edward VII., has led the Prince of Wales to take strenuous measures. He watches his diet carefully, limits his cigarettes and takes all the exercise he can get.

YOUNG FARMER IS FOUND DEAD

Robert Martin Apparently Shot While Climbing Through Fence.

WAS OUT SHOOTING.

Robert Martin, Mather's Corners, about ten miles from Peterboro, was found this morning by a search party shot through the chest.

The young man who worked on the farm of Herbert Kylie, Mather's Corners, went out shooting ground hogs last night about 7 o'clock. Last night when he did not return Mr. Kylie became anxious and phoned a friend, but received word that he had not been there. A search party was organized and located his body, about 3.30 this morning, lying beside a stump fence.

Provincial Constable N. F. Maker said that he found the shot gun caught in the fence, with the body of the deceased lying in a position that looked as if he had come through the fence and then attempted to pull the gun after him.

County Crown Attorney Hatton and Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, visited the scene of the accident where the young man was fatally shot, and have decided that an inquest is unnecessary.

Names Of 3,000 British On U. S. Quota List Now

ST. ALBANS, Vt., June 18.—Three thousand British born Canadian subjects are on the waiting list of the United States' immigration commissioner at Montreal for immigration quotas, immigration officials were advised to-day. The waiting list is to be released July 1st, the beginning of the new fiscal year. The quotas for the present fiscal year have been exhausted for some time.

THE WEATHER.

Highest temperature yesterday 74 degrees. Lowest last night 59 degrees. Last night was much the warmest night we have had up to the present time. A smart shower, with thunder and lightning, also passed over the city. To-day is the date of the annual Normal School picnic. According to the popular belief it always rains on that day, but there have been a few exceptions. Though this morning opened bright and clear with every prospect of an ideal day for an outing, rain fell quite heavily at a later hour.—W.P.

BRIAND STATEMENT.

Ex-Premier Says the Radical Groups Declined To Enter Union.

PARIS, June 18 (Canadian Press) —Shortly after former Premier Briand had announced this afternoon that he was unable to form a new Cabinet, former Premier Herriot, leader of the Radical party, was summoned to the Elysee Palace by President Doumergue.

M. Briand said that it had been his hope to form a ministry made up of the most important political leaders. While former President Poincare had consented to serve in the ministry, the Radical groups refused to accord M Herriot permission to enter such a combination. Thus the latter had been forced to decline the portfolio offered him.

MARKET SCALES BEING REPAIRED

Agent Takes Away Parts With Promise of Immediate Return.

DOESN'T SHOW UP.

The market scales were taken up on Monday last with the intention of having them repaired. They were removed on Monday by the agent of a scale repair company who promised to have the job done the next day. The scales did not come to hand as expected, and as they were in urgent demand Alderman Hancock was called in, and after a search of two days succeeded in locating the agent in Keene. The agent promised to have the scales in place this morning but up to the time of going to press he had not turned up.

INCREASE MADE IN ASSESSMENT

County Council Adds 5 P.C. To Bring Amount Within Law.

REVISION IN 1928.

The question of the equalized assessment came up before the Committee on Equalization and Assessment of the County Council this morning. It appears that the total local assessment of the townships in the county has become greater than the total equalized assessment, which is the amount on which the county assesses the different townships for county purposes. This is contrary to law, and as there remain yet two years before the equalized assessment can be revised, the only course left was to add five per cent. to the equalized assessment of all the townships, this to hold good until the next revision of the equalized assessment when the case of each township will be dealt with separately. The committee reported as follows:

(1) That all the municipalities comprising the County of Peterboro be assessed for the purpose of county rates at the value set forth in the schedule hereto annexed and that such valuations shall be the equalized assessment for the year 1926.

(2) That this Council is willing to have the final equalization of assessment, in the case of an appeal, made by the County Judge. The abstract from the assessment rolls, being the schedule referred to in the report of the Committee on Equalization and Assessment for 1926 was as follows:

Council Is Unable To Advise Citizens To Purchase P.R.R.

Aldermen Also Decide That They Cannot Order Rival Bus Lines To Cease Operations, as Requested By Hydro Electric Commission.

POWER TO STOP OPERATION OF BUSES THROUGH POLICE COMMISSION DOUBTED

City Fathers Discover That They Have No Say in Erection of Addition To County Buildings, Though City Pays More Than Half of Cost.

That the City Council cannot recommend the purchase of the street railway to the people, and that it does not think that it has the power to order the rival buses off the streets, were two conclusions reached by the City Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, last night. During the past ten days the aldermen have considered the report given them by the Hydro Electric Power Commission, in preparation for this meeting.

When the question was brought up, a note was read containing two points concerning which Mr. Gaby had phoned. The first of these was that the commission would prefer that the matter be not submitted to the people unless the council could recommend the purchase to them. The second was that it was not fair for the council to grant an exclusive franchise and then license competing lines.

Alderman Greene submitted a number of points which he had derived from the information submitted by the Hydro. The first was on the suggestion to shorten the lines on George Street. If this were done he said, it would be possible for most people, on missing a car at the end of the line, to walk to the centre of the city in less time than if they waited.

The second point he mentioned was that if the street cars were entirely replaced by buses there would be heavy expenditures needed for road repairs.

Next he stressed, as not seeming reasonable, the contention that if $30,000 were spent on rehabilitation, the loss of some $37,000 would be turned in a surplus almost as great. He said that it had been said before that $65,000 was necessary for repairs and new equipment.

One half of the citizens ride in automobiles for eight months of the year and any expenditure on the street railway would therefore be providing for only half the people, said Alderman Greene.

In conclusion, Alderman Greene said that from the figures given by the Hydro he calculated that there would be a yearly loss, if the road were bought for fifty thousand dollars, of about $16,000.

Other aldermen also said that they could not recommend the purchase to the ratepayers. The statement that the Hydro could not find money for necessary repairs to the system was mentioned, and the fact that money had been spent on the gas plant to put it into paying shape was brought up.

Finally on a motion of Alderman Fife and Greene, it was decided that the council could not recommend the purchase to the ratepayers.

Competing Lines.

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing said that many cities were keeping buses off the streets through the powers of the police commissions to regulate the passenger carrying vehicles. He gave it as his opinion that no interpretation could be put on the municipal act regarding this until there had been a court decision, as different lawyers might interpret it in different ways.

The possibility of a legal battle if the Cooney and Jopling buses were ordered off, was mentioned and it was suggested that the Hydro be asked to finance any litigation that might arise.

A resolution was finally passed that the council was doubtful of its power to prevent the buses from running, and did not want to involve the city in any possible litigation.

The County Buildings.

That, although the city is responsible for more than half the cost, full authority to order an addition to the county buildings is vested in the County Council, was brought out when the proposed addition was discussed. The plans, which were viewed at a meeting of the county council, were approved.

The matter of representation at the conference to form an Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce was left to the mayor and such aldermen as are able to attend.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission will be asked to stop the Charlotte street and C. P. E. cars from stopping alongside each other at the corner of Charlotte and Downie streets, owing to traffic dangers.

WEDDING BELLS.

WOLFF—THORNDYKE.

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Father Burke, at St. Peter's church, Toronto, on Tuesday, of Miss Jean Constance Thorndyke, of Toronto and Alvin Cecil Wolff, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wolff, 452 Donegal street.

McGRATH--DRISCOLL.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, June the 15th, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Peterborough, when Miss Laura Driscoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Driscoll, became the bride of Mr. James McGrath, son of Mr. David McGrath and the late Mrs McGrath.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Guiry, cousin of the bride, and during the nuptial mass, Miss Stella Brady sang an Ave Marie and several other hymns. The wedding march was played by Miss Leona Hummel. The bride, entering the church on the arm of her father looked very charming in a gown of blonde georgette, with trimming of rose, wearing hat and scarf to match, and carrying a bouquet of sweetheart roses, and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Greta Grisdale wore ashes of roses flat crepe with a hat to match and blonde shoes and stockings. She also carried roses. Mr. Neil Driscoll acted as best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served, the toast to the bride being given by Rev. Father Guiry.

The many gifts, including a silver tea service from the Trent Valley staff, of which the groom is an employee, showed the popularity of the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath left on the afternoon train for a short honeymoon, the bride wearing poudre-blue with white hat and white kid gloves. On their return they will reside at 141 Hazlett street.

McGowan—Hogan.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Gabriel's church, Biggar, Sask., on Tuesday, June 8th, at seven o'clock in the morning, when Mrs. M. Hogan, of Peterborough, and Mr. John McGowan, of Biggar, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Father Drapeau.

Following the wedding ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. P. J. Collins, sister of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. McGowan left for Winnipeg for a short honeymoon trip. On their return they will reside in Biggar.— From Biggar "Independent."

OBITUARY.

SYLVESTER E. BRIGGS.

TORONTO, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Prominent in the seed business for many years, Sylvester E. Briggs, president of the Steele-Briggs Seed Company, died yesterday. Mr. Briggs, who was in his 81st year, had been in poor health for the last four years.

He was born in Myrtle, in the Township of Whitby.

HARRY LOCKINGTON.

W. Bro. Harry Lockington, P.M., of Haileybury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and active in Masonic circles in Northern Ontario, was laid to rest with the full rites of the order, in the Little Lake Cemetery on Wednesday.

The remains were brought from Swastika, where death occurred very suddenly, by R. W. Bro. Robert Labeup, P.D.D.G.M., of Haileybury Lodge, and Cyril C. Young, of Toronto.

Services were conducted in St. John's Church by Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., and at the grave by Bros Miller and Richardson, assisted by the Rev. Bro. J. W. Gordon. Many members of Peterboro, Corinthian and Royal Arthur Lodges of this city, were present, and the pall bearers were W. Bro. J. Miller, W. Bro. C. E. Adair, W Bro. W. Logan, W. Bro. W. J. Henry, W. Bro. A. A. Fowler, W. Bro. Frank Dawson.

The late Mr. Lockington was an old Peterboro boy and had many relatives and friends in this city. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, four brothers and one sister.

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

"THESE WOMEN"

By MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926

The Characters and Situations in this Story are entirely fictional.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

AUDREY MORTON, recovering from a nervous collapse, has returned from Toronto to her home in Peterborough.

She loves her guardian, HARRY MORTON, rich, middle-aged, un-married and highly attractive to women. JOHN PARRISH, Morton's secretary, loves Audrey.

NONA, a Toronto dancer, who has just made a great stage success, also loves Morton.

Because Audrey had entertained a bevy of chorus girls at her home a few weeks before, her next door neighbors in Peterborough refuse to speak to her and Morton as she sits on the porch, the morning of her return.

She cries, and Morton carries her upstairs to bed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LV.

Morton left the room while the nurse undressed Audrey, and made her comfortable beneath the covers.

Then he returned, and sat with her, chafing her hands and arms until finally she fell asleep. The marks of tears still were on her cheeks, and her lids were red from weeping.

Descending the stairs, he went outside, and stood on the porch, thinking. Then, with resolution, he passed out the gate, a hundred feet down the street, and into the yard of the neighbors who had brought fresh grief to Audrey.

A maid servant answered his ring at the door. Recognizing him, she invited him into the house.

"Tell your master and mistress that Mr. Morton desires to see them at once," he told the girl.

He remained standing, until the woman appeared. She stopped at the doorway and looked at him. Then she turned, and called: "Henry!"

She stood, looking at Morton steadily, but not speaking. He contented himself with a bow. Presently the footsteps of her husband could be heard descending the stairs. He too appeared in the doorway.

"This man has invaded our house," said the woman. "Will you please ask him to oblige us by leaving?"

Somewhat uncertainly, the man advanced into the room. Morton's eyes were icy, and his unwilling host stopped two paces from him.

"What are you doing in my house?" said the neighbor. "Surely we have made it plain that we do not desire your acquaintance!"

Morton's cold stare disconcerted him. He turned to his wife, uneasily, and suggested that she leave the room.

"I shall not leave while that man is here," she said. "Must we call assistance to eject him?"

For the first time, Morton spoke. His tone was low and even, but the hard anger in his face had its visible effect upon the two who stood before him.

"You people have done a wanton injury to a girl who is sick and helpless," he said, slowly. "I have come to demand reparation."

The woman raised her voice, shrilly.

"So dissipation has had its effect upon her, at last!" she said.

Morton took a quick step toward her, but stopped.

"Your mind is evil, madam, and so your tongue is evil too." He turned suddenly to the man, who had moved. "Stand back there! You people will listen to what I have to say. When I'm through, I'll take my departure."

They drew together. Folding his arms, he faced them, his head thrown back, looking from one to the other through narrowed eyelids.

"You have seen Audrey grow up here, next door to you," he said, quietly. "You have always known her as a sweet and innocent and affectionate girl. She is sweet and innocent and affectionate now. She has been very ill—ill because I have deprived her of so many of the things that belong to normal girlhood. I know that now, and the knowledge has almost broken me.

"In your self-righteousness, you have set yourself to judge her because she brought a group of chorus girls to our house."

He moved closer to them, and bent forward, his steady gaze moving from one pair of staring eyes to the other.

"Do your shriveled hearts realize that chorus girls are just girls? That they are young, and seeking happiness? That all they did here was to relax from their hard life, and eat food that was better than the fare they are accustomed to? That they frolicked around, as your own daughters would frolic if God or the devil had given you daughters?"

He paused. The woman took her husband's arm, as if for protection.

"You have no right to insult us!" she said.

Morton shook his head, slowly. "Madam, I am here in defense of Audrey. You have hurt her, meanly—contemptibly. For myself, it is a matter of no concern whether you desire my acquaintance or not. I do not care whether you are alive or not. But you shan't hurt a weak and nervous girl without hearing something in return—when that girl is dependent upon me."

The man cleared his throat. "You brought a notorious woman to this town, and associated with her, publicly around the streets," he said.

Morton unfolded his arms, and swept his hand toward a settee that stood against the wall.

"Sit down there!" he commanded.

They hesitated, and then, glancing at one another, obeyed.

Morton, in two steps, stood before them.

"And how do you know that she was a notorious woman?" His voice had not varied from its even cadence.

"Why," the man began, looking at his wife, "everybody knew she was a notorious woman."

"Who's everybody?"

"The people here in town," said the other, defensively. "She showed it by the way she looked."

"You are right, Henry," his wife said, pursing her mouth, but looking apprehensively at Morton.

"The lady in question," said Morton, "happens to be one of the great artistes of Toronto. Her picture has been in all the illustrated newspapers, in the last few weeks. She is my friend, and she was my guest. Who gave to you the privilege of censoring my acquaintances?"

He waited, but they did not reply.

He went on "You have elected yourself to sit in judgment on a young woman whom you do not know, and whom you do not even know anything about. You have administered punishment to a sick girl, for faults that exist only in your own mind. Who chose you to judge?"

Reaching back, he drew a chair to him, and sat down, so his eyes would be on the level with theirs.

"Your own life has been notorious," the man said. His wife gave an affirmative nod.

"Notorious among whom?" Morton demanded. "Among people like yourselves—people who love to think of nastiness, and attribute it to their neighbors!"

The woman arose, as if to leave the room. Morton lifted his hand, palm toward her, and with a slow gesture compelled her to her seat. She sat, staring at him, her face flushed, and her hands pressed upon her husband's coat sleeve.

"Your opinions, and your thoughts, would make absolutely no difference in this world," Morton said, "except that in this instance Audrey is nervous and sensitive from her illness. Because she is weak, you have the power to hurt her. You HAVE hurt her."

He deliberately arose, and shoved his chair back against the wall. He stepped to the door, and returned for a final word.

"I merely wanted to tell you, in plain terms, what you are, and what you have done," he said.

The man and woman remained together on their settee, as he left the house, and walked through the yard in the street.

Parrish came to the Morton home late that afternoon, his briefcase stuffed with letters and reports.

Audrey was sitting, wrapped in a silk coverlet, on the veranda as he came up the walk. She smiled at him pleasantly, as he dropped his case and hat, and sat on the porch floor beside her.

"I have a telegram for you, Miss Morton," he told her.

Opening the case, he drew from it a yellow envelope. "It was sent to you in care of Mr. Morton's office," he explained.

She opened the message, and read it with a pleased smile. She passed it to Parrish.

"Dearest Audrey," he read. "I do hope you made your journey without any ill effects. Get well soon. Love from Nona."

He folded the telegram, and gave it back to her.

"Isn't she sweet?" Audrey asked.

Parrish nodded, thoughtfully. "I used to think she was terrible," he confessed. "But she IS good, isn't she?"

"Of course she's good," Audrey said. "Nearly everybody is good, except—except—"

Her lips trembled, and tears of weakness came to her eyes. Parrish looked at her, concerned.

"What's wrong?" he demanded. "Has anybody been doing things to you, that they shouldn't?"

She shook her head, and took refuge in silence. At this moment Morton came to the door.

"Let's see that telegram you read to me over the phone," Morton said.

Audrey handed him her own message from Nona. He read it, and handed it back.

"It was another message I wanted," he said.

Diving into his brief case, Parrish drew forth a telegram and gave it to Morton. The other glanced over it hastily.

As he looked up, he caught sight for the first time of Audrey's face. "What's wrong?" he asked, smoothing back her hair.

She did not respond, but Parrish told him what she had said.

"Oh—I know." He called the young man indoors, and related the episode of the next door neighbors.

Parrish jammed his hat on his head. "I'm going over there right away," he said.

Morton held him. "I was there myself," he said, smiling. "I doubt if you can add anything to what I had to say."

He gave a brief description of his visit to the folk in the other house. Parrish took off his hat, and stamped into the study.

Morton returned to the door. "Audrey, can you stand a little shock?" he said, the telegram still in his hand.

She looked upward at him. "If it's something dreadful, don't tell me," she said.

"I don't know whether it's dreadful or not," he said, reflectively. "Anyhow, I'll tell you. You remember Smith—the man I saw on his way to the penitentiary, down in Arizona?"

She nodded.

"And you remember I said there was a man from Tucson who was looking for him, with a gun?"

Again she nodded.

"Well, he got him at last. That's all."

Her eyes fell to her lap, and her thin hands twisted themselves together. "Poor man!" she was silent a long time, while he stood regarding her. "I thought he was locked up?" she said at length.

"Hauling stone outside the prison yard," Morton explained, briefly. "The other man was over the hilltop. He escaped."

He took her hand in his, and patted it. "Do you remember the old line 'The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small?'"

The little English maid servant came to the door.

"Excuse me sir, but the maid from next door is back here at the kitchen entrance, and she wants to see you about something important," she said.

ANNIVERSARY HELD.

Rev. Mr. Griffith Preached in Cavan United Church.

CAVAN, June 17.—The Rev. Mr. Griffith, Blackstock, preached the anniversary sermons, morning and evening, in Cavan United church, on Sunday, June 13. His addresses were exceptionally good and were listened to by large congregations. In the morning, as is the custom at these Sunday school anniversary services, his talk was especially for the children. He had their attention during the entire service. His texts were, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life," and "For as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up." Using these texts and telling the children many interesting facts about snakes, he delivered a beautiful and instructive talk to the children, couched in language that even the tiny tots could understand.

On Sunday evening the church was well filled. In the evening his topic was "The Creed of Faith." He preached a splendid sermon on this important subject. The choir furnished good music for both services. In the morning they sang "Volunteers Wanted" and Miss A. Tinney a solo, "In the Garden." In the evening the anthem was "Lift Up Your Heads," and Messrs. R. Sutton, W. Howson and Mrs. R. S. Staples and Mrs. Kennedy sang a quartette, "Nearer Home."

On Monday the weather was disappointing for those preparing the annual sports and treats for the children and for those who had expected to attend and participate in the pleasures of the evening. It was showery all day and by evening it had settled down to a regular pour. The young people from Elizabethville, who were giving their play, "The Village Lawyer," arrived in good time before the worst downpour started. An excellent supper was served in the basement of the community hall. The play was extra good and well given. The crowd was not large, but those who were there had a splendid time. About twenty-five dollars was taken at the door. There were eleven in the play.

It was a custom at weddings, a great many years ago, to draw a thread from the clothes of both the bride and bridegroom and to tie these threads together during the ceremony. It was from this old custom that originated the expression "tying the knot."

WAR ON THE SPEEDERS.

With automobile traffic now reaching its peak, the Provincial Governments of Ontario and Quebec are endeavouring to check the speeding tendencies of motorists, make travelling conditions safer and save the highways from damage.

Open warfare on speeders has been declared in Quebec where a patrol of 150 motorcyclists has been established to curb the drivers who disregard the speed limit, and it is announced that every motorist convicted of exceeding the legal limit will have his driving license cancelled for a year.

This penalty will seem particularly drastic, as hitherto the Quebec authorities have given the automobile fraternity considerable leeway.

The Minister of Highways, however, announces that, trusting the good sense of the people has not produced the desired results and with accidents showing an increase, it becomes necessary to try the effect of more punitive legislation.

In Ontario, while the Department of Highways has declared that the law will be enforced vigorously, the Government is appealing to motorists through newspaper advertising to refrain from speeding.

"Excessive speed damages road surfaces and hastens the need for costly repairs," is the keynote of one of the department's appeals, and it is hoped that these advertisements will have the desired effect and avert the putting into force of more drastic regulations.

WHAT ABOUT BY-ELECTIONS?

According to Mr. Ferguson's latest speech, Ontario is not to have a general election until next June.

Speaking at Orillia on Wednesday, he intimated that his Government would go to the country in about twelve months time, a statement that will confound those who have been predicting an election in the autumn.

The Premier, however, made one very regrettable omission; he failed to tell his hearers anything about the by-elections in the seven constituencies in which there is a vacancy at the present time.

If there is to be another session before a general election, are the people of Ontario to understand that these seven ridings will be without representation during that session as they were during the last?

Are 165,000 electors of this Province to be left for another year without a voice in the carrying on of Ontario's business.

Everybody remembers how much criticism has been aroused on different occasions when there was delay in issuing the writs for a by-election in one riding left vacant.

Here we have seven constituencies who have been without a member for many months, and who are apparently to be left for another year in that condition.

How that state of affairs can be justified remains a mystery.

THE BUS QUESTION.

In a letter published elsewhere on this page today Mr. M. P. Kennedy, manager of the Stoney Lake bus line, adds his contribution to the discussion on the speed of motor buses.

We are glad to give space to Mr. Kennedy's communication as it presents the case from the viewpoint of the bus operators.

At the same time we beg to assure the writer that anything the Examiner has said on this subject did not have reference to local bus lines.

The subject was treated in a general way, and what we particularly had in mind was the operation of the palace car type of bus on the expensively constructed Provincial highways, where both for the safety of the public and for the protection of the road surface it is necessary that excessive speed should be curbed.

There have been no complaints about the Stoney Lake bus line, which apparently is being operated efficiently and with due regard to safety principles.

Mr. Kennedy's communication is of particular interest to the Examiner because of the following suggestion:

> "Please advocate," he writes, "the prohibition of all motor traffic in the spring of the year while the frost is going out. A heavy car or truck will do more harm in one hour in the month of April than the same car or truck will do in two months after the roads have dried."

The Examiner has, as a matter of fact, for the past two or three years advocated the closing of roads in the spring to motor traffic, and is glad to have its views endorsed by an authority on the subject.

SUNDAY IS FATHER'S DAY.

Three years ago when the celebration of "Father's Day" was first proposed, it received considerable attention, particularly from those newspaper paragraphers who saw in it an opportunity to rewarm the well known "father jokes" and make them do service again.

But last year and the year before, there were many indications that "Father's Day" was receiving less attention from scoffers and more from sons and daughters all over Canada and the United States. There were evidently a great many who considered that "Father" was worthy of a special day, and the fact that we have "Father's Day" again this year is evidence that the idea is taking hold.

No joking—father does like to be appreciated. He was a little jealous when mother had a halo placed upon her head, but he never said a word—just kept plodding away. He always knew that anything ever said about or done for mother would not pay the debt humanity owes to mother, but right down deep in his heart, father always believed that he deserved a little recognition for the part he plays in keeping the world turning on its axis.

As a rule, father doesn't care to have anyone "make a fuss over him." He is content to go on doing his bit by rearing his family and helping whatever he can in community betterment.

But he'll admit that he's a little blase if he doesn't wake up to the idea of being the centre of attraction one day in the year.

This year special radio programmes are to be given for Father's Day, film corporations are releasing Father's Day films and Community clubs in many centres are having "Father and Son" functions on the eve of June 20th.

THE SUMMER HOLIDAYS.

The month of June has for a long time been identified with the commencement of what is generally recognizde as the summer holiday season. The schools and colleges close, many places of business adopt shorter hours for at least one day in the week, the outdoor clubs take on special activity, summer resorts become populous, the highways are alive with motor cars, and thousands of people go abroad. All this is not only a more or less natural outgrowth of advancing civlization, but it is quite distinctly an indication of the ever-widening distributon of wealth. That some degree of leisure is available to a steadily increasing number of men and women in every community marks our emergence from the limitations and exactions of pioneer days.

The question arises: What is a rational holiday? Answers will, of course, vary. There should, however, be more or less general agreement in the suggestion that the element of change is fundamntal. To those who dwell in populous centres, with their bustle and distractions, the country places carry the pleasant prospect of rest and recuperative environment. The inlander naturally gravitates to the seashore or lakeside. Thos who follow sedentary occupations do well to seek the wide spaces, where enjoyment and invigoration are to be found in camp and forest. To travel in other lands, to observe other civilizations, to see famous places and learn more about this ever-interesting old world is, above all else, the most satisfactory of holidays.

The automobile threatens to make nomads of us all. It has give a new meaning and a new scope to our summer holidays. It has suggestive possibilities as we look ahead; and yet, while much of the larger freedom of movement which it has given is on the side of a richer and fuller life, it carries with it that danger of making us more restless. If it does that, we may find ourselves compelled, in self-protection, to use our motor cars less and our legs more. When we are thrown back on shanks' mare we shall get more physical exercise, perhaps to the advantage of our health and the certainty of relishing plain food and sleeping better at nights.

Looked at from the physical point of view alone, we may easily test the benefits of a summer holiday. Wherever we may go, or whatever we may do, if we come back home with a better appetite for breakfast and a stronger urge to go to bed at night, we may feel assured that our adventure has had its reward. If we should at the same time find that it had made us cheerful and tolerant, we might unhesitatingly decide that it had been an unreckonable success—the kind of holiday that yields rich dividends—Ottawa Free Press.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE PUBLIC GOOD.

Dr. Emil Dovifat, of the Institue of Journalism in Berlin, recently delivered a lecture during Journalism Week at the University of Missouri, and expressed the view that in Germany, and as far as he could see in the United States as well, the press stood out for the public good.

There isn't a doubt of it. It can be said of the press of al countries that have a press. It would, in fact, be dififcult to conceive of a press animated by any other spirit than a desire to promote the public good.

Yet there are so many different opinions as to what does or would serve the public good that newspapers may be violently antagonistic to each other on nearly every sort of question—each trying to serve the public good by utterly scouting everything a rival journal may advocate.

This is natural enough. Two business men occupy adjoining premises on the same street, and while both may be good citizens they may disagree about almost everything imaginable. They may differ in politics and religion. One eats meat, while the other is a vegetarian. One believes in vaccination while the very name of it infuriates the other. One is a total abstainer but he likes a good horse race with a little bit up on it. The other is averse to all forms of gambling but will wet his whistle on occasion. One goes to church while the other is seldom seen there. It is impossible by looking at them to tell which is in regard to any of these matters. It would be an arduous task to trace out in the case of either of them the far sources from which arose he convictions or prejudices that possess him.

Both these men desire the public good, but neither can seek it without running into conflict with the other. What one deems good the other does not. What one, with the best of motives, advocates, the other, with the best of motives, opposes. Both try to do the best they know how. Each has got hold of some part of something in the way of truth and thinks it is all of it any of everything that matters. And one, having found out the other to be wrong (as he sees it) in regard to something, begins to consider him wrong in all else.

This being so with men it is so also with newspapers which are made up of the talk of men put into print. There is error in all newspapers, opinion based on misinformation, or an incomplete supply of the facts bearing on the case. The man who writes and whose writings are put into print, may be quite as much astray in his facts as the man who talks, although talk is often entirely irresponsible while writing should not be.

It follows, then, that while newspapers may be of this and that sort the press as a whole may be serving the public good, for it takes all sorts of people to make a world and many kinds of newspapers to make such a press that will meet public requirements and keep hammering away at the problems of mankind that need discussion.—Toronto Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Wear a maple leaf on Dominion Day.

The House of Commons is evidently determined that the last days of the session will see a fighting finish.

Aristide Briand should have his name entered in the hall of fame as the champion political pinch-hitter of all time.

Motorists had better watch their step in Quebec where the Provincial Government has opened warfare on speeders.

It still remains the fact that only the oceans have the secret of retaining permanent waves.—Brantford Expositor.

CANAL EXPENDITURES, LAKEFIELD

To the Editor, Examiner,
Peterborough.

Sir.—Permit me to refer to your editorial, wherein you call attention to what took place in the House of Commons last week when Trent Valley Canal expenditures were under discussion. You say "The Government intimated that there was no present intention of completing the Canal, and this waterway did not seem to have a friend in the House, and that if the people in this district want to see the Canal completed they will have to increase the pressure on Parliament." In 1924, the Trent Waterways Association, at a meeting held in Peterborough, memoralized the Government as follows: "That in view of the very large expenditures already made on the Trent Canal, improvements and in view of the fact that the whole work is largely unproductive of results, by reason of its incompleteness, and in view of the further fact that the final link of this work on the Severn River will cost only a small fraction of the total outlay, this Association would memoralize the Government and the Department of Railways and Canals, and urgently request that the balance of this work be carried through at the earliest possible date." The only answer to this is that in 1925, just before the last Dominion election, a contract was let for a new lock at Young's Point which, when completed, I am informed, will cost $150,000 or over. The old lock was built in the years 1869 and 1870. The work was begun under a contract by Messrs. McDonell and McDonald for the sum of $25,050.00, but when finally completed with extras amounted to $31,192.72.

The writer, who has been conversant with conditions at Young's Point ever since the first lock was built can unhesitatingly say that a new lock is uncalled for at this time, there was no demand from any public body and in view of what is necessary in the Severn River section, as pointed out in the memorial above mentioned, the expenditure at this time is unwarranted and therefore a grave misuse of public funds.

Yours etc.,
J. F. LILLICRAP.

Lakefield, June 16, 1926.

The Editor, Peterboro Examiner,

Dear Sir, — Referring to your article on "Speed Limit on Buses" in yesterday's Examiner.

As your paper is supposed to deal with local matters, I presume your article has reference to local bus lines.

For your information I am enclosing a time schedule of Stoney Lake bus line.

You will see by it that our time does not call for a speed over an average of twenty miles per hour. We may run at times up to thirty miles for a short spurt. I can assure you there is not much chance of exceeding this speed over our country roads.

As for using the roads for private gain I wish to state that a bus must pay a heavy commercial license and in addition we must pay one fifteenth of a cent per mile per passenger capacity, whether we carry the passenger or not. The gain is not all on our part either. The public is getting service today by bus transportation that was never dreamed of a few years ago.

As for tearing the roads up, we often travel empty, while freight trucks, taxis and other private cars travel heavily laden often at top speed.

I am all for anything that will preserve our roads. It means money saved to me or any one in the bus game, but I see no call for picking out the bus lines for censure.

Please advocate the prohiibtion of all motor traffic in the spring of the year while the frost is going out. A heavy car or truck will do more harm in one hour in the month of April than the same car or truck will do in two months after the roads have dried.

Again referring to buses, we are running on schedule in most cases, and must not run ahead of our time.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space to print this, I am,
Yours sincerely,
M. P. Kennedy.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, June 18.—Offerings were small. Cattle cleaned up at top advance prices, except cows and bulls, and these in both cases are a little easier, especially the grass cows, which are beginning to come in good number. Heavy bulls have this week been taboo by the export buyers and prices have eased off somewhat. Everything in the good to choice butcher class cleaned up strong.

In the small meats, calves went off 50c to a dollar before the close. Lambs strong. Sheep easier.

The hog market seems to have touched the peak, and is weakening from the recent strong advances. A few hogs sold at the close steady on basis of $14.50 off cars, but packers succeeded in knocking a quarter off in the later transactions, and are now bidding 50c to 75c lower on next week's loadings.

Heavy steers, choice, $8.25 to $9.50; choice butcher steers firm at $7.75 to $8.65; extra choice, selected butcher steers, $8.75 to $8.85; choice heifers, $7.25 to $7.75; medium and common, $6 to $6.50.

Choice fat cows firm, $6 to $6.75.

Bulls steady, choice butcher, not too heavy, $5.50 to $6.25; medium and heavy, $5.25 to $5.75.

Calves, $11 to $11.50.

Lambs steady; choice, per cwt. $16 to $18; choice wool, $12 to $13; sheep, yearlings, choice $8 to $9.

Hogs, $15.50 off cars.

CHICAGO GRAINS.

CHICAGO, June 18.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat showed stubborn resistance to downward pressure throughout most of yesterday's trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. Although prices averaged higher most of the day, the advances were hard to hold because of a lack of outside demand and the market finished weak, at a loss of 1-8 to 3-4 cent. Corn and oats held comparatively steady but were without feature, corn finishing unchanged to 1-4 cent off, and oats 1-8 lower to 1-8 higher. Provisions suffered a setback of 2 to 22 cents with the greatest loss in lard.

The weather was the chief factor with the trade. Holders of wheat became discouraged when it developed that European buyers were apathetic despite bullish advices from the other side.

Weather on this side of the Atlantic was mixed with rains in parts of the southwest which were considered unfavorable, while those in the northwest spring wheat belt were regarded as beneficial soaking rains being reported in various sections which have been suffering from drought.

Corn and oats were relatively steady and moved within narrow limits. What little trading existed was of a local character. General sentiment in corn was bearish. There was some buying of oats on the firm trend, but profit taking was encountered on the bulge.

Provisions averaged lower in price, despite a firm start. The market ran into free selling orders which caused prices to sag as buying power slackened.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 18 (Canadian Press)—A car of seconds was offered at Toronto at 24 1-2 f.o.b. Winnipeg. A report from Montreal states that Western firsts and seconds are 1-2c lower there.

Toronto—The market is unchanged with seconds difficult to move at present values. Country shippers are paying producers extras 30 to 31, firsts 29, seconds 22 and making sales extras 35 to 36, firsts 34, seconds 27 in export cases. Quotations for eggs in used cases are 2c less. Heavy broilers are in good demand but light are difficult to move at 22 to 23. Live heavy broilers are bringing 32 to 33 delivered.

Montreal — There is an easier tendency on the market but no price changes are reported. Dealers paying delivered extras 32 to 35, firsts 30 to 31, seconds 26 to 27. Prices to retailers, extras 37 to 38, firsts 34 to 36, seconds 30 to 32. Consumptive demand is good.

Winnipeg—There is no change in price quotations. Dealers paying delivered cases returned extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 21. Prices to retailers extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 25. Retail extras 35, firsts 31, seconds 28 to 30. Brandon reports receipts light with no storing to date at this point.

MONTREAL, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Considerable business was transacted with United Kingdom and Continental buyers in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today. The demand for ocean grain room from this port continues steady and some engagements are being made daily. The tone of the market remained steady and prices showed no important change.

A fair amount of business was done in cash grain, there being a moderate demand from exporters for Canadian Western oats and sales of some round lots of No. 3 Canadian Western were made at 6 1-4 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, tought No. 2 at 8 cents per bushel over, tought No. 1 feed at 3 1-2 cents per bushel over, and tough No. 2 feed at 3-4c per bushel over, c.i.f. Montreal.

The domestic trade in car lots of oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The foreign demand for spring wheat flour was good and a fair trade was transacted. Prices ruled steady. Extreme dullness marked the winter wheat situation.

Prices for all grades of millfeed were well maintained under a quiet enquiry. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was small and the undertone was firm.

The tone of the market for baled hay was very firm owing to the large shipment being made to British and United States markets. Prices, however, were unchanged.

The undertone to the potato market was steady at the recent declines noted.

The turnover in eggs was fair and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 1,430 cases.

The weakness that developed in the butter market on Wednesday was again in evidence today and prices were reduced 1-4 cent per pound, but even at the lower levels buyers showed no disposition to operate. The receipts were 5,095 packages.

The chese market was quiet and prices were easier. The receipts were 8,678 boxes.

The market for beans was quiet, but the undertone was steady. Choice white hand-picked sold at $2.15 per bushel, and small lots at $2.25 to $2.35 per bushel.

GOODYEAR'S
Proudest Sales

THE fact that Goodyears are the largest-selling tires in the world is naturally a matter of great pride with us.

But even more do we take pride in the fact that Goodyears lead in sales, especially where tire use is the hardest.

In rural communities, with country roads—Goodyears lead.

In mountain districts, where roads are little more than trails—Goodyears lead.

In foreign lands far less blessed with good roads than even our far corners—Goodyears lead.

In countries where thrift is a matter of life itself—Goodyears lead.

In many of these countries Goodyears cost more than tires of their own make—but Goodyear mileage is so much greater that the last cost is lower.

You, who can buy Goodyear Tires for no more than you are asked to pay for other brands, are fortunate.

And with them you receive the services of your Goodyear Selected Dealer. See him.

NO CHANGE IN BRITISH POLICY TOWARDS SOVIET GOVERNMENT

Russia's Aid To Striking Miners is Resented But Waiting Policy Is Adopted.

BOLSHEVIK MOTIVES.

Joynson-Hicks and Balfour Refuse To Believe Money Comes From Workers.

LONDON, June 18 (Canadian Press).—The attitude of the British Government respecting the shipment of money from Russia to aid the workers in the recent general strike was outlined by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday.

While the British authorities were convinced that the Government of Soviet Russia had waived its regulations in permitting contributions ostensibly from the laboring classes of Russia to be forwarded to England, he declared that it was not proposed, at least for the present, to rescind recognition of the Soviet, as had been asked in some quarters.

The British Government, said the Home Secretary, was not blind to the motives which had inspired these gifts, motives which could be read in countless declarations by the Soviet leaders and in the Soviet press.

The Government was carefully watching further action by the Soviet and its affiliated organizations, and if it became convinced that British interests needed a change in policy, there would be no hesitation in taking the necessary steps.

Sir William was obliged tactfully to parry many indignant questions by suggesting that they could be better dealt with in the coming full debate on the whole which is fixed for next Tuesday.

Lord Balfour.

The Earl of Balfour in the House of Lords appeared to give a better account of the Government's motives than did the Home Secretary. While not behind Sir William in his denunciation of the Soviet Government's general conduct, he took the ground that foreign contributions could have little effect on the coal stoppage (money is still being sent by Russia to help the striking miners) because the British themselves were paying more in aid of the miners out of public funds.

He was not sure that Great Britain had been wise in restoring relations with Russia, but he declared it would be dangerous to break them now and nothing could be gained thereby. The last course any responsible statesman was willing to take would be to add a new source of disturbance to the already overdisturbed world. He was convinced that the mass of the British miners were fundamentally opposed to revolution, and he refused to believe that this country would become the dupe of Russia.

The debates in the two Houses of Parliament revealed that no further note or action with respect to Russia was contemplated for the moment, and this revelation brought indignant protests from members representing the anti-Russian sentiment, who have vainly sought to persuade the Ministers to adopt a stronger policy.

Not From Workers.

Both Sir William Joynson-Hicks and Lord Balfour expressed their disbelief that the money was a genuine contribution from the Russian workers, who, they argued, were notoriously too ill-paid. The Government spokesmen declined to recognize any discrimination between the Soviet and the different Russian bodies, who were said to be contributing the money, and insisted that all these different bodies constituted with the Soviet Government but an instrument under a single controlling authority.

The Home Secretary gave details showing that apart from the money for the general strike, which the British Government had intercepted, nearly £400,000 had been transmitted to the Miners' Federation. The sums were transferred through the medium of British and foreign banks, and the sum of £25,000 through an American bank. He did not suggest, however, that there had been anything incorrect in the action of these banks.

ORDERS PLACED NEW C.P.R. SHIPS

Clyde Shipbuilding Yards Secure Contracts For Two Class "M" Vessels.

PRICES NOT STATED.

LONDON, June 18 (Canadian Press).—The Canadian Press learned last night that the Canadian Pacific Railway has placed contracts for the construction of two class "M" vessels for the North Atlantic trade. The Clyde shipbuilding firms of John Brown and Son and William Beardmore and Company were awarded the contracts.

In dimensions the new ships are to be 585 feet between the perpendiculars, 75 feet in the beam and 27 feet in the draught. They will each have accommodations for 1,600 passengers and a cargo capacity of 4,000 tons.

It is anticipated that the ships will be put into service in the early part of 1928. The contract prices were not announced.

EGG CIRCLE PLANS POULTRY CULLING

Professor Francis of O. A. C., Will Visit Campbellford Next Week.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18.—At an executive meeting of the egg circle in Campbellford on Wednesday evening, Mr. Walter Smith, district representative of Brighton, spoke on the subject of poultry culling and the advisability of continuing the work along this line which was started last year. Professor Francis of the O.A.C. staff will be here for demonstration work on the 25th and 26th of June, with the campaign the following week if sufficient work can be obtained to make the scheme worth while. A committee was appointed to canvass the township for flocks to be culled and reports are to be handed to the secretary or Mr. Rowe by Monday, June 21st. The committee is as follows: Mr. Locke, president; Mrs. G. Curle. Mrs. Wm. Craighead, Mrs. A. Barnum, Mrs. A. Grills, Mrs. P. B. Nelson, Mrs. Geo. Nelson, Mrs. E. McCook, Mr. E. Bonney, Mr. M. Rannie, Mr. Stanley Nelson, E. L. Anderson, secretary.

PRESIDENT SAYS BESCO REQUIRES COUNTRY'S HELP

Need of Safeguarding Industry From Dumping From Continental Competitors.

COVERDALE REPORT.

"There is No Reason Why It Should Be Made Public."

MONTREAL, June 18 (Canadian Press).—The Dominion Iron and Steel Company is in a bad way, and, unless some assistance is forthcoming from the Government, the company will have to go into the hands of a receiver. This was the admission of Roy M. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation here yesterday, discussing the Parliamentary debate this week in which Finlay Macdonald, M.P. for Cape Breton South, supported by other members of the House of Commons from Nova Scotia urged upon the Government the necessity of "doing something" to assist Besco.

During the debate, the suggestion that Dominion Steel might have to go into a receivership was advanced by C. H. Cahan, K.C., M.P. for St. Lawrence-St. George.

The Minister of Finance, Hon. James A. Robb, took part in the discussion and mentioned that the Coverdale report on the corporation's condition had been withheld from the Government as a whole, and until this was made available for Governmental examination, nothing could be done.

Speaking on this aspect of the matter, Mr. Wolvin yesterday said: "Much his been said about the Coverdale report and about its contents not being made public. The report was prepared by Coverdale and Colpitts, the well-known industrial engineers of New York, for the directors of Besco, in order that they might be placed 'au courant' of the situation in just the same way as any other business organization would get someone to look over its affairs to find out exactly how things stand. The Coverdale report did this, and therefore has served its purpose—there is no reason why it should be made public—those who should know the contents, do know it."

Mr. Wolvin said that it was most necessary for the Dominion that the steel industry should not be allowed to disappear, and declared: "If the present session of Parliament fails to deal with the crisis in Nova Scotia and fails to arrange to safeguard the Canadian steel industry from the dumping of Continental products, manufacture of which is paid for in depreciated currencies, the Government will be neglecting the most important matter before them at this time."

ROCK SLIDE CAUSES RAILWAY ACCIDENT

Train Derailed Near Fort William—Only One Slight Casualty Reported.

MONTREAL, June 18 (Canadian Press). — The following official statement was issued here by A. D. MacTier, vice-president in charge of eastern lines, Canadian Pacific Railway:

"At 7.55 a.m., Canadian Pacific train No. 4—Vancouver-Toronto express—had engine, mail car, baggage car, express car, and the front trucks of one colonist car derailed at Mileage 66.5, Nipigon sub-division, about seven miles east of Fort William.

"The derailment was caused by a rock slide. The only personal injury incurred was by Fireman H. Varrin, of the derailed engine, who sustained a light bruise on the forehead."

LOSES MEMORY, CAR AND MONEY

Gave Two Men Lift on June 7—Recovers Senses Yesterday.

PITTSBURGH MAN.

MONTREAL, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Harry Martin, 33, of 3387 Parkview Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., lost his memory completely for ten days until brought here yesterday by police, who journeyed to Cedars, Que., where the man had been taken in charge by the local authorities.

According to Martin's story, he left Pittsburgh in an automobile some ten days ago with the intention of spending the summer in Canada. Arriving in Buffalo some time later he proceeded to Toronto. When within twenty miles from the Queen City he gave two men a lift. That was on June 7. Since that time until yesterday he remembers nothing of what happened to him. When he left Pittsburgh he was driving his own car, had $500 in cash and $700 in travellers' cheques, and when he recovered his senses yesterday he had only 52 cents in his possession.

MISSIONARIES DENY COERCION CHARGES

No Pressure Brought To Bear on Them to Vote Union.

MONTREAL, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Misunderstanding in the London, Ont., Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in its allegations regarding the Church Union situation on the foreign mission fields was suggested yesterday by returned missionaries now attending the general council of the United Church of Canada. United Church representatives of the various fields joined with Rev. A. F. Robb of Korea and Rev. E. M. Rattee of British Guiana in denying the Presbytery's charge that "frightfulness" had coerced the missionaries abroad into voting concurrence. They pointed out that, before the vote was taken, the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions had offered to continue supporting them, no matter which way they voted.

They said the non-concurring missionaries on the field were still receiving their support from the United Church.

Mother Dreams Her Long-Lo st Boy Calls For Her; Offers Police Her $600 Savings To Find Him

Police are still searching for Harry Wiedenfeld, who disappeared from his home in New York on November 11, 1924, and who, if he lives, is now 8 years old.

Three detectives hunted for Harry for months after his parents, Wolfe and Esther Wiedenfeld, reported his disappearance and every day one of them or both went to the Clinton Street Police Station or to the Missing Persons' Bureau to ask anxiously if the boy had been found. Presently they called only once a week and then, last March, evidently disheartened by the lack of the detectives' success or believing Harry dead, they ceased to call.

But a few days ago Mrs. Wiedenfeld reappeared before Captain John H. Ayres of the Missing Persons' Bureau.

"For a week," she said hesitantly, as if afraid some one might laugh at her, "I have dreamed of my boy Harry. I see him in the little clothes he wore when he disappeared, and he holds out his arms to me and says 'Don't give me up, mother. Keep looking for me.' My husband and I have saved $600. We will give it to any one who can bring us news of Harry."

Captain Ayres told her the police would search without a reward.

BRITISH VESSEL DAMAGED BY ICE

Wireless Message Reports Steamer Leicester in Distress East of Newfoundland.

HOLD TAKING WATER.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 18 (Canadian Press).—The following S.O.S. message, intercepted at Cape Race and relayed here, was reported yesterday afternoon by C. H. Harvey, local agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department:

"Steamer Leicester in distress. Requires assistance. Latitude 50.47 N. Longitude 53.21 W."

The message, which was signed by the wireless operator at Cape Race, announced that further particulars would be forwarded to Halifax as intercepted. The position as given would make the Leicester about 180 miles due east.

A later message received from the Government wireless statios at the Straits of Belle Isle, stated that the Leirester was taking water fast and required immediate assistance. She was making for St. John's, Nfld., with number one hold badly damaged by ice.

According to local shipping records, the Leicester is a freighter, registered at Hull, England, of 2,505 tons gross and 1,478 tons net. She sailed from Bristol on June 1 for Montreal via the Straits of Belle Isle. She is owned by the Anglo-European Steamship Company, Ltd.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

MAE MURRAY
Fascinating Cinema Star
Secret of her beautiful hair

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitation. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

RADIO TELEPHONE ON FREIGHT TRAINS

To Aid in Communication Between Conductor's Van and Engine.

NEW YORK, June 18—(United News).—Radio telephone may become an important factor in freight train operation if test now being conducted by the New York Central Railway proves successful.

In one test five hours continuous and satisfactory two way radio telephone conversation was carried on between railroad men stationed in the engine and others in the caboose at the rear of an eleven car freight train. The test was made in an effort to determine the value of the radio should the train break in two.

The tests were conducted on the western division of the railroad between Elkheart and Pinola, Indiana.

MANY SMALL FIRES IN NORTHERN BUSH

Rain Is Needed To Assist the Rangers in Curbing Them.

NORTH BAY, June 18. Canadian Press. — Rain is badly needed in this district to curb a number of small bush fires. In Phelps township a fire which was discovered on Tuesday had covered about six or seven hundred acres yesterday and Wednesday afternoon had turned out one settler named Baldwin. About sixty rangers are fighting this blaze.

Two bad fires are burning in he Temagami district.

Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten, shown above, have organized a night club in London, where the British nobility may painlessley acquire that pleasing tan hitherto only through sports. Artificial sunlight will give the establishment a mid-afternoon glare. As the Mountbattens are close friends of the Prince of Wales, he is expected to become a member.

In the centre stands Charles Duncan McKechnie, with his exquisite group of "Father Hugouard and Indian Children." This fine piece of sculpture is to be erected in Regina, cast in bronze at the Architectural Bronze and Iron Works of the Allis-Chalmers Canadian Company. On the left is photograph of Jobson Paradis, the noted French-Canadian landscape painter, who died recently On the right is Gwene Hutton, of Calgary, who, though only 17 years of age, a first year student at the Ontario College of Art, gives promise of becoming an artist of distinction. Miss Hutton specializes in the figure of children and of animals.

HASTINGS BRIDGE REFLOORING AND REGISTRARS TYPEWRITERS' SUBJECT OF LONG DISCUSSION

'Auditors' Report on Counties' Books Gives Councillors Opening.

WARDEN'S PICNIC.

Members of Council Visit Rochester as Mr. McCubbin's Guests.

COBOURG, June 18. — By a vote of 20 to 16, the Council of Northumberland and Durham counties, on Wednesday afternoon, adopted the recommendation of a special committee to accept the Globe Indemnity's insurance against damage claims from accidents on the counties' road system. For an annual risk of $11,000 the council pays $600 premium.

Opponents of the proposal emphasized the fact that in nine years of the good roads system the total claims for highway accidents in the two counties was much less than the premium.

Resuming their duties at 3 p.m. yesterday upon returning from Warden McCubbin's excursion to Rochester, the council set themselves for a session of new and routine business, only to become tangled up again in another rehash of the Hastings' bridge and registrar's special typewriters, questions that dragged on and on through nearly three hours to half pas six. Both of these subjects had been discussed at previous sessions and again monopolized most of Tuesday afternoon's sitting when the auditors' report opened the door for their first exhaustive consideration during the present session. It was a weary and "fed up" council that adjourned Thursday at the end of what was generally regarded as an unnecessary and largely futile controversy in which Cobourg's two representatives ,Reeve Harry McGuire and Deputy-reeve Maher were frequent and repetitious speakers, until finally Reeve M. J. Holman of Clarke asked the Warden how many times a member could speak to a question.

The auditors' report had commented upon the advisability of detailed [illegible] for the guidance of the council, and also suggested careful procedure in initiating expenditure.

The recommendation of the Roads and Bridges Committee in January, 1925, reads as follows:

"We recommend that W. H. Nelson and Dr. Hess be a committee to look after and make the necessary repairs on Hastings' bridge."

The auditors said that they could not find from the printed minutes any record of the council being apprised as a body that an expenditure of the above amount was contemplated."

The reference to the two book and typewriting machines, the report said their purchase had been recommended, one for the West Durham Registry Office, and the other for East Northumberland's registrar. This purchase was not necessary, the auditors suggested, and the book typewriting machine had not been applied for by the East Northumberland's registrar.

The "necessary repairs" to the Hastings bridge meant its refloooring, the cost of the work being $3,882.15. Reeve Holdaway of Port Hope asserted that the roads and bridges committee and the council as a whole understood from Reeve Hess that the bridge needed refloooring. This and other details of the procedure had been dwelt upon during Tuesday afternoon's renewal of the discussion. Yesterday, Reeve Hess asked permission to refer to some of the statements on Tuesday. He said the commission had decided to use creosote planks because of the moisture from the river. This was considered the best purchase, and the planks were bought from the only company producing them. It was also decided to surface the bridge with a mat of Tarvia KP and stone. Reeve Hess frankly admitted that the Tarvia mat did not stand up under the heavy traffic, and on one-half of the bridge was a complete failure. He was unable to say what the cause was. The company had supplied the Tarvia and the work was done according to the instructions left by a representative of the company.

Mr. Maher denied that he had blamed the bridge commission. His strictures were against the council along the line mentioned by the auditors' report, to the effect that the commission had been given "carte blanche" in this expenditure. Mr. Maher later said that the commission should have obtained a guarantee of the bridge covering from the Tarvia manufacturers.

Dr. Hess replied that the company were not engaged in construction work, and only supplied their Tarvia material to the municipality.

A representative of the company who was present yesterday, said he could not account for the condition of the bridge covering. The material had been since tested by the company's tests and was found up to specifications. It had been understood that a road roller would be used to consolidate the Tarvia covering, but apparently it could not be obtained, and a makeshift roller was fashioned for the work, lacking weight to compact the covering. Two smaller bridges in the counties on which this "mat" was used, at Orono and Bowmanville, were practically as good as new.

Mr. Nelson said he had doubted the value of Tarvia as a bridge covering because of the vibration.

After criticizing the purchase and cost of the registrar's typewriting machines; Mr. McGuire and Mr. Maher were finally informed by the clerk of the council, at the close of half-hour crossfire on the floor that they were entirely unlike ordinary typewriters, they did not receive loose leaves for writing, but that the writing was done by the machine on the pages of the big bound books. And that was the end of the futile period.

UNIFIED SYSTEM

coming twelve months only $200,000 proportionately less than in the previus period reported and it would have to do this without the impetus of the special maintenance and extension campaign which had been carried on last year. He doubted whether without the campaign features the $3,400,000 required could be raised. He felt the church was bearing "excessive overhead."

Dr. Robert Laird, Toronto, declared the church was not raising by some hundreds of thousands what the three churches had done in 1921-22. If that were to be picked up the church would have to be asked to give $900,000 more than in the last year they had functioned separately. With the enthusiasm of the accomplishment of Union settling down, the work of raising money would have to be carried out systematically and it was therefore necessary to have the new finance department asked for. The man heading the raising of money would have the biggest task the United Church could put on anyone.

Dr. C. W. Gordon, Winnipeg, in connection with publicity proposals, thought to much stress was put upon the financial side, and he wished to amend these to emphasize the spiritual. Dr. A. M. Sanford, New Westminster ,agreed, but the particular change was not agreed upon. Throughout the debate there has been no disagreement on the matter of emphasizing the spiritual functions of the church, but rather on what were included within the spiritual functions.

The council put into definite words the terms of the basis of Union, making claims on the aged and infirm ministers fund a first charge on the maintenance and extension fund by adopting a resolution to that effect moved by Rev. J. E. J. Millyard London.

COUNTY COUNCIL PASSES GRANTS TO FAIR BOARDS

Peterborough Gets $400, Norwood $250, Lakefield, Keene and Apsley $150.

WON'T REFUND FEES.

Motion To Aid High School Pupils Defeated—Aldermen Present.

Several delegations visited the County Council yesterday afternoon. The exhibition board received a grant of $400 and the motion to pay the fees of the pupils attending the Peterborough Collegiate was lost by a majority of one.

The deputation from the Peterborough Agricultural Exhibition Board which visited the County Council yesterday afternoon and asked for a grant of $1000 towards that Board. They stated that the Board would spend several thousand on top of that.

The Dominion Government has lowered the grant to the exhibition board and the directors this year have added another class in response to many local breeders who claimd that the circuit exhibitors who visited the different exhibitions captured most of the prizes. This new class in the prize list is to be open only to local exhibitors.

Vincent Eastwood stated that agriculture was the industry by which Canada would overcome her national debt and as agriculture is helped by these exhibitions thus in making this grant the Council would help the Dominion as a whole.

Mr. Knox said that a full day's judging competition was being put on this year for the young people of the country so as to get them to take an interest in agriculture

A. J. Reynolds never saw an agricultural society so built up and backed up by the farmers as the Peterborough Board. This matter was referred to the finance committee.

Won't Refund Fees

It was moved by Reeve Middleton, seconded by Reeve Coughlin, that the County refund the fees of those children who live adjacent to the city and are attending the Peterborough Collegiate. On a vote being taken this motion was lost and the committee arose and went into committee of finance. A grant of $100 was made to the city for the county's share of the upkeep of Victoria Park as it is county property. Grants were allowed the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board, $400; Norwood Fair Board $250, and Otpnabee, Lakefield and Galway fair boards $150 each. The G. W. V. A. of Peterboro was granted $150 and the Lakefield Association. $100, and the Poultry Association $25. The grant to the maternity hospital of the Salvation Army was not allowed.

The memebrs of the city council attended the County Council meeting and the plans for the proposed addition to the north end of the court house were laid before them. The city council is to bring the matter up at their meeting of the committee of the whole this week and report. For this building the city if it decides to concur will pay in proportion to the population which is about 21 to 19.

Alderman Green addressed the Council thanking them for the assistance received in the past for the upkeep of Victoria Park but he stated that he would like a larger appropriation to take care of a pavement running from Water street up around the fountain to the steps.

The mayor inspeaking backed up what Alderman Green said and stated that the city was anxious for the co-operation of the county. This matter was referred to the finance committee for further investigation.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL URGES REFORMS

Minimum Wages, Regulation of Employment By Chinese Are Considered in Paper.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 18. — (Canadian Press). — A minimum wage, protection under the Minimum Wage Act, a satisfactory decision in the matter of Chinese employing white help, and the co-operation of all local councils in investigating, through their local committees, existing conditions for women canvassers, are matters given intensive consideration in the annual report of Margaret Johnston of Toronto, convenor of the Committee on Professions and Employment for Women, presented to the National Council of Women in conference here yesterday afternoon.

From Regina come encouraging reports of progress, the local committee having obtained an amendment to the Minimum Wage Act to the effect that if employers failed to comply with the requirement of the Act they could be fined, and must also pay the employee concerned the difference between the actually paid sum and that to which the employee was entitled.

In Renfrew, Ont., extensive vocational training is reported by the College Institute, a member of the Local Council being on the Vocational Committee of the Board of Education.

Much interest has been aroused throughout the Dominion in the study of factory and wage laws which exist in various provinces, and the attention of women of all local councils is being directed to the earning and living conditions under which their sisters in the industrial world exist. This sympathetic interest will undoubtedly react in the redress of wrongs, in higher ideals of service and better standards of living for all.

STREET PAVING FOR HASTINGS GETS APPROVAL

Counties Road Committee Passes Matter On To Council Session.

SOME OPPOSITION.

Township Members May Oppose Scheme—Would Cost Counties $12,500.

(By Staff Correspondence).

COBOURG, June 18. — With an affirmative recommendation by the Roads and Bridges Committee last night, the plans and hopes of the village of Hastings for the paving of its main streets this year depended on to-day's decision by the Counties Council. A previous appeal and explanation this week by Dr. Hess was followed up by a statement by Mr. E. A. James of Toronto, consulting engineer, who had attended a survey conference of village, county and Provincial highway officials in Hastings some weeks ago.

The plans contemplate a twenty-foot pavement on the roads in Hastings, linking up the county roads systems of Peterborough and Northumberland and Durham at an estimated cost of $43,000 to $45,000, of which $12,500 would be paid by the County Council, $12,500 by the Ontario Government, and approximately $20,000 by Hastings. As a bid for the immediate co-operation of the Counties Council, Reeve Hess said that Hastings would be willing to accept half the counties' share this year and the other half next year.

The Hastings petition was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee Thursday afternoon and dealt with last night.

"I am not trying to rush this, Mr. Warden," said Reeve Hess, "but I feel that Hastings and the several villages in the same position deserve the sympathetic consideration of this Council. We have been contributing to this great road system since it was inaugurated. I think Hastings has paid $700 every year since the counties adopted the system. The Government is paying dollar for dollar with ours, therefore the county has been receiving $1,400 a year through us. Under the agreement with the Council we were to get back 90 per cent. of our payment, but this year we'll get back about $200.

"The traffic over the county roads through Peterborough and Northumberland to Hastings has been very heavy, and we haven't sufficient funds to keep in condition the roads through Hastings that link up these county roads."

Mr. James reviewed the 1926 amendment to the Highways Act under which the Hastings petition was submitted. It would apply also to Millbrook and Campbellford, under towns and villages not separated from the counties. Opposition from township representatives on the floor of Council to-day was mooted late last night after the approval of the Roads and Bridges committee was announced.

Mr. James said that the Hastings plan was a new procedure so far as the United Counties was concerned. The proposed improved street with 20-foot central strip of pavement was not regarded by the Highways Department as a type for which the county should pay the whole cost of construction.

Harwood Delegation.

Improvement of the road between Harwood and Gore's Landing fringing Rice Lake was the mission of a deputation from Hamilton township composed of ex-Reeve Alex. Campbell, J. N. Rosevear, J. Corkery, F. Shearer, W. O. Harvey, Isaac Murney and Charles Burrison.

Mr. Campbell said this three-mile road was included in the county roads system but had received comparatively little attention. It was twelve feet wide and dangerously narrow. Improved roads ended at both Harwood and Gore's Landing, but the road along the lake was neglected.

Road Superintendent Greer said some of the property owners had obstructed and hindered rather than facilitated his efforts to widen the road. He arranged to visit some of them again this morning, and the improvement requested was left to the commission controlling that road on which $3,000 may be spent this year if co-operation is forthcoming from the owners of property needed to widen the road in some places.

A request from Mrs. McMillan, matron of the House of Refuge, for an increase of $100 a year in salary, was referred to the Board of Management of the House.

SOVIET WAIVED RULE IS CLAIM

British Government Satisfied Regarding Money Export, Says Hicks.

STILL RECOGNIZED.

LONDON, June 18. (Canadian Press).—The British Government is satisfied that the Soviet Government waived its regulations concerning the export of money to be transmitted to England during the recent general strike, Sir William Joynson Hicks, the Home Secretary, said yesterday in the House of Commons.

The Government, however, has no intention, at all events at the present time, of withdrawing recognition of the Soviet Government, he said.

PETERBOROUGH FIRST.

Bishop O'Brien Accorded Distinction By Catholic Register.

The following is from the Editorial columns of The Catholic Register:

A despatch from Bufaflo say that the Diocese of Buffalo is to have the distinction of erecting the first, as far as is known, memorial in honor of the recently inaugurated Universal Feast of Christ the King. The memorial, which is now being erected in St. Mark's parish, is a lofty campanile of Indian limestone 18 feet square and 88 ft. in height, built as an addition to the present church structure. The tower will be dedicated with fitting cermonies on June 27 by Rt. Rev. William Turner, Bishop of Buffalo. In the tower, which bears on its front wall the incised inscription, "Christ, King of the World," will be installed an Angelus bell.

This is not the first memorial in honor of "Christ the King." On June 6 there was dedicated on the lawn of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, Ontario, a beautiful bronze statue to "Christ, the King." The dedication was by the Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, His Grace Archbishop Pietro di Maria. As far as we know Bishop O'Brien of Peterborough merits the distinction of having erected the first public monument to "Christ the King."

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Payne and Mr. and Mrs. Mert. Clysdale are greatly pleased with their motor trip, especially the visit to Guelph and the Agricultural College. They also visited Niagara.

Mr. and Mrs. William Darling and family spent Sunday in Norwood.

Warsaw school closes on Thursday, June 24. Mr. Currie will preside at the examinations at Apsley.

Miss Dora Tedford, Miss Jennie Batten and Verna Miller are home for the holidays.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, June 18—Mr. Forrest Craig spent the week end in Toronto.

Mr. J. McCrodan visited Belleville over Sunday.

At the close of the morning session of Marmora Continuation school on Monday, occasion was taken to mark the impending departure of one of the teaching staff. Miss Dora Sauva was the recipient of a very pretty sterling silver sandwich plate, the presentation being made by Miss Gladys Williams, while the address was read by Miss Mary Murphy. During her three and a half years' stay in this community, Miss Sauva has enjoyed wide popularity and she will be greatly missed.

Moslems Invade Village Near Afghanistan Line

SIMLA, British India, June 18 (United Press).—Three hundred Moslems from the Hazara district bordering on Afghanistan have raided Saidpur, near Rawalpindi, killing two Hindus and burning sixty shops in reprisal for losses in the Moslem Hindu disorders at Rawalpindi. The raiders have retreated across the border. The constabulary are attempting to round up the group, and if it cannot be done reprisals will be carried out.

Women's Danger

Of offending under the oldest hygienic handicap is ended this way

WITH the old-time "sanitary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense. And thus spend unhappy days.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

Aiken, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. Seymour, were among those from Millbrook and vicinity who motored to Orono on Friday and attended the Durham County convention of temperance workers.

Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mrs. Arthur Fallis, and Mrs. T. H. Bradley, are in Toronto this week attending the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario. Messrs. P. I. Bentley, V. R. Hunter and E. Armstrong are delegates from the local I.O.O.F. to the Grand Lodge which is also convening this week in the city.

WOMEN CHANGE PARLIAMENT

In the House of Commons of the English Parliament, noticeable changes have been observed in the manners and customs of the members due probably as much to the women members as anything else. In old times the members sat with their hats on, and under the rules of the House, they, under certain circumstances, may address the chair only when covered, but of late years many members have been appearing with their hats off. On a recent occasion a male member had to borrow a woman member's hat hurriedly in order to make a point of order.

1,000 Chicago Physicians Lose Right To Give Scripts

CHICAGO, Ill., June 18.—(United News.)—The flow of liquor prescription ink from 1,000 physicians' pens will cease after June 30th as the result of the latest offensive by prohibition administrator, E. C. Yellowley against the drug store whiskey trade. The permits to prescribe whiskey will be revoked for various infractions of the prohibition regulation, but principally for issuing the prescriptions to fictitious patients and for the promiscuous writing of the liquor tickets without proper medical examination of the person to whom issued.

Although the names are being withheld from the public, the list is said to include some of the most prominent physicians of the city. A number of druggists who knowingly have accepted the prescriptions also will lose their permits to sell whiskey, it was announced.

The investigations, which have resulted in the wholesale drying up of the prescription traffic, have been under way by three special investigators since the first of the year.

CHICAGO GREETS PRINCES OF CHURCH

Large Crowds Assemble at City Limits To Meet His Train.

CHICAGO, June 17 (Canadian Press).—The Red special bearing Cardinal Bonzano, the Papal Legate, eight other Princes of the Roman Catholic Church, and sixty Prelates of the Hierarchy to the Eucharistic Congress, arrived from New York yesterday, inaugurating the week of religious ceremony and pageantry.

Braving threatening skies a throng of several thousand greeted the train at the city limits.

$31,000,000 FOR C.N.R.

House Railway Committee Recommends Adoption of Estimate.

OTTAWA, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)— The House of Commons committee on National Railways has recommended the adoption of the estimate of $31,000,000 for the railways. About $14,000,000 of this is for betterments to the system chargeable to capital expenditure and the remainder is made up of interest, retirements of loans, etc.

OBITUARY.

JOHN LANCASTER.

John Lancaster died yesterday. The funeral will leave his late residence, Otonabee, for Westwood Anglican church at 1.00 o'clock on Saturday. Service in the church at 2.00 o'clock.

He is survived by his wife and one son Harold.

DR. J. A. C. MacDONALD.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18.—The death occurred suddenly at Thornhill on June 8 of Dr. J. A. MacDonald, second son of the late John MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald of Dartford, Ont. Deceased was 35 years of age and had not been in good health for some time due to influenza and pneumonia, contracted while overseas.

He received his High School education at Warkworth and later graduated as dental surgeon from Toronto University in 1925. Since last August he had been practising his profession at Thornhill, where he had acquired a large practice.

Dr. MacDonald had been about his work as usual but was found on Tuesday stricken in his office. The remains were brought to the family home at Dartford where the funeral was held on Thursday, June 10, under the auspices of the Masonic Order.

Dr. MacDonald is survived by his mother, formerly Miss M. J. Couch, his brother W. B. MacDonald of Dartford, and his sister, Mrs. F. M. Rutherford of Bonar Law.

This is the second bereavement in the family, the father being laid to rest just seven months ago.

The beautiful floral tributes and large concourse of people testified to the honor and esteem in which the doctor was held.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Jones of Warkworth and the remains were laid to rest in the Warkworth cemetery.

WILLIAM FLEMING.

HAVELOCK, June 18.—Following some months of ill health the death occurred on Sunday, June 13, of William Fleming, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Andrew Hubble, William street.

The deceased, who had reached the advanced age of 81, was born in Leighton Buzzard, Bedfordshire, England. When a young man of twenty he was employed as head coachman for Baron de Rothschild In 1866 he was married to Miss Rebecca Boot, who passed away in 1910. At the age of forty he came to Canada and settled at Waterloo, near Kingston. He was employed by the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, helping to change from the light steel used at the time of construction to the heavy gage steel which was considered quite a feat in those days. In 1876 he moved to Campbellford, where he resided until about fifteen years ago. Since leaving Campbellford he has spent the greter part of his time in Toronto.

Mr. Flemming was a member of the church of England and also of the Royal Arch of the L.O.L.

There are left to mour his loss, three daughters, Mrs. Andrew Hubble, Havelock; Mrs. John McFall, Orville, and Mrs. P. McFall, Blairton; and three sons, William of Toronto, John of Mimico and Daniel of Orville.

The funeral service was held at the residence of his daughter on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 and was conducted by Rev. T. H. Stanley of St. John's Anglican church, assisted by Rev. C. McInnes of the Presbyterian church.

Interment took place in Marmora cemetery.

The Axe Did Fall— And It Fell On Time

London Advertiser: "On or before June 15," was the time for which the O.H.A. bulletined its intention of solidly and solemnly putting the lid on all hockey touring. Today is June 15, and there was no hint yesterday that the hockey solons would meet tonight and tell the listening hockey world what was in their innermost thoughts. Local officials leaned strongly to the opinion that it might be Friday before the O.H.A. would issue its list of the banned. They are prepared for a few more days of watchful waiting and suspense. The situation has not changed a whit. The O.H.A. can hardly swallow its warnings whole, nor can senior hockey be provided by the Big Six clubs, at least with the players they have now on their rosters, and which are remnants of last year's teams. Until the O.H.A. makes its weighty pronouncement, therefore, the officials and fans may only keep on speculating as they have been doing for the past months. There was a strong belief, almost a hope, ing as the fans that the O.H.A. will act definitely, and that the axe will fall with a dull, thud. This will force the magnates, the fans hope, to the only safe and sane course—professional hockey. Fortunately, the amateur officials are prepared for eventualities, and a professional league would probably be in the making, almost in hours, after the O.H.A. had definitely cut them adrift.

SOCIALISTS PASS DEBT RESOLUTION

Say France Should Pay Amount Equal To What She Receives.

PARIS, June 17 (Canadian Press) —The Radical Socialist party congress, with only three dissenting votes, yesterday passed a resolution declaring that the ratification of the Washington debt agreement should be conditionally on the adoption of measures tending to make the sum France would in any case under any form have to pay the United States and Great Britain more than she received from her European debtors.

VOTE CONFIDENCE.

British Liberals Have Unabated Trust in Lord Asquith.

WESTON, Supermar, England, June 18. (Canadian Press.)—The National Liberal Federation, in annual meeting here, unanimously adopted a resolution expressing their unabated confidence in the Earl of Oxford and Asquith as leader of the party.

At the suggestion of the executive committee the conference refused to consider three amendments which suggested that in view of the differences which existed in the leadership of the party, it was advisable to elect a new and neutral leader. This would have required the dual resignation of the Earl of Oxford and Mr. Lloyd George. These amendments were rejected by a large majority.

Much excitement prevailed when the resolution expressing confidence in the Earl of Oxford was carried.

To Storekeepers

During the summer months when local residents live at lakeside and country resorts, a good deal of business is lost by local merchants.

To those storekeepers who make a specialty of telephone orders, we would suggest that you keep in touch by Long Distance with your clients while they are away. Why not make a list of those who usually order by telephone and arrange to call them regularly at their summer homes by Long Distance? Let the telephone help you to hold and increase your business.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR ANNUAL PICNIC

Members Have Splendid Outing at South Beach on Tuesday.

MANY ACTIVITIES.

(Contributed)

The choir of St. John's Church held their annual picnic on Tuesday last and again unanimously chose South Beach as their rendezvous. Undaunted by the extreme inclemency of the weather of the previous day, they met, at a convenient spot adjoining the church grounds and left at nine o'clock by bus and motor car.

The roads in spite of the heavy rains which had fallen during the night, were found to be in excellent condition and no time was lost in reaching the destination. The sky by this time was clear and bright but a strong north wind blowing directly from the lake caused the party to quickly participate in either cricket or softball while the less active took shelter on the leeward side of the hotel where the bright sunshine was found to have almost a true summer effect.

Since the lake showed many "white caps" and still retained some of the late winter's icy tinge, the exponents of the natatorial art were deprived of the opportunity of exposing to view some of the latest modes in swimming suits, likewise it was deemed advisable to dampen verbally the spirits of some of the would-be young boatmen lest they be dampened in the truer sense.

Cricket and softball before lunch were played in a very listless manner, it being quite evident that the pangs of hunger were making inroads on the reserve of strength of different players by the ringing of the lunch bell showed that the boys were the quickest to respond. It is an accepted theory that the broad open spaces and the clear fresh air puts an "edge" on one's appetite but good wholesome food can also assist very materially and the kitchen staff of the hotel, under the very capable direction of Mr. Brooks, left nothing to be desired in this respect.

Immediately following the lunch hour it was noted that the ranks of the ball enthusiasts were somewhat depleted. Some of the men folk who in the forenoon had been dashing after the ball as if rejunevated were now to be seen "enjoying our pipes" as they were wont to term it, while one gentleman was espied in his car in the distance in a posture which certainly suggested sleeping.

A good schedule of track events had been prepared and during the afternoon these were keenly contested. Included amongst the winners were several new names who doubtless must have been quietly training in anticipation of these events. The boys races are always of blue ribband quality and no entrant in a professional sprint could ever contest more earnestly than the way in which these boys covered the triangular course. Nevertheless their "tacking was not all that could be desired and in manoeuvring around the buoys several nasty squalls were encountered. Messrs. R. N. Stuart and C. Evans kindly consented to act as buoys but "the going" was rough and it was doubtful whether their services for this work will be at our disposal another year.

Tug-of-war—Still undecided.

The tug-of-war was a particularly interesting event, some new stunts being introduced but while these innovations may have proved to be somewhat tortuous to those demonstrating them, they were nevertheless thoroughly enjoyed by the onlookers.

The fact that the combined weight of the members of St. John's choir is increasing is seemingly overlooked but the breaking of the rope immediately the signal to pull had been given brought this fact very forcibly to the minds of many. Several ladies were to be seen gazing skywards while it was noticed that others were seemingly intent on examining some minute object on the ground. The men assumed an air of indifference, it being quite evident that many of them had been there before. The tug-of-war is still undecided. 'This year's controversial point is "who broke the rope, the ladies or the gents." Needless to say our worthy sexton, Mr. R. Ford, who had witnessed the tieing of many matrimonial knots was commissioned to tie a knot that would hold and he proved that he knows something about that art.

As the members of St. Johns' church of Lakefield were holding a garden party in the village the choir had previous decided to return to Lakefield in time for tea. Here they were entertained in a splendid manner and also tried their skill at many of the booths.

By tea-time the wind had completely disappeared and the water had once more become calm an enticing. Altogether a most pleasant and enjoyable day was spent as the result of which the bonds of friendship became, if possible, a little more strongly cemented.

It would be base ingratitude to let this opportunity pass without placing on record the choir's appreciation of this outing and their thanks is extended to the wardens of St. John's church who made it possible.

Their thanks is also extended to the following ladies and gentlemen who so kindly provided transportation: Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. W. Comstock, Mr. S. T. Medd, Dr. R. C. Blagrave, Mr. F. Delafosse, Brewer Motor Sales, Mr. Bert Budd, Mr. A. Hapter, Mr. P. Manning, Mr. H. W. Morphet, Mr. F. G. Mann.

Also to the following for the prizes so generously donated: W. J. Kent Drug store; Coleman Bros., confectioners; V. J. Tully, jeweller; Mr. A. W. Turner, Mrs. McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. Delafosse, Mr. J. F. Strickland, Mr. R. Denne and Mr. E. S. Martin.

UTILITIES TO SELL ELECTRICAL GOODS

Will Discontinue Retail Sale of Appliances When Stock Cleared.

At a meeting of the Utilities Commission held recently the following resolution was passed:

It was resolved that the electrical appliances in stock be offered to the local electrical dealers at the invoice price for cash, and if any of them purchase the appliances, that the Commission discontinue selling such appliances.

Business of a routine nature occupied the remainder of the session.

Those present were: E. F. Mason, chairman; Gordon S. Matthews and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

CHILDREN MADE PRESENTATION

Mrs. A. J. Langford Receives Club Bag From Junior Congregation.

ADDRESS READ.

A presentation to their teacher, Mrs. A. J. Langford, was made recently by the junior congregation of Trinity Church, when the gift of a handsome club bag and fittings was made by the children, accompanied by an address. Two very little children were active on this occasion, small Kenneth Gates presenting the fittings of the bag and little Jean Moore proffering a bouquet of lily of the valley and forget-me-nots. The presentation of the bag was made by Maxwell Clarke, and the address, which follows was read by Dorothy Kelly

Dear Mrs. Langford—We, the little folk of your Sunday Morning Bible Stories' Class, are all very sorry indeed you are going to leave us. We shall miss you very much indeed and also our meetings Sunday mornings, but before you go we want to tell you how very much we have enjoyed the talks you have given us on the life of Jesus Christ and other Bible stories, and the lovely lantern pictures we have seen on the screen, which have helped us so very much to understand more fully the nice stories you have told us.

We can say for sure we know more about Jesus Christ and the wonderful things He did and how much he loved the people and loves us too, than we did before, and what you have told us we will never forget and we will never forget you and you will never forget us.

We are so glad you ever came to be among us and talked to us in the way you have and helped so many of us to be better boys and girls, and you are very pleased because so many of us accepted your loving invitation to join the church, which we are very proud of and will try, by God's help, to be useful servants of His.

We ask you to please accept this club bag and fittings as a very small token of our love and affection and we sincerely hope and trust that God will spare you for very many years that you may have the pleasure of telling other boys and girls the wonderful Bible story and making them happy as you have made us happy.

On behalf of the junior congregation:
Wilmot Gordon,
Bertha Edmondson,
Catherine Hodgens,
Dorothy Kelly,
Maxwell Clarke.

Southwark Cathedral is the oldest Gothic building in London, a part of the edifice dating from the beginning of the thirteenth century. In Queen Mary's time trials of heretics were held there.

Why a man should insure against the contingency of having to divorce his wife—he was but four months married—is hard to understand. Yet such a policy was issued recently in London.

The House Frock is Now Considered From a Fashion Standpoint

Styles and colors of house dresses have changed, and isn't it a relief to realize that you may look just as lovely, just as neat and trim—yes, just as smart at home as you may wish? Just as you choose your interior decorations to suit your own taste and to make your house a home, so should you go about selecting your house dresses. Interesting details are responsible for the attractiveness of the house frock pictured here, which has a collar forming a V neck, a set-in vestee and short-sleeve cuffs of white linene. Each side of the front is gathered to a little yoke, the back being quite plain, and a wide straight belt holds the easy fulness in at the hips. The sleeves may be long or short. NO. 1065 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3¼ yards 36-inch figured material (long sleeves ⅝ yard additional); ⅝ yard plain contrasting color. Price 20 cents.

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the newest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

BANCROFT, Ont., June 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Seized with a heart attack while fishing at summer camp on Portage Lake, near here, Clarence M. Van Zandt, Mayor of Rochester, N.Y., died suddenly last evening. Mr. Van Zandt, was 73 years of age. His body is being shipped home.

NO INDIAN MOTHER-IN-LAW JOKES

Among certain tribes of North American Indians it is considered a breach of etiquette for a man to speak to his mother-in-law under any consideration. He can raise the taboo if he does some especially worth-while feat or at the invitation of the mother-in-law who does so by presenting a valuable gift to the man. The Indians of these tribes may jokingly refer to almost any other relatives by marriage or otherwise, but it is not done in the case of mothers-in-law.

HER OWN WAY

by

A GIRL of TODAY

EVEN MAMIE DISAPPROVES.

Jerry Hathaway cut me dead. I will never forget the look of disgust and scorn in his eyes as he did so.

For a moment I was too surprised to realize that seeing me get into the Robinson family car Jerry thought I had lied to him. Believing his eyes instead of me, he made up his mind that I was going to dinner with J. D. Robinson.

I sank back in the cushions of the luxurious car and I think I went a little. I didn't realize that under the same circumstances I might have suspected Jerry. Of course, he didn't know that I was going to dinner with Joan Meredith. He didn't have the slightest idea that I knew her. I should have explained the whole thing to him.

"But he didn't give me a chance," I said, excusing myself. "He just made that accusation before I had time to say anything. He is a jealous, suspicious, unbelieving man and I am glad I found it out early in the game."

I was, however, to have two other encounters, which were rather unpropitious, before I reached the splendid home of Joan Meredith that evening. I had never in my life been in such a wonderful house.

But at that time, however, I was so torn up over the things that had happened during my ride to it that I was not as appreciative of its beauty as I would have been under any other circumstances.

I had only recovered slightly from my "cut direct" from Jerry and was just in front of the Beaux Arts Cafe when the car was held up in traffic.

We were right at the curb in front of the doorway when, much to my surprise and joy, I saw Mamie coming out.

"Oh Mamie, Mamie," I called.

She stopped, looked at me long enough to recognize me and, alas, long enough, evidently, to recognize the car, for she shook her head sorrowfully and passed on.

I could not understand and was, of course, greatly hurt.

As if these two encounters were not enough to spoil my visit with Joan, a little further on just as we had crossed the bridge to the north side and were sturning into the drive I heard my name.

The chauffeur thinking I wanted to speak to Doctor Flint—for it was he who called—drew up to the curb.

PLOT UNCOVERED.

Arrests Made Over Conspiracy Against President of Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)—A plot against President Mustapha Kemal Pasha, of Turkey, has been discovered in Smyrna and a number of arrests have been made.

Although she is blind, dumb and prostrated with paralysis, Miss Nellie Bland, an inmate of a public institution in Bradford, England, has triumphed over these handicaps in a way that must command the admiration of everyone. She has taught herself Esperanto, for which she holds a diploma. Moreover, she has developed her memory and powers of concentration to a remarkable degree of proficiency.

Loose Draperies Make Excellent Points in Georgette

No one need stay home from a dance tonight because of the high cost of evening frocks. A dress length of Georgette and a bit of ribbon for the flower at the hip reduce French chic to very low economic terms in shillings and pence. Parisiennes are ordering frocks of this type for early Summer evenings in the Bois. The newest evening colors are the dragée shades of pink, red, violet and light green—the colors of the sugar-coated almonds the French call dragées. It is a very easy frock to make, for it is the simple one-piece style and the edges of the draperies are merely picoted.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

THE PORCELAIN INLAY.

Perhaps you have been inquisitive (in mind at least) to know if the cavity in which you wanted a white filling was to be filled with porcelain.

But possibly a silicate filling material was used and though the two types are somewhat similar in appearance, yet there the resemblance rests.

The silicate filling is prepared by mixing together powder and liquid, the resultant mixture 'setting,' after the manner of a cement.

With true porcelain, however, the powder is fused at white heat in a specially constructed furnace, whence the finished product is ready for insertion into the cavity as a baked inlay.

Perhaps of all filling materials, porcelain most nearly approaches the restorative ideal.

It is translucent, thereby allowing the passage of light rays as does the enamel of the tooth itself. It can be closely approximated in shade to the natural tooth. It is a very poor conductor of heat and cold, thereby safeguarding the sensitive pulp tissue against thermal changes. Moreover, because of the glaze which porcelain acquires in the process of fusing, the inlay will, in most cases, so match the tooth tissue as nearly to defy detection.

Still another advantage which it possesses over the more widely used silicate filling is that the porcelain is free from the acid content of the silicate which undeniably is destructive to pulp tissue when placed too near it.

Moreover, mouth tissue takes more kindly to porcelain than any other material employed in restorative procedure, so that it is more and more finding favor with the progressive dental practitioner as a filling.

Spice Pie.

Somewhat different is this pie concocted from 4 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup raisins, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 3 teaspoons vinegar, 1 cup of nuts to use in pie. Butter, sugar and egg yolks are beaten together, spices and vinegar added, then the raisins, nuts and stiffly beaten egg yolks. Baked in single crust in slow oven for 30 minutes.

Old Wives' Tales.

A prominent doctor whacks some "old wives' notions of food." Tomatoes, says he, do not thin the blood; orange and milk do not curdle the stomach. It is perfectly all right to eat oranges or grapefruit or berries for breakfast, then cereal with cream on it. Brown and white eggs have exactly the same food value. Fish is not brain food. Raisins have little iron compared with other foods.

Fathers' Council.

A fathers' council, the purpose of which is to emphasize the responsibilities of fathers to children, has been organized in London. Perhaps some day men will be really ready to do their half of rearing children.

Bobless Bobs.

Bobless bobs have originated in Germany. An invention somewhat like a barette has the hair clasped around it in such a way that the head looks bobbed. The contraption is known as "the English breakfast roll."

Great Idea!

The ancient Greeks imposed fines upon women whose coiffures were not up to snuff and whose make-ups were over or under-done. The poets of old Rome prescribed lotions for their women folks' complexions. Ovid, for instance, broke into lyrical meter over a compound of white of egg, honey, wine dregs, and corn flour. But today's man neither makes laws about woman's beauty, nor prescribes for her in iambic pentameter. He merely helps pay the daily beauty bill of $5,000,000 spent by women of America alone for beauty.

Book Note.

For lolling summer afternoons pick up Susan Ertz's new novel "After Noon." It is the story of a woman's middle years —the afternoon of her life, and her quest for the something more all women need when their first big job of family life is over.

Your Daughter.

The bride who "just can't boil water" is often the grown-up girl who was shooed out of the kitchen. I know they do "mess things up," but some day the little girl whom you turned loose in the kitchen will bless you a thousand-fold. Let her read, "Mary Frances' Cook Book," by Fryer; "When Mother Lets Us Make Candy," by Bache; "When Mother Lets Us Cook," by Johnson.

Today's Verse.

"At night returning, every labour sped,
He sits him down, the monarch of a shed;
Smiles by his cheerful fire, and round surveys
His children's looks, that brighten at the blaze;
While his lov'd partner, boastful of her hoard,
Displays her cleanly platter on the board."
—Goldsmith's "Traveler."

WILDWOOD MOVIES

Scamperdark, the jolly little elf who chases the shadows, and who makes the woodlands dance and laugh in the sunshine, was poking some slumbering plants, and telling them that he had just made the sun melt all the last traces of ice from their cool spot under a stump, when he heard a low mumbling "Whoot."

"Well, well," said the fairy of the sunny hours, "what are you doing about the woods at this hour of the morning, Judge Owl? can you not see by the sunshine that it is now ten o'clock?"

"I never look at the sunshine, silly!" grumbled the sleepy looking old Judge, "and besides, I am in no mood to be answering riddles about woods or hours."

"Goodness, but you are in a pretty temper this morning," blurted Scamperdark, as he sat on a great big toad stool and held one knee with his hands, "you look as though you have been out all night; whatever have you been doing?"

Snap-snap," went the Judge's beak in anger, "you saucy imp, do you not know that Judge's fairly gobble up anyone who dares to ask them questions? and here you come giving me a cross examination. However, since you are yourself in the movies, I might as well tell you that I am sick of my job, for I have been up all night passing on movie stories for that open air wildwood theatre, and the very things I thought should be cut out, were the very things that old paw Bruin, the bear, thought the best of all, so, with a whoot and a grunt, the whole dozen or more reels for the next two weeks were passed without any complaint. A scandal I call it. Why, one of the pictures shows Bruin, himself, stealing wild honey from a hollow tree, sticking his long arm away in the hole and pulling out his old mit all covered with the gummy mess, and then he sat down and grinned and ate it. A pink picture I call that."

"I certainly will have to be in the woods when that one is shown," commented Scamperdark, "What else did you pass on?"

"Oh,' grumbled Judge Owl, "another picture showed how poor innocent Mr. Catbird got henpecked by his wife for letting Mrs. Cowbird lay an egg in the catbird nest. It was a disgraceful lot of sputtering to show before the public on the screen."

FASTER SERVICE ON LONG DISTANCE

If Given Number Operator Can Give Almost Immediate Connection.

Frequent users of the long distance telephone have noted a marked speeding up of the service within the past few days on connections to many distant points. The change is due to the introduction of a new method of handling the call by the long distance operators. The usual practice has been, when a subscriber asks for 'long distance,' to connect him with a special operator who records on a ticket the details of a call, while he hangs up until connection is established.

Under the new method, the operator receiving the call is able, on practically all messages where the number wanted is given, to connect the subscriber with the telephone in the distant city without its being necessary for him to hang up his receiver.

"All that is necessary," Manager Northgrave remarked in explaining the new system to The Examiner today, "is that the calling subscriber should give the long distance operator the number of the distant telephone. Of course if he does not know the number we can look it up for him, but in that case it will be necesary for him to hang up, as heretofore, and wait until the connection is established."

"This new type of service," Mr. Northgrave added, "is not by any means general as yet. Peterboro is one of the first cities in the system to benefit by it, and already we have heard some enthusiastic comments from Long Distance users."

BRITISH FREIGHTER SLOWLY SINKING

Stranded Off Funk Islands, Leicester Lies With Decks Awash.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., June 18. — (Canadian Press).—Fifteen miles east true from Funk Island the British freighter "Leicester," with her lee forward deck level with the sea, and her progress "getting more sluggish," last night wirelessed for immediate assistance. The S.S. "Kyle" which left Hampden last evening has been ordered to proceed immediately to the "Leicester's" assistance, and the S.S. "Home" is being made ready here to be rushed to the scene if necessary.

FRENCH ACTRESS SHOOTS HERSELF

Mlle. Flory Found Dying in Office of London Theatre.

LONDON, June 18.—(Canadia. Press)—Regina Flory, French revue actress and dancer of some celebrity, both in Paris and London, is dead from a bullet wound in the head, fired yesterday evening while she was in the office of one of the officials of the Drury Lane theatre.

The police are said to be satisfied that the wound was self-inflicted. The musical comedy "Rose Marie" was being played on the stage at the time of the tragedy, but no one among the big audience heard the shot,

It was said that Mlle. Flory arrived in London two days ago anxious to secure a part in the forthcoming production. She went to Drury Lane last evening, accompanied by a friend, to inquire about an engagement, and was talking with her friend and officials in the office when the shot was fired and a call for aid was made.

Persons entering the room found the actress lying on the floor with a bullet wound in her head and the revolver lying near her hand. Police were called in and removed Mlle. Flory to a hospital, where she died shortly afterwards.

By the use of a simple new apparatus, fruit can be "sent to sleep," instead of being put in cold storage for preservation; such fruit is said to keep much better and to lose less of its quality.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE DREAM-MAKER-MAN'S SHOP.

"If you will please come into my work-shop," said the Dream-Maker Man to the Twins, "I shall finish a dream I am making. Then I can help you to look for your lost china elephant and toy clown."

So the Twins followed the Dream-Maker Man to his work-shop, while Snoozle and Snuggle and Snore, his three sons, went out in their airplanes to do some errands on the moon.

Snoozle was to buy a pound of star dust to make babies' eyes sparkle.

Snuggle was to buy the tails of a dozen comets to make smiles for them.

And Snore was to search all over the moon for a dimple-tree.

All these things the Dream-Maker Man used in his dreams and they were pretty hard to find.

Well, the Twins followed the Dream-Maker Man into his workshop as I said before, and he set chairs for them while he finished making a dream.

"Who is the dream for?" asked Nick, as the Dream-Maker Man tied on a big apron and rolled up his sleeves.

"It's for a little boy down on the earth called Johnny Conway," said the Dream-Maker Man, as he began to stir up some things in a kettle, with a big spoon.

"What is it to be about?" aske Nancy.

"Oh, I forgot!" said the Dream-Maker Man. "It's a good thing you asked me that, my dear, because I am not quite sure myself yet. I have to call up his mother on the telephone and ask her what Johnny has had to eat today. It all depends, you see—it all depends! If he has had plenty of milk and fresh vegetables and eaten all his bread crusts, he is to have a dream about becoming a general and leading an army of a thousand men. I'm sure he would like to dream about being carried around on the shoulders of the people and have everybody shout, "Hurrah! Long live the king!—I mean the general."

"But generals ride horses don't they?" said Nick. "The people don't carry them around on their shoulders. That's just in football."

"Don't forget," said the Dream-Maker Man, "that in a dream everything goes, and generals may do anything at all. It just happens that Johnny thinks it would be fine to be carried around on people's shoulders and have them shout 'hurrah.' He'd like to dream that."

"What kind of a dream will you give him if he doesn't eat his crusts and everything?" asked Nancy.

"Oh, I'll have to send him a dream that isn't so pleasant, I'm afraid," said the Dream-Maker Man, shaking his head. "Particularly if he has had two sundaes and three bananas and four sour pickles like he had yesterday. I think a dream about being kept in after school for two hours and being made to write five hundred words would be about right. But there! I'll call up his mother right away on the telephone"

So the old man went to the telephone and called up 5505. That was Johnny' house on the earth.

"It's all right," he said when he came back. "He's been a good boy today. He gets the dream about the general and the army.

The Twins watched him as he went to the big kettle and boiled some brass buttons and a pair of boots and a sword. Then he caught the steam in a bag and tied it up.

"There you are! All ready for tonight," he declared. "And how, my dears, I am ready to help you."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHAT HAPPENED TO THIS UNSELFISH PLANT.

Once upon a time a dear, little seed under the ground awoke and began to grow. She cracked the hard case that held her and pushed tiny arms out into the soil. Her neighbor, Mrs. Wiggle-Worm, had made the dirt nice and loose for her.

"Oh, isn't the world lovely?" she cried, sending her little, pale arms farther and farther out into the dark dirt. "It's such a lovely world. I just hope I'll be of some good in it."

"Goodness," exclaimed Mrs. Wiggle Worm, "you're not out in the world. You are down in the ground. If you're happy down in the dark here you'll be more than pleased when you see the real world, where there is light and sunshine."

But the little seed was so pleased to think she would grow that she laughed as she stretched. She was so happy in her desire to grow and be of some use in the world that she made everyone who passed by feel the same way.

Soon the warm rains came and one morning the little seed poked a pretty green stem up out of the ground into the world of sunshine.

"Oh, what a lovely world!" she cried in astonishment.

"So," grumbled the plant near her. "Well, I prefer the dark to this glaring sunshine. I'll not let my fruit come up. No, sir; all my treasures have to stay down in the ground. I wish I was back there myself."

"It's Such a Lovely World!"

"Why didn't you stay there then?" laughed the newcomer, stretching out farther and farther into the sunlight "I only hope I'll have something that will please the world, whether it stays under the dirt or up above it."

"You're safe," growled her neighbor, "Your fruit boxes always grow above dirt. You're a pea plant I'm nothing but an old potato plant."

"How lovely!" cried the little Pea Plant. "And you say folks will love me, too? Oh, I hope they do. But goodness, what are these things for?"

She shook out the little curly things that had grown out at the end of each spray of leaves, "And look," she cried, shaking out a heavy pod-like thing, "what in the world is this?"

"Why, the treasure box where the little green peas grow," answered Miss Potato Plant. "Your good qualities are up above ground where folks can see them; mine are under the ground. People never know what I have to offer until they dig me up. You can see your treasures and I can't."

"Just the same, I'll bet you have a great many potatoes on the end of your roots," declared Miss Pea Plant, "for you have been so kind to encourage me. What shall I do with these curly things?"

"Use them for hands," laughed Miss Potato Plant. "Climb any place you please See that pole? Catch hold of it and climb up."

Miss Pea Plant did as Miss Potato told her, and before long she had so many great big pea pods hanging on her stem that the little Mistress of the Garden gave a cry of delight when she saw her. Miss Pea Plant was too happy for words when her pods were opened and she saw how happy the green peas made the little Mistress. Even Miss Potato Plant caught the spirit of happiness. Then she put so much strength into her roots that they were filled with lovely potatoes when the little Mistress came to gather them.

It always pays to be happy, no matter what conditions surround you.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SATURDAY, JUNE 19.

Although the splendid figure of Sol trine Jupiter is the dominant configuration for the day, presaging success and prosperity in all important affairs, yet the lunar aspects forecast petty annoyances and complications. The signing of papers or documents may cause loss or concern unless signed with the utmost precaution. Money may be lost through carelessness or extravagance, and other loss or accident is shown. In personal and domestic contacts the augury is not a favorable one for harmony or satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of successful issues of large engagements and ambitions, but small worries and trivial concerns beset the way. Sign all papers with care and protect all property against loss. Also be on guard against accident. Guard against needless extravagance. A child born on this day should be ambitious, generous and capable of great things in life, but may be given to small extravagances and indulgences or careless ways, which may, unless checked, offset the highest attainments.

GRATIS.

Although the house is near a wreck, I must admit they're cute as heck. Just tiny things, a runnin' roun', but tearing all things upside down.

The rocker legs are badly scratched. The front room rug must soon be patched. The curtains in the door are torn. Ah, woe, the day when they were born.

The pitty-pat of tiny paws is heard throughout the day because ya just can't keep the wee things still. They've nothing else but time ta kill.

And eat? Why, say, you'd show surprise, if you could only realize the appetite that comes from play. They drink four quarts of milk a day.

Yes. I'll admit they're mighty cute. Most kittens are, I guess, but shoot, their frets and cares much worry brings—does anybody want tha things?

NURSERY NOVELTIES.

Toys have seasons like other commodities and shopping for them is a fascinating occupation. Children want to be and should be in the country from the minute school closes until it opens. So it is with the thought of the country home we describe the newest of the season's toys.

All children love the see-saw, and there are now lovely ready-made ones that are in several sizes, according to the ages of the owners.

The slide is another much-enjoyed anything. A firmly arranged and attached ladder at one end makes the slide safe from danger of upsetting.

There is a big new sand box, large enough for the sand and a half dozen youngsters. A foot deep, it holds the sand and keeps it from running all over the paths and lawns where it is not wanted. There is an awning fastened over the box by stanchions at the four corners.

Then there are innumerable sand toys to use for sand games, mills chutes, derricks, wheelbarrows, pails, shovels, dumping cars, sand screens and every conceivable kind of sand mould that is made.

Wee garden seats and tables are lovely for out-door eating, and little, trellises come to put over the tables on which to train quick-growing gourd vines, and children love to see the different kinds of gourds growing Large-sized wheelbarrows and garden sets are always a delight to the small gardener.

CATCHES 500 CROWS AT A TIME

As means of eradicating crows, Jack Miner, internationally known for his feats in attracting wild geese and ducks to his Kingsville, Ontario, home, has invented a crow trap by which he has caught more than 500 crows at one time. All that was necessary was to know more than the crows do," Mr. Miner explained. His efforts were directed to the crow trap after a trip through Western Canada where he saw the ineffective methods of the farmers there to combat the birds.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A SMART AFTERNOON GOWN.

Pam has a friend, Jane, who never fails to have on smart clothes.

Pam has told me that Jane has very little to dress on, yet I am always impressed by the fact that she makes a so much better appearance than many people who have a far larger dress allowance.

Today Pammie and I had tea with Jane. She asked us up to her apartment where she lives with her mother, and the tea and sandwiches she gave us were as palatable as her frocks are smart.

Jane was wearing a particularly chic black frock trimmed with odd shaped motifs of embroidery, and I was glad when I heard Pam ask

"Jane, wherever did you get that stunning frock?"

I had been wanting to know myself, but hesitated to ask her.

"Why, I made it, of course," Jane answered. "You know I make practically all my things," she added.

We all agreed that this was the way to have distinctive frocks, for the medium-priced ones in the shops are so likely to be duplicated everywhere. For the same price, or less, one can make a dress that is really different.

Then Jane went on to tell us the story

"It was very funny," she said. "I had these bits of silver and colored embroidery for a long time. I picked them up once on a bargain counter simply because I thought they were attractive."

"I do that sometimes," Pam replied. "But often it takes me so long to find a use for such things. I've almost given up the practice."

"Well, suddenly this Spring, the inspiration came to me," Jane said. "So I bought a piece of black satin and some chiffon to go with it. I worked several afternoons at home, and this is the dress."

"Perfectly stunning!" I assured her, making her turn all around so we could get the effect from back and front.

The shaped bits of embroidery were placed at the hips, just above applied gathered panels that flew back becomingly when she walked.

Black Satin Frock Has Sleeves of Chiffon and Silver Embroidery.

There were two others at the dropped shoulder lines, and one at the front of the V neck, and another in the back. The neck was cut just the same way in the back and front.

Pam and I agreed that the frock was an ideal kind to have for afternoon wear and informal dinners, and we went away wondering what bits of trimming we could find to make frocks somewhat similar to this.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Much has been said lately about the importance of training camps for women. It occurs to me it might be interesting to see what the training camp idea has in it beyond the joy of the outing.

When the Great War came on it found some nations almost unprepared in a physical way to undertake offensive warfare. A few men only had discussed "preparedness" and lifted up their voices in a demand for physical training.

Not long ago a young woman wrote President Coolidge. She demanded that training camps for women be established and maintained by the government. She believes the nation will benefit just as much by the training of its women as the training of its men.

There is much to be said in favor of this idea. The fact is, it is vitally important for the women of a nation to be hearty and husky, well trained physically, and prepared for their particular duties.

I speak of "particular duties." The greatest duty of womankind is the duty, as well as the obligation, the privilege and joy of motherhood. Speaking for the moment purely from the physiological standpoint, the greatest possible asset of any nation is the possession of a race of women qualified for parenthood.

I am familiar with the criticisms of certain groups of "modern women" who sneer at all who talk this way about their sex. They resent, they say, being considered merely as "brood animals." They don't want to be regarded as "breeding machines," etc., etc. You know the story.

It always hurts me to hear such statements. I look upon mothers as the very chief of God's creations. "He couldn't be everywhere," somebody said, "so God made mothers!"

Nobody who has any sense disregards the mental and spiritual development of women. Most of us view with delight her emancipation from social and political slavery. But, for myself, I can conceive of no greater calamity than to deprive woman of these opportunities which best prepare her for her greatest duty to society.

The out-of-door life, hill climbing, horseback riding, golf, tennis, systematic daily practice of each or some of these sports will do everything to develop the physique of fair woman. Equally useful are gardening, beekeeping, fruit raising and all the out-of-door activities of a similar nature.

Where are the "farmerettes"—have they become extinct? Let us encourage any and every plan for regular, supervised and sustained efforts at development of the muscles and tissues of our young women. No other investment can possibly return half so much on the capital.

FERGUSON SAYS NO DATE GIVEN

Said That the Government Would Accept Full Responsibility For Actions.

WHEN VOTE TAKEN.

TORONTO, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Reports of Premier Ferguson's speech at Orillia on Wednesday having disagreed in some details, particularly regarding the date of the coming election, the Premier yesterday issued the following statement:

"I made no statement as to when an election might be held, but I did say that whenever it might come, whether in six or twelve months hence, the Government would submit itself on the sound British principle of accepting full responsibility for all its actions and all its proposals."

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach,' says a well know authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

Who never doubted never half believed. —Bailey.

UNCLAIMED RICHES IN MAIL

Hundreds of thousands of dollars in cash are taken annually from the mails in the United States where letters have been improperly addressed and delivery is impossible. One post office alone took $125,000 in cash from such letters although in this instance $55,000 of it was returned to the sender. The other letters had no return address on them. This same post office reported 100,444 perfectly blank envelopes with letters inside deposited in the mails in one year.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'E CROSSWORD PUZZLE

The Home Kitchen

By Jeannette Norton

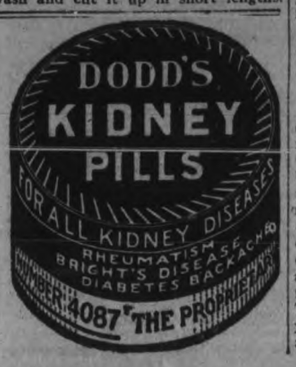
EARLY PRESERVING DAYS.

A few rules for preserving season must be adhered to to insure success. The shallow, wide, porcelain lined kettle is best, the granite-ware kettle is second choice. The glass jars should be cleaned and new rubbers in readiness. Jam pots and jelly glasses should be clean, warm and dry. Paraffine paper, the paraffine for melting, labels, and covers should be at hand, also wooden spoons for stirring, an enamel-ware skimmer, a stainless steel knife and a glass knife for preparing the fruit and an enamel tray to fill the jars. Squares of cheesecloth to use in place of dish towels, a long-handled, two-tine fork to handle fruit with are all needed during the preserving season. Measuring cups and good scales are also among the necessities.

We may start our season with the making of rhubarb jelly. Take eighteen or twenty stalks of fresh rhubarb, wash and cut it up in short lengths. Cover it with boiling water and let stand eight minutes. Drain, cover with fresh hot water, add a chopped tart apple, skin, seeds and all, and cook gently until the rhubarb is soft. Strain carefully. Add a cupful of sugar to every cupful of juice, then boil, skim, and try on a cold plate. When it shows tendency to jell, remove from the fire. It usually takes around twenty minutes on a dry, clear day.

Easy Mint Jelly.

Wash and cut up, without paring or seeding, three dozen tart apples and put them into the preserve kettle with two quarts of water. Cook until the apples are all soft, then strain off the juice, straining through a piece of wet cheesecloth. Wash the kettle, return eight cupfuls of the juice to it with a quart of freshly washed mint leaves, and eight cupfuls of sugar. Let melt together and come to boiling point, then cook gently for about fifteen minutes, try on a cold plate. Strain into the jelly glasses.



BEQUEST LEAVES DOWRIES FOR BRIDES

Julien Poydras, a wealthy bachelor planter of Louisiana who died nine years after the Battle of New Orleans, made a provision in his will by which no poor girl in his parish might ever have to deny herself marriage or defer her marriage because of the lack of a dowry so necessary, according to the French custom. In Poydras's parish now, any girl without a dowry may apply for it through a board of three. The interest from the fund for the year in question is then divided among the applicants for that year.

Moffats Gas Ranges

Are just different. One has to bake in them to realize their worth.

Moffat's expert demonstrator is now in Peterborough to describe to you the cooking and baking qualities of these ranges. Call in and ask questions.

Moffats Gas Ranges are now being demonstrated at the Show Rooms of the HYDRO ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO GAS DEPT., 139 SIMCOE ST.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin
—Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute.
—Milton.

May Flower.—You should have quite a nice personality, if you live up to your possibilities, and try to outlive your faults. You have unusual understanding and sympathy with those in trouble, and, although you may not ever achieve much in a material way, you are of the type of whom much will be expected by others, as you go through the world. You are of a cheerful, happy disposition, and like anything associated with good times and pleasure. You are afraid of poverty, of burglars and of robbery, and dread being left alone at night. You are inclined to be jealous of your friends and companions, and are very sensitive. You should always seek the companionship of pleasant people and things. You are proud and upright, and like to be dominant in your home life. You must guard against a tendency to hoard money, a feeling of resentment against criticism of any kind, even when kindly meant, and a quality of changeableness that does not make for happiness. Marry a man born in November, March or January. Try to control your strong dislikes, and look always for the good in others. Say to yourself: "Why should anyone wish to harm me?" February and September are your good months, Monday your lucky day. You were born on Wednesday. Your color is black.

Rusaw.—You should have an exceptionally interesting life, if you live up to all the things that Fate has in store for you. Naturally, you have been endowed with a well-rounded character, strong, active and creative, inclined to be self-centred, however, and of limited vision. You want to domineer over others and disregard their rights in many ways. If you try to control your domineering traits, you will have a life filled with unusual understanding and sympathy for others, and success of many types should be yours, because you belong to the type that is really lucky. You have much ability, both of head and hands. You like arranging parties and good times, and are inclined to pay too much attention to showy people and things. You make a loyal friend, but a bitter enemy. You are quite adaptable to any occasion and have a very fine memory. You will be happiest and most successful when your spiritual nature is fully developed. You are of the type that has only to try hard enough in order to accomplish almost anything. You are inclined to be capricious, and will not be happy when married, unless you control this trait. You would make a good contractor, builder, engineer or lawyer. Try to control your temper, impulses of a coarse nature, and listen to the advice of others. Marry a girl born in January, September or October. You were born on Monday. Your colors are the many variations of flame, from yellow to blue.

Hank.—You are of the type that is termed the "parents of the races." Your manifest destiny is marriage. You will make an excellent husband, but you should look around very carefully before marrying, as your innate kindliness may lead you astray. To achieve success in life, you must always work hard—keep constantly plugging away at your job, whatever it is. See that you get adequate returns for your work, as you are the sort that is not always self-assertive enough for your own good, and are inclined to be too modest and to lack self-esteem. You are careful and methodical in your habits, but are inclined to be restless and to be nervously anxious about many things, unnecessarily so at most times. A certain amount of travel would be very good for you. You are naturally honest and clean-minded, but must always guard against association with those of vulgar or uncouth habits. You are very curious and ask many questions about subjects that interest you, and you are inclined to be extravagant with money. You should invest in growing things, in real estate, cattle or horses, and never speculate in stocks, etc. Marry a girl born in September, October or July. You were born on Friday. Your colors are gray and scarlet.

John.—You were endowed at birth with a strong character, with virtue and integrity indicated in your reading to a great extent. You will not be cast down by the difficulties you meet on your way through the world, but you will never be able to meet them with a great deal of cheerfulness. A sort of dogged stubbornness in the face of defeat will characterize you. You have a tendency toward reserve and retirement which should be guarded against, and you will have to constantly fight shyness and lack of self-assertiveness. Remember that other people will not take the trouble to push you along the path to success. You must do it yourself. Do not stand back and then blame Lady Luck for your failure to achieve. You are fond of responsibility, and would fit admirably into the position of a cashier, accountant or bookkeeper. You have also a fine feeling for art, design and architecture, and are much interested in religious and educational matters. You have a habit of asking many questions about subjects that interest you. You may have a serious illness before your thirty-fifth year, but after that, will settle down to steadier conditions. Look around carefully before marrying, as your innate kindliness may lead you astray. Marry a girl born in September, October or July. Try to conquer your tendency to restlessness and anxiety. You were born on Wednesday. Your color is flame and its many variations. The day you ask about, a Saturday, is one for undertaking no new enterprise.

Mag.—You were born with a strong character, full of love for your fellow men and well equipped to withstand the circumstances of daily life. Your best way to success and happiness, if you have noted the success or defeat of your plans in the past, has been along the path of co-operation. For you, union is strength. You have never accomplished much when you tried to stand alone, and you have never succeeded in any attempt to control the affairs of others. You are generous and ambitious, always full of hope and enthusiasm, and defeat has never discouraged you to any extent. You have always been rather careless about money matters, and slow in paying your bills. You are apt to fritter money away in an extravagant fashion. You are easily confused and should be especially careful when crossing crowded thoroughfares. You are apt to borrow books and other articles, and then become impatient when reminded of their return. You will suffer from nervous prostration and stomach trouble, and a quick temper will cause you some inconvenience. "Think often of your friends and seldom of your enemies" should be your motto in life. Follow out your own intuitions at all times, strive for habits of order and do not think too much of the praise and appreciation of others. August and December are your lucky months, Friday your good day. You were born on Tuesday, not Sunday, as you say. Your colors are red and brown.

Billy.—You ha e some conflictin elements in your makeup, which must have caused you considerable difficulty on your way through life. Although you were born with a charming, affectionate nature, not especially efficient, still you have always been frank, energetic and progressive, with a quality of hurry about everything you do. You dislike awaiting results, and have not much sympathy with those who cannot keep pace with your individual ways of doing things. You are very honest and conscientious, but not at all successful in conducting affairs for other persons. Your best success in life has come when you have tried to bring laughter and joy to others. As you are somewhat self-centred, this has not always appealed to you as necessary. If you think back, however, you will remember that success in any way has always been yours when you thought first of others, rather than of yourself. You have strong likes and dislikes, are usually optimistic, and have quite good health. You will probably live to a good old age. You have always resented rather keenly any interference with your individuality, and have always been possessed of the excellent characteristic of minding your own business. You have a great regard for truth, but, with all your good points, you are not always easy to get along with, as your own individuality impresses you at all times as requiring most of your attention. You were born on Monday. Your colors are gold and violet.

Y.M.C.A.—You were born, like your friend, with a special aptitude for th married state, and should seek always the society of men. You are not apt to do this, but you would make a very good wife. You have a gentle, peace-loving disposition, and will find success only by associating yourself carefully with others in any enterprise. You will fail when you try to stand alone, or when you attempt to influence the destinies of others. You have a fine feeling for art, and also would be successful in any position involving responsibility, such as that of a cashier, accountant or bookkeeper. You are modest and lack sufficient self-esteem and self-assertiveness. You take a great delight in beautifying your home and are fond of beautiful things in nature and art. You rarely look for deception or dishonesty in others. You have a restless nature and need a certain amount of travel to overcome this tendency. You must always guard carefully against association with those of vulgar or uncouth habits. You may have a serious illness before your thirty-fifth year, but after that will settle down to steadier conditions of life. Do not allow yourself to indulge in fits of melancholy weeping. If you conquer this trait, you will be astonished at the reserve power you will develop. Marry a man born in September, October or July. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are orange and gray.

H. R. H.—You belong to the class which is termed the strongest and the weakest in the world, endowed with great possibilities, but not always making the most of them. You are inclined naturally to be reserved and somewhat conservative in your ways, not especially favorable to new enterprises of any sort. You like to study things pertaining to religion and occult and mystic sciences also have an attraction for you. You should marry while young, as you have an aptitude for domestic life, and will find your greatest happiness in loving personal service to others. You have the power of making those around you happy. You have a high sense of honor, combined with a sensitiveness that causes you much unnecessary worry at times. You make a true and honorable friend, but quite an unrelenting enemy. You are very sincere and also quite determined in your own way. You have good taste in dress and like dark colors. You are inclined to think too much of personal appearance and are also apt to be indolent. Remember, too, that perfect honesty and truthfulness are necessary to the characters of great men and women. You may suffer in learning this lesson. Marry a man born in October, January or June. You were born on Thursday. Your colors are shades of steel, brick and purple.

Peggy K.—As you ask me to outline your faults, as well as your good qualities, I can tell you that one of your chief difficulties in life will be a habit of indecision. This is ingrained in you. You can't make up your mind about any course of action, nor keep it made up. But, still, you must not try to stand alone. Co-operation with others will make for your best success. You must try and decide what you wish to do in any enterprise, then associate yourself with people of a like mind. You are generous and possessed of high, noble ideals, but circumstances of your life have helped to make you rather sad and retired in your ways. Try to refrain from brooding over things that are past and gone, and do not allow relatives to influence you too much in ways that are reserved. Remember that duty to your own people does not involve absolute self-sacrifice, nor unhappiness to yourself. There are limits to what should be demanded of you in the way of allegiance to family ties. You would be more successful in a large city, if you could get out and migle with the crowds. Your health is not too good. You would do well to consult a good physician without loss of tim e and then adhere absolutely to his advice. As you do not like detail work, I think that bookkeeping is not suited to you. Could you not learn something else that would take you more out of you self and put you in the company of others? You were born on Saturday. January and October are your good months, Sunday your good day. Your color is pink.

M. A.: Naturally, you have a strong, highly-developed nature, well equipped to face the circumstances of daily life. Your widowhood at an early age will not mar your life to any great extent, as you are brave enough to overcome such a trial, and start life anew. Had you ever thought of being a nurse? You would make a good one. You will do better when working for yourself, and should succeed in the occupation you are thinking of learning. It is one that seems to bring in considerable money at the present time, but may not have permanent results in this way. However, there is always a demand for such work. Take care, when you commence to earn money, not to give way to a tendency to hoard it unduly. Be careful always of your throat, lungsa nd ked neys, and try to seek the company of people of good cheer. You have a fine nature, apt to be marred at times by jealousy of your friends and companions. Guard against this, as jealousy of others never brings much to those who harbor the feeling. Your lucky months are February and September, your lucky day Monday. You were born on Saturday. Your colors are red and brown.

E. B. M. B.: You have a good deal of personal charm in your makeup, but not very much dependability. You are apt to be fickle and changeable, also to be jealous of your friends and companions, to a certain extent. You belong to what is called the parents of the races, and should make a very good wife. The service inspired by love will be your way of finding happiness and success in life. You are ardent at heart, although sometimes considered cold by those you like. Seek always good cheer and sunshine, which your nature demands. You are fond of beautiful and artistic things, especially in your home life, and like good clothes. You have strong healing powers within yourself, but should never allow any disease to gain a hold on you, as, with you, medicine is very slow to act. You always resent keenly any personal criticism, even when meant for your own good. Marry a man born in November, March or January. You were born on Saturday. Your color is pink.

Twin.—Your disposition is almost identical with that of your twin, and the reading given to "Hank" therefore applies to you as well. You have the same traits of character, the same colors and the same type of girl should suit you admirably. You, of course, were also born on Friday. You, like him, would make an excellent husband, but you must look around carefully before marrying, as your kindness of heart may lead you astray. You are inclined to be too modest and to lack self-esteem and self-assertiveness. You have careful and methodical habits, an inclination to restlessness and worry, and to be curious about many things, also a tendency toward extravagance. There is one major difference in your way of life, however. You will not have to work as hard as he will, in order to achieve success. Your sway of happiness lies rather along the path of personal, intimate service to others—the service inspired by love. In this way, you will succeed. You are also much more musically inclined than he is, and should take up the studyof some branch of music.

Tiger.—Although you have a very fiery pen-name, your disposition is quite the opposite. You are essentially gentle and peace-loving, with a great deal of mildness and repose in your makeup. You will do best in the world by the road of hard work. Anything you grasp from life will come from constantly plugging away at your job, whatever that job may be. Try and see, therefore, that your work is of a type that pleases you, and that you get adequate returns for your labour. You are fond of happiness and pleasure and have the faculty of making happy those with whom you are associated. You have a high sense of honor, but are extremely sensitive. You are very sincere and have a fine memory. You readily absorb information from any source. You should always take care to avoid anything that may lead to rheumatic or gouty troubles. You are inclined to be lazy, and, in view of your manifest destiny, along the line of work, you will have to fight this if you want to be a success in anything. Do not allow the habit of putting things off to gain a hold on you, and try not to build air castles. Doing, rather than dreaming, should be your watchword. Marry a girl born in October, January or June. You were born on Saturday. Your colors are gray and heliotrope.

Peggy.—You have adopted a lady's name, and you have, in some ways, a somewhat effeminate nature. It is peace-loving, even-tempered and kind, without a great deal of efficiency. You will find most happiness in life by giving loving service to others. You should have considerable musical ability, but you are of the type that prefers to do a little of everything, rather than much of anything. However, you are quite practical and executive, and have your own special way of doing things, which often confuses those about you. You have a frank, energetic, progressive nature, and are blessed with great faith in your fellow men. You are always in a hurry and cannot endure to await results. You are easily annoyed and have a quick temper, but you never harbor resentment for any length of time. You resent very much any interference with your individuality, and have the habit of despising what you cannot comprehend. Your nerves will sometimes give you trouble. You are very careful in your work and always wish to finish one task before commencing another. You mind your own business and keep your own secrets. You will always be more successful in following out your own inspirations than in listening to the advice of others. You should not attempt to remind others of their shortcomings and do not depend upon appreciation and gratitude, which often fail you. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are gold and white. Marry a girl born in April, August or November.

Farmerette.—You are of the type that is said to be the strongest and the weakest in the world, with great possibilities, which you may not always live up to. You have good taste and good judgment and seem to possess the power of making happy those about you. You have a high sense of honor, and a habit of worrying over things that wound your extremely sensitive feelings. You are a natural home-builder, and will make an excellent wife. Marry a man born in October, January or June. You have a great deal of heavy physical power, which, if undeveloped, may become rather coarse and material, but you have much understanding and sympathy for others, and should be happy in life if you resolve to conquer your faults. You would make an excellent nurse. Never make an engagement that you do not intend to keep, try to conquer a tendency toward laziness and indifference, and try to see the right of others to their own point of view. Strive always for perfect independence from all outside influences. You may not be faith and conscientious in love affairs before marriage, but, if happily married, will be very joyous. Remember that perfect honesty and truthfulness are necessary to the characters of great men and women. You were born on Friday. Your colors are blue and cream.

Curley.—You have a very fine type of nature, but you must always guard against conceit, against criticism of others who are really as good as you are, and against a quality of snobbishness which makes you seek the company of those who possess social standing and worldly goods. Try to know your own faults, and do not expect perfection in others. You were born with a tendency to pleasure and good cheer, which, allied with the unusual qualities of understanding and sympathy which you possess, should make you a very fine man in time. You may not amass a great deal of material wealth, but you will be of the type of whom others instinctively demand much. Do not disappoint them. You are generous, affectionate and magnetic, fastidious in your dress and a great believer in blue blood. You are orderly and methodical and make a fine scholar You would make a good teacher. You are extremely exacting in money matters, and will become selfish and critical, if you do not watch yourself closely. You are happiest when your surroundings are neat, clean, and tidy. You are frequently intemperate in eating and drinking, and should try to control this tendency. You are fond of making fine distinctions in words. Do not criticize others do not be selfish or exacting or sensitive and you will succeed in life. Marry a girl born in March, May or August. You were born on Thursday. Your color is black.

HERE ON SUNDAY.

Of Toronto, who will deliver two addresses, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., at Park street Baptist church on Sunday. Mr. Raymer will be accompanied by Miss Langley, Junior B.Y. P.U. Supt., and others, who will assist in the services.

CLOTHES HAMPER A FIRE HAZARD

Records show that frequently the origin of laundry fires can be traced to a tightly packed clothes hamper. These hampers usually have been packed with clothes hot from the drying tumbler. The explanation is that carbon, being one of the principal constituents of cotton, combines with oxygen to form carbon dioxide. Ordinarily the air carries off the consequent heat, but where the clothes are tightly packed the heat is not carried off and sufficient temperature is raised to start a fire. Likewise poorly rinsed clothes cause fires.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS REPORTS ON CONVENTION

John I. Allen Brings Flag Presented By Poughkeepsie Club.

PICNIC PLANS.

Joseph W. Worth, Charter Member, Pays Visit From California.

Today's luncheon of the Kiwanis Club was devoted to the hearing of reports on the International Convention in Montreal, where the Peterborough Club was represented by twenty people. There was a big attendance today, augmented by ten visitors.

John J. Craig, presided, and Joseph W. Worth, formerly of Peterborough, told of his experiences in California. Mr. Worth was a charter member of the Peterborough Club.

Dr. Ed. Wood, booster of the day, reported on the delegation to Cleveland's Canada Day. His prize-winners were Doug. Grant, Hugh Niven, and Frank Neal. Doug. Grant drew a silver platter decorated with the Kiwanis emblem and the other two prize winners had the honor of laying the first contributions on the new flower fund fine dish.

Col. Miller and Dr. Wood showed the members how to stand at attention during the singing of "God Save the King."

Art Moffatt, chair of the committee on underprivileged children, told of plans made for taking two hundred children to Chemong tomorrow for a picnic. Great assistance is being given by several non-members of the club, and members are giving the use of their cars for the afternoon. The picnic party starts from Peterborough about one o'clock.

Charles Lacheur, chairman of the arbor day committee, reported on the beautifying of the lot at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte Streets, where the club built a news stand for the blind basket-maker. This will be sodded by the members of the club, and flower dealers have promised to assist by making flower beds. The firemen, too, will help keep the lat in order.

Isaac McNabb, Harry Boyle, John Allen, Charles D. Cook, Rev. J. D. Paterson, and President J. J. Craig made the reports on the convention.

The Guests

The visitors today were Dr. A. Moir, guest of Dr. F. Neal; Col. J. W. Miller, guest of Harry Rush; J. H. Moffatt of Toronto, guest of Rev. J. D. Paterson; T. W. Christie and B. Shortly, guest of J. J. Turner; A. M. Chalmers, Iron Mountain, Mich., guest of Charles Lacheur; Jack Fanning, guest of Herb. McCannan; A. B. Colerrik of Toronto, guest of Art Reynolds; Joseph W. Sussex By the Sea.

For we're the men from Sussex,
Sussex by the sea,
We plough and sow and reap and mow
And useful men are we,
And when you go to Sussex
Whoever you may be
You may tell them all that we stand or fall
For Sussex by the sea.
Oh Sussex, Sussex by the sea,
Good old Sussex by the sea,
You may tell them all that we stand or fall
For Sussex by the sea.

The Bells of St. Mary's.

The bells of St. Mary's, ah, hear, they are calling
The young loves, the true loves who come from the sea,
And so, my beloved, when red leaves are falling
The love bells shall ring out, ring out, for you and me.

Roamin' in the Gloamin'.

Roamin' in the gloamin' on the bonnie banks o' Clyde,
Roamin' in the gloamin' wi my lassie by my side,
When the sun has gone to rest
That's the time that we love best—
O, it's lovely roamin' in the gloamin'

Old Black Joe.

Verse—
Gone are the days when my heart was young and gay,
Gone are my friends from the cotton fields away,
Gone from the earth to a better land I know,
I hear their gentle voices calling, "Old Black Joe!"
Chorus—
I'm coming. I'm coming,
For my head is bending low.
I hear those gentle voices calling, "Old Black Joe!"

Oh I wish I had someone to love me
Someone to call me their own,
Oh I wish I had someone to live with
'Cause I'm tired of living al one.

You are my song of love, melody immortal,
Echo o f Paradise, heard through Heaven's portal,
Soft your music is singing, bringing
Secrets sweet in its song to me,
Your vision shines on me from above
You are my song of love songs
All the glory of love.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

In connection with Eucharistic Congress, Chicago, June 20 to 24, the Canadian National Railways are offering specially reduced return rate from Peterborough of $30.89, with a final return limit until June 30th. The railway is also holding considerable good hotel space in Chicago for duration of the Congress, and at reasonable prices and are prepared to make all reservations for those desiring. This is a good opportunity to visit Chicago and at an attractive fare. Further information at Canadian National City Ticket Office.

PEACE PILGRIMS NEARING LONDON

Eight Great Columns of Women To Enter City To-morrow.

DENOUNCE WAR.

LONDON, June 18 (Canadian Press)—Eight great columns of women who have been walking for five weeks, today were nearing London. They comprise the peace pilgrims who from all parts of Great Britain have been stopping in the villages and towns on the way to the capital delivering speeches on making war again impossible.

The eight columns will merge into four on Saturday morning and in that formation enter London. The long march will end at Hyde Park, where, from 22 platforms, speakers will denounce war and plead for universal conciliation and arbitration.

Women on horseback, wearing blue cloaks will head the procession of peace advocates when it moves under the marble arch and enters Hyde Park. All the marching crusaders will wear blue armlets decorated with white doves and carry blue pennants.

Fancy symbolic banners are being carried by the various armies. One called "the Unknown Warrior" represents a little boy wearing a paper hat and holding a wooden sword. His toy soldier is on the floor beside him. Another banner inscribed "Cannon Fodder" shows the picture of an infant on its mother's lap.

GARRISON WINS EXCITING MATCH

Defeats Dragoons 8-6 in Ferocious Softball Battle.

MANY FEATURES.

Many exciting moments occurred during the annual battle between the officers of the Prince of Wales Dragoons and the officers of the Garrison, held in the Exhibition Grounds last night.

Right from the start it was evident that the umpires, Captains J. D. Fletcher and C. E. Jamieson, had no small task on their hands to keep the rival armies under control, and the fact that they came out of the struggle unmolested was a decided tribute to the strategy they used in making their decisions.

The result of the game was in doubt right up to the last inning, the final score being 8 to 6 in favor of the garrison.

Colonel F. L. Bradburn did the twirling for the Garrison and stayed on the mound for the entire game, despite the united efforts of the opposing team to dislodge him. As a pitcher Col. Bradburn excels, and it is said that some of these nights a new pitcher will make his debut to the ranks of the Peterborough Softball Association.

He received good support from his team in the field. Major D. J. Laurie made a couple of nice catches back of second base much to the surprise of the opposition, judging by the yells with which they greeted them.

Major G. G. Winterbottom as a short stop was unbeatable, but it was at the bat that he really distinguished himself. Once on a hit he was tearing down the line to first base and on reaching it, carried the Drags' first base man, Lieut. D. A. Loomis, easily another ten yards further along, so great was the force of the impact.

Major H. Doods proved to be the Babe Ruth of the Garrison team, knocking a home run right over centre field. Be it said, however, that if it had not been for the vigorous rooting and encouragement that he received from the remainder of the team, it is somewhat doubtful whether he would have completed the circuit. He made it, however, and crossed the plate, running like a regular Nurmi.

Captain C. H. Stuart pitched for the Dragoons, and Captain M. R. Sloan officiated as catcher. Col. T. D. Johnston at third base made several nice stops and distinguished himself when at bat. He smashed out two long flies in successive innings, but the opposing fielders managed to get under them and through some unknown cause caught them. Major H. W. Powell, who claimed he had not played ball for twenty years, finished with three hits to his credit, in addition to proving himself a fielder of no mean ability. Captain M. R. Sloan and Lieut. H. G. Mason knocked out a homer apiece.

Lieut. D. A. Loomis smashed out four liners in a row, all of them just fouling first base by inches, but in his fifth attempt he made the grade.

At the conclusion of the game friendly feelings among the officers came into being again and hostilities ceased for another year.

The line up:

Dragroons.—Captain M. R. Sloan, c; Captain C. H. Stuart, p; Lieut. D. A. Loomis, 1b; Lieut. L. R. Malane, 2b; Col. T. D. Johnston, 3b; Lieut. H. G. Mason, ss; Captain E. G. Johnston, rf; Major H. W. Powell, cf; Lieut. L. J. Stuart, lf.

Garrison.—Col. F. L. Bradburn, p; W. O. H. Burrows, c; Lieut. J. Dunkerly, 1b; Major D. J. Laurie, 2b; Lieut. R. J. Bolton, 3b; Major G. G. Winterbottom, ss; Lieut. E. E. Nicholls, ss; Lieut. George Melton, rf; Major Dodds, lf.

Umpires.—Plate. Captain J. D. Fletcher; bases, Captain C. E. Jamieson.

"THE AGE OF LAW."

Subject of Inspiring Address at Gospel Hall Last Night.

An interesting lecture on "The Age of Law" was given by Mr. Benner last night in the Gospel Hall. He pointed out that the Mosaic Law was given to Israel and not to the gentile nations; that the Ten Commandments were not given as stepping stones to Heaven; that eternal life is not gained by the very imperfect and faulty obedience of sinful humanity; that "the law was our schoolmaster or tutor to bring us to Christ."

He emphasized the fact that the law was a mirror to reveal inward and outward depravity; but cleansing for king and peasant, past or present, was through the Blood of Christ alone. He showed that the nation—Israel—that had pledged themselves to obey the law, when they said, "All that the Lord hath spoken we will do" — cried, when their long promised Messiah came to them, "Away with Him, crucify Him," and were guilty of the murder of the son of man. "God manifest in the flesh."

"The only hope of salvation some men have," said the evangelist, "is in keeping, or trying to keep, the law; notwithstanding the Word says 'Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the Book of the Law to do them'."

Mr. Benner will remain over Sunday.

Dreams Of Retirement From Daily Round Shattered Japanese Huckster Suicides When Horse Is Strangled

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 18 (United Press). — Pages of fiction are turning musty with the old, old story of great devotions between man and his horse.

But the devotion between Mistaji Kawamara, a Japanese huckster, and his brown mare, is a living story of eternal friendship.

For seventeen years the mare was Mistaji's only friend and only companion. Many a night after the weary trudge from door to door, with garden products, the aged huckster could be found in his mare's stable, feeding her occasional squares of sugar and talking in quiet comforting tones.

"She can't talk to me," the Japanese would admit to his neighbors, "but she understands what I say," and the whinnying of the mare, especially when Mistaji was weaving dreams of the day when the two could retire, seem to bear him out.

But the dreams were not to come true. Neighbors glanced over into Mistaji's yard on Thursday to view a weird and tragic scene. Beneath the apple tree, where the huckster usually tethered the mare in warm weather, the animal lay dead, strangled to death on its halter rope.

And from a limb above dangled the body of Mistaji, who had followed his horse into death.

Thinking Of Others Even As He Drew His Last Breath May Dying In Train Wreck Refused Services Of Doctor

PITTSBURGH, PA., June 18 (Canadian Press). — T. F. Farrell, of Orange, N.J., listed among the dead yesterday in the Pennsylvania Railway wreck which took 15 lives, drew his last breath as he thought of the welfare of others. His story was told by Dr. William Bentz, one of the first to reach the scene. Making his way through a telescoped car, Dr. Bentz said he heard a man groaning in a lower berth. A nearby woman was shrieking for help, her foot caught under a piece of steel.

"From experience," said the physician, "I knew that the person making the deep groans was probably worse off than those who were shrieking and I hastened to draw aside the curtains. A man, his face ghastly white, was bleeding from several wounds and was suffering from internal injuries. He looked at me and shook his head while I hastily examined his maimed body. He said: "It's no use, Doctor, it's no use. I am about through and you can't do me any good. Go and help these other people. No man can help me now'."

MR. J. W. WORTH BACK ON VISIT

Says Business Conditions West of Rockies Better Than East in U.S.A.

Mr. J. W. Worth

Mr. J. W. Worth, formerly of the Bonner-Worth Company, but now of Los Angeles, California, is in the city on a short visit renewing old acquaintances.

He was accompanied by his mother, who stopped over in Toronto for a few days, but will arrive in the city to-night, and will spend the next three months in Peterborough.

Mr. Worth states that business conditions west of the Rockies are much better on the American side than east of the Rockies, and that the business in which he is engaged is very active, but competition is keen.

Coming through the State of Kansas he observed that crops in that State and adjoining States were in fine condition, and that the returns were likely to be large. In the State of California, where it has been very dry for the past four years, this year there has been an abundance of rain, and all crops are also in first class shape.

Mr. Worth sees a number of changes in the city. Before returning home in about ten days he is going to take a trip down the St. Lawrence.

CENSURE FOR FORMER MINISTER

sons found committing an indictable offence under the Customs Act, that, pending the reorganization of the preventive service, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police be immediately detailed for patrol work on the border.

Many Dismissals.

The Customs Committee finds that the following officials have been delinquent in their duties, and recommends that their services be dispensed with: R. P. Clerk, inspector of the port of Montreal; A. E. Giroux, superintendent of Customs and Excise, Montreal; W. Duval, preventive officer, Montreal; John Landy, Customs officer, Montreal; Collector E. Brownlee, of Beebe, Que.; Marvin A. Sawyer, Customs officer at Rock Island, and that, in the interest of the public service, arrangements should be made for the retirement of the following persons: R. R. Farrow, Deputy Minister; W. S. Weldon, collector of Customs at Montreal; Henry McLaughlin, surveyor of Customs at the port of Montreal. The committee recommends that the conduct of officers at the port of Windsor, Ont., and other important ports should be further investigated and that the services of such of them as are found guilty of evasion of duty should be dispensed with.

Amendments Defeated.

While the report of the Customs probe investigating the charges made on the floor of the House by the Hon. H. H. Stevens leaves the question of Ministerial responsibility for decision by the House, it is learned that this was the subject of an amendment before the committee.

One amendment moved but lost by one vote, was to the effect that:

"Evidence further discloses that Ministerial action has been influenced by improper pressure of political associates and friends of the Minister or Acting Minister administering the Department, resulting in suspension and in some instances abandonment of prosecutions against those charged with violation of the statutes and in loss of revenue to the country. Moreover, successful appeals have been made to the Minister and Acting Minister administering the Department to improperly interfere with the course of justice in the conviction of offenders and the execution of judgment thereon. The action of the Hon. George H. Boivin, the present Minister of Customs and Excise, in these matters is indefensible."

Another amendment on the question of Ministerial responsibility was made, but was also lost. This amendment, it is understood, was objected to by certain members of the committee on the ground that it did not contain, in their opinion, proper censure of Ministerial interference in certain instances and condonation in respect to liquor matters.

NEW YORK SUMMARY

An enormous amount of buying took place in the market again yesterday. New buying also was in evidence. Many commission houses are still holding off from buying stocks on the theory that they can be picked up at better prices. As usually happens in the market, however, these prospective buyers are likely to break over the traces and place their orders at the market and this would bring about further advance. On previous days a setback however would only be a technical reaction, and stocks should be purchased if such a thing occurs.

DE LAVAL LOST CUP TIE BY A PENALTY KICK

An Accidental Handled Ball Gave Masseys the Verdict.

SCORE 2 TO 1.

De Laval Better Team, But Could Not Convert the Ball.

A large soccer crowd witnessed the Masseys gain the verdict through a penalty kick against the De Laval in the semi-final of the Phelan Charity Cup last evening at King Edward Park.

The concensus of opinion was that the best team lost in a very hard cup tie encounter. Quaker Oats now meet the Masseys in the final.

First Half

Masseys won the toss and Sharman set the ball a-rolling. Both ends were visited in turn, with De Laval gaining more tries upon the goal. It was real cup tie soccer because the players kept the ball swinging from one wing to the other. Eventually Hotston initiated a movement on his own that tested Jones at close range. Quick as a flash, Wilson replied in a well-planned attack along with his forwards. Hanson beat two men in the flag corner and rapped a hot shot at the Massey goal-keeper, who flung the ball out to concede a fruitless corner-kick. After twenty minutes' hard tactics, the play was enlivened with desperate raids on each goal, but the finishing was very weak on both sides; in fact, Grant and Mann were mis-kicking when hard pressed while Lindsay and Jack Smith, as full-backs, never faltered to clear their goal as the attacking forwards tried to outwit them. They only seemed to be uncomfortable when Willis continued to place accurate swinging passes right in front of Jones, who made the tussle interesting with his clever movement in goal. All of a sudden the Massey lost their stability to make progress in any shape, while the De Laval hammered away at their citadel without any success. With only five minutes to go from half-time, the Masseys' right wing became dangerous around the goal and the De Laval youth at left half, in his excitement to relieve the pressure, accidentally handled the ball inside the dreaded area. George Blowers took the penalty kick to give Jones no chance to save the body-high left-foot drive that went inside the upright. De Laval replied with a rush against the opposing defence, that punted clear.

Half time; Massey 1, De Laval 0.

Half Time

On resuming, two corner-kicks fell in succession to the De Laval, to gain nothing. Excitement was at a high pitch because the De Laval were peppering all kinds of shots at Masseys' charge, but they only brought forth scrimmage after scrimmage inside the goal area, that ultimately was cleared by a Massey player. A break away by Willis on the right was finished with a nice centre across to Blowers, who missed the cross-bar with his header. The most conspicuous man on the field was Wilson at centre half of the De Laval. He forced the issue many a time and broke up many dangerous raids by his clever anticipation of play. From a pass by Abraham, Cross travelled down the wing to beat his opposition and while on the run banged the ball again the cross-bar, as the crowd yelled, "Goal," but Halliday cleared up-field.

Then Hotston drew out the De Laval full backs to let his right wing make tracks for goal. Smith intervened to concede a flag-kick. Willis' corner-kick brought success to his team when Clark scored with a peculiar shot that hit inside of the upright for the second goal. Two minutes later, Masseys' full back fouled a De Laval player outside the penalty area. Sharman lifted the ball over the players' heads in below the bar out of Foster's reach. Encouraged by their enthusiastic supporters, the De Laval, for the remainder of the period, had the winners in many a mix-up and had no less than six corner-kicks rapidly, but failed to finish. On one occasion; Cross had nobody to beat, but to tap the ball through the goal. He banged it with all his might up into the air over the cross-bar. Near the finish the Masseys indulged in long drives up-field, to relieve the pressure, and held the De Laval to a two goal to one goal victory.

Final Score: Massey 2, De Laval 1.

Goal scorers.—Blowers and Clark for Masseys; and Sharman for De Laval.

Masseys.—Foster, goal; Mann and Grant, backs; Montgomery, Halliday and Blowers, halves; Willis, Clark, Hotston, Roberts and Laidler, forwards.

De Laval.—Jones, goal; Lindsay and Smith, backs; J. Smith, Wilson and Pulley, halves; Cross, Abraham, Smith, Sharman and Hanson, forwards.

Referee.—William Richard.

PIRATES DROP FIRST POSITION AS GIANTS WIN

Lindstrom's Homer With Two Aboard Bases Does the Trick.

MARRIOT RETURNS.

Celebrates Occasion By Leading Brooklyn To Victory Against Robins.

NEW YORK, June 18 (Canadian Press).—The Pirates were knocked out of the League leadership yesterday when Lindstrom banged a homer with two aboard the bases in the 13th inning, giving the Giants a 6-5 verdict in the series opener. In the first half of the thirteenth Pittsburgh had broken a 3 to 3 tie when Rhyne hit for the circuit with one on base. After hitting safely through 22 straight games for the longest batting streak in the majors this season, Kiki Cuyler was stopped by Fitzsimmons, who went the entire distance in the box for the New Yorkers, accounting for their fourth consecutive victory. ROTARY BEATS LAKEFIELD NINE Visitors No Match For Local Juveniles—Howden Pitches Well.

FINAL SCORE 14-4.

Fourteen runs, seven of them gained in the first inning, were compiled by Manager O'Connell's Rotary team off the offerings of Madill, hurler for the Lakefield Juveniles. As the visitors were able to secure only four runs the final score of last night's city league contest at Riverside Park was 14-4.

The result of the game was never in doubt. Although the visitors scored one run in the first the local boys soon got it back with six others. They pounded the visiting hurler's offerings to all parts of the lot and took full advantage besides of several costly errors made by his team mates.

Beavis led the local swatters with three ringing doubles, two to centre field and one to left. Rishea and Kennealey also had two singles.

The locals played a heady game in the field, Kennealey in particular playing well. He held up his pitcher with rare judgment and threw well to the bases. Beavis made a nice running catch of Porter's fly.

For the visitors Moore, the big first baseman, was the leading hitter with a pair of singles. He played well at first, handling some difficult chances. McDonald played an erratic game at second, missing three easy grounders but going far to the side to make wonderful pickups of hard hit balls. Madill fielded his position well, having four assists.

The local pitcher had a wide margin over his opponent. He struck out ten and allowed only five hits, while twelve safe hits were secured by the Rotary team. Neither of the players walked by Howden scored, while both those whom Madill passed counted.

JOAN FRY DEFEATED BY ELIZABETH RYAN

America Gets the Edge on British Tennis Team at Wimbledon.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 17.—(United Press).—America won the first match in Wightman cup tennis play today, when Elizabeth Ryan, of California, defeated Joan Fry, young British star, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Ryan won the first set with terrific strokes from the back court that dazzled her opponent, forcing Miss Fry into continual errors.

The English girl fought hard during the second set, but was shy of control.

Mrs. Kitty McKane-Godfree defeated Miss Mary K. Browne, the American captain, 6-1, 7-5.

Rain forced suspension of play of the Godfree-Browne match.

KINGSTON CLUB'S CONDUCT CALLS FOR LEAGUE CENSURE

The actions of the Kingston Central Ontario League Club call for some plain language from the League officials.

The Ponies' management must be given to understand that their first obligation is to the League and that Central Ontario League scheduled games must have precedence over other fixtures.

The conduct of the Kingston Club in having the schedule rearranged to suit their convenience and then ignoring the arrangement and declining to come to Peterboro on Saturday because they had arranged an exhibition game for that date should be severely censured by the League executive and the Ponies notified that the original schedule, including Kingston's visit to Peterboro on the morning of July 1st, must be lived up to, or the penalty will be the suspension of the offending club.

The Ponies are an expensive organization no doubt. Plenty of gate money is needed and no one blames the Kingston managment for arranging exhibition games. Let them play as many of these fixtures as they desire so long as their Central Ontario League schedule obligations are respected. But when they start postponing their League games to make way for exhibition games they are challenging the authority of the League executive in a manner that calls for only one answer from a governing body that has any respect for itself.

The Ponies, good team as they are, are not greater than the League with which they are associated and if they refuse to respect their obligations to that League and ignore the League's schedule there is only one alternative, the suspension of the Kingston club and the arranging of a Belleville-Peterboro series to decide which team shall represent the Central Ontario League in the Ontario play-offs. Doubtless the Ponies feel that with a three team League they can get away with anything they like—the League eexcutive should lose no time in informing them that carrying on with two teams is to be preferred to allowing one club to follow its own sweet will and to flout the authority of the League which is its only connection with organized baseball.

The Kingston management is for the second time proving it has no sense of League loyalty. Last fall its conduct in refusing to continue in the O.B.A.A. play-offs was a slap in the face to the Central Ontario League. The Ponies had won the right to represent the League in the Ontario series and it was their duty to fight out that series until the end Instead the Kingston club failing to get its own way in the schedule arrangements dropped out of the race and left the Central without representation.

Now once more the Kingston club is placing its own interests ahead of the League of which it is a member and creating a situation that cannot be allowed to continue.

President Wm. Kennedy of the Central Ontario is a Kingston resident. He knows what is going on and having accepted the responsibility of the presidency of the League it is his duty to deal with the issue. His duty is to the Central Ontario League and not to the Kingston ball club and if he is worthy of the faith that has been invested in him in placing him at the head of the League's affairs, and is not merely a Kingston supporter, he will not allow the present situation to pass unchallenged.

One thing is plain: Neither Kingston nor any other club that will not carry out its schedule obligations can remain a member of this League.

Rumor That Loser Will Drop From League—Petherick's Corner Substitute.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18.—The Rylstone ball team experienced their second aerial flight of the season on Wednesday evening when the strong English Line squad defeated them by a score of 14 to 0. Burkitt, the heavy hitter of the northern team was an absentee and only Bateman and Willman were able to connect with Ibey's delivery. The Line did not do their usual heavy hitting but a combination of Rylstone errors, passed balls, free passes gave them an easy victory. Ibey, who is batting with one arm just recently out of a sling, got a homer in the fourth, but was out when he failed to touch second. Cowell was walked three times in succession. Rylstone pitchers altogether issued six free tickets while Ibey only passed one and fanned eight.

It is rumoured as being more than probable that Rylstone will drop out of the League and a young team from Petherick's Corners will take their place.

NEWARK RETAIN FOURTH PLACE

Win Both Ends of Double Header From Rochester.

BALTIMORE DROP TWO.

NEWARK, N.J., June 18 (Canadian Press).—By winning both ends of a double-header from Rochester yesterday, the Bears ran up a streak of six successive victories and clinched their hold on fourth place. While Tomlin held the chiefs to three lonely hits in the first encounter, Jim Bagby, former Cleveland hurler, was defeated 1 to 0, and in the seven inning final, Lew Fonzca's single broke up the game in the final frame 3 to 2. Scores:

GIVE DAD A TIE

Sunday, June 20th, Is "Dad's Day"

DAD'S DAY

We've had our say for Mother's Day,
And proud we were to sing it,
But now we're glad to praise old dad
As to his feet we bring it.
Day in and day out, there is no doubt
He's waited long his inning,
So Hip! Hurray! this glad day,
For praises now he's winning.

Not one cross word from him we've heard
Through years and years he's waited;
No soul has known by look or tone,
He thought it was belated.
We're proud that he triumphantly
Accepts this celebration.
So Hip! Hurray! for this great day
They've started through the nation.

As skies are blue, so dads are true
To every duty calling;
Their faithfulness does much to bless,
Though loads are oft appalling.
On them depend clear to the end,
You'll never find them shirking.
So let's Hurray! this Father's Day
For every dad who's working.

May this year share, yes, everywhere,
Its load of yellow treasure,
And may it bring, yes, everything,
That gives our dads a pleasure.
Our hats we raise, their lives we praise,
Let every heart keep singing,
And all Hurray! this happy day
For joys the dads keep bringing.

FAST SOCCER OVAL SATURDAY

Omemee and Thistle Meet in League Match at Oval.

The real tid-bit of the soccer season is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, when the Omemee eleven meet the local Thistle aggregation in a league match at Nicholls Oval. Kick-off is timed for 3.15 prompt. Referee, Alex McKinley.

In the opening match of the year, the Thistle travelled to Omemee and came back home again with a valuable point in the league. Since that date the tannery boys have whacked the Masseys in a league tussel while they were nosed out of the final of the Phelan Cup by the odd goal by the Quaker Oats but results is nothing these days when you consider that the Thistle defeated the Quakers a few Saturdays ago in a league encounter.

Both elevens should be in the best of form because they have not had a game recently. Soccer fans should turn out to view this game at the Oval.

KIWANIS LOSE TO ALL SAINTS

Lack of Fielding Support in the Seventh Throws Away Game.

The All Saints' Royals smashed their way to another victory when they defeated Jack Dennard's Kiwanians 12 to 2, in a Junior City League fixture at King Edward school grounds last night.

The Kiwanis battery composed of Murray as pitcher and O'Brien, who was replaced by Cotton in the fifth, as catcher, held the Royals well in check but, owing to the lack of fielding support in the first of the the seventh, seven runs were tallied up for the Royals. Murray had 7 strike outs and allowed 10 hits.

The Royals played a splendid game and promise to follow up their example of last year. Cripps started of well in the first, striking out the first two men but allowed three hits which brought in two runs for the Kiwanis. He held a tight rein over the Kiwanis for the rest of the game, having eight strike outs and allowing six hits.

Max Swanston was umpire-in-chief and W. Ranger base umpire.

The line ups were as follows:

Kiwnais—Gillespie, cf; Holland, ss; Dormer, 3b; McDonald, 1b; Crary lf, Murray, p; Mowry, 2b; Graham, lf; O'Brien, c; Cotton, c.

STRONG TEAMS IN CITY SERIES

Raybestos and Crescents Will Decide City Intermediate Championship.

PLAY ON TUESDAY.

Raybestos and Crescents have organized strong Intermediate teams to play in the city series of the East Peterborough League, and meet in the opening game at Exhibition Park, next Tuesday evening. The schedule calls for seven games, the team winning four games to be declared city champions, and eligible for the playoff with the winner of the county section. The ultimate champions will enter the O.B.A.A. Intermediate semi-finals.

Many players are available for the two teams and the big job of the managers will be to select the choicest of the talent.

ASCOT, England, June 18 (Canadian Press).—"Ladies' Day" drew a big crowd to the Ascot race course yesterday, where the feature of the programme, the Gold Cup, proved royal sport.

Sir John Rutherford's Solario, an odds-on favorite, which was hailed as the greatest three-year-old at the end of last season, won the event quite easily.

EXPECT OUELLET TO BEAT PETES

Belleville Calling Upon Their Ace In To-morrow's Game.

In an effort to increase their slender lead over the Petes, Belleville will send Johnny Ouellet in against Manager Johnston's outfit at Riverside Park to-morrow, and the Gerow men are hopeful that the big right-hander can turn the trick. The Petes will use either Al Heckman or Lefty Lennox against the railroaders, and are determined to take the decision from the visitors and take second place. Both teams played fine ball at Belleville Wednesday, and if they stage a similar fielding display to-morrow the fans are in for a treat. The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp, with Alex. Kay and Edgar LeBarr in charge.

BARACAS WINNERS AGAINST DE LAVAL

Churn Makers Infield Rather Unsteady—Nichols Starred For Victors.

A second innings break, which let the Baracas score eight runs, was what decided the game against the DeLavals in the Men's Softball League last night at Central Park.

Sturgeon, the DeLaval pitcher, was knocked out of the box in the second innings; Galbraith replaced him and under his steady pitching, the Baracas scored once. Dawson for the Baracas was a little wild, at one time walking five men, but his team gave him wonderful support in the field. The infield was in fine working order and Nichols for the Baracas was the outstanding player of the game. Ward who played centre field for the DeLaval, made a fine catch in the ninth of a fly dropped behind the second base man. The infield of the DeLaval were not very sure of themselves and as a result made a few errors.

The players:

DeLaval: Ward, cf; Ham, ss; Miller, c; Frick, 1b; Dyer, lf; Cooper, rf Marchin, 3b Galbraith, p; Fowler, 2b; Sturgeon, p.

THEATRE

"THE GOLDEN STRAIN"

What is termed a "yellow streak" has always been associated with a lack of courage in its possessor. "The golden strain" is the opposite of this, evidently, and refers to the quality of courage that adversity developed in Milt Mulford, the hero of the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, dramatized from Peter B. Kyne's story, "Thoroughbreds."

"The Golden Strain" has an excellent cast that includes Madge Bellamy, lovelier than ever in the role of Dixie Dennistoun; Kenneth Harlan, as the hero; Hobart Bosworth and Ann Pennington. It is staged against an old-time atmosphere of Indian fighting, frontier days and feminine costumes that ran to pancake hats, ringlets and dresses made with "pullbacks." Although there is plenty of intense action in many of the scenes, it gives an impression of dragginess at times.

Milt Mulford comes to Fort Huachua, where his father is in command, a West Pointer full of vim and energy, but confessing to his adopted brother, Jeb, that he lacks courage in emergencies. When the Apaches break out later, he feigns illness and skulks in shelter while the outbreak lasts. Then his father casts him out for his cowardly behavior, and he gets lost in the desert. He is rescued by Jeb, who later lures him into a fight, and arouses his combative instincts sufficiently to cause him to redeem himself by courageous actions in another Indian encounter.

Developed in another manner, this picture would be more attractive. The cowardice of the hero, however, is allowed to bulk too large in the first portions of the production, to be covered over later by his redemption. It is quite a good example of what can be done to a good story by small faults in direction. However, it is sufficiently interesting to keep an audience watching it from start to finish.

The comedy is "Wandering Papas," and there is a very sprightly "Adventure of Mazie" picture with the programme that supplies a large number of laughs.—Jeanette.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO

GENE SARAZEN—AVOID TOO LONG SWING.

A short swing enables one to get better timing in the stroke and to hit the ball harder than with a longer sweep. This point is hard to get over to most golfers. They think they are hitting the ball with all their might, but they are not. They are timing badly and the hitting force is almost always being expended too soon. By the time the club-head reaches the ball it has actually begun to slow down, although it can't be told by looking at the swing with the naked eye.

I have been surprised, at times in the past, to see players get such fine distance with a stroke that carried the club hardly past the perpendicular on the back-swing. But on watching them, it may be noticed that from that short starting place, they put a great punch into the stroke as the club-head gets to the ball.

One of the commonest faults in golf is hitting too soon. In fact, it is almost impossible to hit too late. And, with the short backswing, there is far less margin for mis-timing.

Try out a little experiment in this way. You will probably be surprised at the result. And this goes for practically every shot up to the putting green.

(Copyright, 1925.)

SECRETS of STARS on INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

BY BABE RUTH.

Free-swing batters like myself are easiest to fool. It is far more difficult, sometimes impossible, for a free-swinging batter to shift his style and swing after being outguessed by the pitcher.

Choke batters, those who poke at the ball rather than take a healthy cut, are much harder to fan than the free-swinger.

Batters of this style do not set in an effort to get distance to their drives. Their position at the bat is loose and it is not a difficult matter for them to shift feet and swing in order to cross up the strategy of the pitcher.

The free-swinger and choke hitter in baseball are much like the fighter with a knockout punch in either hand and the clever fellow who is fast on his feet but lacks a punch.

Only a very few fighters can deliver a knockout punch without setting. No batter ever knocked a home run without having a solid stance and a healthy swing. The batter fast on his feet lacks a punch because he is usually retreating, going away, when he cuts at the ball.

It was Ed Delehanty, I believe who said the best way to make base hits was to "hit 'em w[here] they ain't." I have always been a pupil of that school of slugging. As a matter of fact, for about six years, realizing there was no ball players in the outfield bl[ack] hers or on the outside of the fence, a specialty of mine has been trying for home runs.

My advice to any free-swinging batter is not to be cheated out of any of your cuts. Take a healthy swing at every good ball pitched. When you have your swing you don't give the pitcher the chance of also fooling the umpire.

AT THE REGENT

SCREEN CREATION CLORIFIES STORY OF EXILE PATRIOT.

"As No Man Has Loved," a William Fox production featuring Pauline Starke and Edward Hearn, now at the Regent Theatre after a long and successful run on Broadway.

This film was adapted to the screen from "The Man Without a Country," the immortal masterpiece of Edward Everett Hale which tells of a young army officer who, in one moment of rash anger, wished that he might never see or hear of the United States again. His sentence was the life-long fulfillment of that wish.

With that sentence, he became an exile of the sea, always transferred from one ship to another when the shores of home loomed near. This went on for fifty-six years and, during all that time, the girl who loved him remained true, and tried, through the administrations of fourteen presidents, to obtain his pardon.

The possibilities of such a plot—both dramatic and pistorial—were developed to the very fullest extent by Director Rowland V. Lee in the making of this picture. Six months were spent in research work before the actual production began. For many years, Mr. Fox had contemplated producing a picture based on the famous classic which he had read as a boy, and when he was ready to begin it, he gave Director Lee carte blanche to build a photodrama that would not only faithfully visualize the Hale story, but would glorify it.

The result surpassed even his high expectations, and it was pronounced by the critics as the crowning achievement of Mr. Fox' career as a producer.

HYDRO TEAM IN THIRD PLACE

Defeats Millionaires at Campbellford To Pull Up Even.

SCORE 13-5.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18. — The Hydro tied the Millionaires for third place in the Softball Association race by beating the latter 13 to 5 at the Agricultural grounds last night.

The Electric boys had one big innings, the sixth, when they mixed some solid hits with three juicy errors for seven runs, while Johnston Tinney, Cowell and Meyers turned in fine fielding games for the Hydro, and the Millionaires never appeared dangerous.

County Council Accepts Plans For Addition To Court House Cost Is Estimated At $28,000

New Erection Will Be a Four Walled Fire-Proof Building and Will House the Crown Attorney, Division Court Clerk and Registry Officers.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER QUESTION OF CALLING TENDERS

Additional Structure Is To Be Built During the Present Year—Councillors Heard Reports on Roads and Bridges and on Finance.

Yesterday afternoon the County Council accepted the plans drawn by A. W. Connors, the County architect, for the proposed addition to the court house. The plans accepted were those which showed no windows in the vault of the Registry Office as the councillors claim it would not be a vault if there were windows in it. The new addition, which is to be built this year it is expected, will house the Surrogate Court Clerk, the County Crown Attorney, and the Registry Officers. The building is to be a four-walled fireproof structure, and the estimated cost is about $28,000. A building committee was appointed to consist of Messrs. Rye, Parker, Curtis, Smithson, Coughlin and Middleton. It was left with the committee to decide if tenders would be called.

The Committee of Roads and Bridges then met, with Reeve Breckenridge in the chair. Reeve Parker reported that Gannon's Bridge was in very poor shape. Reeve Flood said that the part of Chemong Bridge which was replanked was in good condition, but the part that was not replanked was rather shaky. Reeve Middleton stated that a car load of plank had been ordered which it was expected would put the whole bridge in fine condition. A grant of $100 was allowed the Townships of Galway and Cavendish to repair Cobon's Bridge.

The condition of Norwood Bridge was discussed and as it is in very bad state of decay it was decided to build a new bridge and a committee was appointed to go ahead with plans for rebuilding. The reeve and deputy of Otonabee were authorized to have Evan's Bridge in that township re-floored. It was also decided to build Ford Street Bridge, Warsaw; Brown's Bridge, Belmont, and Apsley Bridge.

Roads and Bridges Report

Gentlemen.—This is a report not usually made until Fall Session, but I herewith submit to you a partial report at June Session, due to the importance of certain matters you will have to deal with. As you are aware, the County built what is known as Depot Bridge in Burleigh Township, interpreting the act to mean that a government subsidy of 40 per cent would be available on all county bridges in any municipality, 50 feet in length or over. The statement of such expenditure was forwarded to the highway department (said clause appearing in the Highway Improvement Act, Chap. 26, Section 32, sub-section C), but the Deputy Minister hesitated to sanction such subsidy from the fact that the bridge is in a Township in the Colonization District in the County. I have been in direct touch with the Deputy Minister, and will refer to

AN OPPORTUNITY TO DO GOOD

Children's Aid Society Would Like Children To Have Summer Holiday.

At the Children's Shelter there is a number of boys and girls, from five to thirteen years of age, who, while they are well looked after, have no change from time to time.

It was suggested at the last meeting of the Children's Aid Society that an effort be made to place some of the boys and girls for a holiday with those who would volunteer to take them either to a home in the country for a couple of weeks or more, or by some city resident taking one of them to their summer cottage.

Anyone who would care to do this would be doing a great good to one of the children, and the matter can be arranged by calling Mr. J. Edgar.

FRUITLESS SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

Party Combed Woods To Find Mark Sears of Bexley.

LINDSAY, June 19. (Special.) — Provincial Officer Storey returned to-day from Bexley Township where he investigated the disapearance of Mark J. Sears, a young man in the thirties, who left the home of his father, near Kirkfield, some weeks ago. Mr. Marks reported the disappearance to the police, and a brother of the missing man came down from Sudbury to assist in the search.

The father believes that something has happened his son, and this fear is also expressed by the police. The Provincial officer and his assistants combed the woods near the Sears home on Thursday, but got no trace of the missing man.

POLICE ON WATCH FOR BURGLAR GANG

Seven Stores Entered in Cannington—Goods and Cash Stolen.

LINDSAY, June 19. (Special.) — The police here have received instructions to be on the look out for a number of burglars believed to be the parties who made a clean up at Midland, and who on Thursday night made a raid on business houses in Cannington. Seven stores were entered: N. V. Pipers furnishings store, where $200 worth of goods were stolen; A. J. Piper's barber shop, where 100 coppers, $4 in silver, and cigars and cigarettes were taken; Charles Mawson's harness shop, plush robe, halters, etc., stolen. The stores of Alex. Halward, Ted Halward, Wm. A.Mullen and W. L. Burgess were entered, but the loot did not amount to much. The burglars were frightened away after breaking off the catch on the door of Sturman's general store.

ADDITION MADE TO FAIR GRANTS

Peterborough Exhibition Gets $200 More From County Council.

REPORTS ADOPTED.

The final session of the County Council was held this morning. The reports of the various committees were adopted. An amendment was introduced to the report of the Finance Committee that $200 more be granted the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition Board and $50 to Lakefield and Norwood each. The amendment was carried and the report adopted.

Mr. Gervain, the overseer of the Lakefield road, on the Douro side, from Nassau to Lakefield, addressed the council, asking who was responsible for the payment of a sum of $100, which he claimed was due him. He claimed that neither Reeve Coughlin nor the Superintendent of the county roads, notified him last August, when this road was taken off the county road system. He went ahead dragging and patching up the holes until December. When he presented his account payment was refused. Douro council also have refused to pay the bill.

Reeve Rye thought that it was the duty of the Douro council, as it was neglect on the part of the Reeve.

Reeve Coughlin laid the blame on the Superintendent as it was an oversight on his part.

After much discussion a motion was introduced for the county to pay the account.

Reeve Montgomery asked for a grant of $500 for fifth form work in Norwood High School. At present Norwood does not ask for any grant towards the high school proper but since fifth form work has had to be started the village was unable to finance this extra room without a grant, stated the Reeve. There are 25 taking this work at Norwood and 18 of these come from the county, as Deputy Reeve Anderson pointed out, and 100 per cent. of the cost of these pupils is paid by the county. It would cost above the government grant about $1800 for this room, $1200

Honor System Violated Six Yale Men On Probation

NEW LONDON, June 19.—Six members of the freshman crew of Yale have been placed on probation for violation of the honor system during the final examination at the crew headquarters at Gales Ferry and as a consequence the Yale-Harvard freshman race to be held as part of the annual Yale-Harvard regatta on June 25 has been cancelled. This announcement was made recently by the Yale Athletic Association.

British Strike Fund Note Makes Bolsheviks Uneasy

MOSCOW, June 19.—Workers' demonstrations in protest against the British strike fund note continued late into the night, causing a considerable stir throughout the city. Military demonstrations were held in a number of other cities.

There is general uneasiness here regarding further developments of the newly arisen Russo-British controversy. The authorities as well as the people in general express the feeling that the British Conservatives really mean to challenge the Soviet's power, using the money remittances to be sent to the British strikers as a momentarily suitable pretext.

CLERGY WILL FILL ALL SEATS OF CATHEDRAL

Few Reporters Only Laymen To Attend Opening Function of Congress.

AT CHICAGO.

Huge Congress Will End on Thursday With Great Procession.

CHICAGO, June 19 (Canadian Press).—No laymen will be able to get an entrance to-morrow to the Holy Name Cathedral for the principal initial functions of the 28th Eucharistic Congress. Every seat has been set aside for clergy, and the newspapermen who are relied on to tell the outside world of the proceedings of the beginning of the Congress which will end on Thursday with the final Eucharistic procession in which Cardinal Bonzano, the Papal Legate, will carry the Ostensorium from Rome showing the sacred host, the Eucharist itself.

Most of the scenes of the Congress are edging Lake Michigan, Mundelein Park, the site of the climax events, is a beauty spot of 1,300 acres. The stadium for the accommodation of the pilgrims will seat 145,000. The facilities provide voice amplifying devices so that a quarter of a million can hear the chorus of 62,000 as well as the speakers.

RED LAKE LINE BILL OPPOSED

MacLean Claims It Invades Field of Canadian National Railways.

BILL STANDS.

OTTAWA, June 19. Canadian Press. — When the bill to incorporate the Red Lake and Northwestern Railway Company, was again in the committee stage of the House of Commons last night, it was opposed by W. F. Maclean, of South York, who claimed that this road would become a competitor of the Canadian National Railway, and that the mineral territory it proposed to develop was properly the field for the National road. It was finally agreed to allow the bill to stand.

HERRIOT STUDIES FRENCH FINANCE WITH EXPERTS

Plans To Decide Policy Before Picking His Cabinet.

NAMES MENTIONED.

Five Members of Radical Leaders' First Cabinet To Return.

PARIS, June 19 (Canadian Press) —Edouard Herriot, charged by President Doumergue with the task of forming a Cabinet, spent the entire morning discussing measures to save the franc and finally settle the country's pressing financial problem. Until he reaches a conclusion on these questions, it is said, the constitution of the new Ministry will be held in abeyance.

The Premier - designate saw Georges Robineau, governor of the Bank of France, Albert Aupetit, general secretary of the same institution, and several public men more or less well posted on financial questions. He discussed with them, among other things, the proposed defence of the franc by use of part of the gold reserve of the Bank of France.

Herriot's programme is to decide on the future Cabinet's policy first, and then to choose Ministers to fit that programme. Nevertheless, it is indicated by visits he has already received that his second Ministry will greatly resemble his first.

Rene Renoult, Edouard Daladier, Jacques Dumesnil, Camilla Chautemps and Anatole De Monzie, his five principal lieutenants in the first combination, are regarded as certain of places in the second.

U. S. TOURISTS GIVEN WARNING

American Automobile Association Urges Them To Fly Union Jack.

NOT ONLY COURTESY.

WASHINGTON, June 19 (United Press).—American tourists were advised by the American Automobile Association not to wave the Stars and Stripes indiscriminately from their cars in Canada.

"This practice has caused needless irritation, hurt Canadian sensibilities, and resulted in some untoward incidents," the association warned.

"Something more than courtesy to a friendly and hospitable people is involved. When you fly your flag in a foreign country you should fly it only along with the flag of the nation whose guest you are and under whose protection you are travelling."

Horses Roll In Garden Doing Immense Damage

Horses wandering around through the night got into the garden of Mrs. S. Rightmeyer, Dufferin Street, and disported themselves by rolling around among the small plants, doing considerable damage before they were found. The owner of the horses was located this morning and promised in future he would keep them tied up.

Cheerful Blind Man Does Good Trade At New Stand Although His Life, Like Others, Has Its Drawbacks

The cheerful voice of the blind man calling the names of newspapers as he hears the feet of "sighted" people passing by his little news stand on the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer Streets, causes many to stop for a glance into the small interior. Trade is fairly good for John Brownlee since he started his new enterprise, but it has its drawbacks like every other effort.

Besides the loss of the dog which used to lead the blind man to the car, and which was poisoned recently, there are customers who try to get away with such things as tin and lead nickels, and others like the small boy who persisted on two occasions in demanding change for a quarter after handing in a copper. But the sensitive fingers of the blind man are keen. He has only been fooled once or twice in this way, and declares that he knows the voices of those who have cheated him. A small boy who would do a trick like this will doubtless grow to manhood by devious ways.

Divorced Couple Remarry After Thirty-three Years

ASHBURY PARK, N.J., June 19.— Thirty-three years ago Emma Morris of Belford and David Suydam of Matawan bade each other good-bye. They had just been divorced after a few years of married life which had been ended when differences separated them.

A few days ago, it was learned to-day, the couple were remarried in Long Branch, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wheeler, 477 Patten Avenue.

In the intervening years, Mrs. Morris had married a second husband, who was killed in a railway accident. A few months ago the couple met for the first time since their separation, and Mr. Suydam's second proposal was accepted.

The great man is he who does not lose his child's heart.

DECISION EXONERATING FARMERS OF NEGLECTING TO SUPPLY FEED IS APPEALED BY HUMANE SOCIETY

Judge Huycke Reserves Judgment and Asks Copy of Amended Statute.

WITNESSES DIFFER.

Counsel Maintains Trouble Was Caused By Sweet Clover Poisoning.

By a Staff Reporter.

MILLBROOK, June 19.—Judgment was reserved in the case of H. R. Spratt and F. Grant, who were charged with neglecting to supply feed to cattle. The original case was heard in Millbrook before Magistrate W. H. Floyd of Cobourg and was dismissed by him. The Peterborough branch of the Humane Society, whose inspector laid the charge, appealed the decision of the Magistrate.

His Honor, Judge E. C. S. Huycke presided. J. H. Corkery appeared for the complainants and H. C. Myers, of Toronto, represented the defendants.

His Honor stated that he was unable to locate the statute under which the charge was brought, but consented to hear the evidence on condition that Mr. Corkery would furnish him with a copy of the amended statute.

C. H. Ackerman, president of the Peterborough branch of the Humane Society was present in the court.

R. C. Smith.

R. C. Smith, inspector for the local branch of the Humane Society stated that on April 20, accompanied by Provincial Constable N. F. Maker he visited the farm of Spratt and Grant in Manvers Township. Mr. Spratt, he said, came out and he told him he had received a complaint about his cattle. Witness said he asked Mr. Spratt how many cows he had and his reply was that he had seven, also three horses. "I told him I would like to examine the cows," continued the witness, "and he came back with six." When asked concerning the seventh cow, Mr. Spratt said that it must

Holiday Centres Wail Strike Ruins Business

LONDON, June 19 (Canadian Press).—From the holiday centres on practically every section of the coast come woeful stories of the strike's paralysing effect on the summer traffic, which ought to be entering its full stride at this period of the year.

Train services have been and are reduced by fifty per cent.

BROILERS DOWN ON THE MARKET

Little Chickens Take Drop of 10 Cents a Pound.

EGGS 33 CENTS.

Broilers were down to 50 and 55 cents a pound on the farmers' market this morning, with hens selling at 25 to 28 cents a pound. Eggs were 32 and 33 cents a dozen in the basket section, and 30 cents on the open market. Butter was priced at 35 to 40 cents a pound. Cream was 30 cents a pint.

On the open market, potatoes were 65 cents a peck and $3 a bag. Northern Spy apples sold at 25 to 50 cents a peck. Rhubarb was priced at seven bunches for a quarter.

A load of light wood was quoted at $6. Little Tamworth piglets were $14 a pair and Yorkshires in larger sizes were $10 apiece. In a wire-fronted coop, a big Plymouth Rock biddy who had just lost all her family at 20 cents each, was making frantic efforts to get through the netting to the white cardboad box, where they sent imploring cheeps to her through a hole-punched cover.

MANY GARAGES.

Nine Authorized By Building Inspector Already This Month.

Building permits with a total value of $15,718 have been issued since the beginning of the month. Included in this total is an amount of $2500 for the erection of a garage at the Canadian General Electric Company's plant, and an amount of $6,000 for the erection of a dwelling. Permits have been issued for the erection of nine garages.

No Men Need Apply— This Is Woman's Theatre

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 19. —(United Press).—A woman's theatre from which all males will be excluded is planned for next fall by the Woman's Theatre, a group of young women trying to win stage recognition.

Writing, directing, decorating and production will be accomplished entirely by women.

Peace River Member Announces Intention Of Resigning Seat

Makes Statement in House of Commons That He Will Withdraw as Soon as Courts Have Disposed of the Petition Against His Election.

MAINTAINS THAT BALDY ROBB'S CONVICTION DOES NOT PROVE 89 VOTES WERE SWITCHED

OTTAWA, June 19—D. M. Kennedy, Progressive member for Peace River, making a statemnt in the House yesterday afternoon, dclared it was his intention to resign his seat as soon as he could legally do so and the legal proceedings pending were disposed of.

The member went on to say that a petition against his election had been presented and was now before the courts. It was so comprehensive as to include everything in the Controverted Elections Act, and would go to trial. Upon this he would insist if the petitioner did not.

He proceeded to say that the fact that "Baldy" Robb had been sent to Penitentiary for vote switching did not mean he had been convicted for switching "89" votes at Brule Mines, as was alleged. He could have been found guilty as well for switching one.

Meighen Objects

Mr. Meighen objected. The member, he said, was exceeding his privilege, and the Speaker ruled that it must be confined to the denial. The Prime Minister saying that Mr. Kennedy had been absent when the Peace River case was debated, thought he should have wider latitude now, but the Speaker said the privilege was limited.

"I intend to resign my seat in this House," Kennedy then announced, "as soon as the petition is legally disposed of by the courts."

SALE IS DELAYED.

White Star Line Has Not Yet Passed To British Syndicate.

LONDON, June 19 — (Canadian Press.)—Several slight hitches have developed in the proposed sale of the White Star line to a British syndicate headed by Furness, Withy and Company.

With word from New York, however, that the stockholders of the International Mercantile Marine have authorized the sale, the negotiations have been resumed here, but they are not likely to be completed for some weeks, instead of by July 1, as originally contemplated. The hitches are due primarily to certain delays in the study of figures which the London negotiators have requested.

OLD HOTEL BURNED.

Prompt Action of Neighbors Saves Family at Box Grove.

MARKHAM, June 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The old Delmot hotel, in the little village of Box Grove, near here, was burned to the ground, together with its contents, at an early hour yesterday. Prompt action on the part of neighbors was the means of rescuing the family of W. H. Smith, who occupied the building. They managed to escape in their night clothes.

THE WEATHER.

Last night and this morning were unusually cool for the 19th of June. The temperature was down to 40 degrees, and it is altogether likely that we will hear reports of damage from frost in the lower-lying sections. — W. P.

TRINITY W.M.S. PRESENTATION

Mrs. A. J. Langford is Given Tea Wagon and China.

ADDRESS READ.

On Tuesday afternoon, over one hundred ladies of Trinity Church met for the regular meeting of the W.M.S. At the close of the programme, Mrs. Langford was called to the platform and presented with a solid walnut dinner wagon and six Coalport china cups and saucers, the gifts of the women of the congregation, accompanied by a nicely-worded address expressing the appreciation of her services.

Mrs. Langford, in a few well-chosen words, thanked the ladies for their gifts.
